Blaze Guts Waterproof City Block

Firemen From Other Towns Answer Call

WATERPROOF (Special) — Fire of undertermined origin was brought under control early yesterday after several hours of work by fire fighters to extinguish the roaring blaze which gutted nearly a square block in the central business section here Friday night and early yesterday.

Mayor Louis Preis, said at least four business places in an approximate 100 - foot square were completely destroyed. He said firemen responded to a call from Ferriday, Newellton, St. Joseph and Natchez, Miss. The calls went out, the mayor said, at 11 p.m. Friday and the fire was brought under control about 1 a.m. Saturday, but it required several more hours to extinguish the fire. The mayor was unable to estimate the damage.

Buildings identified as belonging to the heirs of Henry M. Marx and Mrs. William Eisemann of Baton Rouge and Charles Fife, Waterproof, were all destroyed.

DESTROYED

These buildings, starting at the south corner of Waterproof's main street, were identified by the mayor as Salvo Testa's Saloon, Bob Fife's Grocery and Market, Mrs. Grace Manning's 5 & 10. Mrs. Manning's "Leaser" store of women's clothing and Charles Fifes Cafe, next in line, were protected from the fire, but sustained slight water damage. Mrs. Fife said that the gas was cut off, but there was no water damage.

Killman's Mercantile and the Wampold Super Store on the south end of the damaged area was not affected and neither was Killman's Appliance on the north end. These buildings are owned by Mayor Preis and others.

When the fire was beginning to get under control, a large section of the front wall fell out, barely missing firemen.

There were no injuries reported early yesterday, Mayor Preis stated. He added, however, that Waterproof was helpless against

Viet Nam Coup Fails, Leaders Under Arrest

SAIGON, Viet Nam (UPI) — President Ngo Dinh Diem's secret police Saturday rounded up opponents of his regime, and arrested the American-trained colonels who staged a bloody revolt against him Friday.

Diem apparently was firmly in control. He broadcast a pardon to the paratroopers but not the officers, who attacked the palace, and he promised to "find a solution" to the troubled economic and political situation in the country.

The revolt leaders charged that Diem had betrayed his word by failing to permit establishment of a military provisional government. They said Diem had agreed to do so at the height of the 36-hour revolt when they conferred with him in his palace.

The uprising, which ended after loyal troops fired point-blank into a crowd of civilians outside the palace, left at least 27 persons dead.

One American was wounded slightly when a ricocheting bullet nicked his arm. He was identified as Clarence F. Barbier of Vienna, Va., a U.S. Embassy official.

The revolt leaders, Col. Nguyen Chanh Thi, 30, and his deputy, Lt. Col. Vuong Van Dong, were seized in the central city of Nga Trang where they fled by plane. They were arrested as they stepped from the plane.

Mauled Body Of Girl Found

CHICAGO (AP)—The mauled body of a little girl who vanished between home and church Saturday was found in the underbrush of a forest preserve which 3½ years ago yielded the bodies of two other youngsters. She had been shot twice through the head.

A grieving father identified the latest victim as Gloria Kowalewicz, 9, who left home early Saturday morning to attend Mass.

The driver of a laundry truck, Harry Lindeman, 40, was seated at a roadside table in Palos Woods when he spied the child's body sprawled in a thicket, her head and face bloody and disfigured.

Spy Satellite Goes In Orbit

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—Discoverer XVII - first of a series of new military spy satellites capable of changing course if threatened-rocketed into orbit Saturday.

After hours of confusion blamed on insufficient radio data, the Air Force announced the satellite was whizzing around the Earth once every 96 minutes.

A spokesman said the egg-shaped orbit was nearly perfect, taking the 2,100-pound satellite as far as 615 miles from the Earth and bringing it back to 118 miles at the closest point.

Late Sunday afternoon it is to drop a 300-pound capsule for recovery by air and sea forces near Hawaii. Contents of the satellite and its capsule were not disclosed. It is known, however, that future satellites of this type called Agena B have been designed to carry TV cameras and send surveillance films back to American territory.

The orbit of the satellite launched at 12:42 p.m. will take it over Russian territory several times each day.

The 25-foot satellite is six feet longer and 400 pounds heavier than the Agena, a second stage of earlier discoverers. It is capable of stopping and restarting its engine on command from the ground.

This change in speed would allow the satellite to alter its orbit and thus avoid a missile sent up to knock it down.

The Air Force said there was no plan to stop and restart the engine of this satellite, but that the capability would be tested in future launchings.

Previous discoverers ejected their capsules automatically on the 17th trip around the Earth, some 27 hours after launch. The signal to eject will be given from

CHARGE TRIALS UNFAIR

Cuba Executions Draw U.S. Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States charged Saturday Cuba's government gave three Americans unfair trials and executed them primarily because they were Americans.

The charge was made in a protest note delivered to the Foreign Office in Havana Friday by Daniel M. Braddock, ranking U. S. diplomat in Cuba. The text was released Saturday by the State Department.

The note declared that conditions of the trials, including their speed and their "Roman circus atmosphere," had forced the conclusion "that the three United States citizens were given death rather than prison sentences because of their United States citizenship."

CHARGED INVADERS

The three men executed in mid-October were Anthony Zarba, 28, of Sommerville, Mass.; Robert O. Fuller, 25, of Miami, Fla., and Allan D. Thompson, 36, of Queen City, Tex. They were charged with participating in an invasion of Cuba and therefore with being guilty of armed revolt against the pro-Communist regime of Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

The trials were held Oct. 12 and Oct. 15. Zarba was convicted in the first trial and Fuller and Thompson in the second. In each case the time allowed for appeal was "wholly inadequate" the protest declared, because "the appeals took place less than one

N.O. Board Decision Cu Closing Due

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—New Orleans school board president Lloyd J. Rittiner said Saturday night in his opinion a suddenly announced statewide public school holiday Monday — the day integration is scheduled here — would be a "circumvention of the law."

State Supt. Shelby H. Jackson Saturday night declared the statewide school holiday and requested all public schools to observe it. Jackson is a staunch segregationist.

PLANS TO CONFER

Rittiner said a definite announcement of the school board's plan would be made before Monday morning. Before making any official announcement, Rittiner said he would have to confer with the school board's attorney and other board members.

"It is my opinion that we have been ordered by the federal court to desegregate on Nov. 14 and such a holiday would be a circumvention of the law," Rittiner said.

"Therefore to keep Mr. Jackson and the school board from being held in contempt, it may be necessary to go ahead with desegregation."

The brief announcement of the holiday came from Jackson's Baton Rouge office. Jackson has been named in a federal court order restraining him from interfering with New Orleans school integration. It was not known whether a U.S. marshal has served him with the papers yet.

Jackson's announcement came as both sides lined up for last-ditch litigation and legislation.

From Washington, U.S. Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers warned he will use the full power of his office to prevent Louisiana officials from blocking court-ordered integration.

Catholics Set School Policy On Integration

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Officials of the archdiocese of New Orleans announced Saturday that Catholic schools in New Orleans will be integrated if and when public schools are integrated.

The New Orleans school board, in compliance with a federal court order, has authorized admission of five Negro first graders into white public schools Monday.

The federal integration order did not apply to Catholic schools.

Archbishop Joseph Francis Rummel of New Orleans previously announced that Catholic schools would be integrated no later than public schools.

The 85-year-old archbishop, hospitalized in Baton Rouge with a broken arm and leg, said in a statement to pastors and nonschool principals:

"Since existing conditions indicate no certainty regarding the presently recognized governing authority for the Orleans Parish public school system, it is impossible to determine exactly when and how public school integration is to become effective.

"Therefore pastors are hereby informed that Catholic school integration will take place only when public school integration has been effectively carried out.

Mid-70's High Expected Today

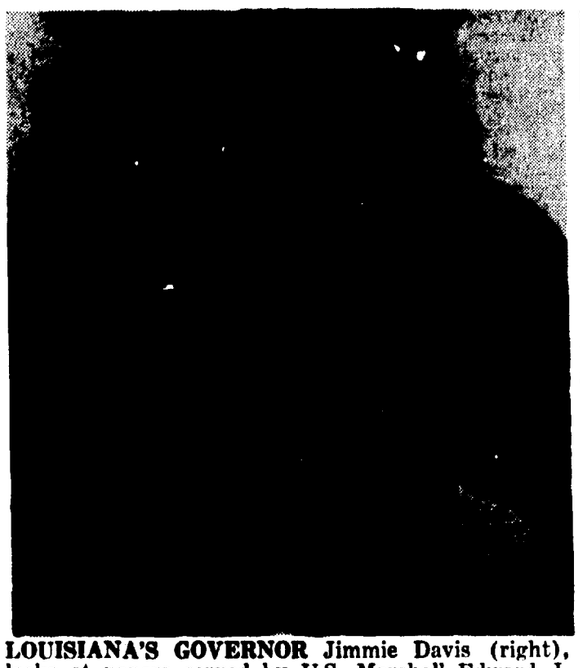

Winter is not over yet, but the weather today might make you think that it ended before it ever got started.

The mercury is due to zoom back up to the 70's today and stay as high as probably 45 during the night.

The prediction today is for a high of from 70 to 74 degrees and an overnight low from 40 to 45.

The high in the Twin Cities yesterday was 67 with a low of 29.

Skies will be partly cloudy through tonight and winds will be southerly, six to 16 miles per hour.

OPPOSES ACTION

Mayor Appeals To Legislature

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Mayor deLesseps Morrison asked the legislature Saturday to refrain from action in the New Orleans school integration case.

The 10-day-old special session has been called to meet Sunday, and there was speculation the legislators would make another effort to seize control of Orleans Parish public schools to circumvent federal orders for integration.

Morrison wrote to Lt. Gov. C. C. Aycock, president of the Senate, and J. Thomas Jewell, speaker of the House. Aycock and Jewell were asked to read Morrison's message to members of the respective bodies.

Morrison's letter read:

"As the mayor of New Orleans and responsible for the peace and order of our community, I make this appeal to you — the law-making body of our state — and ask that this message be read to members of the House:

"(1) That you take no action to violate the principles of Home Rule in connection with any proposed removal of any public official of this community who is duly elected by the people. Elected officials may be removed in two ways—by impeachment or by recall

"(2) That you take no action that may have the effect of disturbing the peace and order of this community. We have demonstrated throughout the years that we are fully prepared, equipped and capable of handling our own affairs and maintaining the peace and order. Any interference in this matter could only lead to possible chaos and trouble.

"(3) That you take no action that would close the Public Schools of our community. The people are our ultimate judge, and on this issue they have spoken in clear and concise terms. They have re-elected Matthew Sutherland, who advocated keeping the schools open. They rejected other

Attorneys Not Quitting Fight

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Ragan Madden, district attorney at Ruston and president of the Louisiana District Attorneys Association, said Saturday his group hasn't quit the fight against school integration.

Madden said a statement attributed to him a day earlier was incorrect.

The association president said, "We are not about to give up the fight."

The word "not" was inadvertently dropped in some copies of a news story. The district attorneys association is helping lawmakers in legal matters concerning the school integration dispute.

Marshal Serves Davis; Rumors On Firings Fly

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Louisiana Legislature returns at 3 p.m. Sunday on special call to be in position to move against New Orleans school integration a day later.

Gov. Jimmie H. Davis sent word to the U.S. marshal at New Orleans he was ready to accept notice of a federal order to stay out of the dispute.

A U.S. marshal and a deputy served Davis as the governor returned to the mansion from a dove hunt. Davis accepted the federal papers, shook hands with the marshal and ducked into the mansion.

There was no immediate indication what effect the governor's acceptance would have. Meanwhile, rumors were plentiful.

There were reports the Legislature would fire members of the Orleans school board and possibly some Orleans lawmakers, and that the state education superintendent would give the city's school system a surprise holiday.

Segregation leaders representing several groups met with Shelby M. Jackson, state superintendent of public education, to touch up legislation and strategy in a meeting here.

Members of the Joint Legislative Committee on Segregation, State Sovereignty Commission, district attorneys, and the committee which tried to seize New Orleans schools worked through the afternoon to prepare their legal ammunition.

Legislators already were confronted with three federal injunction suits aimed at stopping them from a school takeover.

Suits were filed by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the New Orleans school board and a white citizens group.

The strategy apparently represented an attempt to keep the schools open "under the laws and constitution of the state of Louisiana and under policies of the State Board of Education."

But closure of the New Orleans schools are among reports on the Legislature's plans that circulated here.

The Legislature was scheduled to end a 12-day special session at noon Tuesday. But Davis issued a special call for the Legislature to return Sunday.

Jackson also was reported pre-

Early Buying For Christmas Program's Aim

A large number of Twin Cities stores are participating in an early Christmas shopping program to encourage persons to make gift selections ahead of the seasonal rush.

The Christmas gift layaway idea is being renewed this year, as it has in several previous years, merchants said, "Because of an interest in early shopping which has been manifest over the past years by the people, and the merchants are interested in adhering to their desires."

In keeping with this, a special page of pictures and stories, offering an assortment of gift suggestions for persons of all ages, is carried in today's Morning World, so well as a number of ads.

Merchants offered the advice that shoppers look over the suggestions and make their choices early on gift purchases.

The following firms are participating in the shop early program:

Ferd Levi Stationery, Joanne's House of Sound, The Fabric Mart, Owl Rexall Drug, Swanner's Tall Fashions, York Children's Shop, The Rancher, J. C. Penney Co., Discount Shoe Center, Zale's Jewelry, Style Shop, Store, Frank's Shoe Store, Dan-

Adcock Asks Backing In School Fight

By ERNEST G. FISHER

Sen. Jamar Adcock of Monroe last night called on the people to stand behind the legislature in the current New Orleans school integration crisis.

"I am very much disturbed with a statement in the newspapers that said to the effect the legislature had given up in the state's fight for segregated schools.

HAS A PLAN

Adcock reiterated that the legislature does have a "plan", but declined to elaborate.

"Again I say we do have a plan," Adcock stated, "stand behind Governor Davis, Superintendent Jackson and your legislators; we must have faith."

Adcock said he expected the legislature to make a move today when both houses go back into session at 3 p.m.

"But I had rather not say anything further at this time," he added.

Adcock explained that a statement carried statewide in the newspapers quoting a member of the legislature was a damaging blow to the state's battle against a federal court order for integration in New Orleans schools.

Rebels Routed In Nicaragua; Castro Accused

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Government forces Saturday routed insurgent bands that had occupied two southwestern cities for 15 hours. Martial law was declared and the Castro regime in Cuba was accused of being implicated in the uprising.

A combined air-ground operation, involving about 1,000 National Guardsmen, drove the rebel forces from Jinotepe and Diriamba, about 25 miles south of Managua. Government sources said the insurgents fled, taking two Army officers as hostages.

Three soldiers were killed and one wounded in the fighting.

President Luis Somoza, in declaring martial law, charged the Cuban government with responsibility for the uprisings in cooperation with Nicaraguan agitators belonging to opposition groups.

The decree said the present revolutionary government of Cuba was attempting to impose on Central American nations regimes that supported international communism.

The rebel attacks on Jinotepe and Diriamba were carried out Friday night, two hours after the Nicaraguan Army chief, Gen. Anastasio Somoza, hurriedly returned from the United States. Gen. Somoza, a West Point graduate, is a brother of the president.

Solon Opposes Naming Bowles

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., said Saturday he would oppose any attempt by President-elect John F. Kennedy to name Rep. Chester Bowles as secretary of state.

Cotton said he wanted to do everything possible to support the incoming President, but "I do not see how I could bring myself to vote for the confirmation of a secretary of state who favored any form of recognition of Red China."

"I sincerely hope," Cotton added in a statement released by his office, "that the Senate will not be confronted with the nomination of such a person."

CONCESSIONS GOAL

Southern Electors Meeting Proposed

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—A Montgomery attorney has called for a Southwide conference of presidential electors with President-elect John F. Kennedy in an effort to gain concessions on Southern problems.

Lea Harris said Saturday he mailed letters Thursday to Democratic and Republican electors in all 50 states suggesting a meeting of Southern electors with Kennedy in Montgomery.

Harris, who says he is an independent Democrat, said the purpose of the gathering would be to point up to Kennedy the 'vital importance of Southern electoral votes in his attaining the presidency."

If Kennedy "failed to cooperate with the Southern requests," the lawyer said, "the Democratic electors of the South could work toward a coalition with Northern Republicans to keep Kennedy from being elected."

Kennedy would fall short of the 269 ballots needed in the electoral college next month if the 119 electors in 14 Southern and border states withheld their votes from him.

Failure of either Kennedy or the Republican nominee, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, to poll the 269-vote majority of electoral votes could throw the election into the U. S. House. But Harris said his proposed coalition, if it

Mid-70's High Expected Today

Winter is not over yet, but the weather today might make you think that it ended before it ever got started.

The mercury is due to zoom back up to the 70's today and stay as high as probably 45 during the night.

The prediction today is for a high of from 70 to 74 degrees and an overnight low from 40 to 45.

The high in the Twin Cities yesterday was 67 with a low of 29.

Skies will be partly cloudy through tonight and winds will be southerly, six to 16 miles per hour.

OPPOSES ACTION

Mayor Appeals To Legislature

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Mayor deLesseps Morrison asked the legislature Saturday to refrain from action in the New Orleans school integration case.

The 10-day-old special session has been called to meet Sunday, and there was speculation the legislators would make another effort to seize control of Orleans Parish public schools to circumvent federal orders for integration.

Morrison wrote to Lt. Gov. C. C. Aycock, president of the Senate, and J. Thomas Jewell, speaker of the House. Aycock and Jewell were asked to read Morrison's message to members of the respective bodies.

Morrison's letter read:

"As the mayor of New Orleans and responsible for the peace and order of our community, I make this appeal to you — the law-making body of our state — and ask that this message be read to members of the House:

"(1) That you take no action to violate the principles of Home Rule in connection with any proposed removal of any public official of this community who is duly elected by the people. Elected officials may be removed in two ways—by impeachment or by recall

"(2) That you take no action that may have the effect of disturbing the peace and order of this community. We have demonstrated throughout the years that we are fully prepared, equipped and capable of handling our own affairs and maintaining the peace and order. Any interference in this matter could only lead to possible chaos and trouble.

"(3) That you take no action that would close the Public Schools of our community. The people are our ultimate judge, and on this issue they have spoken in clear and concise terms. They have re-elected Matthew Sutherland, who advocated keeping the schools open. They rejected other

Attorneys Not Quitting Fight

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Ragan Madden, district attorney at Ruston and president of the Louisiana District Attorneys Association, said Saturday his group hasn't quit the fight against school integration.

Madden said a statement attributed to him a day earlier was incorrect.

The association president said, "We are not about to give up the fight."

The word "not" was inadvertently dropped in some copies of a news story. The district attorneys association is helping lawmakers in legal matters concerning the school integration dispute.

Early Buying For Christmas Program's Aim

A large number of Twin Cities stores are participating in an early Christmas shopping program to encourage persons to make gift selections ahead of the seasonal rush.

The Christmas gift layaway idea is being renewed this year, as it has in several previous years, merchants said, "Because of an interest in early shopping which has been manifest over the past years by the people, and the merchants are interested in adhering to their desires."

In keeping with this, a special page of pictures and stories, offering an assortment of gift suggestions for persons of all ages, is carried in today's Morning World, so well as a number of ads.

Merchants offered the advice that shoppers look over the suggestions and make their choices early on gift purchases.

The following firms are participating in the shop early program:

Ferd Levi Stationery, Joanne's House of Sound, The Fabric Mart, Owl Rexall Drug, Swanner's Tall Fashions, York Children's Shop, The Rancher, J. C. Penney Co., Discount Shoe Center, Zale's Jewelry, Style Shop. Store, Frank's Shoe Store, Dan-

CONCESSIONS GCAL

Southern Electors Meeting Proposed

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—A Montgomery attorney has called for a Southwide conference of presidential electors with President-elect John F. Kennedy in an effort to gain concessions on Southern problems.

Lea Harris said Saturday he mailed letters Thursday to Democratic and Republican electors in all 50 states suggesting a meeting of Southern electors with Kennedy in Montgomery.

Harris, who says he is an independent Democrat, said the purpose of the gathering would be to point up to Kennedy the 'vital importance of Southern electoral votes in his attaining the presidency."

If Kennedy "failed to cooperate with the Southern requests," the lawyer said, "the Democratic electors of the South could work toward a coalition with Northern Republicans to keep Kennedy from being elected."

Kennedy would fall short of the 269 ballots needed in the electoral college next month if the 119 electors in 14 Southern and border states withheld their votes from him.

Failure of either Kennedy or the Republican nominee, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, to poll the 269-vote majority of electoral votes could throw the election into the U. S. House. But Harris said his proposed coalition, if it

Marshal Serves Davis; Rumors On Firings Fly

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Louisiana Legislature returns at 3 p.m. Sunday on special call to be in position to move against New Orleans school integration a day later.

Gov. Jimmie H. Davis sent word to the U.S. marshal at New Orleans he was ready to accept notice of a federal order to stay out of the dispute.

A U.S. marshal and a deputy served Davis as the governor returned to the mansion from a dove hunt. Davis accepted the federal papers, shook hands with the marshal and ducked into the mansion.

There was no immediate indication what effect the governor's acceptance would have. Meanwhile, rumors were plentiful.

There were reports the Legislature would fire members of the Orleans school board and possibly some Orleans lawmakers, and that the state education superintendent would give the city's school system a surprise holiday.

Segregation leaders representing several groups met with Shelby M. Jackson, state superintendent of public education, to touch up legislation and strategy in a meeting here.

Members of the Joint Legislative Committee on Segregation, State Sovereignty Commission, district attorneys, and the committee which tried to seize New Orleans schools worked through the afternoon to prepare their legal ammunition.

Legislators already were confronted with three federal injunction suits aimed at stopping them from a school takeover.

Suits were filed by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the New Orleans school board and a white citizens group.

The strategy apparently represented an attempt to keep the schools open "under the laws and constitution of the state of Louisiana and under policies of the State Board of Education."

But closure of the New Orleans schools are among reports on the Legislature's plans that circulated here.

The Legislature was scheduled to end a 12-day special session at noon Tuesday. But Davis issued a special call for the Legislature to return Sunday.

Jackson also was reported pre-

Solon Opposes Naming Bowles

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., said Saturday he would oppose any attempt by President-elect John F. Kennedy to name Rep. Chester Bowles as secretary of state.

Cotton said he wanted to do everything possible to support the incoming President, but "I do not see how I could bring myself to vote for the confirmation of a secretary of state who favored any form of recognition of Red China."

"I sincerely hope," Cotton added in a statement released by his office, "that the Senate will not be confronted with the nomination of such a person."

Adcock Asks Backing In School Fight

By ERNEST G. FISHER

Sen. Jamar Adcock of Monroe last night called on the people to stand behind the legislature in the current New Orleans school integration crisis.

"I am very much disturbed with a statement in the newspapers that said to the effect the legislature had given up in the state's fight for segregated schools.

HAS A PLAN

Adcock reiterated that the legislature does have a "plan", but declined to elaborate.

"Again I say we do have a plan," Adcock stated, "stand behind Governor Davis, Superintendent Jackson and your legislators; we must have faith."

Adcock said he expected the legislature to make a move today when both houses go back into session at 3 p.m.

"But I had rather not say anything further at this time," he added.

Adcock explained that a statement carried statewide in the newspapers quoting a member of the legislature was a damaging blow to the state's battle against a federal court order for integration in New Orleans schools.

Rebels Routed In Nicaragua; Castro Accused

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Government forces Saturday routed insurgent bands that had occupied two southwestern cities for 15 hours. Martial law was declared and the Castro regime in Cuba was accused of being implicated in the uprising.

A combined air-ground operation, involving about 1,000 National Guardsmen, drove the rebel forces from Jinotepe and Diriamba, about 25 miles south of Managua. Government sources said the insurgents fled, taking two Army officers as hostages.

Three soldiers were killed and one wounded in the fighting.

President Luis Somoza, in declaring martial law, charged the Cuban government with responsibility for the uprisings in cooperation with Nicaraguan agitators belonging to opposition groups.

The decree said the present revolutionary government of Cuba was attempting to impose on Central American nations regimes that supported international communism.

The rebel attacks on Jinotepe and Diriamba were carried out Friday night, two hours after the Nicaraguan Army chief, Gen. Anastasio Somoza, hurriedly returned from the United States. Gen. Somoza, a West Point graduate, is a brother of the president.

paring moves on his own. These reports included:

The superintendent of education would place Orleans school teachers on temporary leave of absence with pay, removing them from classrooms and forcing the children into a holiday.

He would suspend allocation of funds to Orleans public schools and force temporary closing of the schools. The parish gets 65 per cent of its funds from the state government.

Or, the superintendent would prepare to remove white teachers under a new state law as soon as they begin teaching in an integrated class Monday.

A legislative source, asking not to be identified, said there has been talk of removing Orleans legislators, but he was unable to say if the legislature had such authority.

Many lawmakers, he said, are fed up with opposition to their plans from some Orleans legislators.

Under state law, the legislature is the judge of the qualifications of its own members to sit in session and vote on laws.

The method of removing a legislator from office would be by impeachment trial, with formal charges of high crimes or misdemeanor.

Earlier, the governor called the legislature back for another 30-day special session to begin at noon Tuesday as the first special session dies.

Gov. Davis left the mansion Saturday morning with gun and hunting clothes.

"The doves are waiting," Davis said when asked for comment about New Orleans school integration.

When questioned further, he quipped, "I wish you would enlighten me."

U. S. deputy marshals sought the governor to give him the papers. It was reported they left the city as Davis prepared to leave on his hunting trip.

Here are some of the reported plans of the legislature:

Remove the Orleans Parish school board, which has gone along with federal integration orders applying to the first grades Monday. This would be by formal charges and ouster, known as addressing out of office.

Invoke interposition, under a new state law passed by the special session and signed by the governor, to place the state on record as opposing and not recognizing as legal the Supreme Court decisions that knocked down the doctrine of separate but equal public school facilities for white and Negro children.

File suit in state district court under new segregation laws to ask federal officials to show cause why they should not be stopped from interfering with legislative control of schools.

Jimmie Davis in Baton Rouge. Rogers said he was confident Louisiana public officials would support the constitution of the United States.

Rogers also wired New Orleans Mayor deLesseps Morrison and assured him that the Justice Department was ready to co-operate with New Orleans and its police force.

The attorney general said his department has arranged for temporary expansion of the present staff of U.S. marshals in New Orleans. Rogers said there was no plan to send any more unless the situation demanded it.

A Justice Department spokesman said this means eight deputy marshals had been sent to New Orleans.

Rogers said the measures his department will take will depend on what happens.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People filed a new plea in federal court here to ban anyone from interfering with the desegregation of first grades.

U. S. District Judge J. Skelly Wright, before whom the suit was filed, already had enjoined state authorities from interfering with the school board's plan to integrate.

The board planned Monday to put five Negro children in first grades of presently white schools.

The New Orleans case was viewed as a test of the fate of segregated schools throughout the state.

Davis summoned legislators to Baton Rouge Sunday in an emergency meeting — two days before the 12-day special session scheduled to end Tuesday.

Most of the segregation legislation already adopted has been declared unconstitutional by federal courts. Another special session is to begin Tuesday.

It was not clear whether Davis planned to keep the legislature in continuous session to pass new legislation as fast ad the federal courts knocked it down.

Four members of the parish school board said they believe the legislature will try to oust them from office.

The board's fifth member, staunch segregationist Emile A. Wagner Jr., said the ouster would be justified on the grounds the board had "flaunted the authority of the state."

"Whether it will stick is another question," Wagner added.

Another board member, Matthew R. Sutherland Jr., who was re-elected Tuesday over the opposition of three segregationist candidates, told newsmen his wife received two or three telephone calls Friday threatening her life and the lives of her children.

Sutherland campaigned to keep schools open even if integrated.

In New Orleans, city police maintained an around-the-clock guard around the residence of Judge Wright.

A legislative committee, which took over the school system temporarily, came into New Orleans from Baton Rouge Thursday escorted by state police.

Sutherland said any move to recall the board is "just the same old thing all over again — another attempt to take over the schools."

The school board has been on-again -off- again as the parish school authority.

First, when the board moved to comply with a federal court to desegregate schools, the governor took charge of the schools under state legislation to keep them segregated.

When a 3-judge federal court found the legislation unconstitutional and barred Davis from exercising power over the school board, Davis called the legislature into special session.

The legislature passed new bills, and named a legislative committee to take over the New Orleans schools by the board.

Another restraining order directed against chiefs of police, sheriffs, and district attorneys. Many of these had not been served with notice of the order, but federal agents said the subpoenas were in hand to be served if needed.

You are the people's representatives. It is your duty to vote the wishes and mandate of the people, and insofar as Orleans Parish is concerned, this mandate is crystal clear.

"Furthermore, we are convinced that if you take any action in opposition to these three proposals, which are supported by the people of New Orleans, you will bring trouble, chaos and misfortune to the Queen City of the South. This, no sincere public official could ever wish to do."

The Monroe Youth Orchestra, composed of the 40 most outstanding string students from city schools, will present arrangements especially designed for children.

Eloy Fominaya of the Northeast State Music Faculty conducts the orchestra.

George Brian of the Northeast State Faculty will act as "Mr. Music" narrator for the concerts.

Mrs. James Wattley, Ballet teacher formerly of England, will direct the ballet scenes for the second concert.

Choral group instruction will be under direction of Mrs. Peggy Caskey.

Season tickets for the three concerts will be on the basis of $1 for one person or $1.25 for a family ticket.

The first program will be at 1:30 Saturday, December 10.

Arrangements are underway for two other concerts, to be held during the first five months of 1961.

The Monroe Youth orchestra, now entering its third year, won superior rating in the District Music Festival at Ruston during the past year, then went on to win the sweepstakes trophy in the State Music Festival at Hammond.

The orchestra gave two concerts in El Dorado, Ark., one of them for the El Dorado Symphony and Choral society. It has made a television appearance in Monroe and preformed at several concerts here.

Endorsing the Young Concert-Goers series are Van Odom, superintendent of Monroe City school system, the Monroe School Board, Musical Coterie of Monroe, Junior Charity League, Dr. George Walker, president of Northeast Louisiana State College, Monroe Chamber of Commerce, P-TA Council of city schools and the Fine Arts club of Monroe.

Program for the first concert will include general information, for the benefit of youngsters who have no knowledge about concert procedure; about the orchestra and choir; how to act at a concert; what to listen for.

Highlights of the concert will be a Symphony for Young People, written by Clifton Williams for the Texas Youth Orchestra, the Concerto for Violin in A Minor by Vivaldi, performed by Jefferson Junior High eighth grader Phylis Middleton with the orchestra, and the Lee Junior High mixed chorus as guest performers.

A musical quiz and the "Y-C" theme song will be included.

The second concert, an early evening performance, will correlate music and drama.

Entitled "Stories in Music", it will feature narration of a story, then a short opera scene showing the story set to music. A second story will be read, then interpreted through a ballet performance.

"Young Artists on Parade" is the title for the final program of the season, slated for late spring.

The best drawings and painting from all elementary schools will be exhibited and Young Artist awards will be presented to the most outstanding.

Scenes depicting great paintings will be dramatized, and great art will be interpreted by the orchestra.

hour after the verdicts in both cases.

"The summary nature of these proceedings also is illustrated by the fact that in the first trial the appeals were summarily denied after only 15 minutes of deliberation and in the second trial after only 10 minutes of deliberation," the note continued.

In the first trial, the note asserted that most of the Cubans were given prison terms although "no evidence was produced to show that Mr. Zarba was one of the leaders of the group."

In the case of Fuller and Thompson two Cubans were tried at the same time and convicted on the same charges as the Americans. Yet, the note said, the Cuban citizens were given prison sentences while the Americans were sentenced to death. This, the note said, despite the fact one of the Cubans, rather than either American, "was pointed out as being the leader of the group."

"It is reported," the note declared, "that the prosecution indulged in long political harangues bearing no relation to the facts of the case.

"The Roman circus atmosphere surrounding these trials and the inhuman behavior of the government of Cuba in refusing to release the bodies of the three Americans to their relatives are further evidence that the government of Cuba has failed to observe basic civilized standards."

the ground tomorrow, probably on the 17th pass, the Air Force said. They said it was possible, however, for the signal to be given on any pass that takes the satellite over the recovery area.

The rocket was fired up tarough a heavy overcast. Observers on the groand lost sight of it wathin seconds. Before it soared out of view, however, the rocket swung its engine back and forth in an effort to correct its trajectory.

This maneuver obviously was successful. For several hours after the launch there was some doubt as to whether the engine of the satellite's second stage had propelled it successfully into orbit.

Air Force officers later explained this was due to failure of communications between the satellite and the ground.

There was no radio information from the satellite on its first trip around the earth. Communications were restored, however, on the second pass, and this radio data, fed throug' computers, enabled scientists to determine that it was in a good orbit.

A future Discoverer satellite is expected to carry a small monkey into orbit, but Air Force officers said this was still some distance in the future.

Southern Electors Meeting Proposed

became necessary, would prevent that.

Basically, if the Southern electors failed to gain pro-South concessions from Kennedy, Harris suggested a new presidential ticket formed by a joint effort of Southern Democrats and Northern Republicans.

If the Southern meeting with Kennedy is unsuccessful, Harris said, the Southern electors could arrange a second meeting with electors from across the nation and strive for a pact supporting a Democrat for president and a Republican for vice president.

For the split ticket the attorney suggested such Democrats as Sen. Richard Russell, D-Ga., former Texas Gov. Allan Shivers, or one of several other prominent Southerners for president.

The Republican vice president, he said, could be Nixon, his Republican running mate, Henry Cabot Lodge; Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., or anyone else the electors agreed upon.

Harris said his idea is workable because under law presidential electors have the legal right to vote for anyone they choose.

Kennedy, said Harris, "would have no alternative except to accede to the demands of the Southern presidential electors."

"When you last met in Baton Rouge, you did not have this expression by our voters. Today, you have a clear-cut mandate wherein a majority of our people have selected a positive course of action of keeping our schools open. In the true democratic way, we urge you not to interfere. You are the people's representatives. It is your duty to vote the wishes and mandate of the people, and insofar as Orleans Parish is concerned, this mandate is crystal clear.

"Furthermore, we are convinced that if you take any action in opposition to these three proposals, which are supported by the people of New Orleans, you will bring trouble, chaos and misfortune to the Queen City of the South. This, no sincere public official could ever wish to do."

MUSIC, DRAMA, ART

Youth Concerts Scheduled Here

The only cultural concert series in Louisiana, both for children and performed by a children's orchestra, will make its debut December 10 in Neville High school auditorium.

"Young Concert - Goers" of Monroe will present three concerts, featuring music, drama and art.

Miss Jonnie Bankhead, chairman and special teacher with the Monroe city school system, explains that the "Y-C" series is designed to help young students become familiar with and appreciative of the fine arts.

The Monroe Youth Orchestra, composed of the 40 most outstanding string students from city schools, will present arrangements especially designed for children.

Eloy Fominaya of the Northeast State Music Faculty conducts the orchestra.

George Brian of the Northeast State Faculty will act as "Mr. Music" narrator for the concerts.

Mrs. James Wattley, Ballet teacher formerly of England, will direct the ballet scenes for the second concert.

Choral group instruction will be under direction of Mrs. Peggy Caskey.

Season tickets for the three concerts will be on the basis of $1 for one person or $1.25 for a family ticket.

The first program will be at 1:30 Saturday, December 10.

Arrangements are underway for two other concerts, to be held during the first five months of 1961.

The Monroe Youth orchestra, now entering its third year, won superior rating in the District Music Festival at Ruston during the past year, then went on to win the sweepstakes trophy in the State Music Festival at Hammond.

The orchestra gave two concerts in El Dorado, Ark., one of them for the El Dorado Symphony and Choral society. It has made a television appearance in Monroe and preformed at several concerts here.

Endorsing the Young Concert-Goers series are Van Odom, superintendent of Monroe City school system, the Monroe School Board, Musical Coterie of Monroe, Junior Charity League, Dr. George Walker, president of Northeast Louisiana State College, Monroe Chamber of Commerce, PTA Council of city schools and the Fine Arts club of Monroe.

Program for the first concert will include general information, for the benefit of youngsters who have no knowledge about concert procedure; about the orchestra and choir; how to act at a concert; what to listen for.

Highlights of the concert will be a Symphony for Young People, written by Clifton Williams for the Texas Youth Orchestra, the Concerto for Violin in A Minor by Vivaldi, performed by Jefferson Junior High eighth grader Phylis Middleton with the orchestra, and the Lee Junior High mixed chorus as guest performers.

A musical quiz and the "Y-C" theme song will be included.

The second concert, an early evening performance, will correlate music and drama.

Entitled "Stories in Music", it will feature narration of a story, then a short opera scene showing the story set to music. A second story will be read, then interpreted through a ballet performance.

"Young Artists on Parade" is the title for the final program of the season, slated for late spring.

The best drawings and painting from all elementary schools will be exhibited and Young Artist awards will be presented to the most outstanding.

Scenes depicting great paintings will be dramatized, and great art will be interpreted by the orchestra.

The Junior League and the Musical Coterie will sponsor the first concert.

The Monroe Youth Orchestra is composed of 36 youngsters in junior high grades six through eight, and four high school students from the ninth and tenth grades of Neville.

Members include cheerleaders and football players.

Orchestra personnel are:

Violins: Carolyn Causey, Phylis Middleton, Tommy Holden, Charles Williams, Brenda George, Gloria Cooper, Dianne Gray, Clyde Coon, Ann Hanks, Linda Adams, Karen Walker, Douglas McFadden, Michael Harper, Martha Krepper, Gloria Alford, Marilyn Denoux, Lauretta Simmons.

hour after the verdicts in both cases.

"The summary nature of these proceedings also is illustrated by the fact that in the first trial the appeals were summarily denied after only 15 minutes of deliberation and in the second trial after only 10 minutes of deliberation," the note continued.

In the first trial, the note asserted that most of the Cubans were given prison terms although "no evidence was produced to show that Mr. Zarba was one of the leaders of the group."

In the case of Fuller and Thompson two Cubans were tried at the same time and convicted on the same charges as the Americans. Yet, the note said, the Cuban citizens were given prison sentences while the Americans were sentenced to death. This, the note said, despite the fact one of the Cubans, rather than either American, "was pointed out as being the leader of the group."

"It is reported," the note declared, "that the prosecution indulged in long political harangues bearing no relation to the facts of the case.

"The Roman circus atmosphere surrounding these trials and the inhuman behavior of the government of Cuba in refusing to release the bodies of the three Americans to their relatives are further evidence that the government of Cuba has failed to observe basic civilized standards."

Bans Foreign Smokes

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—Premier John M. Chang ordered government employes throughout the country Saturday not to smoke foreign cigarettes, most of which are smuggled in. The premier also told government officials to be punctual in appointments and to stay away from dine-and-wine parties at restaurants served by professional hostesses—Kisaing girls. Disciplinary action faces those who disobey.

Spy Satellite Goes In Orbit

the ground tomorrow, probably on the 17th pass, the Air Force said. They said it was possible, however, for the signal to be given on any pass that takes the satellite over the recovery area.

The rocket was fired up through a heavy overcast. Observers on the ground lost sight of it within seconds. Before it soared out of view, however, the rocket swung its engine back and forth in an effort to correct its trajectory.

This maneuver obviously was successful. For several hours after the launch there was some doubt as to whether the engine of the satellite's second stage had propelled it successfully into orbit.

Air Force officers later explained this was due to failure of communications between the satellite and the ground.

There was no radio information from the satellite on its first trip around the earth. Communications were restored, however, on the second pass, and this radio data, fed through computers, enabled scientists to determine that it was in a good orbit.

A future Discoverer satellite is expected to carry a small monkey into orbit, but Air Force officers said this was still some distance in the future.

Southern Electors Meeting Proposed

became necessary, would prevent that.

Basically, if the Southern electors failed to gain pro-South concessions from Kennedy, Harris suggested a new presidential ticket formed by a joint effort of Southern Democrats and Northern Republicans.

If the Southern meeting with Kennedy is unsuccessful, Harris said, the Southern electors could arrange a second meeting with electors from across the nation and strive for a pact supporting a Democrat for president and a Republican for vice president.

For the split ticket the attorney suggested such Democrats as Sen. Richard Russell, D-Ga., former Texas Gov. Allan Shivers, or one of several other prominent Southerners for president.

The Republican vice president, he said, could be Nixon, his Republican running mate, Henry Cabot Lodge; Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., or anyone else the electors agreed upon.

Harris said his idea is workable because under law presidential electors have the legal right to vote for anyone they choose.

Kennedy, said Harris, "would have no alternative except to accede to the demands of the Southern presidential electors."

World War II where he devised a special training program in the Quartermaster Corps. Following his military service, Hatcher served a period of law clerkship where he says he acquired the ability to discuss matters in legal terms.

When asked why he chose to support the Democratic Party, his answer was, "The Democrats really care."

Prior to last week's appointment, Hatcher says the high point of his career came when Gov. Edmond G. (Pat) Brown of California named him to the post of Assistant State Labor Commissioner at a salary of $12,500 a year in 1958.

The Negro newsman took a leave of absence this year to work with the Kennedy campaign. He has never visited the White House, not even as a tourist. He is married to the former Ruth Avery of Middleton, New Jersey, and is the father of seven children.

Mercy Killing Suspect's Body Found In Auto

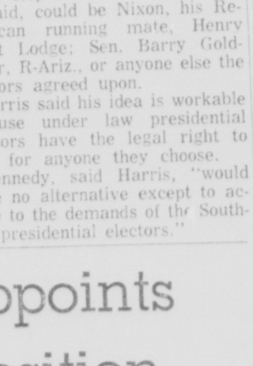

WEST LONG BRANCH, N. J. (AP)—The body of John Vonella, 42, a paraplegic sought in the suspected mercy killing of his wife, was found Saturday in nearby New Shrewsbury.

New Shrewsbury Police Chief James A. Herring said Vonella had apparently taken poison. The body was found in Vonella's specially equipped car in a wooded area. A gun was found on the front seat.

His wife, Corrine, 41, a multiple sclerosis victim, was shot and killed with a single bullet in the back of her head. Her body, propped in a wheelchair, was found Friday night in the couple's home here.

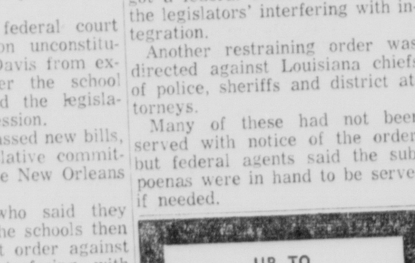

Vonella has been a paraplegic since he fell from a scaffold while painting his house in 1948.

Human Rights Week Decreed

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — President Eisenhower issued an appeal from his Deep South vacation retreat Saturday for every American to halt discrimination based on race, religion or sex.

In his only official action of the day, the President signed a proclamation designating Dec. 10-17 as Human Rights Week and sounded a new call for U.S. leadership in promoting equality around the world.

The chief executive, secluded since his arrival at the National Golf Club here Wednesday, apparently was taking no interest in the controversy over alleged irregularities in the presidential election.

He outwardly has accepted Sen. John F. Kennedy's triumph and is now committed to helping his youtful successor move into command at the White House next Jan. 20.

Eisenhower planned to emerge from his vacation hideaway Sunday morning to welcome Mrs. Eisenhower at the airport upon her arrival from Washington. They will celebrate Mamie's 64th birthday on Monday.

IN SATURDAY FIRES

Two Twin Cities Homes Destroyed

A heavy rash of fires in the Twin Cities yesterday resulted in the total loss of two homes and one extensively damaged.

The day started early for Monroe firemen when a fire was reported at the Friendly Cafe at 903 Thomas St. at 12:45 a.m. Trucks No. Two and Four answered the call, fighting the blaze almost two hours before bringing it under control.

The building, owned by Mrs. Foster and occupied by Mrs. Ruth Wade, received partial damage. Firemen said the blaze, which originated under the center counter of the cafe, was caused by careless handling of a cigarette.

Two West Monroe homes were recorded as total losses, when both times firemen were notified too late to squelch blazing flames.

The six - room home of T. R. Jones of Red Cutt Road, West Monroe, was burned down to the floor by the time fire trucks were summned at 11:44 a.m. Captain Wilhite of Truck No. 107, who made the call, said that no one was home when the fire started and a neighbor of Jones called in. He added that cause of the fire was undetermined late last night and everything was a total loss.

Another West Monroe home belonging to a Negro, Bertha Adams, was completely destroyed yesterday morning. Her home, located at Jewell and New Natchitoches streets, was almost falling in by the time fire trucks arrived on the scene. The Adams woman, who was next door when the fire began, notified firemen at 9:15. Trucks No. Seven and Three fought the blaze for an hour and a half, managing to keep it confined to the one dwelling.

Investigations last night revealed that the blaze started in the kitchen of the home, but cause was undetermined.

Captain Wilhite of Truck No. Seven, said that one of the firemen received sever burns on the hands while fighting the blazing inferno. The firemen, Thorpe, was taken to the St. Francis for treatment.

The home of a Monroe Negro, Geneva Hill, of 111 Vicksburg St. was extensively damaged when a blaze began in the living room of her home at noon.

The house was consumed in flames when Trucks No. One and Ten arrived. Workers fought the inferno for some two hours before bringing it under control, but managed to keep the blaze contained to the one dwelling. Cause of the fire was undetermined last night, but firemen believed it to have been caused by a curtain blowing against a heater.

Minor damages were caused by fires at other spots in town. A blaze broke out at a store at 2505 Breard St. when a heater on the inside of the store caught the firebox on fire. This occurred around 8 a.m.

Firemen also answered a call at the Virginia Hotel early Saturday morning when a stove caught on fire. Damage was minor.

Minor damages also resulted when the clothes in a clothes dryer at a washateria at South Second street and the Winnsboro Road caught fire at 6:45 p.m. Blazes were quickly extinguished.

Other fires worked yesterday include a car fire at 311 Layton St., two grass fires and a false alarm at Gay's Clothing Store on DeSiard St.

Damages in these fires were very minor.

Local School Officials Mum Over Holiday

Local school officials yesterday took a wait - and - see attitude toward State Supt. Shelby Jackson's move declaring a holiday for the state's public schools.

City school supt. Van D. Odom said late yesterday when reached by phone that he had received no official word of the holiday.

He declined to make any statement until he was officially notified.

Charles G. Wall Jr., president of the parish school board, said he had been busy with promulgation of election returns and had heard nothing about the holiday, when to expect official word, but expressed the hope that it would come soon.

Other officials were unavailable for comment last night.

Parish Supt. W. W. Ward was reported out of town. One source placed him in Baton Rouge Friday and said he may yet be there.

Overall, officials seemed prepared for such moves. They indicated no surprise at early reports of the holiday, nor did they seem excited at the state's latest move in a long series of maneuvers designed to bypass a federal court order to integrate the New Orleans public schools Monday.

Violent Rioting Ends In Algiers

ALGIERS (AP) — The violent anti-De Gaulle temper of right-wing European settlers, dissolved Saturday behind a facade of normal conditions, but talk persisted of plotting against the Paris regime.

Street sweepers and repairmen removed most of the traces of the Armistice Day rioting, and the city went back to work as usual.

The only traces of Friday's vicious rock fights—which left an estimated total of 100 injured—were a score off boarded-up shop windows and yellow stains on the pavements where tear-gas grenades had been thrown. Streets were filled with shoppers, and market places had a new supply of tomatoes, after losing most of them to the rioters Friday.

Speculation in some quarters that the riots were the forerunner of a serious test of strength against President de Gaulle's government proved to be wrong—at least for the moment.

General belief was that the riots —mainly by teen-age students— were an effort to sample the attitude of law enforcement authorities, perhaps as a prelude to a more serious effort to reverse De Gaulle's controversial Algerian policy.

Many Europeans here profess to feel De Gaulle is preparing a sellout to the nationalist rebels, who have been fighting the French for six years.

Riot police, gendarmes and soldiers made more of an effort Friday at containing the rioting students than in putting them out of action through charges and mass arrests.

Most of the injured were only superficially hurt, largely through rock throwing. The rocks, tossed by students, were heaved back by riot troops, who did not use their guns. Two main rock fights went on for more than an hour before effective police action—in the form of tear gas—was taken.

Two Twin Cities Homes Destroyed

A heavy rash of fires in the Twin Cities yesterday resulted in the total loss of two homes and one extensively damaged.

The day started early for Monroe firemen when a fire was reported at the Friendly Cafe at 903 Thomas St. at 12:45 a.m. Trucks No. Two and Four answered the call, fighting the blaze almost two hours before bringing it under control.

The building, owned by Mrs. Foster and occupied by Mrs. Ruth Wade, received partial damage. Firemen said the blaze, which originated under the center counter of the cafe, was caused by careless handling of a cigarette.

Two West Monroe homes were recorded as total losses, when both times firemen were notified too late to squelch blazing flames.

The six - room home of T. R. Jones of Red Cutt Road, West Monroe, was burned down to the floor by the time fire trucks were summned at 11:44 a.m. Captain Wilhite of Truck No. 107, who made the call, said that no one was home when the fire started and a neighbor of Jones called in. He added that cause of the fire was undetermined late last night and everything was a total loss.

Another West Monroe home belonging to a Negro, Bertha Adams, was completely destroyed yesterday morning. Her home, located at Jewell and New Natchitoches streets, was almost falling in by the time fire trucks arrived on the scene. The Adams woman, who was next door when the fire began, notified firemen at 9:15. Trucks No. Seven and Three fought the blaze for an hour and a half, managing to keep it confined to the one dwelling.

Investigations last night revealed that the blaze started in the kitchen of the home, but cause was undetermined.

Captain Wilhite of Truck No. Seven, said that one of the firemen received sever burns on the hands while fighting the blazing inferno. The firemen, Thorpe, was taken to the St. Francis for treatment.

The home of a Monroe Negro, Geneva Hill, of 111 Vicksburg St. was extensively damaged when a blaze began in the living room of her home at noon.

The house was consumed in flames when Trucks No. One and Ten arrived. Workers fought the inferno for some two hours before bringing it under control, but managed to keep the blaze contained to the one dwelling. Cause of the fire was undetermined last night, but firemen believed it to have been caused by a curtain blowing against a heater.

Minor damages were caused by fires at other spots in town. A blaze broke out at a store at 2505 Breard St. when a heater on the inside of the store caught the firebox on fire. This occurred around 8 a.m.

Firemen also answered a call at the Virginia Hotel early Saturday morning when a stove caught on fire. Damage was minor.

Minor damages also resulted when the clothes in a clothes dryer at a washateria at South Second street and the Winnsboro Road caught fire at 6:45 p.m. Blazes were quickly extinguished.

Other fires worked yesterday include a car fire at 311 Layton St., two grass fires and a false alarm at Gay's Clothing Store on DeSiard St.

Damages in these fires were very minor.

Local School Officials Mum Over Holiday

Local school officials yesterday took a wait - and - see attitude toward State Supt. Shelby Jackson's move declaring a holiday for the state's public schools.

City school supt. Van D. Odom said late yesterday when reached by phone that he had received no official word of the holiday.

He declined to make any statement until he was officially notified.

Charles G. Wall Jr., president of the parish school board, said he had been busy with promulgation of election returns and had heard nothing about the holiday, when to expect official word, but expressed the hope that it would come soon.

Other officials were unavailable for comment last night.

Parish Supt. W. W. Ward was reported out of town. One source placed him in Baton Rouge Friday and said he may yet be there.

Overall, officials seemed prepared for such moves. They indicated no surprise at early reports of the holiday, nor did they seem excited at the state's latest move in a long series of maneuvers designed to bypass a federal court order to integrate the New Orleans public schools Monday.

Career Day November 19 In Pineville

PINEVILLE (Special) — Louisiana College will be a mecca for high - school juniors and seniors Saturday, Nov. 19, when the school's seventh annual Career Day is scheduled.

Since the L. C. event was inaugurated six years ago, more than 5,000 eager, excited teenagers have been attracted to the Pineville campus. Last year's day was attended by more than 900 students.

The four major objectives of the L. S. Career Day project, which got underway in the spring of 1955, were cited this week by Eugene P. Langford, college public relations director and general chairman of the event.

These follow: (1) to emphasize the contribution L. C. is making in developing Christian character, (2) to aid high - school students and sponsors in obtaining a better understanding and appreciation of Christian higher education.

Also, (3) to give students the opportunity to receive personal and professional guidance in selecting a life's career, and (4) to enlist the genuine interest of prospective students in Louisiana College.

Registration for Saturday's Career Day renewal is set from 8:30 to 10 a.m. in the school's Student Center building.

Board Bans Film

GRAZ, Austria (AP)—A Soviet documentary film on the visit of Premier Khrushchev to Austria last summer has been declared off limits for youths under 18 by the Film Board of Styria Province. The board called the film a "gross distortion of historical and political facts." The film shows Khrushchev's attacks on the West and "mass scenes" arranged by the Austrian Communist party to cover up a plain lack of public response to the Soviet leader.

MAP SUMMARY

Precipitation was mostly limited to the western part of the country late Saturday except for snow flurries that were reported in northern New England and mixed with showers in the northern Great Lakes Region. Occasional rain or showers occurred along most of the Pacific Coast area and extended into Nevada with snow reported in the higher elevations. Locally moderate to heavy rain fell in California. A few light snow flurries and showers were noted in western Montana. Fair skies prevailed from the south and central Rockies into the plains except in North Dakota and southern Texas where considerable cloudiness occurred. Fair skies also prevailed over the middle Mississippi and Ohio Valleys as well as the southern Great Lakes Region and most of the Atlantic States.

Temperatures were near seasonal during the afternoon over much of the country. Readings in the 40's were common in the northern tier states although the 30's were noted in North Dakota and the 50's were reported in portions of the Pacific Northwest. The 50's were also reported from the middle Atlantic States into the Tennessee and Ohio Valleys as well as in the lower elevations of the central Rocky mountain states. The 60's and 70's prevailed in the southern tier of states with some 80's observed in southern Florida and the desert southwest.

Heavy snow of up to four feet is forecast for the area from the mountains of California into western Nevada. Lesser amounts of snow are predicted over higher elevations from Utah and eastern Nevada into Wyoming and Montana with occasional rain or showers likely to occur in lower elevations of this area and extend into the Pacific northwest and Arizona. Elsewhere, the forecast for precipitation calls for occasional rain in Texas with a few showers in southern Florida and snow flurries or showers from the northern Great Lakes Region into northern New England. Relatively mild weather is in store for Sunday over most of the area from the Atlantic states into the southern half of the plains but cooler temperatures than today are expected from California into Nevada.

Career Day November 19 In Pineville

PINEVILLE (Special) — Louisiana College will be a mecca for high - school juniors and seniors Saturday, Nov. 19, when the school's seventh annual Career Day is scheduled.

Since the L. C. event was inaugurated six years ago, more than 5,000 eager, excited teenagers have been attracted to the Pineville campus. Last year's day was attended by more than 900 students.

The four major objectives of the L. S. Career Day project, which got underway in the spring of 1955, were cited this week by Eugene P. Langford, college public relations director and general chairman of the event.

These follow: (1) to emphasize the contribution L. C. is making in developing Christian character, (2) to aid high - school students and sponsors in obtaining a better understanding and appreciation of Christian higher education.

Also, (3) to give students the opportunity to receive personal and professional guidance in selecting a life's career, and (4) to enlist the genuine interest of prospective students in Louisiana College.

Registration for Saturday's Career Day renewal is set from 8:30 to 10 a.m. in the school's Student Center building.

MANY DID, BUT —

40 Million Did Not Vote Tuesday

WASHINGTON (AP)—You hear a lot about the record number of voters who went to the polls last Tuesday, but what about the millions who didn't?

In an election decided by a margin of less than two votes per precinct 40 million citizens over 21 failed to cast a ballot.

The situation isn't actually as bad as it appears, however, since a good many of the 107 million listed by the Census Bureau as voting age citizens couldn't vote if they wanted to.

That's because they're convicted felons, inmates of prisons and mental hospitals, disenfranchised residents of the District of Columbia or federal reservations, or are unable for one reason or another to meet state voting requirements.

The best estimate of the number of citizens actually registered to vote last Tuesday is around 81.5 million. Using that figure, the approximately 68 million who did vote make a more respectable showing — about an 80 per cent turnout.

But that still leaves 17 million potential voters who could have helped pick a president and did not. Who are they?

No one can say for sure about the 1960 election. It's still too early to tell who did vote without bothering about those who didn't. But on the basis of past studies, Richard M. Scammon, director of elections research for the Governmental Affairs Institute, a private organization, has a pretty good idea who the 17 million are.

They are the very young and the very old among the voting age citizenry. They include more women than men. They're people without any roots, living in trailer courts, big city boarding houses, working on construction jobs, stationed in military camps.

They come from the less well-educated, less well-paid segment of the population. A lot of them are Negroes in Southern states who aren't able to define a clause of the Constitution to the satisfaction of election fficials.

And some of them are voters in other elections who are sitting this one out because they don't like the candidates.

There will probably always be a large number of non-voters, but the picture is steadily improving. The Census Bureau reports the following percentage of voters among te voting age population since 1920:

1920	43.6	per cent
1924	43.9
1928	51.9
1932	52.9
1936	57.0
1940	59.1
1944	53.0
1948	51.5
1952	62.7
1956	60.4
1960	63	(estimate)

The steady improvement reflects the growing efficiency of the registration and get-out-the-vote drives of the political parties, the gradual improvement in the income and education of the populace and the wider interest in elections through television coverage of campaigns.

The chances are slim, however, that U. S. election turnouts will even match those 99 per centers staged in the Soviet Union or other totalitarian countries. And who would want to?

Top French Leaders Fly To Algiers

ALGIERS (UPI) — Top French military and civilian defense chiefs flew here Saturday for reported "pulse taking" tours of army installations in the wake of Algiers rioting against President Charles de Gaulle's regime.

Gen. Paul Ely, defense chief of staff, and Defense Minister Pierre Messmer were dispatched to Algiers only hours after the end of Friday's violence that injured 100 persons and climaxed in the sacking of the U.S. Information Service center.

Shortly after his arrival, Ely conferred with French Delegate-General Paul Delouvrier and the French military commander in Algeria, Gen. Jean Crepin.

Informed reports said that Ely, technically on a routine inspection tour, would use his visit to sound out sentiment of army leaders in the wake of De Gaulle's Nov. 4 speech that indicated Algeria would become a near-independent state.

The defense chief of staff also was scheduled to see the military commanders of the Algeris, Constantine and Oran areas.

Defense Minister Messmer was on a three-day tour ranging from an inspection of the big Oran naval base to visits with French troops fighting Algerian Moslem rebels near the Moroccan frontier.

Algiers was returning to normal following all-day rioting Friday that boiled up from settler resentment over De Gaulle's policy of self-determination for Algeria.

By dawn workmen had cleared away the mass of ripped books, pamphlets and posters in front of the USIS Information Center which was sacked by several hundred young rioters.

Unofficial estimates put damage to the building at between $10,000 and $15,000. Howard White, director of the center, flew here from Paris to supervise repairs.

Vice President In Seclusion

MIAMI (UPI) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon maintained complete seclusion with his family Saturday at an island hotel where he is resting from the election.

An aide to the vice president declined to comment on the Nixon family's activities except to say they were taking a complete rest. He said there would be no contact with news media while Nixon remains in Florida for an indefinite vacation period.

Nixon, his wife an' two daughters flew in by commercial airliner Friday afternoon.

Round-A-Bout

With Ezra Adams, State Editor

Enthusiasm was apparent Friday morning when we visited the Start High School Library Club at the club's request.

The enthusiasm came from an interest in news work. Club members, and some others who asked to sit in on the discussion, were very attentive and asked thoughtful questions toward the end of the discussion. Some 40 students participated.

No matter what profession or vocation one enters, he would do well to know something of the processes through which news is gathered and written and published. It helps one to know of the problems arising in news rooms and it helps them to be able to prepare a properly constructed news story for release by their profession or firm for publication.

High school students interested in a career in journalism probably would fare better if they could learn and practice news gathering and news writing before graduating into college — or to the staff of a newspaper.

Mayor Taft Turner of Bernice said this week that work on the town's new sewerage system is on schedule.

Under construction is a lagoon-type system with sanitation plant.

Citizens of Bernice voted May 5 for a $252,000 bond issue to build the system. Mayor Turner said a $92,000 Federal grant will be added to that, bringing the total system cost to $264,000.

Machines are working on the lagoon, located on the south edge of town.

Patrons of the Huttig, Ark. post-office still complain about the "poor mail service" rendered to the town.

They say "we've tried for a long time to get something done about it, but nothing seems to have helped."

Reportedly, officials of Olin Matheson Chemical Corp. of Huttig have tried to help citizens get better mail service without success.

Around the area, folks are still talking about the presidential election.

Some say "Maybe Nixon (Vice President Richard M. Nixon) will get it yet."

Others say "It's well enough like it is."

One comment we'd like to make here is that cooperation of public officials in the 16-parish area, especially clerks of court, greatly helped us get quick vote returns on election night, when many worked late into the wee morning hours.

Northeast Sets Drama By Ibsen For 2-Day Run

"Ghosts," a play by Norwegian playwright Henrik Ibsen, will be presented Monday and Tuesday at Northeast Louisiana State College.

The play will be presented at 8 p.m. both nights in the Fine Arts Auditorium. No admission will be charged for the presentation by the speech department of the Division of Fine Arts.

George C. Brian, associate professor of speech and director of the play, said new sets designed by a class in stagecraft will be used as well as costumes from New York.

Charles "Chuck" Morgan of Monroe will play the male lead and Pat Medaries, also of Monroe, the female lead. Other members of the cast are George Patterson, Monroe; W. J. Haddad, also of Monroe; and Phyllis Gardsbane, Tallulah.

Brian said that "Ghosts," like other Ibsen plays, is linked with the fight for recognition of individual rights in an increasingly socialized world. Written in 1831, "Ghosts" is considered a tragedy of disease that affects the mind.

Anti-Missile Defense Top Soviet Goal

LONDON (UPI) — The Soviet Union was reported Saturday to be working at full speed on a program to develop an anti-missile missile that could upset the balance in the East-West nuclear stalemate.

Informed sources said reports reaching here indicated the Kremlin as giving the project top priority in hopes the Russians might be first to master the anti missile-missile.

The sources said that according to latest information from behind the Iron Curtain, a group of leading Soviet scientists were working with almost unlimited means on the intricate problem of countering the missile threat.

The reports gave no indication whether the Soviet scientists had made progress in their efforts toward such a weapon or whether a solution might be in sight.

There have been recent unsubstantiated Soviet hints that the Russians have developed a new weapon or weapons.

Experts here, however, do not believe that Russia has as yet solved the anti-missile problem, let alone getting any anti-missile device into production.

Scant information leaking out to the West, the sources said, indicates that efforts toward an anti-missile missile apparently are being based on the tracking apparatus used presently to trace rocket launchings.

Truman Has No Interest In Farmers

CHICAGO (UPI)—Former President Harry S. Truman said Saturday he doesn't care what happens to the farmers because "they all voted the Republican ticket."

At a news conference, Truman also:

Said that with the election of Democrat John F. Kennedy as President "the next eight years can't be anything but better."

Expressed belief that the closeness of Kennedy's victory over Vice President Richard M. Nixon was "healthful and one of the best things that could happen."

Said he wouldn't give the president-elect any advice or tell him who to appoint to cabinet or other posts.

Dismissed as "hypothetical" a question as to whether he might participate in any goodwill tours on behalf of the new administration.

Truman, here to address a journalism photographers seminar, slapped at the turn the farm belt vote took in Tuesday's election when he was asked whether he thought the farm situation might improve under the incoming administration.

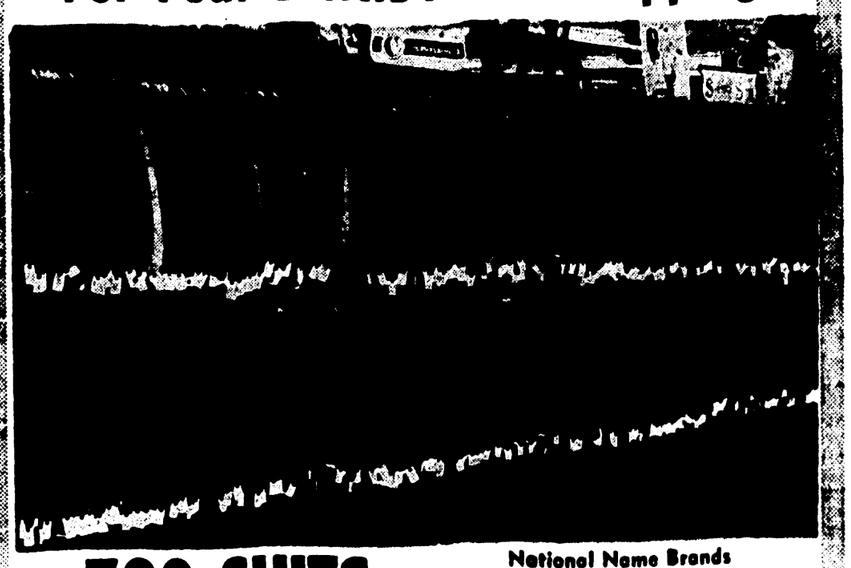

"I don't care what happens to the farmers now," he snapped. "They all voted the Republican ticket."

He said conditions in the nation will improve because "Mr. Kennedy is going to the White House and work."

The ex-President recalled that Nixon, defeated Republican candidate, had given notice he intended to travel widely through the world.

MANY DID, BUT —

40 Million Did Not Vote Tuesday

WASHINGTON (AP)—You hear a lot about the record number of voters who went to the polls last Tuesday, but what about the millions who didn't?

In an election decided by a margin of less than two votes per precinct 40 million citizens over 21 failed to cast a ballot.

The situation isn't actually as bad as it appears, however, since a good many of the 107 million listed by the Census Bureau as voting age citizens couldn't vote if they wanted to.

That's because they're convicted felons, inmates of prisons and mental hospitals, disenfranchised residents of the District of Columbia or federal reservations, or are unable for one reason or another to meet state voting requirements.

The best estimate of the number of citizens actually registered to vote last Tuesday is around 84.5 million. Using that figure, the approximately 68 million who did vote make a more respectable showing — about an 80 per cent turnout.

But that still leaves 17 million potential voters who could have helped pick a president and did not. Who are they?

No one can say for sure about the 1960 election. It's still too early to tell who did vote without bothering about those who didn't. But on the basis of past studies, Richard M. Scammon, director of elections research for the Governmental Affairs Institute, a private organization, has a pretty good idea who the 17 million are.

They are the very young and the very old among the voting age citizenry. They include more women than men. They're people without any roots, living in trailer courts, big city boarding houses, working on construction jobs, stationed in military camps.

They come from the less well-educated, less well-paid segment of the population. A lot of them are Negroes in Southern states who aren't able to define a clause of the Constitution to the satisfaction of election fficials.

And some of them are voters in other elections who are sitting this one out because they don't like .he candidates.

There will probably always be a large number of non-voters, but the picture is steadily improving. The Census Bureau reports the following percentage of voters among te voting age population since 1920:

1920	43.6	per cent
1924	43.9
1928	51.9
1932	52.9
1936	57.0
1940	59.1
1944	53.0
1948	51.5
1952	62.7
1956	60.4
1960	63	(estimate)

The steady improvement reflects the growing efficiency of the registration and get-out-the-vote drives of the political parties, the gradual improvement in the income and education of the populace and the wider interest in elections through television coverage of campaigns.

The chances are slim, however, that U. S. election turnouts will even match those 99 per centers staged in the Soviet Union or other totalitarian countries. And who would want to?

Top French Leaders Fly To Algiers

ALGIERS (UPI) — Top French military and civilian defense chiefs flew here Saturday for reported "pulse taking" tours of army installations in the wake of Algiers rioting against President Charles de Gaulle's regime.

Gen. Paul Ely, defense chief of staff, and Defense Minister Pierre Messmer were dispatched to Algiers only hours after the end of Friday's violence that injured 100 persons and climaxed in the sacking of the U.S. Information Service center.

Shortly after his arrival, Ely conferred with French Delegate-General Paul Delouvrier and the French military commander in Algeria, Gen. Jean Crepin.

Informed reports said that Ely, technically on a routine inspection tour, would use his visit to sound out sentiment of army leaders in the wake of De Gaulle's Nov. 4 speech that indicated Algeria would become a near-independent state.

The defense chief of staff also was scheduled to see the military commanders of the Algeris, Constantine and Oran areas.

Defense Minister Messmer was on a three-day tour ranging from an inspection of the big Oran naval base to visits with French troops fighting Algerian Moslem rebels near the Moroccan frontier.

Algiers was returning to normal following all-day rioting Friday that boiled up from settler resentment over De Gaulle's policy of self-determination for Algeria.

By dawn workmen had cleared away the mass of ripped books, pamphlets and posters in front of the USIS Information Center which was sacked by several hundred young rioters.

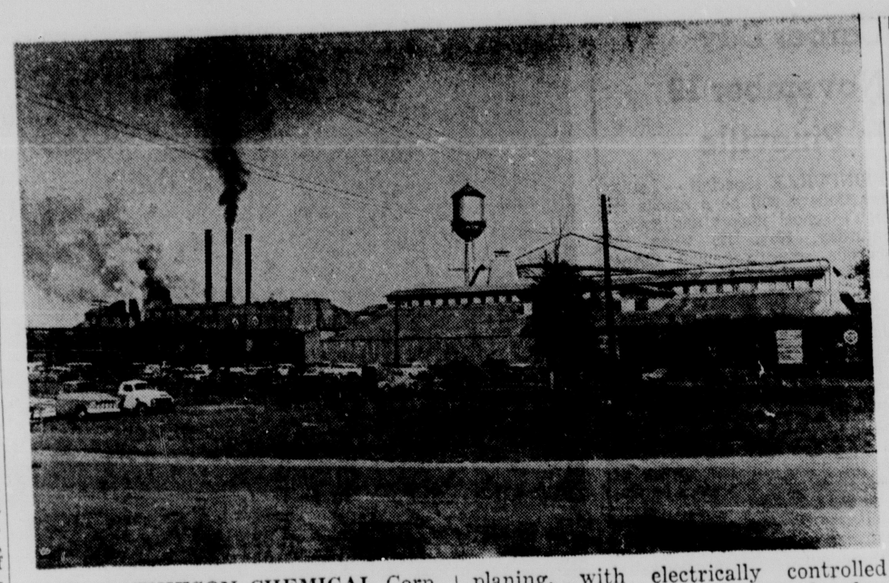

Unofficial estimates put damage to the building at between $10,000 and $15,000. Howard White, director of the center, flew here from Paris to supervise repairs.

Vice President In Seclusion

MIAMI (UPI) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon maintained complete seclusion with his family Saturday at an island hotel where he is resting from the election.

An aide to the vice president declined to comment on the Nixon family's activities except to say they were taking a complete rest. He said there would be no contact with news media while Nixon remains in Florida for an indefinite vacation period.

Nixon, his wife and two daughters flew in by commercial airliner Friday afternoon.

OLIN MATHIESON CHEMICAL Corp. of Huttig, Ark., employs some 600 persons in the area in operation from logging the planer mill. The plant, above, includes kilns for drying lumber before planing, with electrically controlled hoists. Nestled in surrounding pine forests, the plant is the mainstay of the area's economy. Round-A-Bout

With Ezra Adams, State Editor

Enthusiasm was apparent Friday morning when we visited the Start High School Library Club at the club's request.

The enthusiasm came from an interest in news work. Club members, and some others who asked to sit in on the discussion, were very attentive and asked thoughtful questions toward the end of the discussion. Some 40 students participated.

No matter what profession or vocation one enters, he would do well to know something of the processes through which news is gathered and written and published. It helps one to know of the problems arising in news rooms and it helps them to be able to prepare a properly constructed news story for release by their profession or firm for publication.

High school students interested in a career in journalism probably would fare better if they could learn and practice news gathering and news writing before graduating into college — or to the staff of a newspaper.

Mayor Taft Turner of Bernice said this week that work on the town's new sewerage system is on schedule.

Under construction is a lagoon-type system with sanitation plant.

Citizens of Bernice voted May 5 for a $252,000 bond issue to build the system. Mayor Turner said a $32,000 Federal grant will be added to that, bringing the total system cost to $284,000.

Machines are working on the lagoon, located on the south edge of town.

Patrons of the Huttig, Ark. postoffice still complain about the "poor mail service" rendered to the town.

They say "we've tried for a long time to get something done about it, but nothing seems to have helped."

Reportedly, officials of Olin Matheson Chemical Corp. of Huttig have tried to help citizens get better mail service without success.

Around the area, folks are still talking about the presidential election.

Some say "Maybe Nixon (Vice President Richard M. Nixon) will get it yet."

Others say "It's well enough like it is."

One comment we'd like to make here is that cooperation of public officials in the 16-parish area, especially clerks of court, greatly helped us get quick vote returns on election night, when many worked late into the wee morning hours.

Northeast Sets Drama By Ibsen For 2-Day Run

"Ghosts," a play by Norwegian playwright Henrik Ibsen, will be presented Monday and Tuesday at Northeast Louisiana State College.

The play will be presented at 8 p.m. both nights in the Fine Arts Auditorium. No admission will be charged for the presentation by the speech department of the Division of Fine Arts.

George C. Brian, associate professor of speech and director of the play, said new sets designed by a class in stagecraft will be used as well as costumes from New York.

Charles "Chuck" Morgan of Monroe will play the male lead and Pat Medaries, also of Monroe, the female lead. Other members of the cast are George Patterson, Monroe; W. J. Haddad, also of Monroe; and Phyllis Gardsbane, Tallulah.

Brian said that "Ghosts," like other Ibsen plays, is linked with the fight for recognition of individual rights in an increasingly socialized world. Written in 1331, "Ghosts" is considered a tragedy of disease that affects the mind.

Anti-Missile Defense Top Soviet Goal

LONDON (UPI) — The Soviet Union was reported Saturday to be working at full speed on a program to develop an anti-missile missile that could upset the balance in the East-West nuclear stalemate.

Informed sources said reports reaching here indicated the Kremlin as giving the project top priority in hopes the Russians might be first to master the anti missile-missile.

The sources said that according to latest information from behind the Iron Curtain, a group of leading Soviet scientists were working with almost unlimited means on the intricate problem of countering the missile threat.

The reports gave no indication whether the Soviet scientists had made progress in their efforts toward such a weapon or whether a solution might be in sight.

There have been recent unsubstantiated Soviet hints that the Russians have developed a new weapon or weapons.

Experts here, however, do not believe that Russia has as yet solved the anti-missile problem, let alone getting any anti-missile device into production.

Scant information leaking out to the West, the sources said, indicates that efforts toward an anti-missile missile apparently are being based on the tracking apparatus used presently to trace rocket launchings.

Truman Has No Interest In Farmers

CHICAGO (UPI)—Former President Harry S. Truman said Saturday he doesn't care what happens to the farmers because "they all voted the Republican ticket."

At a news conference, Truman also:

Said that with the election of Democrat John F. Kennedy as President "the next eight years can't be anything but better."

Expressed belief that the closeness of Kennedy's victory over Vice President Richard M. Nixon was "healthful and one of the best things that could happen."

Said he wouldn't give the president-elect any advice or tell him who to appoint to cabinet or other posts.

Dismissed as "hypothetical" a question as to whether he might participate in any goodwill tours on behalf of the new administration.

Truman, here to address a journalism photographers seminar, slapped at the turn the farm belt vote took in Tuesday's election when he was asked whether he thought the farm situation might improve under the incoming administration.

"I don't care what happens to the farmers now," he snapped. "They all voted the Republican ticket."

He said conditions in the nation will improve because "Mr. Kennedy is going to the White House and work."

The ex-President recalled that Nixon, defeated Republican candidate, had given notice he intended to travel widely through the world.

FRANKLIN FIGURE

'Uncle Jim' King Is 106 Tuesday

By OTIS HASSELL
Staff Correspondent

WINNSBORO — In his spacious farm home in ward eight, Winnsboro route two, near Fort Necessity, where he has lived for the past 73 years, James M. (Uncle Jim) King will celebrate his 106th birthday Tuesday, November 15.

Uncle Jim is now the most famous personage in Franklin parish — not merely because he has lived 106 years, but because at the age of 106 he is in almost perfect health and is up all day every day, eats anything he wants and keeps up to date on all news by means of radio. His only handicaps are a stiff knee caused by an injury years ago and failing eyesight which allows him to just barely tell light from dark. His memory is sensational, and he can discuss with equal clarity and detail, events which happened 95 years ago or five days ago. 'The Grand Old Man' is both a legend and a reality. He attributes his long active life to regular hours and hard work. He has never used tobacco in any form.

He is an avid sports fan and said, "I knew Pittsburg was going to beat the Yankees and win the World Series but I was getting just a little nervous before that last home run in the seventh game." He especially enjoys the singing of Governor Jimmy Davis.

On the subject of politics Mr. King said, "I have not been able to see well enough to vote since Franklin D. Roosevelt was president, but if I had voted this year it would have been for the Democrats. I know that we should vote for the man rather than the party, but I could never vote for the Republicans because I can't forget how the Yankee Army, just before the end of the Civil War, overran my father's farm in Arkansas and destroyed everything except the house we lived in — all the buildings, crops, everything, they even drank our dug well dry. Of course more water ran back into it later, but for the time being it was dry. I was only eleven years old at the time but I still remember."

A native of Independence County, Ark., he has lived in Franklin parish since 1870, and has been in the same house for the past 73 years. Prior to his retirement due to failing eye sight, he operated a gin, general merchandise store and farm in ward eight. The cemetery where his father, mother and two sisters are buried was leveled during the Civil War and the town of Brinkley, Ark., was built on the cemetery site.

One of the first cotton gins in Franklin parish was operated by King. It was a portable gin which he moved from farm to farm as needed.

Uncle Jim and his brothers, John and Mack, constructed the first Methodist church building in Winnsboro, and the present Winnsboro First Methodist church stands on the same site which was a pine forest when the first building was constructed.

Uncle Jim was over 90 years old before he discontinued the practice of climbing pecan trees to thrash them each fall.

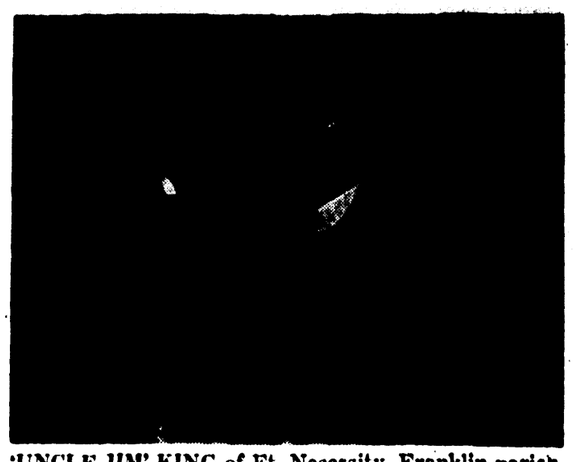

In 1950 at the age of 95 he became the beneficiary of his own life insurance policy and collected the $1500 proceeds of a contract he had purchased 46 years before.

He is a member of the oldest church in Franklin parish, the Boeuf Prairie Methodist church at Fort Necessity, and is a member of Winnsboro Lodge No. 246 F. and A.M. He has been awarded a life membership and a 50-year certificate and pin by the Lodge.

For 23 years he served as a member of the Franklin parish school board, and this year, was honored by having the Ogden High School yearbook, the Tropaeolum, dedicated to him.

Shortly before his 99th birthday, Uncle Jim had to go to a hospital for a few days and this has been the only time before or since, that he has been in a hospital.

His wife, the former Miss Clara Brinsfield, died in 1928 during the 50th year of their marriage. Six of their 10 children survive, with the oldest being 81 years old and the youngest 64. The six children are G. E. King, who lives with his father; J. F. King, Winnsboro, Dr. Brinsfield King, Baton Rouge; Mrs. L. M. Cook, Foreman, Ark., who divides her time between her home and her father; and Mrs. A. E. Hynum and Mrs. W. H. Price, both of route 2, Winnsboro. Uncle Jim also has 16 grandchildren, 17 great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren.

'UNCLE JIM' KING of Ft. Necessity, Franklin parish, will celebrate his 106th birthday come next Tuesday, Nov. 15. In apparent good health, he is well known all over north Louisiana, continues to eat well, and has spent only one short period in a hospital in his lifetime. Commenting on reaching a century plus six years, Uncle Jim noted that "I'll be old enough to start to school!" (Photo by Otis Hassell)

Robber Returns Cash

MILAN, Italy (AP) — "I'm sorry," said the note, "I lost my head and did a bad thing. Forgive me." With the anonymous note were directions to police, where to find 1,640,000 lire—about $2,400—that a well-dressed young man took at pistol point five days ago from the local bank at nearby Gorla Minore.

Company Plans Board Plant At Crossett

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) — The Crossett Company announced Saturday that construction of the first stage of its new $6 million medium density wood shaving board plant is nearing completion. The second and final stage will begin about January 1, and will be completed in late spring.

The plant, which will be the second of its kind in the nation, will manufacture board from gum wood to be used in core stock, cabinets, table tops, etc., according to H. S. Mersereau, Manager of Crossett Lumber Company, of which the new plant will be a part.

The operation will emply about 115 persons and have an annual payroll of more than $500,000. It will be among the most highly automated plants in the country and will operate 24 hours a day, seven days a week on a four shift basis. The main building will cover about 122,000 square feet.

Almost all the equipment for the operation is on order and delivery of some of the foreign process machinery has already started.

The plant's daily production of 100 tons of ¾ inch board will require an annual supply of 38,000 cords of wood, which will come from The Crossett Company's over one-half million acres of managed forest land.

W D.. Morse will be production manager of the new plant, which is located on a 20 acre site adjacent to the Lumber Division.

The process to be used is known as the "Behr Process." It bears the name of its inventor, a European expert in wood utilization. While other firms manufacture a wide variety of medium density composition boards, this will be only the second "Behr Process" plant in this country. The "Behr" system, which is designed to produce highest grades of flake board, is well known in Europe.

Stated in its simplest terms, the process plant in Crossett will work like this:

Gum wood from The Crossett Company's lands will be brought to the plant much in the same manner as pulpwood. It will be debarked, sliced into small flakes, and then molded back together with a bonding agent under heat and pressure to form sheets of board four feet wide and 16 feet long.

Award Contract For Repairs At Ferriday

FERRIDAY (Special) — Bids which were opened by the Board of Commissioners of No. 1, Concordia Parish, Ferriday for painting and repair work to the swimming pool and bath houses in Ferriday, resulted in the contract being awarded to J. A. Russ Construction Company of Natchez, Miss., on a low bid of $2,560.

Second low bidder was C. E. Ewing of Alexandria, at $4,133. Plans are by Pan American Engineers of Alexandria.

Man, Woman Of Year Named At Ferriday Meet

FERRIDAY (Special) — Gerald F. DeLaune, popular businessman Chairman of the Concordia Parish Development Board and an employee of the General Gas Company here, was named "Man of the Year", and Mrs. Sidney R. Gray, Concordia Parish Librarian, "Woman of the Year", at the annual dinner of the Ferriday Chamber of Commerce Thursday night.

FRANKLIN FIGURE

'Uncle Jim' King Is 106 Tuesday

By OTIS HASSELL
Staff Correspondent

WINNSBORO — In his spacious farm home in ward eight, Winnsboro route two, near Fort Necessity, where he has lived for the past 73 years, James M. (Uncle Jim) King will celebrate his 106th birthday Tuesday, November 15.

Uncle Jim is now the most famous personage in Franklin parish — not merely because he has lived 106 years, but because at the age of 106 he is in almost perfect health and is up all day every day, eats anything he wants and keeps up to date on all news by means of radio. His only handicaps are a stiff knee caused by an injury years ago and failing eyesight which allows him to just barely tell light from dark. His memory is sensational, and he can discuss with equal clarity and detail, events which happened 95 years ago or five days ago. 'The Grand Old Man' is both a legend and a reality. He attributes his long active life to regular hours and hard work. He has never used tobacco in any form.

He is an avid sports fan and said, "I knew Pittsburg was going to beat the Yankees and win the World Series but I was getting just a little nervous before that last home run in the seventh game." He especially enjoys the singing of Governor Jimmy Davis.

On the subject of politics Mr. King said, "I have not been able to see well enough to vote since Franklin D. Roosevelt was president, but if I had voted this year it would have been for the Democrats. I know that we should vote for the man rather than the party, but I could never vote for the Republicans because I can't forget how the Yankee Army, just before the end of the Civil War, overran my father's farm in Arkansas and destroyed everything except the house we lived in — all the buildings, crops, everything, they even drank our dug well dry. Of course more water ran back into it later, but for the time being it was dry. I was only eleven years old at the time but I still remember."

A native of Independence County, Ark., he has lived in Franklin parish since 1870, and has been in the same house for the past 73 years. Prior to his retirement due to failing eye sight, he operated a gin, general merchandise store and farm in ward eight. The cemetery where his father, mother and two sisters are buried was leveled during the Civil War and the town of Brinkley, Ark., was built on the cemetery site.

One of the first cotton gins in Franklin parish was operated by King. It was a portable gin which he moved from farm to farm as needed.

Uncle Jim and his brothers, John and Mack, constructed the first Methodist church building in Winnsboro, and the present Winnsboro First Methodist church stands on the same site which was a pine forest when the first building was constructed.

Uncle Jim was over 90 years old before he discontinued the practice of climbing pecan trees to thrash them each fall.

In 1950 at the age of 95 he became the beneficiary of his own life insurance policy and collected the $1500 proceeds of a contract he had purchased 46 years before.

He is a member of the oldest church in Franklin parish, the Boeuf Prairie Methodist church at Fort Necessity, and is a member of Winnsboro Lodge No. 246 F. and A.M. He has been awarded a life membership and a 50-year certificate and pin by the Lodge.

For 28 years he served as a member of the Franklin parish school board, and this year, was honored by having the Ogden High School yearbook, the Tropaeolum, dedicated to him.

Shortly before his 99th birthday, Uncle Jim had to go to a hospital for a few days and this has been the only time before or since, that he has been in a hospital.

His wife, the former Miss Clara Brinsfield, died in 1928 during the 50th year of their marriage. Six of their 10 children survive, with the oldest being 81 years old and the youngest 64. The six children are G. E. King, who lives with his father; J. F. King, Winnsboro, Dr. Brinsfield King, Baton Rouge; Mrs. L. M. Cook, Foreman, Ark., who divides her time between her home and her father; and Mrs. A. E. Hynum and Mrs. W. H. Price, both of route 2, Winnsboro. Uncle Jim also has 16 grandchildren, 17 great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren.

'UNCLE JIM' KING of Ft. Necessity, Franklin parish, will celebrate his 106th birthday come next Tuesday, Nov. 15. In apparent good health, he is well known all over north Louisiana, continues to eat well, and has spent only one short period in a hospital in his lifetime. Commenting on reaching a century plus six years, Uncle Jim noted that "I'll be old enough to start to school!" (Photo by Otis Hassell)

Company Plans Board Plant At Crossett

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) — The Crossett Company announced Saturday that construction of the first stage of its new $6 million medium density wood shaving board plant is nearing completion. The second and final stage will begin about January 1, and will be completed in late spring.

The plant, which will be the second of its kind in the nation, will manufacture board from gum wood to be used in core stock, cabinets, table tops, etc., according to H. S. Mersereau, Manager of Crossett Lumber Company, of which the new plant will be a part.

The operation will emply about 115 persons and have an annual payroll of more than $500,000. It will be among the most highly automated plants in the country and will operate 24 hours a day, seven days a week on a four shift basis. The main building will cover about 122,000 square feet.

Almost all the equipment for the operation is on order and delivery of some of the foreign process machinery has already started.

The plant's daily production of 100 tons of ¾ inch board will require an annual supply of 38,000 cords of wood, which will come from The Crossett Company's over one-half million acres of managed forest land.

W D. Morse will be production manager of the new plant, which is located on a 20 acre site adjacent to the Lumber Division.

The process to be used is known as the "Behr Process." It bears the name of its inventor, a European expert in wood utilization. While other firms manufacture a wide variety of medium density composition boards, this will be only the second "Behr Process" plant in this country. The "Behr" system, which is designed to produce highest grades of flake board, is well known in Europe.

Stated in its simplest terms, the process plant in Crossett will work like this:

Gum wood from The Crossett Company's lands will be brought to the plant much in the same manner as pulpwood. It will be debarked, sliced into small flakes, and then molded back together with a bonding agent under heat and pressure to form sheets of board four feet wide and 16 feet long.

CRUEL REIGN OF TERROR

Lumumba's Police Hold Congo City At Gun-Point

STANLEYVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Mutinous military policemen held this capital city of the Congo's Oriental Province at gunpoint Saturday in the name of ex-Premier Patrice Lumumba.

The military regime of Col. Joseph Mobutu in Leopoldville, 800 miles to the southwest, does not exist for this city within a jungle.

Jittery officials of the provincial government are arrested daily. Officiers of the disorganized garrison are beaten and thrown into jail. The slightest suspicion of pro-Mobutu sympathies can cause this.

No one knows from day to day who commanded the troops or who is in charge of the 11 local government ministeries.

Alphonse Songolo, once Lumumba's communications minister but later his detractor, is in the city Hospital going blind. He was beaten for two hours by military police, then left unattended for four days.

U.N. officials, by now grim-faced chain smokers half drugged from endless cups of coffee, say the situation is out of their hands.

"They are cruel and dangerous children," says Slavomir Brzak of Czechoslovakia, U.N. civilian affairs officer here, spreading his arms in dismay as he talks of the Congolese.

"We cannot do anything without being accused of interfering in their internal affairs."

Though Songolo is a parliamentarian and, theoretically under U.N. protection, Brzak has not tried to see him since his beating and near blinding.

"We have no instructions to deal with this situation," says Col. Wolde Yohannes Shita, commander of the Ethiopian Tekil brigade. Those troops, in theory, police this city of 130,000 and all of vast Oriental Province.

"All we can do is to post guards and send patrols to make sure there is no looting," says Shita. "Sometimes our presence alone prevents trouble. But we cannot really interfere."

Congolese troopers stormed into the U.N. headquarters building in September and beat up several U.N. civilian employees, insisting they were Belgian paratroopers. The Ethiopian guard saluted them in and out.

Eight U.S. airmen were savagely beaten at the Stanleyville airport by a mob of crazed Congolese. The Ethiopians finally moved in when the men were down and bleeding.

Shita has 1,800 men under his command in Stanleyville and at garrisons in Bunia, Paulis and Buta.

The Congolese garrison here consists of some 3,000 men whose officers are elected and frequently deposed overnight. The first post-independence garrison commander, Col. Lokoso, is in jail.

Soldiers roam the city in broken-down vehicles, terrorizing the 500 European settlers — about a tenth of the white population before independence last June.

The Ethiopian provost marshal, Capt. Mokalingi Belay, said he freed 74 Belgians from the Congolese prison by acting on his own initiative.

The terror of the city are some 300 Congolese military policemen, hard-faced with red bands around their brown helmets.

Behind them is a triumvirate skilfully planning Lumumba's return to power by using Stanleyville and Oriental Province as a springboard.

The triumvirate consists of Lumumba's brother Luis, now virtual head of the local administration; Antoine Gizenga, Communist-leaning vice premier in Lumumba's defunct regime; and Bernard Salumu, Lumumba's private secretary.

They impose their will on the military police, who in turn keep the troops in check. Troop loyalty runs roughly along tribal lines. Their main concern is to get paid and have enough women.

The United Nations paid the garrison some $200,000 in September from its own funds to keep peace. Some Congo officers got as much as the equivalent of $700.

The military police seized the provincial government funds in October to pay themselves and the troops. Part of the fund was U.N.-provided unemployment relief money.

No one knows how the troops will be paid in November. Some of them extort money from European settlers, many of whom returned here to supervise the coffee harvest or to liquidate business menaced by ruin and economic stagnation in the once-prosperous province.

In the African city, where palm trees shade the dusty streets, some 20,000 unemployed wait for help. The United Nations submitted a relief project to the local authorities. But those who were to act upon it were arrested. Now there is no one to make decisions.

Girls of the Bambole, Bakuru, Lokele and Bamanga tribes sell their charms to weary European settlers in Stanleyville's four hotels.

The hotels represent the modern Stanleyville, which was barely more than a clearing when the famous African explorer Henry M. Stanley first reached it in 1877 after "finding" Dr. David Livingstone, the Scottish missionary.

At dinner time, white men sit in neat white shirts and soberly discuss their problems: whiskey is getting hard to find, a new type of venereal disease has popped up, the wife in Europe wants money for a winter vacation, a neighbor's house was broken into. Congolese army extortion teams have raise their rates.

Outside the restaurant Congolese women nurse their babies. A man in a loincloth, machete knife in hand, walks past the airport enclosure and disappears into the thicket.

DISTINGUISHED HOME demonstration honors were awarded Saturday at a Home Demonstration Club Council meeting at the Agriculture Building in West Monroe. Presidents of the winning clubs receiving the awards (left to right) were: E. O. Welch, Colony Club, best attendance at Council meetings: Mrs. Truman Wright, Woodlawn Club, highest scoring club; and Mrs. Frank Buce, Better Homemaker club, best scrapbook. U.S. Copyright Authority Dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Arthur Fisher, 66, register of copyrights at the Library of Congress since 1951, died Saturday of acute leukemia at Georgetown University Hospital.

A lawyer, professor of law, farmer and for a brief time a newspaper editor, Fisher joined the library staff in 1944 as associate register of copyrights. He was an internationally recognized authority on copyright law.

The top achievement of Fisher's career was his work on the revision of the U.S. copyright law. Planned by Fisher and prepared during the last three years under his direction, these studies are now being published by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Fisher, born in Chicago, was the son of Walter L. Fisher, secretary of the interior under President Taft. He is a graduate of Harvard College and Harvard Law School.

Fisher is survived by his widow; two sisters, Mrs. Charles Edward Rhetts of Washington and Margaret Fisher of Winnetka, Ill.; and three brothers.

AFTER LOSS OF LEGS

Farmer Carries On Despite Handicap

AUSTIN, Minn. (AP) — The tanned farmer worked his muscled hands and arms over the temperamental carburetor on his tractor.

After making some adjustments with a wrench, he walked to the dashboard and leaned against the big rubber tractor wheels as he pressed the ignition.

The engine did not fire.

But Cornelius Van Ravenhorst, 38, has learned to live with disappointment and the handicap that has hobbled him during the past year.

Grim determination and the farming he has known all his life keep Van Ravenhorst at the job although he has two artificial legs.

It was a year ago Saturday the accident happened.

Cornelius hopped off his tractor to adjust the corn picking machine but failed to turn the machine's engine off first.

He was careful not to get his hands into the sharp jaws of the picker. But he was standing in snow and his feet slid out from under him and into the chains.

By the time he could free himself his left leg had been severed below the knee, and his right foot was off.

With superhuman effort he managed to uncouple the picker and drove the tractor near a neighbor's home where he shouted for help.

Robert Dennis rushed Van Ravenhorst to St. Olaf Hospital, Austin, some 12 miles away. There doctors amputated his left leg above the knee and the right leg six inches below the knee.

Leaning against the tractor in his soiled shirt, Van Ravenhorst recalled the incident for a reporter the other day.

How has life changed since the accident?

"The whole world slows down," he replied soberly. "I can get anywhere I want to. I just get there a lot slower."

Van Ravenhorst uses crutches most of the time in working the 240 acres. And he has a spirited wife and five children who have shouldered their share of responsibilities and more. Neighbors have pitched in, too.

Mrs. Van Ravenhorst took a break from plowing and said: "we sold our last cow just recently. It was too dangerous for Cornelius to be around livestock since his legs — especially the left — can buckle on him.

"I always did work in the field. But now I feel it is more necessary. We have to work together if we expect to keep going."

Van Ravenhorst hopes to stay on the farm and take training in auto electronics at an Austin school during the winter.

CRUEL REIGN OF TERROR

Lumumba's Police Hold Congo City At Gun-Point

STANLEYVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Mutinous military policemen held this capital city of the Congo's Oriental Province at gunpoint Saturday in the name of ex-Premier Patrice Lumumba.

The military regime of Col. Joseph Mobutu in Leopoldville, 800 miles to the southwest, does not exist for this city within a jungle.

Jittery officials of the provincial government are arrested daily. Officiers of the disorganized garrison are beaten and thrown into jail. The slightest suspicion of pro-Mobutu sympathies can cause this.

No one knows from day to day who commanded the troops or who is in charge of the 11 local government ministeries.

Alphonse Songolo, once Lumumba's communications minister but later his detractor, is in the city Hospital going blind. He was beaten for two hours by military police, then left unattended for four days.

U.N. officials, by now grim-faced chain smokers half drugged from endless cups of coffee, say the situation is out of their hands.

"They are cruel and dangerous children," says Slavomir Brzak of Czechoslovakia, U.N. civilian affairs officer here, spreading his arms in dismay as he talks of the Congolese.

"We cannot do anything without being accused of interfering in their internal affairs."

Though Songolo is a parliamentarian and, theoretically under U.N. protection, Brzak has not tried to see him since his beating and near blinding.

"We have no instructions to deal with this situation," says Col. Wolde Yohannes Shita, commander of the Ethiopian Tekil brigade. Those troops, in theory, police this city of 130,000 and all of vast Oriental Province.

"All we can do is to post guards and send patrols to make sure there is no looting," says Shita. "Sometimes our presence alone prevents trouble. But we cannot really interfere."

Congolese troopers stormed into the U.N. headquarters building in September and beat up several U.N. civilian employees, insisting they were Belgian paratroopers. The Ethiopian guard saluted them in and out.

Eight U.S. airmen were savagely beaten at the Stanleyville airport by a mob of crazed Congolese. The Ethiopians finally moved in when the men were down and bleeding.

Shita has 1,800 men under his command in Stanleyville and at garrisons in Bunia, Paulis and Buta.

The Congolese garrison here consists of some 3,000 men whose officers are elected and frequently deposed overnight. The first post-independence garrison commander, Col. Lokoso, is in jail.

Soldiers roam the city in broken-down vehicles, terrorizing the 500 European settlers — about a tenth of the white population before independence last June.

The Ethiopian provost marshal, Capt. Molalingi Belay, said he freed 74 Belgians from the Congolese prison by acting on his own initiative.

The terror of the city are some 300 Congolese military policemen, hard-faced with red bands around their brown helmets.

Behind them is a triumvirate skilfully planning Lumumba's return to power by using Stanleyville and Oriental Province as a springboaard.

The triumvirate consists of Lumumba's brother Luis, now virtual head of the local administration; Antoine Gizenga, Communist-leaning vice premier in Lumumba's defunct regime; and Bernard Salumu, Lumumba's private secretary.

They impose their will on the military police, who in turn keep the troops in check. Troop loyalty runs roughly along tribal lines. Their main concern is to get paid and have enough women.

The United Nations paid the garrison some $200,000 in September from its own funds to keep peace. Some Congo officers got as much as the equivalent of $700.

The military police seized the provincial government funds in October to pay themselves and the troops. Part of the fund was U.N.-provided unemployment relief money.

No one knows how the troops will be paid in November. Some of them extort money from European settlers, many of whom returned here to supervise the coffee harvest or to liquidate business menaced by ruin and economic stagnation in the once-prosperous province.

In the African city, where palm trees shade the dusty streets, some 20,000 unemployed wait for help. The United Nations submitted a relief project to the local authorities. But those who were to act upon it were arrested. Now there is no one to make decisions.

Girls of the Bambole, Bakumu, Lokele and Bamanga tribes sell their charms to weary European settlers in Stanleyville's four hotels.

The hotels represent the modern Stanleyville, which was barely more than a clearing when the famous African explorer Henry M. Stanley first reached it in 1877 after "finding" Dr. David Livingstone, the Scottish missionary.

At dinner time, white men-sit in neat white shirts and soberly discuss their problems: whiskey is getting hard to find, a new type of venereal disease has popped up, the wife in Europe wants money for a winter vacation, a neighbor's house was broken into. Congolese army extortion teams have raise their rates.

Outside the restaurant Congolese women nurse their babies. A man in a loincloth, machete knife in hand, walks past the airport enclosure and disappears into the thicket.

DISTINGUISHED HOME demonstration honors were awarded Saturday at a Home Demonstration Club Council meeting at the Agriculture Building in West Monroe. Presidents of the winning clubs receiving the awards (left to right) were: E. O. Welch, Colony Club, best attendance at Council meetings: Mrs. Truman Wright, Woodlawn Club, highest scoring club; and Mrs. Frank Buce, Better Homemaker club, best scrapbook. U.S. Copyright Authority Dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Arthur Fisher, 66, register of copyrights at the Library of Congress since 1951, died Saturday of acute leukemia at Georgetown University Hospital.

A lawyer, professor of law, farmer and for a brief time a newspaper editor, Fisher joined the library staff in 1944 as associate register of copyrights. He was an internationally recognized authority on copyright law.

The top achievement of Fisher's career was his work on the revision of the U.S. copyright law. Planned by Fisher and prepared during the last three years under his direction, these studies are now being published by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Fisher, born in Chicago, was the son of Walter L. Fisher, secretary of the interior under President Taft. He is a graduate of Harvard College and Harvard Law School.

Fisher is survived by his widow; two sisters, Mrs. Charles Edward Rhetts of Washington and Margaret Fisher of Winnetka, Ill.; and three brothers.

AFTER LOSS OF LEGS

Farmer Carries On Despite Handicap

AUSTIN, Minn. (AP) — The tanned farmer worked his muscled hands and arms over the temperamental carburetor on his tractor.

After making some adjustments with a wrench, he walked to the dashboard and leaned against the big rubber tractor wheels as he pressed the ignition.

The engine did not fire.

But Cornelius Van Ravenhorst, 38, has learned to live with disappointment and the handicap that has hobbled him during the past year.

Grim determination and the farming he has known all his life keep Van Ravenhorst at the job although he has two artificial legs.

It was a year ago Saturday the accident happened.

Cornelius hopped off his tractor to adjust the corn picking machine but failed to turn the machine's engine off first.

He was careful not to get his hands into the sharp jaws of the picker. But he was standing in snow and his feet slid out from under him and into the chains.

By the time he could free himself his left leg had been severed below the knee, and his right foot was off.

With superhuman effort he managed to uncouple the picker and drove the tractor near a neighbor's home where he shouted for help.

Robert Dennis rushed Van Ravenhorst to St. Olaf Hospital, Austin, some 12 miles away. There doctors amputated his left leg above the knee and the right leg six inches below the knee.

Leaning against the tractor in his soiled shirt, Van Ravenhorst recalled the incident for a reporter the other day.

How has life changed since the accident?

"The whole world slows down," he replied soberly. "I can get anywhere I want to. I just get there a lot slower."

Van Ravenhorst uses crutches most of the time in working the 240 acres. And he has a spirited wife and five children who have shouldered their share of responsibilities and more. Neighbors have pitched in, too.

Mrs. Van Ravenhorst took a break from plowing and said: "we sold our last cow just recently. It was too dangerous for Cornelius to be around livestock since his legs — especially the left — can buckle on him.

"I always did work in the field. But now I feel it is more necessary. We have to work together if we expect to keep going."

Van Ravenhorst hopes to stay on the farm and take training in auto electronics at an Austin school during the winter.

YULETIDE JOY

Furniture Gifts Always Welcome

A well-chosen gift of furniture will give happiness for many Christmas Days to come!

There's just one problem to selecting furniture as gifts and that is being correct in your gift choice. However, without actually asking "what do you want" and spoiling the surprise, check with close friends and family to determine whether a practical or "just pretty" furniture item will better fill the bill.

Women usually welcome such pieces as a vanity table, writing desk, sewing table, oversize jewel box and an arm chair or lounge of their own.

The difficult thing is to find out what she wants . . .locating the item is easy. There are so many styles in every piece . . . from Danish modern through Oriental to traditional.

Such decorative furniture is being shown now in, not only all the loveliest of woods, but in jewel tones as well. Painted furniture is a trend, not a fad, say the experts.

FOR HIM

The man of the house usually covets the most comfortable chair ever designed. This choice is practically pleasure-proof.

Better wrap up a miniature chair for his gift though and then take him along after Christmas to pick on a chair.

To be really comfortable, a chair must fit the person who will sit in it. The chair should be high enough for the feet to rest on the floor. The seat should be long enough to give support from spine to knee. The arms should hold the sitter's arms from elbow to wrist. And the back should support at a comfortable angle from spine to nape or neck.

You will be able to find a chair that fits him, pleases you, and suits the decor of the home, with very little difficulty. The selection is tremendous in every price range.

FOR YOUNGSTERS

The small fry love to have their own furniture. (Would you be comfortable in a chair that's far too big, or eating at a table that's nearly over your head?)

Furniture that's scaled to their size is available in desks, chairs, tables, stools, . . .even sofas!

A child begins to really enjoy his own chair when he is about two years old. If he has only one, it will probably be dragged along by the child from room to room.

Toddlers' furniture is going to take a beating. . .there's no doubt about that. . .so be sure the furniture is plenty sturdy. For mother's sake, select furniture that is easy to clean as well.

NEW BABY

For the family that has a new baby or is expecting one sometime around Christmas. . .furniture will also be appreciated. Two important items are the crib and bathinette.

Before selecting a crib, make sure that the spindles are close enough that the baby will not be able to get his head through the spaces, and that at least one side of the crib moves up and down easily, yet can be securely locked.

FOR SMALL HOMES

Furniture gifts for friends or relatives who live in a small home or apartment are simple to select. Just remember that compact, dual-purpose pieces are the thing.

Select stacking tables, a drop leaf hostess cart, functional dividers, or a chest that converts to a desk or dining table.

GIFTS FOR ALL

In the realm of furniture, the gift possibilities go on and on. There is virtually no one who wouldn't be pleased with a well-chosen piece . . .something that says "I gave my gift to you a lot of thought, because I think so much of you"!

SHE SHALL HAVE fragrance wherever she goes with this elegant perfume set. A classic crystal bottle for At-Home perfuming plus a refillable, sleek black and gold purse flacon for perfume touch-ups anywhere. So as not to waste one precious drop of the perfume, a convenient plastic funnel is included.

BIGGER THAN EVER this Yuletide are dolls accessories! Here a happy youngster appears with her playmate size doll, who looks just like a three year old.

NOTHING BETTER than an exciting sweater for the Miss and Mrs. on your gift list. The wide, wide turtleneck invites a sparkling pin or scarf fill-in; its longer length goes equally well with pants or skirts. And, the texture knit is news, too.

YEAR 'ROUND CHRISTMAS GIFT! Luggage knows no season and will be used for years. Select a case to match a set the recipient already owns, or start them on a collection. Shown here are a pair in white vinyl bound with black cowhide; two leather duffle bags; and a handsome tapestry satchel.

'MERRY CRISPNESS' is the theme of these two pretty dresses. They're designed in Kodel, Eastman polyester fiber, and 50 percent cotton, to insure ease of laundering and freedom from wrinkling. The frilled peter pan collar and ruffled bodice will always look perky; the skirt always crisp.

HANDSOME PAIR ON CHRISTMAS MORN! Junior's jacket is warm, but lighweight in an all-cotton shell and Curon lining. Features a zip-front, hacking pockets and tri-color rib knit shawl collar. Dad's all cotton jacket reverses to corduroy and features attached hood that tucks into zippered pocket beneath the shawl collar. And in the box —a button-down shirt.

GIFT CLUES

New Jewelry Fashion Noted

The season is right, the timing and tempo right, the clothes are right for for a new look in jewelry fashion. And the newness, jewelry collections provide some important gift clues this Christmas, points out the Fashion Coordination Institute.

The gift which will succeed this holiday season is jewelry. There is an exciting, fresh look to the latest clothes and with this look goes the need for different jewelry, and a woman can never have all the jewelry she needs, therefor any additions to her collection are a marvelous Christmas gift.

Daytime clothes are easy and fluid -- a very different look from the tight, shaped, sheath silhouette of old. The jewelry opportunity here is in colorful, longer necklaces or big, bold, beautiful pins.

The flattering and unusual hostess clothes designed to be worn in a woman's own home provide an important opportunity for unique jewelry accents.

A woman can now enjoy wearing a totally different type and amount of jewelry from what she would normally wear for the street.

It is fun and colorful to spark a hostess gown or fancy pants and tops with the long, ornate tabs, the gypsy hoops, the big, big pin and multiple bracelets.

After-dark clothes feature the extremely simple black dresses which relate so well to bold, dramatic jewelry accessories without any fear of overdressing.

The mixed bead and stone pieces, massed bracelets, big, beautiful stone pins set off the very plain or beautifully ornate fabrics designed for colorful jewelry emphasis.

Jewlery provides the color and sparkle of the holiday in a perfect gift idea for every gal on your list.

FOR THE AMATEUR PHOTOGRAPHER — a perfect gift. A wanted, welcomed picture - in - a-minute electric-eye camera complete with all accessories. Fitted compartment case, postcarders, albums, "Wink-Light" and film are all included.

FOR MOTOR-MINDED BOYS OR MEN! No engine secrets for the one who assembles the plastic parts of this fully detailed 16-inch scale model kit of an actual Allison prop-jet aircraft engine. All gears are workable and the variable pitch propellers rotate. In each kit is included "The Story Behind Prop-Pet Power," written by one of our foremost aircraft engineers.

FOR MERRIER CHRISTMAS

Early Shopping For Yule Cited

Once again it's wonderful Merry Christmas time — that joyous, delightfully happy, miraculously exciting time — when suddenly all the world takes on an inspiring glow.

If you've any doubt about it, just look around you. . .at the store windows stacked with beautiful gifts, at the sidewalk Santas with their kettles for coins. . . at the crowds hurrying to see everything.

It's a thrilling time, and you'll not want to miss any of it. The shops "knew you were coming" and are ready to welcome you —ready with the most varied, dazzling gifts in history. So slip into your most comfortable walking shoes and get right into the midst of it!

At this point, the smart thing to do is take out pencil and paper and jot down the names of people you want to remember. . . family, friends and co-workers. Next comes the one-and-only unglamorous part of this otherwise fun story: considering your budget.

Perhaps you've been wise and joined a bank Christmas Club last year. If so, you're ahead of the game — and there's no better way to use your new found wealth than to share it at Christmastime by remembering the people you love.

Now you're ready for the next step! Shopping early simplifes so many things. It assures you better selection and ample time to pick and choose while sales people can take extra time to show you the super values.

Lay-away plans are part of every store system today so you can select your presents early and pay for them later on easy terms. It's a great boon to your budget.

Or you might open a charge account or use the instalment plan. Credit sales managers at your favorite stores will gladly help you make the arrangements.

The important thing to remember is GET GOING! Time slips around fast. So — join the Big Show, join the crowd, join the fun! You'll find gift items galore. New models in TV, hi-fi sets, beautiful furniture for the home, lamps, washers, dryers, freezers — cameras and movie projectors — shimmering, shining purses, jewel-like clothes — new shapes in watches and charm bracelets.

Possibly the most rewarding part about shopping early is having time to wrap your purchases in "personalized" covers and glamorized, glittering trims —in having time for shipping those which must be mailed to distant corners — and, best of all, having time to enjoy Christmas on your own — time to relax because you know you've picked the perfect gift to make your recipients happy.

SEND A 'LIVING LETTER' for your Christmas greeting to special friends this year . . . some three million families are going to. You can record your message on a three - inch reel of recording tape.

GIFT SUGGESTION: This elegant lustered leather evening coat with detachable jewelled collar. It's a fashion gift that is certain to please.

DURING CHRISTMAS

'Open Season' For Sportsman

If he has a hankering for hunting or a "gift" for golf, the sportsman will find it "open season" for surprises when he unwraps your Christmas gift this year.

At ease and at play, men and leather go together. Ruggedness, durability and quality are the hallmarks of leather gifts now available for every holiday budget.

For the outdoor man, leather is a constant companion. Hunter and golfer alike protect their treasured guns and clubs in sturdy but lightweight leather cases. Striking his game in all weathers, a leather jacket — lined in wool shering — gives the hunter warmth. Deep pockets help hold compass, cigarettes, lighter and extra shells.

PRESENT FOR PAR

When he gets out on the links, he'll tee off in good style, with a leather golf bag, a set of mittens — small leather bags that slip over his woods for protection against scratch, scar and splintering and a perforated leather glove to protect his left hand from friction burns.

The bowler will be more comfortable — and freer of foot troubles with his own shoes. To make certain that his sports footwear —bowling shoes, golf shoes or ice skates — fit perfectly, borrow a pair of leather shoes from his closet and take them along when you go shopping.

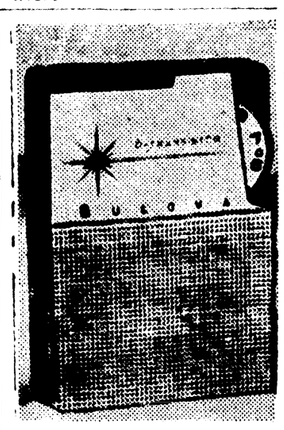

SHUTTER BAGS

A prizewinner for the camera fan at Christmas is a flexible leather gadget bag with zippered side pockets and self-leather handle. Tuck in a few rolls of color film or a wanted accessory to make the gift more complete.

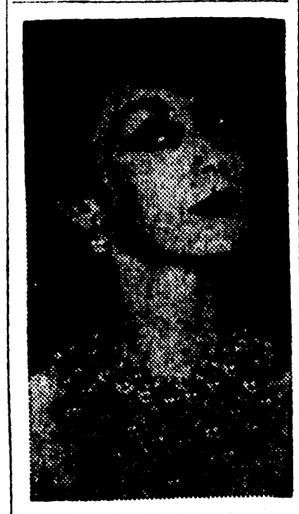

When it's your move, you'll be one up on the gamesman if you present him with a luxurious leather case for his ivory chessmen. Beautifully tooled Morocco leather boxes also hold checks and backgammon counters. A traveling dart - and - card case in smooth cowhide holds an evening of fun at home or away.

THREE GIFTS IN ONE! This new electric hair dryer has a warm air brush, comb and roomy hood attachment. It will dry hair to silky softness in minutes.

CHEER throughout the year is provided by this transistorized radio that is smaller than many Christmas ornaments. It comes in gay holiday colors.

A BRIGHT RIB of gay "bubbles" (with matching earrings) is a gift of elegance for her. Necklaces are the focal point this holiday season and are ideal Christmas gifts.

FAMILY GIFT that's sure to please is this portable stereophonic record player, with twin speakers. When closed, the unit is about the size of a weekend suitcase.

GIFT TIP FOR HER: The newly created "Fascination" timepiece that's glamorously styled with a sculptured silver expansion band; 19-jewel, unbreakable mainspring construction.

Warsaw Said Monument To Polish People

By FREDERICK M. WINSHIP
United Press International

Warsaw is a monument to the courage and endurance of the Polish people.

A visitor to the capital of Communist Poland can walk a few blocks from his modern hotel in any direction and find ruins of imposing pre-war public buildings, and business blocks or large park areas created from sections of the city that were entirely razed.

The new Warsaw is taking shape with elegance and charm along a few broad central avenues where World War II destruction was 85 to 90 per cent complete, and attractive residential construction is spreading far into the countryside.

PARALLELED

The wonderful thing about Warsaw is that a program of historic restoration has paralleled the construction of modernistic concrete and glass structures. A large area centering around the Old Town Square is being painstaking rebuilt — often from the foundation up — from antique prints and old photographs.

The patina of age is missing, but yellow baroque palaces of Poland's famed princely families and the gaily decorated facades of merchants' houses dating from the Renaissance and Gothic periods have a freshness that make the visitors feel he is living in the period, and not looking back on it from the 20th Century.

One of the many eccelsiastic jewels of the city is St. John's Cathedral which has been reconstructed in its original "Vistula Gothic" style after being burdened for centuries with added Baroque details. Not far away in a quaint 15th Century mansion is one of the town's oldest restaurants, the Krokodyl, where tourists can try hearty Polish dishes and rest cobblestone-weary feet.

There is plenty to see during daytime sorties to various parts of the city: "Musts" include the romantic Lazienka Palace completely surrounded by lakes and moats inhabited by swans, the excellent Art Museum with its wealth of Gothic altar paintings and a room devoted to Canaletto's famed series of Warsaw scenes, and the skyscraper Palace of Culture built by the Russians pretentious style that Poles test.

If you take a guided tou and the goverment-owned Travel Agency which has cl of all tourists will see that do — you must be resigne seeing the obliterated "gh where 500,000 Jews were ext nated by the Nazis and the man Gestapo headquarters cells still are stained with blood of Polish partisans. Poles do not want visitors t get what they suffered a hands of the invading Germ

Early Shopping For Yule Cited

Once again it's wonderful Merry Christmas time — that joyous, delightfully happy, miraculously exciting time — when suddenly all the world takes on an inspiring glow.

If you've any doubt about it, just look around you. . .at the store windows stacked with beautiful gifts, at the sidewalk Santas with their kettles for coins. . . at the crowds hurrying to see everything.

It's a thrilling time, and you'll not want to miss any of it. The shops "knew you were coming" and are ready to welcome you —ready with the most varied, dazzling gifts in history. So slip into your most comfortable walking shoes and get right into the midst of it!

At this point, the smart thing to do is take out pencil and paper and jot down the names of people you want to remember. . . family, friends and co-workers. Next comes the one-and-only unglamorous part of this otherwise fun story: considering your budget.

Perhaps you've been wise and joined a bank Christmas Club last year. If so, you're ahead of the game — and there's no better way to use your new found wealth than to share it at Christmastime by remembering the people you love.

Now you're ready for the next step! Shopping early simplifes so many things. It assures you better selection and ample time to pick and choose while sales people can take extra time to show you the super values.

Lay-away plans are part of every store system today so you can select your presents early and pay for them later on easy terms. It's a great boon to your budget.

Or you might open a charge account or use the instalment plan. Credit sales managers at your favorite stores will gladly help you make the arrangements.

The important thing to remember is GET GOING! Time slips around fast. So — join the Big Show, join the crowd, join the fun! You'll find gift items galore. New models in TV, hi-fi sets, beautiful furniture for the home, lamps, washers, dryers, freezers — cameras and movie projectors — shimmering, shining purses, jewel-like clothes — new shapes in watches and charm bracelets.

Possibly the most rewarding part about shopping early is having time to wrap your purchases in "personalized" covers and glamorized, glittering trims —in having time for shipping those which must be mailed to distant corners — and, best of all, having time to enjoy Christmas on your own — time to relax because you know you've picked the perfect gift to make your recipients happy.

SEND A 'LIVING LETTER' for your Christmas greeting to special friends this year . . . some three million families are going to. You can record your message on a three - inch reel of recording tape.

GIFT SUGGESTION: This elegant lustered leather evening coat with detachable jewelled collar. It's a fashion gift that is certain to please.

DURING CHRISTMAS

'Open Season' For Sportsman

If he has a hankering for hunting or a "gift" for golf, the sportsman will find it "open season" for surprises when he unwraps your Christmas gift this year.

At ease and at play, men and leather go together. Ruggedness, durability and quality are the hallmarks of leather gifts now available for every holiday budget.

For the outdoor man, leather is a constant companion. Hunter and golfer alike protect their treasured guns and clubs in sturdy but lightweight leather cases. Striking his game in all weathers, a leather jacket — lined in wool shering — gives the hunter warmth. Deep pockets help hold compass, cigarettes, lighter and extra shells.

PRESENT FOR PAR

When he gets out on the links, he'll tee off in good style, with a leather golf bag, a set of mittens — small leather bags that slip over his woods for protection against scratch, scar and splintering and a perforated leather glove to protect his left hand from friction burns.

The bowler will be more comfortable — and freer of foot troubles with his own shoes. To make certain that his sports footwear —bowling shoes, golf shoes or ice skates — fit perfectly, borrow a pair of leather shoes from his closet and take them along when you go shopping.

SHUTTER BAGS

A prizewinner for the camera fan at Christmas is a flexible leather gadget bag with zippered side pockets and self-leather handle. Tuck in a few rolls of color film or a wanted accessory to make the gift more complete.

When it's your move, you'll be one up on the gamesman if you present him with a luxurious leather case for his ivory chessmen. Beautifully tooled Morocco leather boxes also hold checks and backgammon counters. A traveling dart - and - card case in smooth cowhide holds an evening of fun at home or away.

THREE GIFTS IN ONE! This new electric hair dryer has a warm air brush, comb and roomy hood attachment. It will dry hair to silky softness in minutes.

FAMILY GIFT that's sure to please is this portable stereophonic record player, with twin speakers. When closed, the unit is about the size of a weekend suitcase.

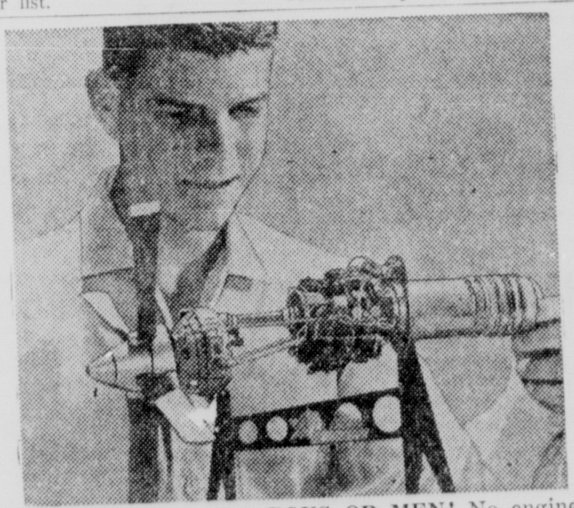

GIFT TIP FOR HER: The newly created "Fascination" timepiece that's glamorously styled with a sculptured silver expansion band; 19-jewel, unbreakable mainspring construction.

FOR MOTOR-MINDED BOYS OR MEN! No engine secrets for the one who assembles the plastic parts of this fully detailed 16-inch scale model kit of an actual Allison prop-jet aircraft engine. All gears are workable and the variable pitch propellers rotate. In each kit is included "The Story Behind Prop-Pet Power," written by one of our foremost aircraft engineers.

CHEER throughout the year is provided by this transistorized radio that is smaller than many Christmas ornaments. It comes in gay holiday colors.

SPORTS SHIRTS MAKE FASHION NEWS FOR CHRISTMAS with bolder prints and new knit textures. At left, an oldtime "shirtmaker sign" print on cotton oxford in a button-down collar model. Right, wool knit in a honeycomb texture trimmed with contrasting jersey. Patterned trousers are in tone-on-tone checked worsted flannel. Woven braid belt at left has leather tabs.

A BRIGHT RIB of gay "bubbles" (with matching earrings) is a gift of elegance for her. Necklaces are the focal point this holiday season and are ideal Christmas gifts.

Warsaw Said Monument To Polish People

By FREDERICK M. WINSHIP
United Press International

Warsaw is a monument to the courage and endurance of the Polish people.

A visitor to the capital of Communist Poland can walk a few blocks from his modern hotel in any direction and find ruins of imposing pre-war public buildings, and business blocks or large park areas created from sections of the city that were entirely razed.

The new Warsaw is taking shape with elegance and charm along a few broad central avenues where World War II destruction was 85 to 90 per cent complete, and attractive residential construction is spreading far into the countryside.

PARALLELED

The wonderful thing about Warsaw is that a program of historic restoration has paralleled the construction of modernistic concrete and glass structures. A large area centering around the Old Town Square is being painstaking rebuilt — often from the foundation up — from antique prints and old photographs.

The patina of age is missing, but yellow baroque palaces of Poland's famed princely families and the gaily decorated facades of merchants' houses dating from the Renaissance and Gothic periods have a freshness that make the visitors feel he is living in the period, and not looking back on it from the 20th Century.

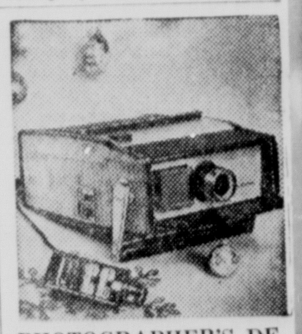

One of the many eccelsiastic jewels of the city is St. John's Cathedral which has been reconstructed in its original "Vistula Gothic" style after being burdened for centuries with added Baroque details. Not far away in a quaint 15th Century mansion is one of the town's oldest restaurants, the Krokodyl, where tourists can try hearty Polish dishes and rest cobblestone-weary feet.

There is plenty to see during daytime sorties to various parts of the city: "Musts" include the romantic Lazienka Palace completely surrounded by lakes and moats inhabited by swans, the excellent Art Museum with its wealth of Gothic altar paintings and a room devoted to Canaletto's famed series of Warsaw scenes, and the skyscraper Palace of Culture built by the Russians in pretentious style that Poles de test.

If you take a guided tour - and the goverment-owned Orbi Travel Agency which has charg of all tourists will see that yo do — you must be resigned t seeing the obliterated "ghetto where 500,000 Jews were exterm nated by the Nazis and the Ge man Gestapo headquarters whe cells still are stained with th blood of Polish partisans. Th Poles do not want visitors to fo get what they suffered at th hands of the invading Germans.

HERALD CHRISTMAS with carols played on an electric organ in your home. Many of these popular musical instruments are designed so anyone can play them.

PHOTOGRAPHER'S DELIGHT! This is the new automatic slide projector with push button image control and built - in timer. It's as trim as a portable typewriter.

DEFENSE BRIEFINGS

Kennedy To Get Top Secret Data

WASHINGTON (AP) — Liaison representatives of the incoming Kennedy administration will be cleared by the Pentagon for access to the top-secret information they will need in preparing for transition of Defense Department control.

Preparations for consultations with and briefings of the Kennedy representatives by Secretary of Defense Thomas S. Gates and his aides were finished Saturday. Still lacking was the name of the man or men who would be sent by Clark Clifford, chief liaison representative for President-elect John F. Kennedy.

The sessions could be merely broad administrative and budget discussions with Gates and his civilian aides. Or military operational officers such as the Joint Chiefs of Staff could be called in. It will depend on what the Kennedy representatives want, a Pentagon spokesman said.

Kennedy representatives aren't likely to seek to influence defense planning for the period between now and next Jan. 20, when Kennedy takes office.

"This will be an Eisenhower military budget, not a Kennedy budget, which is presented to Congress at the beginning of the session," the spokesman said.

But what happens to the military budget thereafter obviously will be the affair of President-elect Kennedy and the Democratic-controlled Congress.

Whether the liaison talks will start before Kennedy chooses the man to head the Defense Department, sometime after Thanksgiving, was not clear. There has been no hint of the choice from Kennedy's headquarters. But speculation was plentiful.

Most of the names of possible appointees were those of former Pentagon officials during previous Democratic administrations. The speculation included: Thomas K. Finletter, Air Force secretary in the Truman administration; Frank Pace, former Army Secretary and now Head of General Dynamics Corp.; and Dan A. Kimball, secretary of the Navy under Truman and now President of Aerojet General Corp.

The guessing includes the names of some senators, among them Stuart Symington of Missouri, another former air secretary, and Henry M. Jackson of Washington.

If Kennedy turns to the business world, he could be confronted with the same problem that faced the Eisenhower administration — the conflict of interest law.

To accept the defense post, an appointee must divest himself of interest in any company having contracts with the government. Among the major military contracting companies are General Dynamics and Aerojet General.

Whether military spending should be boosted above the current $41-billion level is only one of the vexing problems to face the next secretary of defense. Kennedy has said defense spending should not be patterned to "the predetermined confines of a budget."

Answering questions by the trade publication, Missiles and Rockets, Kennedy said: "While more money will be spent for modernity and mobility of our armed forces, I believe that billions can be saved by streamlining the Department of Defense and minimizing competition between services."

On this latter point, Kennedy said, "Reorganization of the cumbersome, antique and creaking machinery of the Department of Defense is high on the agenda of the new Democratic administration." He noted that an advisory committee headed by Symington will give recommendations for reorganization to him by Dec. 31.

High on the list of reorganization proposals is one which would revamp the armed forces into functional rather than purely service organizations. Thus, everything that related to strategic warfare would be within a single setup, including the Air Force's Strategic Air Command and the Navy's Polaris submarine weapons system.

Symington, during the latest session of Congress, introduced a bill which would have brought about such reorganization, under a single chief of staff.

This talk of a single command has alarmed the Navy, which for years has opposed the idea of merging the armed forces.

Among Navy men, some like to remember that Kennedy was a Navy lieutenant in World War II — and to hope this might influence him.

On the other hand, the Army didn't do so well in interservice disputes in the past eight years. And the man who made the final decisions was President Eisenhower, a former Army general.

Gov. Barnett On Tour

"I will be able to order ham and eggs in Spanish," said Barnett, who is not a linguist.

Demo Denies Party Split In Tennessee

NASHVILLE (UPI) — A Tennessee Democratic campaign leader Saturday disputed reports of a factional split up in the state party over results of the Kennedy campaign in Tennessee.

After Vice President Nixon carried the state over President-elect John Kennedy by 70,000 votes or more despite the combined efforts of the Ellington administration and the Gore-Kefauver wing of the state party, there were published reports of inner revolt within the state party.

Nashville attorney Fred Graham, who headed the youth for Kennedy-Johnson group in Tennessee, said: "It's just not true at this point to say there's disunion" in the state party.

Graham said it would probably be true that the administration would have a candidate for governor in 1962, that former Gov. Frank Clement would probably run, and that followers of Sens. Albert Gore and Estes Kefauver would probably "gravitate to a third candidate."

But, said Graham, "that's not revolt. It may look like a revolt compared with the close harmony we've had in the last two months, but it's just politics as normal in Tennessee."

Graham added, however, there were some county Democratic chairmen who did not work for the party ticket last Tuesday or even in 1956.

"There is some talk among leaders of all factions of trying to seek out leadership at a grass roots level in the counties that will follow the lead of the party in 1964 when it runs another truly Democratic campaign," Graham said.

Berserk Man Shoots Best Friend, Self

TORONTO (UPI) — Paul Delaunais, 41, killed his best friend Saturday, held police at bay for 45 minutes and then ended his own life with a bullet through the head.

Before Delaunais took his own life, he forced police to risk their lives to get a stretcher to his dying victim.

When police arrived on the scene, Samuel Semple, a 50-year-old widower, lay fatally wounded in the kitchen of the rooming house.

The only way they could reach him was through the main hallway of the house, and this was blocked by the raving Delaunais, who had posted himself on a basement stairway.

Warning that the only way he would be taken was "feet first," the gunman shouted "I'm going to shoot, I tell you."

Finally, after repeated pleas from police and his distraught wife, Bernadette, Delaunais gave in. "I won't shoot—go get him," he said.

Semple died before he reached a hospital.

At one point, in response to Delaunais' pleading that his wife come into the basement, Mrs. Delaunais attempted to scramble down the stairs. Police restrained her and carried her away, sobbing.

A few minutes later, Delaunais crawled up the stairs within sight of police, put the gun to his head and fired.

Police said the whole affaire apparently began over calling a taxi.

Semple wanted a cab for a man about to leave the rooming house, but Delaunais didn't want a taxi calling at the house.

When Semple persisted, Delaunais whipped out a pistol and shot him as he sat in a chair. The bullet went through Semple's chest.

IN PASTORAL LETTER

Cubans Are Urged To Battle Marxists

HAVANA (AP)— The archbishop of Santiago, Cuba's second-largest city, tells Cuban Roman Catholics in a pastoral letter to be read Sunday that the battle against communism must be fought from their own ranks and not from U.S. military and economic strength.

Entitling his message "Rome or Moscow," the Most Rev. Enrique Perez Serantes warned that communism's best auxiliaries are those Catholics who interpret religious precepts in their own manner and those who are Catholic in name only.

The prelate, 77 in two more weeks, prepared the letter for reading before his congregation at Santiago Cathedral Sunday and for distribution throughout Cuba.

The area of his diocese includes 2,100,000 Cubans—all but 50,000 of whom are Catholics. The Santiago Diocese has 110 churches.

Perez Serantes, a native of Spain made a bishop here in 1922, is credited with saving Prime Minister Fidel Castro from a firing squad seven years ago, before the revolution.

The archbishop praised U.S. government outlays of $365 billion to guard against world communism in the past 15 years. But he asserted this "is not sufficient and even inadequate ... to contain, much less to nullify, the impetuous torrent of Marxist ideology."

The letter does not directly mention Castro or his leftward-leaning government. It makes no specific connection between communism and Castro's revolutionary rule.

"Gold cannot buy and cannon will not destroy ideas," said Perez Serantes. He added that the battle against communism is, therefore, less between Washington and Moscow than between Rome and Moscow.

The pastoral letter is Perez Serantes' third against communism. He has been the most outspoken of the Cuban Catholic hierarchy in this respect.

In public replies to Catholic Church views, Fidel Castro has refrained thus far from mentioning Perez Serantes or any other priest by name.

The archbishop interceded on Castro's behalf after the abortive attack on the Moncada Army Barracks July 26, 1953—the date from which the revolutionists' 26 de Julio Movement took its name. Perez Serantes got a guarantee from Fulgencio Batista's military officials that Castro would not be shot if captured. Then the archbishop went into the Oriente hills personally to obtain the surrender of the man who is now Cuba's prime minister.

The Catholic Church faced another battle here Saturday—this one centering on control of Villanueva University in Havana, an institution founded 15 years ago and run by the Augustinian Fathers, headquartered at Villanova University outside Philadelphia, Pa.

The Rev. Eduardo Boza Masvidal, rector of the university here and one of the earliest priests to speak out against Castro, expelled 17 Cuban students for a manifesto they published last month. It accused a Catholic official at Villanueva of intending to close the university and put the blame on government persecution.

The explusion order was signed Wednesday. When the students came to class Friday night, they were turned away.

I'll Be A Healthier, Happier And More Productive Citizen Tomorrow Because Of Member-Owned Electric Cooperatives

If not for electric co-ops furnishing low cost power to Louisiana dairies there wouldn't even be enough grade A milk for us wearers of three-cornered pants.

And our state's multi-million dollar dairy industry is only one product of the revolution in better living brought about by member-owned electric co-ops. Just think of the accelerated rural development, improved sanitation, more convenient home life, improved agricultural methods — only to name a few.

Rural electrification, directly or indirectly, has touched all our lives — city folks, as well as farm folks. Why, this year alone, it has been estimated that Louisiana co-op members will spend over $50 million just for appliances! This means more jobs, more money for all.

Contrary to what you may hear, electric co-ops are not federal agencies. They are non-profit businesses owned and controlled by your rural friends and neighbors who decided to give themselves the advantages their city cousins have enjoyed for years.

The prelate, 77 in two more weeks, prepared the letter for reading before his congregation at Santiago Cathedral Sunday and for distribution throughout Cuba.

The area of his diocese includes 2,100,000 Cubans—all but 50,000 of whom are Catholics. The Santiago Diocese has 110 churches.

Perez Serantes, a native of Spain made a bishop here in 1922, is credited with saving Prime Minister Fidel Castro from a firing squad seven years ago, before the revolution.

The archbishop praised U.S. government outlays of $365 billion to guard against world communism in the past 15 years. But he asserted this "is not sufficient and even inadequate ... to contain, much less to nullify, the impetuous torrent of Marxist ideology."

The letter does not directly mention Castro or his leftward-leaning government. It makes no specific connection between communism and Castro's revolutionary rule.

"Gold cannot buy and cannon will not destroy ideas," said Perez Serantes. He added that the battle against communism is, therefore, less between Washington and Moscow than between Rome and Moscow.

The pastoral letter is Perez Serantes' third against communism. He has been the most outspoken of the Cuban Catholic hierarchy in this respect.

In public replies to Catholic Church views, Fidel Castro has refrained thus far from mentioning Perez Serantes or any other priest by name.

The archbishop interceded on Castro's behalf after the abortive attack on the Moncada Army Barracks July 26, 1953—the date from which the revolutionists' 26 de Julio Movement took its name. Perez Serantes got a guarantee from Fulgencio Batista's military officials that Castro would not be shot if captured. Then the archbishop went into the Oriente hills personally to obtain the surrender of the man who is now Cuba's prime minister.

The Catholic Church faced another battle here Saturday—this one centering on control of Villanueva University in Havana, an institution founded 15 years ago and run by the Augustinian Fathers, headquartered at Villanova University outside Philadelphia, Pa.

The Rev. Eduardo Boza Masvidal, rector of the university here and one of the earliest priests to speak out against Castro, expelled 17 Cuban students for a manifesto they published last month. It accused a Catholic official at Villanueva of intending to close the university and put the blame on government persecution.

The explusion order was signed Wednesday. When the students came to class Friday night, they were turned away.

WONDERFUL — isn't it!

I'll Be A Healthier, Happier And More Productive Citizen Tomorrow Because Of Member-Owned Electric Cooperatives

If not for electric co-ops furnishing low cost power to Louisiana dairies there wouldn't even be enough grade A milk for us wearers of three-cornered pants.

And our state's multi-million dollar dairy industry is only one product of the revolution in better living brought about by member-owned electric co-ops. Just think of the accelerated rural development, improved sanitation, more convenient home life, improved agricultural methods — only to name a few.

Rural electrification, directly or indirectly, has touched all our lives — city folks, as well as farm folks. Why, this year alone, it has been estimated that Louisiana co-op members will spend over $50 million just for appliances! This means more jobs, more money for all.

Contrary to what you may hear, electric co-ops are not federal agencies. They are non-profit businesses owned and controlled by your rural friends and neighbors who decided to give themselves the advantages their city cousins have enjoyed for years.

Taxidermy Backs Up Hunters' Claim

IRVING WILLIAMS DISPLAYS TAXIDERMY ART

FEATHERED SPECIMENS, OTHERS, MOUNTED BY WILLIAMS

Hunters and fishermen tell with glowing words and sweeping gestures of their successes, but some of them rely on 26-year-old Irving Williams to preserve the proof for them.

Williams, who is a chemical operator in a plant at Sterlington, engages in taxidermy in his spare time. And the array of wildlife specimens at his studio on White's Ferry Road, one-quarter mile from the West Monroe city limits, offer evidence of his ability to handle the subjects with skill.

He is married, has four children, and lives in the area of Rocky Branch community, but commutes daily to his place of operations, which is not far from his original home territory. He is a native of West Monroe.

RANGE

Specimens in his shop range from a six-foot alligator which became ensnared in a trotline at Cheniere Lake, to bobcats, deer, squirrels, fish, and several varieties of birds.

He has been doing taxidermy for almost three years. He received his training through a correspondence course completed in October of last year.

His interest in this type of work was aroused when he saw some of the material from the correspondence school which a friend had. And before he enrolled for the course he was mounting some types of animals.

Speaking of the course, he said, "They send you books on taxidermy, but I first borrowed some books and I was mounting deer heads before I ever received the book on that subject. A lot of it is practical application."

He moved his shop into the present location last summer. The building is owned by a veterinarian friend.

EXPLAINING

Explaining his shift from the role of sportsman who used to stalk the game in the woodlands and along the streams of the area, Williams said, "I used to hunt and fish all the time, but I get just as much fun out of this. In deer season the hunters come in to bring me a deer head and tell me how it was killed. Usually a hunter will spend from 15 to 20 minutes just talking."

A day's traffic for the taxidermist shop may be just about as unpredictable and varied as what a hunter may encounter in the field or woods.

He said, "Last year on the third day of the deer season, I hadn't gotten any deer heads to mount, so a friend and I were going hunting. About dinner time the phone rang and a woman said her husband killed a bobcat and would bring it by in about an hour. So I cancelled the hunting trip."

Before the afternoon was over "I got about four deer heads and two bobcats to mount."

PROMPT ACTION

Prompt action is needed when an animal or fish is brought into the taxidermist. He explained:

"When an animal is brought in I must skin it right away and get all of the flesh and fat scraped off the hide. In warm weather it should be skinned the day it is killed. In deer season, when the weather is cool it can be skinned a day later."

Besides mounting animals, Williams also makes rugs from their hides, and gunracks with deer feet mounted on them.

He tans the hides of the smaller animals himself when they are to be used for rugs or racks, but the larger hides for rug purposes are sent off to a commercial shop for tanning.

The hides after tanning, are lined on the bottom, and a felt border is added on the sides, to complete them as rugs. In addition to this they are mothproofed.

Factory-made head forms and body forms, in varying sizes and stances, according to needs, are available for use in mounting the various species of animals. Eyes, made of glass, and appropriately colored to give the effect of the natural ones, are also available from the commercial producers.

Body forms for smaller animals such as squirrels are made by Williams, using excelsior wrapped with string. And bones of squirrels are cleaned and used in mounting. But in larger animals body forms suffice.

SQUIRREL

"In a squirrel," said Williams, "we use the bones in mounting the legs. We have a fine, hemplike fiber, which we wrap around the bones. Galvanized wire is fastened around the bones and wire stuck through the body to hold the legs firm. The body skin is sewed down the underside."

The taxidermist said, "Years ago the taxidermists boiled the skull of a deer to get the flesh off, and used papier mache and excelsior and rebuilt the form. These new headforms are cast from an actual animal."

Taxidermy is a time consuming work. For example, to complete work on mounting a bobcat would take a month. First it would be skinned, and skin cleaned, which would require about one and one-half hour.

The skin then would be placed in a tanning solution for two weeks. The body form, according to measurements on the animal's body and head, would be ordered from a factory. Delivery of this takes about two weks.

After this the skin would be mounted on the form, sewed up, adjusted and allowed to dry.

"You have to tack the hide into the small depressions on the body form to make it fit properly. And you have to touch up around the eyes and mouth, and brush and comb the fur," said Williams.

Mouth equipment for an animal like a bobcat which will be shown with teeth bared, is factory made. The mouth unit includes a realistic looking rubber tongue, plastic mouth and teeth. Artificial eyes also are added.

MOTH-PROOF

In addition to this finishing work, borax is added to protect the fur from moths. In the old days arsenic trioxide, a deadly poison, was used for this purpose. But because of its danger, and the possibility of being innoculated with it through a cut on the hand, its use has been generally discontinued, he said.

Usually Williams doesn't wear gloves when working on a speciman. An exception to this is something like a rattlesnake.

"I break off the fangs with pliers and wash and skin the snake," he said. "The skinning only takes about 15 minutes."

When Williams was presented a large alligator, victim of a trotline at Cheniere Lake, he constructed the body form himself of wire and wood.

He skinned the aligator one day and mounted it the next. He touched it up two weeks later, which included waxing it inside the mouth. Now its six feet of dark form are held impressively on a mount on the wall of Williams shop.

Across the room from it is a large bass, about five pounds, which Williams caught. The fish is in an action pose, as if it were still contesting the angler in an area stream.

"I've been fishing a lot myself," said Williams, "and I've caught big bullgills and perch, but I'm kinda short on big bass. This might be a once in a lifetime catch."

Another piscatorial speciman on the wall of his place is a paddlefish, known as a spoonbill catfish, a fresh water relative of the sturgeon.

A friend caught it and gave it to him. It is becoming a rarity in area waters, Williams said.

ASSORTMENT

In the back of Williams' shop where mounting work is carried on, he has an assortment of accessories to be used in making the specimens lifelike.

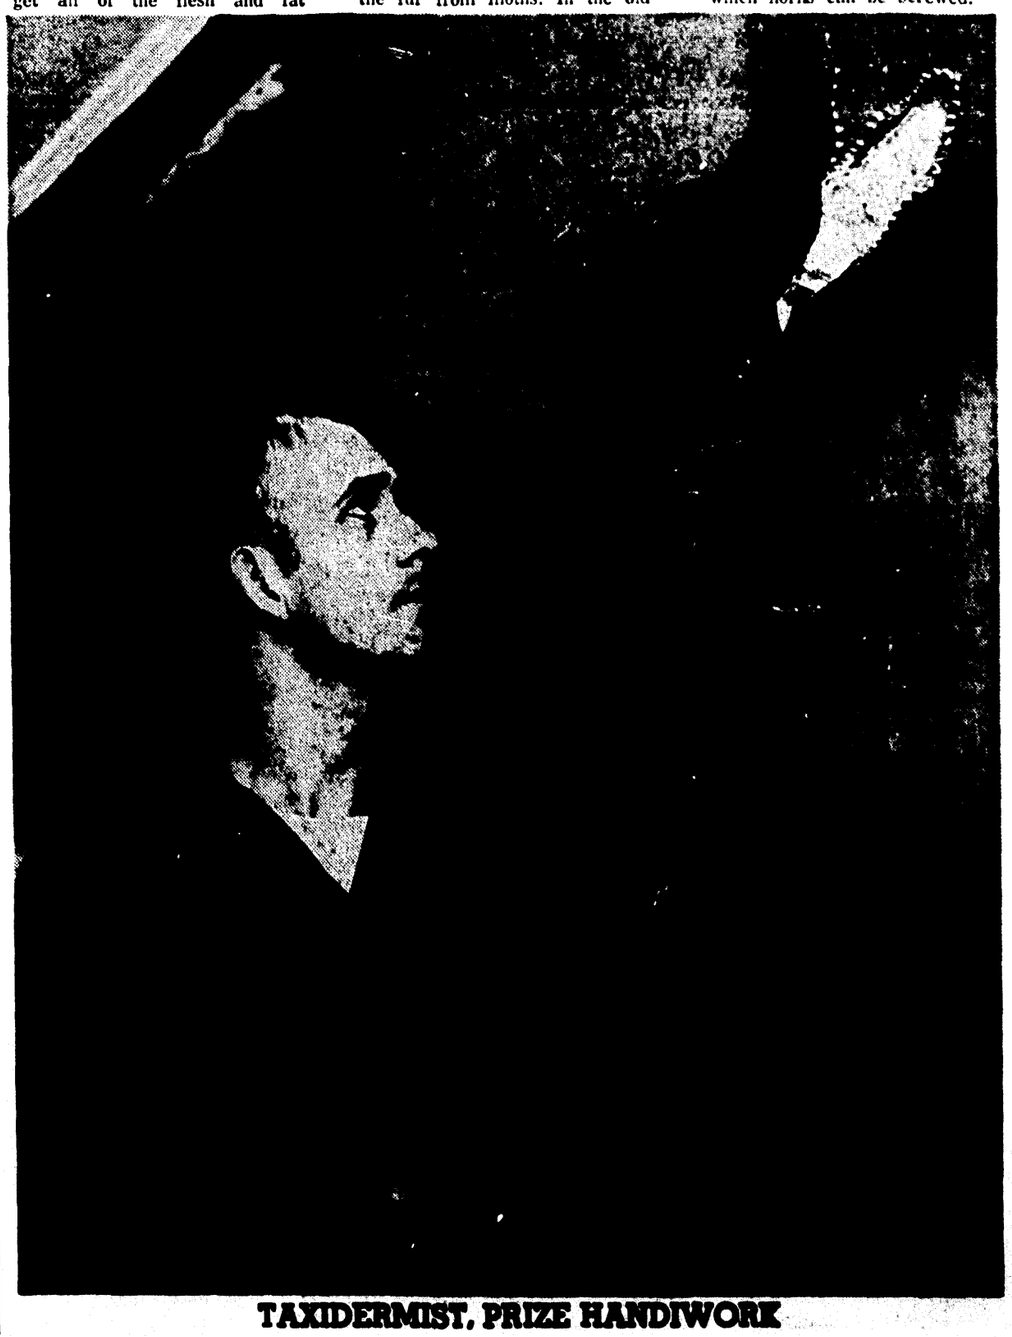

In one cabinet drawer, with many seperated sections like a type case, are the supplies of artificial eyes. For special cases, the eyes must be ordered for the particular job.

He displayed such artificial eyes as those of the pheasant. Each is tri-colored, black pupil, with yellow-orange iris. Squirrel eyes were in two types, brown iris and black pupil, and solid black. Some of the small black eyes are all-purpose and can be used in many small animals.

The artificial fish eye, which compared closely with a color drawing by a well known nature artist, is multi-colored. The elk eye has a "blue glint."

Measurements needed when ordering forms for animal heads are taken from the tip of the nose to the inside corner of eye, and the tip of the nose to the back of the head. For the body form size, measurements are made from tip of the nose to the base of the tail, and the circumference of the body.

In the top of the head form for a horned animal like an elk, there is a wooden block into which horns can be screwed.

Sagebrush Boomtown Jackpot

By PAUL FINCH

JACKPOT, Nev. (AP)—Jackpot, Nevada's gambling boomtown in the sagebrush, is the newest moument to the axiom that some people enjoy losing their money if there's a chance they'll win.

The colorful and controversial cluster of casinos ½ mile south of the Nevanda-Idaho line started from zero when Idaho outlawed its slot machines in 1954.

"There wasn't anything here but sagebrush and broomgrass," says one Jackpotite.

Now the 24-hour multi-million-dollar houses of chance entertain thousands of pleasure-seekers yearly with 330 slot machines, four pits of 21, roulette and dice tables, along with keno and wheels of fortune.

FINEST FOOD

The offering also includes some of the finest food in the state—some of it free and the rest next-to-free stage shows, and dancing.

"We couldn't exist if Idaho was not so dull," says John Wilkes, a co-owner of Diamond Jim's, who once operated in Idaho. He said Idahoans occasionally want to escape their restrictions on gambling and drinking and break the monotony of life.

Unlike the casinos of Las Vegas and Reno, there's a small town atmosphere in Jackpot despite the plushness and frills. You can meet 50 people in an hour with no formal introduction.

The pint-sized community of trailer homes wants to be left alone to develop the trappings of an ordinary city—a city hall, schools and even the curse of street assessments.

But complaints from rival gamblers in Elko, about 100 miles away, have forced state gaming authorities to wonder if border operations might hurt Nevada's legalized gambling industry as a whole.

PROBE

At the request of Elko county commissioners, the state gaming control board launched an investigation and their report to the parent state gaming commission is expected soon.

The Elko gamblers say Jackpot is milking the economy of Twin Falls, 47 miles north, with free nightly bus trips to the gaiety.

And frankly, the Elko gamblers don't like the competition—they are 115 miles farther from the Idaho line.

The Jackpot gamblers won't say much in reply to the Elko criticism in hopes the issue may die. But they insist their busses carry Idahoans who wouldn't go to Elko anyhow just for one night.

Even some Salt Lake City people make the five-hour drive to Jackpot instead of Elko, which is 20 miles closer.

"We used to like Elko but it's gone commercial," said stone mason Keith Edward of Salt Lake during a Jackpot visit with his wife. "Here we have friends and enjoy an informal good time."

Some Twin Falls residents make the trip to Jackpot at least once a week: You can't buy a drink of hard liquor in Idaho on Sunday but the Jackpot clubs close for nothing except elections.

One short-statured Idaho shoe store owner comes to Jackpot every Saturday night. An obliging casino operator provides a box so he can reach over the crap table.

Jackpot had five casinos and one separate bar but the field was narrowed when Tex's Gateway Club burned last month at a loss of some $150,000.

Jackpotites had to stand and watch: There is no fire department.

PROJECT

A sewage plant is under construction and a $45,000 school will be built next spring for the 60-odd school-age children now bused to Contact, Nev., 18 miles away.

Six Jackpot families recently built houses, but most of the 400 residents live in trailers because the FHA and banks don't think Jackpot is here to stay and won't approve building loans.

"The pay here is better than most small Nevada casinos, about $20 a shift," says dealer Bob Crockett. "And you don't have to put up with a syndicate. It's a friendly place and no one minds if you're late to work once in a while."

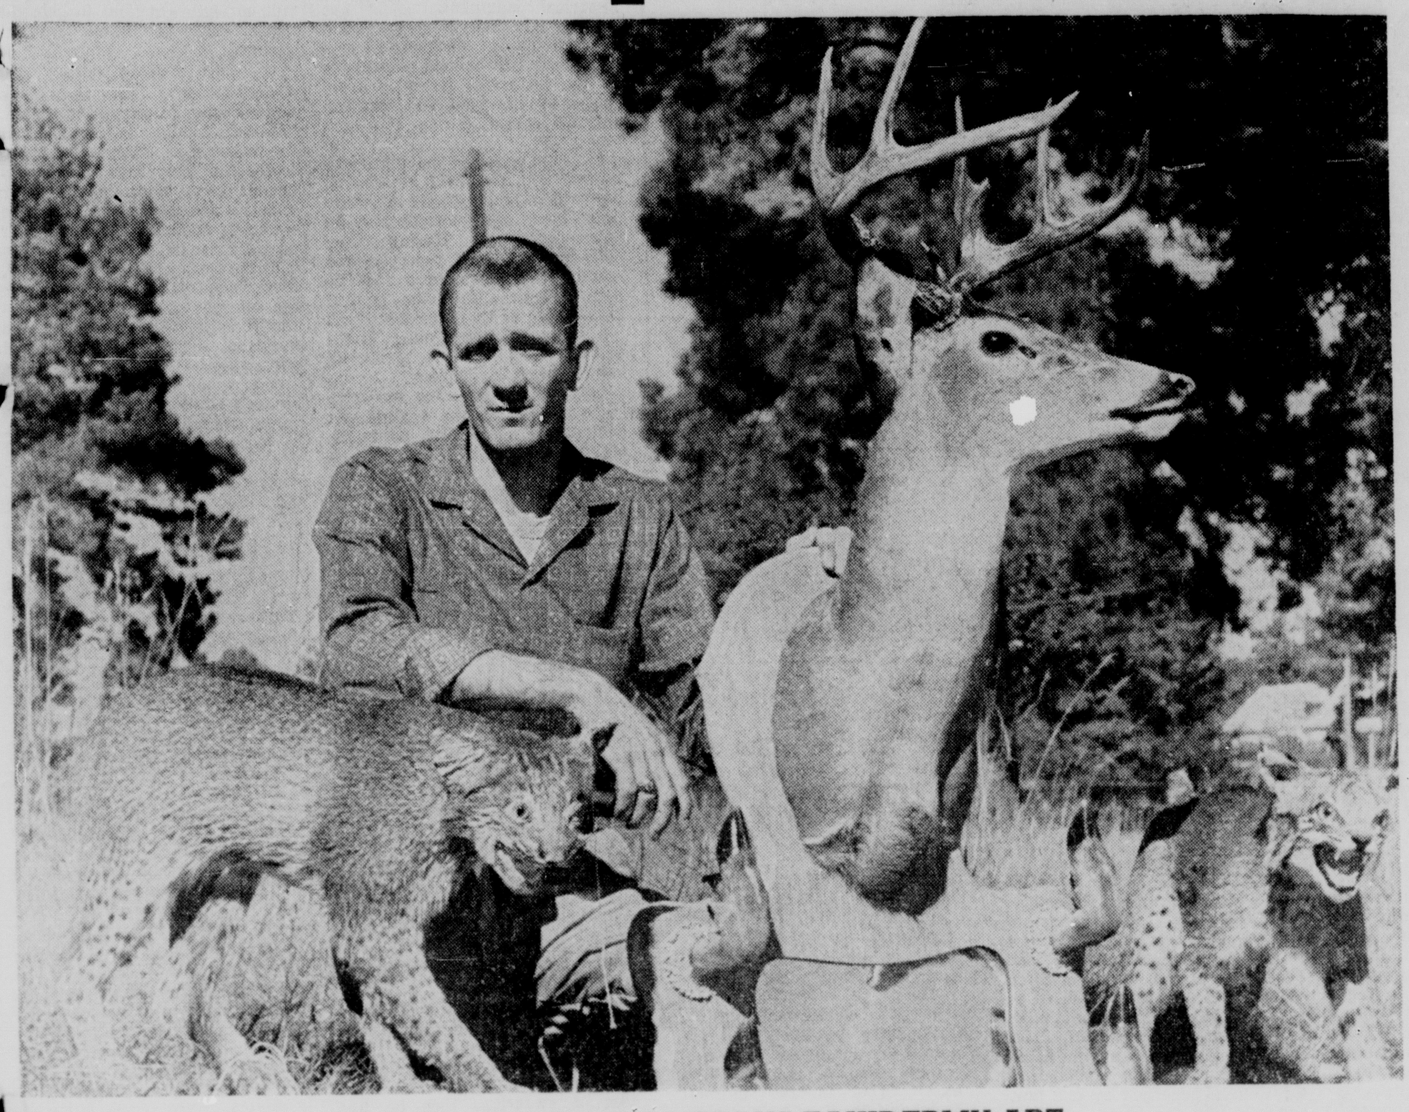

Recently the telephone company replaced Jackpot's ancient crank telephones with a modern variety and the Idaho Power Co. is installing a $100,000 sub station predicated on a major development.

American Education

The story of American education, like that of the fundamentals of freedom and patriotism, needs constant retelling. Aptly, this fact and many other important ones have been pointed out by the National Education Association.

Few of us know well enough this story of education. Yet, education directly involves more than one-half of all Americans and indirectly affects the lives, welfare, security and freedom of everyone.

Fortunately, most Americans have faith in education and believe that educated young people are better equipped for success in life, in every phase, than those who are uneducated.

The really important reason for believing in the value of education is that it can be the foundation of freedom.

In the first place, a truly democratic society must rest upon knowledge, intelligence and wisdom of all the people. Without the proper kind of education available to everyone, a free society cannot long endure. Therefore all people must be offered the kind of education that will fit them for freedom as responsible citizens.

In the second place, without the proper kind of education, the individual will not be able to develop his own powers as a person. He will not be able to give direction to his own action and thought as he may wish. He will not be able to decide wisely for himself what he should do or think.

Freedom from arbitrary restraint, from compulsion, or from tyranny, is essential for the free man, but that alone is not enough. If each person is to achieve the genuine freedom of self-education, he must have an education befitting a free man, and this education must be free from regimentation and central-government control.

The persistent question that runs through the story of American education is, "What kind of education will best develop the free citizen and the free person."

This question has been answered in different ways at different times. It is still being debated, vigorously and sometimes angrily. Widely split are the advocates of local control of education and those who believe that federal control, with eventual federal domination, is the answer.

The question of educational freedom is so important that every American — and, above all, every student and teacher—should make it his business to learn all he can about it.

A cooking-style recipe for conducting a good school reads as follows: place not more than 30 children in an attractive classroom, in a safe, well-planned building; add a teacher who is capable and well prepared; blend in plenty of good books and modern teaching aids; add safe school buses and ample space for play; leaven with a salary scale that is fair and decent and a good plan for teacher retirement; sprinkle generously with real appreciation from the community; season with your personal interest, cooperation and support; mix well for one year. Guaranteed results: happy, well-taught children. Serves one community well; very high in protein of citizenship.

This formula was prepared by the American Education Association but it seems highly commendable.

Because earth satellites were the first to soar into space, an inhabitant of Mars reportedly visitted the United States to find out what gave Americans their superior knowledge — to learn how American education exceeds that of the Martians. The Martian interviewed students, teachers, administrators and parents. From them he received the following answers on what makes American schools superior:

Students: Diversified curricula and quality preparation.

Teachers: good libraries, well equipped science laboratories, a variety of audio-visual and other teaching aids.

Administrators: Superior teachers, modern buildings, uncrowded classrooms, adequate equipment for instruction.

Parents: Uncrowded classrooms, faculties of well-prepared, conscientious, inspiring teachers, programs for all children — average, gifted, handicapped.

The things called for by all the groups demand expenditure of large sums of money. Undoubtedly, more money must be supplied if our educational demands are to be met.

If this money is to be spent, it should come through local and state sources, not through the federal government, since the most important thing we obtain through education — individual freedom of thought and action — would be lost under federal control and dictation. That we cannot afford nor endure.

Electronic "brains" can perform some marvelous feats but so far they have only been able to do what human brains have taught them to do.

There seems no likelihood that they will ever be able to do more than that.

Moving Out As It Closes In

Views Of Our Readers

Are We All To Be Bigots?

It seems that we have reached the point where some Americans cannot voice a sincere objection to an individual or principle without incurring the wrath of the press, radio and television, especially if the objection pertains to religion. They evidently entertain the idea which has long been propagated by a certain church which views any outside criticism of that church or its members as intolerance, prejudice and bigotry. An editorial in Life magazine (Sept. 12, 1960, p.32) goes so far as to call them barbarians and lunatics. In a written speech Kennedy charged that those who oppose him are prejudiced.

There are some who are no doubt prejudiced against Catholics, just as there are Catholics who are prejudiced against non-Catholics. This is regrettable. But is one a bigot or a lunatic simply because he opposes or objects to that which he sincerely believes to be wrong or unwise? If not, then why are millions of loyal Americans subjected to false accusations and vilification because of their sincere convictions? If one may criticise the position of a political party without becoming guilty of bigotry, may he not also oppose the position of a religious group without prejudice? Senator Kennedy and his aids admit that many will vote for him only because of his religious belief. Now if a Catholic can vote for him because he is a Catholic without becoming guilty of bigotry, why cannot a non - Catholic refuse to vote for him on the same basis without guilt? In an editorial in the Monroe (La.) Morning World, Oct. 23, the editor posed these questions: "Why should it be harder for a Catholic to vote against his religious beliefs than for a Protestant? Why should a Protestant who votes his beliefs be called a bigot when a Catholic who does the same thing is not? Either everyone is a bigot because he votes according to his faith, or no one is. There cannot be a double standard of bigotry."

Perhaps it never occurred to some people that one who opposes the Senator on religious grounds just might have valid reasons for his fears. They refuse to consider the objections, choosing rather to brand the person with "prejudice". Webster says that "prejudice" is . . . an opinion or leaning adverse to anything without just grounds or before sufficient knowledge." Many believe they have "just grounds" for opposing Mr. Kennedy. They have "sufficient knowledge" of the official position, political nature, and practice of the church to which he belongs to cause much concern, and which they sincerely believe justifies their opposition. If they have "just grounds" for opposing him, then they are not prejudiced, or bigots. The cause of their apprehension or distrust is found in the official position of the Catholic Church of which Mr. Kennedy says he is a "loyal member".

1. That church is political as well as religious. It is a so ereign power, with the Pope (head of the Church) as head of this Vatican State. It is a temporal state. It has a government of its own. It is not a democratic state, but a complete autocracy in which the legislative, executive and judicial power is vested in the Pope. It has a diplomatic corps, and receives diplomats from other nations. The Pope maintains a court and confers titles of nobility. This Vatican State is ruled by the same machinery that rules the religious aspect of that Church. It claims the right to use material and temporal means. All Catholics owe their allegiance to the head of this foreign political State. Many sincere Americans do not want a President whose allegiance is pledged to a foreign Dictator.

2. All Catholics must regard the voice of the Church and Pope as supreme. "The Roman Pontiff has from on high an authority which is supreme, above all others and subject to none." (Pope Pius XI, Light of Truth, p.5.) "Union of mind, therefore, requires together with a perfect accord in the one faith, complete submission and obedience of will to the Church and to the Roman Pontiff as to God Himself". (Pope Leo XIII, Great Ency. Letters, 304, 193.) Cardinal Gibbons, an American, says, "We see every member of the Church governed by one law, controlled by one voice, and that voice subject to God." (Faith of Our Fathers, p.153) The Third Plenary Council of Baltimore sanctioned the Roman Catholic profession of faith which includes this oath of allegiance: "And I pledge and swear true obedience to the Roman Pontiff, the vicar of Christ and successor of the blessed Peter, prince of the apostles." Question: How can Mr. Kennedy be "a loyal son of the Curch", true to his oath of allegance to the Pope, while at the same time vowing to reject the voice of the Church if it conflicts with his official duties? In a public statement later he did not say he would reject the voice of the Church, but that he would resign from the presidency in the event of a conflict. His statement was changed after the Vatican newspaper Osservatore Romano (May 18, 1960) issued the following official statement: "A Catholic can never exclude himself from the teaching and from the direction of the Church, but in every sector of his activity he must inspire his conduct, both private and public, by the law, by the teaching and instructions of the Hierarchy." Any Catholic who "refuses to be subject to the Supreme Pontiff, or have communication with the members of the Church subject to the Pope, he is a schismatic." (A Practical Commentary of the Code of Canon Law, New York, Canon 1325,p.108.) No thoughtful person, Catholic or non - Catholic, can believe that Mr. Kennedy would either resign from the presidency or reject the influence of his church.

3. Official attitude of the Catholic Church toward our public school system: "The first duty of every Catholic father to the public school is to keep his children out of it." (May An American Oppose the Public School?, Father Paul L. Blakely, S. J., American Press, enforced by the late Cardinal Hays.) "We, therefore, confirm our previous declaration and cannons forbidding the Catholic children to attend anti - Catholic, neutral or mixed schools, by the latter being meant those schools open equally to Catholic and non-Catholic alike." (Ency. of Pope Pius IX, in COMMONWEAL, Jan. 1930.) "It would be absurd to say that the Pope approves of our public school system." (Catholic Way in Education, Father William J. McGucken, S. J.)

4. Official voice of the Church regarding separation of Church and State: "The arguments by which we disprove the principle of separation of Church and State are conclusive . . Catholics cannot be too careful in defending themselves against such such a separation." (Pope Leo XIII, Great Ency. Letters, 160,262.) "Separation of Church and State . . is that negative, ill - defined, basically un - American formula, with all its overtones of religious prejudice." (Father John Courtenay Murry, in America, Feb. 15, 1947.) "It is clear, then, that no Catholic may positively and unconditionally approve of the policy of separation of Church and State." (The Liberal Illusion, Monsignor Geo. B. O'toole Professor of Philosophy, Catholic University of America, 1939.) Mr. Kennedy's plan for Federal aid to parochial schools (denominational schools) is in direct conflict with the U. S. Constitution. A Catholic definition of "separation of Church and State" is unacceptable to many. Please observe the following which is in violation of the First Amendment to the Constitution: When Edmund Muski was elected the first Roman Catholic governor of Maine, Catholics immediately stepped up with demands for bus transportation to Roman Catholic schools at public expense. Soon after Albert D. Rosellini (Catholic) was elected governor of Washington, a Catholic lobby began pushing for subsidies for parochial schools. In Iowa, under a second Roman Catholic governor, approval has been given to place garbed nuns on the public payrolls as teachers in public schools. There are now over 2,055 nuns and priests teaching in public schools, on public payrolls in the United States. Nineteen states now give free transportation to parochial school students, and at least five states furnish them free textbooks, all at public expense. In view of this, does one not have just cause for alarm?

5. Regarding our four freedoms: "From what has been said, it follows that it is quite unlawful to demand, to defend, or to grant unconditional freedom of thought, or speech, or writing or of worship, as if there were so many rights by nature to man." (Pope Leo XIII, Ency. Letter, Human Liberty,p.26, Paulist Press, New York.)

The First Amendment to the Constitution: "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press, or of the right of the people to peaceably assemble." Not only does that Church's position conflict with our freedoms, its practices demonstrate its official attitude toward religious freedom. In such countries as Italy, Spain, Argentina, Colombia and Mexico, where Catholics are in the majority and control the State, other religions are suppressed - religious freedom does not exist. In Mexico a weekly religious program over XERF was discontinued July 1960 because the speaker criticised the Catholic Church. Many documented accounts of Catholic efforts to suppress freedom of speech here in America can be given, even going so far as to enter a non - Catholic Church Building during worship and breaking up the services. Having "sufficient knowledge" of Catholic history many people are afraid to trust a "loyal son of the Church" in the White House.

6. Oath of public office: "There is a difference between a religious and a legal oath . . If he announced a formula that expresses an oath, without the intention of swearing, then he has sworn nothing." "The truth we proclaim under oath is relative and not absolute." (Explanation of Catholic Morals, 128,130.) Now how can one be sure that Mr. Kennedy means what he says when he takes an oath of public office?

7. Regarding mental reservation or lying: "When impertinent people, either maliciously or stupidly, endeaver to wrest these secrets from us, we are perfectly justified in using mental reservation to meet their rude and ill - bred questioning . . Mental reservation is allowable only when he is driven into a corner by captious questions about a matter which he knows perfectly but does not choose to tell the truth." (Manual of Christian Doctrine, 447.) "So that a false statement knowingly made to one who has not a right to the truth will not be a lie." (Cat. Ency. Vol. IX, p.471.) Has the Senator employed this doctrine when confronting the press, and when he faced the Houston ministers?

8. The Catholic Church is prone to meddle in political affairs. Example, Puerto Rico, and the Pastoral letters forbidding Catholics to vote for a certain party. "Vatican Upholds Ban in Puerto Rico Vote" (Associated Press)

9. Claims Church never changes: "The Church cannot err in her teachings". "If only one instance could be given in which the Church ceased to teach a doctrine of faith which had previously been held, that single instance would be the death blow to her claim to infallibility". (Cardinal Gibbons, an American, Faith of Our Fathers, 83rd. ed., p.66,74.) Hence, no American church official will dare deny the above quoted official position of that Church. We have not heard of one doing it.

It is true that many American Catholics have publicly affirmed belief in our Constitutional freedoms. However, it should be remembered that layman pronouncements are not the official voice of the church, and are worthless as far as church doctrine is concerned.

We would that the Catholic Church had come out and endorced our freedoms, but it has not, and will not. We do not oppose a mere man, but a principle which endangers religious freedom. We wonder if Mr. Norman Vincent Peale, who avows his opposition to the Roman Catholic system and who pledges no allegiance to it whatsoever, could be pressured to change as he has changed, what will a man who pledges his allegiance to Roman Catholic hierarchy be able to do though he now proudly declares that he will not surrender? As for this writer, he intends to continue to speak out against any encroachment upon his freedom, or anything which looks like it. If one chooses to label this as prejudice or bigotry, let him make the most of it.

TOO MANY AMENDMENTS

To The Editor:

I have just read your rather lengthy, but timely, editorial in your Nov. 9th issue of The Morning World. I had mentioned some of the difficulties to which you refer to a few people before I went to the polls yesterday to vote. The problem that concerned me most, I think, was: How can I inform myself sufficiently as to the merits of these amendments so as to vote intelligently on them? I had read a few of the letters from the people that you had published in your paper, some of which advocated some of the amendments while objecting to others; while other writers would take just the opposite view. Not having any time nor opportunity to inform myself, I did just what you say that many, probably, did; I voted against the whole batch. Considering the (to me) unusually large number of amendments being offered to the voters to be passed on by them at one time, I had remarked to a few friends of mine before election time came, that it seemed to me that what the State needs is a new constitution.

I have made some effort by research in our Local Library here in Rayville to inform myself concerning our State Constitution. As you indicate in your editorial, I found such a confused mass of legal enactments that I have not yet been able to find what the original constitution was, or is.

Another big question that has been raised in my mind, after reading of the action of the present "special session" of our State Legislature, is: What has become of the doctrine of local self - government in our State? Oh, I know how many of our citizens harp on the idea of "states rights", and I think I know pretty well just what they mean by that term; but I am thinking of what the doctrine means on the within - the - state level. Just how far might this idea, now put into legal enactment by the Legislature, and called by our law makers: "interposition", - just how far, I say, might this thing go? and where will it stop? If the State, through its law making body, has the right to step in and say to the Federal Government, and that without any recourse to the courts (State or Federal): "You can't do this in our State": — if the State Legislature has the right to go into a community, as this "Special Session" has gone into the City of New Orleans, and "assessed", as they call it, which is just little milder term than "fired", out of office the school board, elected by the people of that city, why would not the same Legislature have the right to come into Rayville, for instance, and fire the City Council and the Mayor; or any other local officials that they might think could stand in the way of their working their will here?

I have grave forebodings for the future for any people whose government is grounded primarily on prejudice. How easy it is for such a government to be converted into a dictatorship! That is exactly what happened in Germany back in the 30's; and that is exactly the kind of situation out of which a Hitler can rise.

Has Louisiana again seceded from the Union?

MY PRAYER

I SAID a silent prayer last night . . . And it was said for you . . . And now with all my heart I pray . . . That it will soon come true . . . I prayed for sunshine in your life . . . And only sprinkling rain . . . That over all the years to come . . . Your path will smooth remain . . . I also prayed for quite a while . . . That every special friend . . . Who cherishes your gentle smile . . . Is with you to the end . . . Included in my prayer last night . . . As you might know would be . . . There was a very small request . . . Of favor just for me . . . For as I closed my silent prayer . . . I turned to God above . . . And asked that He would also now . . . Bestow on me your love.

How Do You Stand, Sir?

BARRY GOLDWATER
SENATOR FROM ARIZONA

On Tuesday last the free people of the Republic of the United States exercised the priceless privilege of franchise and rendered their decision. Senator John Kennedy is President - elect of this nation. History will render its decision on that judgement. In a broader and more meaningful sense, you and I as individuals who participated in that decision must also stand before the bar of historical judgment.

No single individual or group of individuals, no single political party will be held responsible by the historians for what transpires in this land and throughout the world during the next four years.

It would seem to me that, confronted with the awful responsibility which is his, John Kennedy must have aged considerably in hours between the closing of the polls and the final report of the results. I am convinced that no man will ever face the fact of his election as the President of all the people of the United States without experiencing a feeling of humility and inadequacy.

Let us then examine our own responsibility. In the heat of the campaign, there were intemperate statements by partisans on both sides. You and I must believe that John Kennedy loves this nation, that he is incapable of knowingly or willingly permitting any action of his, or of his administration, to result in a deterioration of those values we cherish.

Jack Kennedy has demonstrated his patriotism, and we who opposed his election did so, I would hope, only because we believed the principles and programs of the Republican Party offered a more practical defense of the freedoms we cherish.

Jack Kennedy is certainly as strongly opposed to the ideology of communism as we are. The evil in the communist concept of man offends him as strongly as it offends you and me. That he has chosen different methods of opposition and offers different programs to enable the free world to triumph must not lead us into the fatal error of condemning his motives.

It is precisely at this point where, I believe, we who are conservative must now increase our efforts. We must become the vigilant, intelligent and the reasonable opposition. We must not permit our future actions to give the world cause to believe we are divided.

We must, I would suggest, continue to offer our arguments without resentment or bitterness. We can, I think, be confident in the belief that all men seek the truth, that only men of inconsequence cling stubbornly to error and that the dynamics of freedom is strong enough to triumph over partisan prejudice.

In the Book of Common Prayer, there is an expression of hope for the church which I would reverently suggest might be in the minds of all men as we regard our nation:

O gracious Father, we humbly beseech Thee for Thy holy universal church, that Thou wouldst be pleased to fill it with all truth and all peace; where it is corrupt, purify it; where it is in error, direct it; where in anything it is amiss, reform it; where it is in want, provide for it; where it is right, establish it; where it is divided, reunite it; for the sake of Him who died and rose again and ever liveth to make intercession for us, Jesus Christ, Thy son, our Lord. Amen.

Truly we believe God's purpose is enduring — that governments being created by men must not command our first loyalty — yet do we not also believe that this government of ours was created by men who sought to further the purpose of God's creation?

Can we not in conscience and humility offer this same prayer for the people and institutions of this land? How do you stand, sir?

American Education

The story of American education, like that of the fundamentals of freedom and patriotism, needs constant retelling. Aptly, this fact and many other important ones have been pointed out by the National Education Association.

Few of us know well enough this story of education. Yet, education directly involves more than one-half of all Americans and indirectly affects the lives, welfare, security and freedom of everyone.

Fortunately, most Americans have faith in education and believe that educated young people are better equipped for success in life, in every phase, than those who are uneducated.

The really important reason for believing in the value of education is that it can be the foundation of freedom.

In the first place, a truly democratic society must rest upon knowledge, intelligence and wisdom of all the people. Without the proper kind of education available to everyone, a free society cannot long endure. Therefore all people must be offered the kind of education that will fit them for freedom as responsible citizens.

In the second place, without the proper kind of education, the individual will not be able to develop his own powers as a person. He will not be able to give direction to his own action and thought as he may wish. He will not be able to decide wisely for himself what he should do or think.

Freedom from arbitrary restraint, from compulsion, or from tyranny, is essential for the free man, but that alone is not enough. If each person is to achieve the genuine freedom of self-education, he must have an education befitting a free man, and this education must be free from regimentation and central-government control.

The persistent question that runs through the story of American education is, "What kind of education will best develop the free citizen and the free person."

This question has been answered in different ways at different times. It is still being debated, vigorously and sometimes angrily. Widely split are the advocates of local control of education and those who believe that federal control, with eventual federal domination, is the answer.

The question of educational freedom is so important that every American — and, above all, every student and teacher—should make it his business to learn all he can about it.

The cause of their apprehension or distrust is found in the official position of the Catholic Church of which Mr. Kennedy says he is a "loyal member".

1. That church is political as well as religious. It is a so ereign power, with the Pope (head of the Church) as head of this Vatican State. It is a temporal state. It has a government of its own. It is not a democratic state, but a complete autocracy in which the legislative, executive and judicial power is vested in the Pope. It has a diplomatic corps, and receives diplomats from other nations. The Pope maintains a court and confers titles of nobility. This Vatican State is ruled by the same machinery that rules the religious aspect of that Church. It claims the right to use material and temporal means. All Catholics owe their allegiance to the head of this foreign political State. Many sincere Americans do not want a President whose allegiance is pledged to a foreign Dictator.

2. All Catholics must regard the voice of the Church and Pope as supreme. "The Roman Pontiff has from on high an authority which is supreme, above all others and subject to none." (Pope Pius XI, Light of Truth, p.5.) "Union of mind, therefore, requires together with a perfect accord in the one faith, complete submission and obedience of will to the Church and to the Roman Pontiff as to God Himself". (Pope Leo XIII, Great Ency. Letters, 304, 193.) Cardinal Gibbons, an American, says, "We see every member of the Church governed by one law, controlled by one voice, and that voice subject to God." (Faith of Our Fathers, p.153) The Third Plenary Council of Baltimore sanctioned the Roman Catholic profession of faith which includes this oath of allegiance: "And I pledge and swear true obedience to the Roman Pontiff, the vicar of Christ and successor of the blessed Peter, prince of the apostles." Question: How can Mr. Kennedy be "a loyal son of the Curch", true to his oath of allegance to the Pope, while at the same time vowing to reject the voice of the Church if it conflicts with his official duties? In a public statement later he did not say he would reject the voice of the Church, but that he would resign from the presidency in the event of a conflict. His statement was changed after the Vatican newspaper Osservatore Romano (May 18, 1960) issued the following official statement: "A Catholic can never exclude himself from the teaching and from the direction of the Church, but in every sector of his activity he must inspire his conduct, both private and public, by the law, by the teaching and instructions of the Hierarchy." Any Catholic who "refuses to be subject to the Supreme Pontiff, or have communication with the members of the Church subject to the Pope, he is a schismatic." (A Practical Commentary of the Code of Canon Law, New York, Canon 1325,p.108.) No thoughtful person, Catholic or non - Catholic, can believe that Mr. Kennedy would either resign from the presidency or reject the influence of his church.

3. Official attitude of the Catholic Church toward our public school system: "The first duty of every Catholic father to the public school is to keep his children out of it." (May An American Oppose the Public School?, Father Paul L. Blakely, S. J., American Press, enforced by the late Cardinal Hays.) "We, therefore, confirm our previous declaration and cannons forbidding the Catholic children to attend anti - Catholic, neutral or mixed schools, by the latter being meant those schools open equally to Catholic and non-Catholic alike." (Ency. of Pope Pius IX, in COMMONWEAL, Jan. 1930.) "It would be absurd to say that the Pope approves of our public school system." (Catholic Way in Education, Father William J. McGucken, S. J.)

4. Official voice of the Church regarding separation of Church and State: "The arguments by which we disprove the principle of separation of Church and State are conclusive . . Catholics cannot be too careful in defending themselves against such a separation." (Pope Leo XIII, Great Ency. Letters, 160,262.) "Separation of Church and State . . is that negative, ill - defined, basically un - American formula, with all its overtones of religious prejudice." (Father John Courtenay Murry, in America, Feb. 15, 1947.) "It is clear, then, that no Catholic may positively and unconditionally approve of the policy of separation of Church and State." (The Liberal Illusion, Monsignor Geo. B. O'toole Professor of Philosophy, Catholic University of America, 1939.) Mr. Kennedy's plan for Federal aid to parochial schools (denominational schools) is in direct conflict with the U. S. Constitution. A Catholic definition of "separation of Church and State" is unacceptable to many. Please observe the following which is in violation of the First Amendment to the Constitution: When Edmund Muski was elected the first Roman Catholic governor of Maine, Catholics immediately stepped up with demands for bus transportation to Roman Catholic schools at public expense. Soon after Albert D. Rosellini (Catholic) was elected governor of Washington, a Catholic lobby began pushing for subsidies for parochial schools. In Iowa, under a second Roman Catholic governor, approval has been given to place garbed nuns on the public payrolls as teachers in public schools. There are now over 2,055 nuns and priests teaching in public schools, on public payrolls in the United States. Nineteen states now give free transportation to parochial school students, and at least five states furnish them free textbooks, all at public expense. In view of this, does one not have just cause for alarm?

5. Regarding our four freedoms: "From what has been said, it follows that it is quite unlawful to demand, to defend, or to grant unconditional freedom of thought, or speech, or writing or of worship, as if there were so many rights by nature to man." (Pope Leo XIII, Ency. Letter, Human Liberty,p.26, Paulist Press, New York.)

The First Amendment to the Constitution: "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press, or of the right of the people to peaceably assemble." Not only does that Church's position conflict with our freedoms, its practices demonstrate its official attitude toward religious freedom. In such countries as Italy, Spain, Argentina, Colombia and Mexico, where Catholics are in the majority and control the State, other religions are suppressed - religious freedom does not exist. In Mexico a weekly religious program over XERF was discontinued July 1960 because the speaker criticised the Catholic Church. Many documented accounts of Catholic efforts to suppress freedom of speech here in America can be given, even going so far as to enter a non - Catholic Church Building during worship and breaking up the services. Having "sufficient knowledge" of Catholic history many people are afraid to trust a "loyal son of the Church" in the White House.

6. Oath of public office: "There is a difference between a religious and a legal oath . . If he announced a formula that expresses an oath, without the intention of swearing, then he has sworn nothing." "The truth we proclaim under oath is relative and not absolute." (Explanation of Catholic Morals, 128,130.) Now how can one be sure that Mr. Kennedy means what he says when he takes an oath of public office?

7. Regarding mental reservation or lying: "When impertinent people, either maliciously or stupidly, endeaver to wrest these secrets from us, we are perfectly justified in using mental reservation to meet their rude and ill - bred questioning . . Mental reservation is allowable only when he is driven into a corner by captious questions about a matter which he knows perfectly but does not choose to tell the truth." (Manual of Christian Doctrine, 447.) "So that a false statement knowingly made to one who has not a right to the truth will not be a lie." (Cat. Ency. Vol. IX, p.471.) Has the Senator employed this doctrine when confronting the press, and when he faced the Houston ministers?

8. The Catholic Church is prone to meddle in political affairs. Example, Puerto Rico, and the Pastoral letters forbidding Catholics to vote for a certain party. "Vatican Upholds Ban in Puerto Rico Vote" (Associated Press)

9. Claims Church never changes: "The Church cannot err in her teachings". "If only one instance could be given in which the Church ceased to teach a doctrine of faith which had previously been held, that single instance would be the death blow to her claim to infallibility". (Cardinal Gibbons, an American, Faith of Our Fathers, 83rd. ed., p.66,74.) Hence, no American church official will dare deny the above quoted official position of that Church. We have not heard of one doing it.

It is true that many American Catholics have publicly affirmed belief in our Constitutional freedoms. However, it should be remembered that layman pronouncements are not the official voice of the church, and are worthless as far as church doctrine is concerned.

We would that the Catholic Church had come out and endorced our freedoms, but it has not, and will not. We do not oppose a mere man, but a principle which endangers religious freedom. We wonder if Mr. Norman Vincent Peale, who avows his opposition to the Roman Catholic system and who pledges no allegiance to it whatsoever, could be pressured to change as he has changed, what will a man who pledges his allegiance to Roman Catholic hierarchy be able to do though he now proudly declares that he will not surrender? As for this writer, he intends to continue to speak out against any encroachment upon his freedom, or anything which looks like it. If one chooses to label this as prejudice or bigotry, let him make the most of it.

TOO MANY AMENDMENTS

To The Editor:

I have just read your rather lengthy, but timely, editorial in your Nov. 9th issue of The Morning World. I had mentioned some of the difficulties to which you refer to a few people before I went to the polls yesterday to vote. The problem that concerned me most, I think, was: How can I inform myself sufficiently as to the merits of these amendments so as to vote intelligently on them? I had read a few of the letters from the people that you had published in your paper, some of which advocated some of the amendments while objecting to others; while other writers would take just the opposite view. Not having any time nor opportunity to inform myself, I did just what you say that many, probably, did; I voted against the whole batch. Considering the (to me) unusually large number of amendments being offered to the voters to be passed on by them at one time, I had remarked to a few friends of mine before election time came, that it seemed to me that what the State needs is a new constitution.

I have made some effort by research in our Local Library here in Rayville to inform myself concerning our State Constitution. As you indicate in your editorial, I found such a confused msss of legal enactments that I have not yet been able to find what the original constitution was, or is.

Another big question that has been raised in my mind, after reading of the action of the present "special session" of our State Legislature, is: What has become of the doctrine of local self - government in our State? Oh, I know how many of our citizens harp on the idea of "states rights", and I think I know pretty well just what they mear by that term; but I am thinking of what the doctrine means on the within - the - state level. Just how far might this idea, now put into legal enactment by the Legislature, and called by our law makers: "interposition", - just how far, I say, might this thing go? and where will it stop? If the State, through its law making body, has the right to step in and say to the Federal Government, and that without any recourse to the courts (State or Federal): "You can't do this in our State": — if the State Legislature has the right to go into a community, as this "Special Session" has gone into the City of New Orleans, and "assessed", as they call it, which is just little milder term than "fired", out of office the school board, elected by the people of that city, why would not the same Legislature have the right to come into Rayville, for instance, and fire the City Council and the Mayor; or any other local officials that they might think could stand in the way of their working their will here?

I have grave forebodings for the future for any people whose government is grounded primarily on prejudice. How easy it is for such a government to be converted into a dictatorship! That is exactly what happened in Germany back in the 30's; and that is exactly the kind of situation out of which a Hitler can rise.

Has Louisiana again seceded from the Union?

MY PRAYER

I SAID a silent prayer last night . . . And it was said for you . . . And now with all my heart I pray . . . That it will soon come true . . . I prayed for sunshine in your life . . . And only sprinkling rain . . . That over all the years to come . . . Your path will smooth remain . . . I also prayed for quite a while . . . That every special friend . . . Who cherishes your gentle smile . . . Is with you to the end . . . Included in my prayer last night . . . As you might know would be . . . There was a very small request . . . Of favor just for me . . . For as I closed my silent prayer . . . I turned to God above . . . And asked that He would also now . . . Bestow on me your love.

How Do You Stand, Sir?

BARRY GOLDWATER
SENATOR FROM ARIZONA

On Tuesday last the free people of the Republic of the United States exercised the priceless privilege of franchise and rendered their decision. Senator John Kennedy is President - elect of this nation. History will render its decision on that judgement. In a broader and more meaningful sense, you and I as individuals who participated in that decision must also stand before the bar of historical judgment.

No single individual or group of individuals, no single political party will be held responsible by the historians for what transpires in this land and throughout the world during the next four years.

It would seem to me that, confronted with the awful responsibility which is his, John Kennedy must have aged considerably in hours between the closing of the polls and the final report of the results. I am convinced that no man will ever face the fact of his election as the President of all the people of the United States without experiencing a feeling of humility and inadequacy.

Let us then examine our own responsibility. In the heat of the campaign, there were intemperate statements by partisans on both sides. You and I must believe that John Kennedy loves this nation, that he is incapable of knowingly or willingly permitting any action of his, or of his administration, to result in a deterioration of those values we cherish.

Jack Kennedy has demonstrated his patriotism, and we who opposed his election did so, I would hope, only because we believed the principles and programs of the Republican Party offered a more practical defense of the freedoms we cherish.

Jack Kennedy is certainly as strongly opposed to the ideology of communism as we are. The evil in the communist concept of man offends him as strongly as it offends you and me. That he has chosen different methods of opposition and offers different programs to enable the free world to triumph must not lead us into the fatal error of condemning his motives.

It is precisely at this point where, I believe, we who are conservative must now increase our efforts. We must become the vigilant, intelligent and the reasonable opposition. We must not permit our future actions to give the world cause to believe we are divided.

We must, I would suggest, continue to offer our arguments without resentment or bitterness. We can, I think, be confident in the belief that all men seek the truth, that only men of inconsequence cling stubbornly to error and that the dynamics of freedom is strong enough to triumph over partisan prejudice.

In the Book of Common Prayer, there is an expression of hope for the church which I would reverently suggest might be in the minds of all men as we regard our nation:

O gracious Father, we humbly beseech Thee for Thy holy universal church, that Thou wouldst be pleased to fill it with all truth and all peace; where it is corrupt, purify it; where it is in error, direct it; where in anything it is amiss, reform it; where it is in want, provide for it; where it is right, establish it; where it is divided, reunite it; for the sake of Him who died and rose again and ever liveth to make intercession for us, Jesus Christ, Thy son, our Lord. Amen.

Truly we believe God's purpose is enduring — that governments being created by men must not command our first loyalty — yet do we not also believe that this government of ours was created by men who sought to further the purpose of God's creation?

Can we not in conscience and humility offer this same prayer for the people and institutions of this land? How do you stand, sir?

MARCH OF SCIENCE

Prehistoric Record Of Human Occupation Found

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — A prehistoric record of human occupation in the Grand Canyon is opening new horizons of exploration for American archeologists.

The record dates back nearly 3,500 years, but only recently has any methodical work been done to study the American Indians who first undertook to live in the canyon's rugged environment.

Back in 1929 some pictures were made of corn granaries in caves along the canyon walls, but it wasn't until 20 years later that the real story of the canyon's human past began to unfold.

The man responsible for the work is Dr. Douglas W. Schwartz, director of the University of Kentucky Museum of Anthropology.

Schwartz started surveying the area in 1949 and in 1954 discovered in caves some animal figurines made from soft twigs.

Ritual spears were stuck through some of the figurines, indicating their Indian makers hoped to better their chances in hunting through magic.

Radiocarbon tests showed the figurines were made about 1,500 B. C. This age test is based on the fact that all living things absorb Carbon 14 during life and that the radioactive isotope deteriorates at a known rate after death.

This summer Schwartz made his sixth trip into the canyon and found more granaries, a boulder covered with stone carvings, thousands of pottery fragments and remains of about 50 pueblos.

Schwartz, 33, describes the canyon's human past from the information now available.

The first Indians came to the Grand Canyon about 3,500 years ago and lived by hunting.

The figurines tell more about their religion than is known about many other prehistoric religions, although little is known about their everyday life.

The Grand Canyon figurines apparently served as religious symbols in rituals to promote good hunting.

After 1,500 B. C., the canyon records are blank, and the next date that enters the picture is about 500 A. D., when agricultural Indians arrived.

They came in from different areas and were not related. This moving-in period lasted until about 900 A. D.

Then came a population explosion and the Indians began to move into the canyon from the rims. This migration was at its peak by 1000 A. D., and a century later the rims were abandoned.

The major Indian occupation of the Grand Canyon was from 1000 A. D. to 1200 A. D., when the entire canyon again was abandoned except for a small area inhabited by the Havasupi Indians, who still live there.

Evidence indicates the Havasupai started moving into the towering cliffs by 1100 A. D., perhaps to escape raids, then moved back down into the valley when the others left.

The first European contact with them was made by a Franciscan missionary in 1776.

Schwartz says the shift from the rims into the canyon was the result of a possible change in rainfall, possible population pressure or pressure from nomads.

Before 1200 B. C. Schwartz says there may have been more rain in the Grand Canyon area, adding there seems to have been adequate water for farming until that time.

Under present conditions, he says, the canyon could not support a population as large as that during the major occupation period.

The animal life has changed only slightly from the days of the prehistoric Indian inhabitants off the grand canyon. Animals still found there include mountain sheep, beavers, antelope and mountain lions.

Many questions remain to be answered about the canyon indians. One is the effect the canyon's rugged environment had on agriculture.

There also is the question of their relation to other Indians, the problem of adjustment to a new environment and the extremes human beings will face for survival.

The carvings include a scorpion, the outline of human footprints and a number of curled lines.

They may have been part of the magic ritual for hunting and protection—or they may have been only art work.

Apartments Sprout Like Mushrooms

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union has gone on such a building spree to get its population into acceptable living quarters that apartment houses are sprouting like mushrooms.

Not all the building is good. Some of it is well nigh inacceptable even by Soviet standards.

In Moscow new blocks of 60 apartments are being completed at the rate of one a day, said V. Lagutenko, chief engineer of the Moscow Department of Architecture and Planning.

But in the same breath he said some of the new blocks leaked water through the roof and sound through the walls. There have been some improvements.

The seven-year plan for Moscow is to have 700,000 new flats by 1965. This city is setting the pace for other cities in developing streamline production, but Leningrad isn't far behind. Everywhere else it is dragging.

The construction methods are more fascinating than the apartments. In Moscow whole rooms prefabricated from reinforced concrete are hoisted into place all in a piece. When it comes turn for the bathroom, some of the piping and plumbing often is already attached. But most of the rooms go into place one wall at a time.

Leningrad has gone one better. There the 10 main supporting pillars of a block of flats were erected. On top of each was mounted a powerful hydraulic jack. Four floors and a roof, all prefabricated, were laid out on the ground between the uprights. The jacks hoisted them into position, the roof first, then the successive floors. When it was finished, helicopters came along and lifted the big jacks off the top of the supporting pillars. Walls were installed next.

The construction is not good by western standards.

The owner of one Moscow flat moved a dressing table against a partition and a corner of it showed up through the wall in the next room.

But speed is the thing, because housing is badly needed. Many cities were smashed during the war, and cities here are growing crazily fast.

The aim of the current seven-year plan is 15 million flats by 1965. That, says V. A. Kucherenko, chairman of the Soviet State House Building Committee equals 100 cities of 250,000 each. This will take some hurrying, for already the bottlenecks are beginning to show up.

The country was supposed to build 122 plants during 1959-60 for prefabricating walls, pillars and ceilings. Instead only 20 were built during 1959 and the first half of 1960.

Civil War Story Said Magnificent

THE AMERICAN HERITAGE PICTURE HISTORY OF THE CIVIL WAR. American Heritage. $19.95.

To be blunt about it, this is a magnificent book — a pleasure to read and a joy to behold. Two years of effort and $2 million went into the production and the result justifies time and expense in ample measure.

There have been many histories of the Civil War, but never one like this. In scope of text — a panorama of war and its complementary conflicts in economics, politics and social areas—and in pictorial splendor, it is in a class by itself.

Bruce Catton, who is close to becoming identified in the popular mind as "Mr. Civil War," wrote the narrative and that fact is enough to warrant that it is eloquent and moving. There are no sensations in it — nor should there be, for sensation is not within the province of the work — but it is a thorough treatment and the writing has the fluidity of expression that is peculiarly Catton's.

Yet, good though it is, Catton's text must be regarded as secondary to the illustrations. The true magnetism of the book is in 83[illegible] pictures — wash drawings, water colors, etchings, photographs, lithographs and posters, one-third of them in color.

Many of the illustrations never before have been published. In the aggregate, they offer a rare panorama of the period that, as Catton has written, was our greatest emotional experience as a nation.

The maps are striking — artistic birdseye views of the battlefields on which troop movements are depicted with unusual clarity. Even more striking is a group of color photos of Civil War battlefields, taken today but at the season and hour and in the weather of the battles. There are 84 such photos and the cameramen have blurred or avoided all signs of modernity, so that they startlingly catch the mood and atmosphere of the fields of war.

The editors of American Heritage have made a superb contribution to the war's centennial literature.

Reflections Of An Author On 'Africa'

TOURIST IN AFRICA. By Evelyn Waugh. Little, Brown. $3.75.

"I have to winter abroad," says this English author, and at the start of 1959 he set out from chilly London for Genoa, Port Said, Tanganyika and the Rhodesias, Cape Town and then Southampton and home just in time for spring.

This is a record of people from Stanley to contemporary native leaders, and there are cutting reflections on the gifts bestowed by whites on blacks, the "pacification" by Europeans of Africa, and race prejudice. But mostly this rounds up an infinite number of intimate oddities — women cook meals, officials wear open shirts, shorts and monocle, the plumber stays to dinner, the elephant twitches its ears menacingly at the autoists, signs urge modest dress instead of Bikinis on the European ladies who a generation before covered black nakedness with Mother Hubbards.

It's the informality of this account that will charm you most. If it tells who took the 19 photos, I missed it; but the photographer could have been too ashamed to admit it.

RUNNING THE SCALES

With JOHN CALE

Wednesday and Thursday will climax intensive three-week rehearsals of the Las Vegas Follies, a local talent production of the Monroe Junior Charity League.

The two performances have been set for 8 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday at Neville High School. Featured among the colorful song and dance tableaux will be an authentic Charleston routine by a troup of veterans from the follies production of an earlier day.

Money from the ticket sales will go to the League's community project fund. Principal expenditures are earmarked for equipment for a proposed hard of hearing school in the Monroe City School system.

Along with its value as a civic service, the "follies" effort affords an outlet for a bit of the exhibitionist living dormant within the hard working young women who make up the League's committees.

It is understood a number of them have drafted their husbands and family members to provide the male components of the all "Las Vegas" cast.

ON THE BOARDS

"The Moon is Blue" production at Neville last Friday sponsored by the Northeast Louisiana Shrine Club was the first attempt in a number of years for a service club to attempt a fund raising project with a professional play.

In the local field of student dramatics, the Northeast State College department of speech will present "Ghosts" by Henrik Ibsen tomorrow and Tuesday.

The student production will be held in the Fine Arts auditorium on the Northeast campus and curtain time is 8 p.m. for both performances, according to George Brian, director.

Ibsen is considered the father of modern drama, and the play, "Ghosts," is an early example of the middle class family tragedy. The play, written in 1881, is considered a classic on par with many of the works of Shakespeare and Molliere.

Following the Northeast Concerts series presentation of "Amahl and the Night Visitors," a return engagement of the modern version of the Christmas story on November 28, the Louisiana Tech series will present Mozart's "Don Giovanni," on the 29th.

Here are two operas in two successive days in northeast Louisiana, located over 2,000 miles from New York's Metropolitan Opera House. And it might be added that the new stretch of the I-20 federal highway between Calhoun and Ruston puts the Lincoln Parish seat just beyond West Monroe.

YOUTH ORCHESTRA

Coming up December 10 is the year's first concert by the Monroe Youth Orchestra. This organization is made up of 40 players from the string music program of the city school system. According to Eloy Fominaya, director of the group and faculty member at Northeast, there are about 120 string students in the city's elementary, junior high and high schools who compete to enter the youth symphony. Instructors are Miss Johnnie Bankhead and Howard Jackson.

Violin soloist for the first youth concert, set tentatively for 1:30 p.m. at Neville auditorium, will be Phyllis Middleton. Incidentally, the Youth Orchestra is another community project of the Monroe Junior Charity League.

As Kraft Sees It

Child's World In Art

KANSAS CITY, (AP) — Recently, during a heavy thunderstorm in the predawn hours, a long figure roamed the fairways of a Kansas City golf course exultmg in the beauty of it all.

Artist Arthur Kraft considered it a natural thing to do. In fact, he woundered why more people weren't there at 3 a.m. to see the spectacular display of lightning and driving rain.

"So much beauty goes to waste because people don't bother to look," says Kraft, who peers at life with the wide-eyed wonderment of a child. "Sometimes I want to shake people and say, 'look up, look up, see how beautiful it all is!

"I think like a child. What wonderful things they see. How easily they discard the ugly."

The child-view world of 39-year-old Arthur Kraft, displayed through the craftsmanship of an adult, has put a menagerie of happy animals into the antiseptic beauty that is modern architecture.

At the entrance of the children's wing of Kansas City's new public library a whimsical parade of tile-formed creatures beckons young readers.

Detroit's mammoth new Northland shopping center is graced with Kraftian animals: a brass and rod pussy cat; a laughing elephant joyfully waving his trunk and forelegs.

Most of Kraft's sculpture is designed not only to look beautiful, but also to be climbed on, sat on and generally enjoyed by children.

"I don't like things with little fences around them that say 'stay off the art'," he says.

Kraft prefers to work with architecture because "art is something to be lived with every day, like food and water. It shouldn't be hung away to be tasted seldom, if at all."

Typically Kraft is the 35-foot library mural facing the street in the Kansas City civic center area. Done entirely in translucent glass tiles imported from Italy—each tile less than a half inch wide — the mural's 80 colors and hundreds of subtle shadings blend into a dazzling and traffic-stopping panorama of color.

It has become quite a game among passers-by to find all the animals hidden in the trees and brush in the mural.

Kraft regards it as his finest work because it is for children.

"If it can open the eyes of one youngster to beauty, it will be a success," he says.

Despite his seriousness about art and children, Kraft works hard at being a character. He is a fun loving man with an absurd sense of humor.

ARTIST ARTHUR KRAFT
"Look Up! Look Up!

He won a national painting award (the Audubon) years ago with a work titled "New York as seen by a casual observer through my great aunt Jennifer's ouija board."

In 1954 Kraft was chosen one of the country's 10 outstanding young men by the National Junior Chamber of Commerce. A casual dresser, addicted to tie-less white shirts and tight corduroy pants, he found himself without a suit proper for the award receiving occasion.

The man who sold him the suit recalls this conversation:

"I want a suit."

"What kind of suit?"

"Oh, a black suit, I guess."

"Well, (taking a black suit from a rack) here's a black suit."

"That one will be fine."

Kraft has had one man shows at the Seligmann, a major New York gallery, and at the Landau galleries, among others. For the latter he had 15 paintings on the theme "Saints and Angels." During the show the gallery burned and the only painting salvaged was a fierce portrait of the devil. He puts no mystic interpretations on this.

Kraft fancies bugs and has a large collection of preserved insects in his room. "See the beautiful colors in his eyes," he'll say to a visitor who is shrinking from a large roach.

For a studio, Kraft uses a large basement room. At times, while making the library mosaic he had up to 20 helpers, mostly volunteers, pasting the tiles on large sheets he had mapped out.

No matter how busy he is, Kraft will stop to be cordial to visitors. While pushing the deadline on an important painting for a New York fashion salon, he stopped to help a neighborhood candy store operator arrange the various colored sweets into an eye-pleasing display.

"It's as important to him to have a beautiful package as it is to General Motors to have a beautiful car," Kraft said, adding: "And it's important to me that things be beautiful."

Intellectual Spy Fails In This Top Work

A NOBLE PROFESSION. By Pierre Boulle. Translated from French by Xan Fielding. Vanguard. $3.95.

"Intelligence work is a noble profession — an occupation for gentlemen," the wartime German spy chief Admiral Canaris said, according to a fictional underling in this new novel by the author of "The Bridge over the River Kwai," "Face of a Hero" and other well known novels-that-turned-into-movies.

A Frenchman named Cousin, an "intellectual" as Boulle calls him, is also a day dreamer. He sees himself at war, he changes the tide of battle, his superiors kiss him on both cheeks and pin on medals — though in fact his outfit is routed, and he starts off unheroically afoot toward the far, safe rear. But he had made gestures, he adopted the stance of the man he liked to think he was, and this admirable, though not necessarily dependable, record follows him to England.

There in the company of a French brother and sister, Morvan and Claire, who had rallied to de Gaulle's standard with him, he is offered an espionage job; and true to the romantic character he imagines himself to be, he crosses the Channel again on a dangerous assignment. After a few successful months he is trapped by the Germans and the consequences are Morvan's death and Cousin's escape to England, where he demands another chance to live dangerously.

Psychiatrist Dr. Fog — despite his name — throws some light on Cousin, and gets an assistant, Austin, to watch him when he returns to France, this time with Claire. Fog has doubts about "intellectuals," of whom he says, "you never know where you are with that sort;" he also is cynical about volunteers: "They're not absolutely sure of their courage, and are frightened it might be noticed." Claire is even more suspicious: She and her vengeful mother — like one of those dreadful knitting beldames in the revolutionary Paris of Dickens' "Tale of Two Cities" — refuse flatly to believe their brother and son weakened into a traitor under torture, as Cousin has charged.

The two-faced, real and unreal, actual and imaginary Cousin is an interesting bit of humankind, so ready to act truly on a false impulse and then to react falsely, cowardly in fact despite the grand stature which he envisages for himself. He's credible, but he's really more idea than flesh and blood, and there's nothing whatsoever to make him an intellectual except Boulle's dogmatic, unsupported say-so. But it's still a novel setting a hot pace that sends a chill up your spine.

Great City's Fortitude Was Shown By Paris

PARIS UNDER THE OCCUPATION. By Gerard Walter. Translated from French by Tony White. Orion. $4.

Though we've had books about Americans in Paris between the Germans' entry and our own Pearl Harbor, and also some about individual Parisians, this tells a story less familiar to most of us about the life of the average Parisian in those bitter months when resistance seemed impossible and resignation unendurable.

Walter has consulted what he calls the "occupied" press, not always collaborationist but submissive; in order to print, editors and publishers had to be, shall we say, discreet, and at the extreme they could be viciously anti-Semitic, like Au Pilori. The Communists rebelled, at least individually, before Germany invaded Russia. Left Bank students risked and sometimes lost their lives; the support for Jews condemned to wear the yellow star was wonderfully wide spread. The people had to form interminable queues, rich and poor depended on the black market, prostitutes may have been professionally friendly to Germans. But even from the start there were Parisians to whom occupation meant the end of the world, and who never compromised.

This book evokes those troubled days stirringly — you remember — you are caught up again in the dangers — you rejoice in the great city's fortitude.

Heaven Knows Who Among One Of Best Works

HEAVEN KNOWS WHO. By Christiana Brand. Scribners. $3.95.

Jess M'Pherson, about 38, was murdered in the home of her employer in Glasgow sometime during the night of July 4, 1862. The record of the trial of Jessie M'Lachlan, about 28, the M'Pherson woman's dear friend, as the murderess, has been called by an expert "the best murder trial I ever read" Miss Brand, author of nine crime novels, writes a completely factual account of the case.

It was a brutal killing; the author even spares hardened mystery-story readers the more gruesome details. A mat cleaver, a hammer or both and inflicted multiple wounds, and blood was spattered around on floor and walls, in Jess M'Pherson's bed, and even on shirts laid away in a drawer.

Miss Brand carefully pictures the background: Jessie M'Lachlan wed to an often absent sailor, with one child, desperately poor, and sickly; Jess M'Pherson, stout enough to fight off a man's advances if she wanted to though not always wanting to: James Fleming, for whom she worked, aged, arrogant, demanding; and lettered plans of the two floors in the Fleming home and the street on which it stood.

In that long night July 4-to-5, several people passed the windows behind which the dreadful crime was committed. In the day or two afterward, Jessie M'Lachlan ran about town mystifyingly mailing packages, redeeming pawned articles, bringing home odd bundles and carrying them off to dispose of them. But James Fleming resorted to puzzling behavior, too like finding the body inexplicably late, answering the doorbell before he was supposed to be up in the morning, and changing his routine so that even the milkman's boy noticed. Both Fleming and Jessie M'Lachlan are arrested; Fleming is freed so that by Scotland's curious laws he can testify; Jessie is brought to trial before a hostile judge.

Two-thirds of this is trial, and a gripping one: The sharp probe of the lawyers, the witnesses now angry now muddled, the prejudice of the bench, the desperation of the prisoner. Pick this up and you'll read till the gavel brings it to a thrilling end.

Guide To Good Reading

By FRANCES FLANDERS,
OUACHITA PARISH LIBRARIAN

With the onset of the fall publishing season a number of exciting new books are arriving each week at the Ouachita Parish Public Library. Many are books by established authors, while others are by new writers. Let's take a look at some of them and decide what we want to read. Vern Sneider, author of "The King from Ashtabula" will be remembered for his success of book and stage, "The Teahouse of the August Moon." "The King from Ashtabula" is a satire on our government policy overseas as well as a hillariously funny book. It is one you will not want to miss and can be heartily recommended. Noel Coward, one of the most sophisticated of modern playwrights, has now produced a novel "Pomp and Circumstance". It is a delicious comedy filled with preposterous dialogue and ridiculous situations - a wonderfully witty story about manners and mores on a tropical island, told from the disarming viewpoint of an amusing woman. The lifelike characters and well-constructed plot will soon convince the reader that Mr. Coward is not only a brilliant playwright and composer, but a first-rate novelist as well. A new mystery story by Erle Stanley Gardner is always in demand and the latest title is called "The Case of the Shapely Shadow". It is another Perry Mason story and will be eagerly read by the library patrons.

Helen MacInnes is a master of the story of International Intrigue. Her latest book is called "Decision at Delphi". It is concerned with the adventures of a modern newspaper writer in present day Greece and of the perils which befell him and the girl he loved. If you like high adventure at it's best, be sure to read "Decision at Delphi".

Another story of espionage and adventure is "Meet Me Tonight" by Martha Albrand. It has it's setting in Brussels during the World's Fair and is concerned with a group of Hungarian refugees. It is exciting and interesting. James Harmon Coxe and Rex Stout both have new mystery stories this week. Mr. Coxe's title is "The Last Commandment", while Rex Stout's is "Too Many Clients". Both are well-written and exciting. "The Robe of Honour" by Alexander Cordell has it's setting in Wales. It is a story of mixed gaiety and hard work and poverty. It is full of haunting scenes and a hard celtic sadness and humor.

The number and variety of nonfiction titles will interest many readers. "Lady on a Donkey" by Beth Prim Howell is an interesting account of the work of a missionary and is written with humor and charm. A valuable book by Lenna Frances Cooper is "Nutrition in Health and Disease." It contains information which should help many people. Salesmen will want to read "How To Be a Power Close in Selling" contains much valuable information.

An eaglery awaited work each year, is "The Best Plays." We now have the "Best Plays of 1959-60", edited by Louis Kronenberger. This collection is always good and contains much valuable information about the theater. A book of literary criticism, which should help students is "Ellen Glasgow and the Ironic Art of Fiction" written by Frederick McDowell.

Books about the world we live in are always welcome. "A New Earth" by Elspeth Huxley is an account of life in Kenya Colony and should be widely read. A book for the thinking man is "Soviet Leaders and Mastery Over Man" by Hadley Cantril." This book was published by the Rugers University press and is a most significant work. An interesting addition to the literature of the Southwest is "Apache, Navaho and Spaniard" written by Jack D. Forbes. It adds much new information to our knowledge of this most exciting region.

As this is the anniversary year of the Civil War, there are numerous books being written about this conflict. Dr. T. Harry Williams, who teaches history at L.S.U. has written a very interesting book called "Americans at War", which is an account of the development of the American military system. David Donald has a new book called "Why the North Won the Civil War" and C. Vann Woodward has one called "The Burden of Southern History."

Biographies are always in demand. "Horse Wrangler" is the autobiography of Floyd C. Bard and tells in detail, his sixty years experience in the saddle in Wyoming and Montana. Francis Wallace is the author of "Knute Rockne", which will be eagerly read by men and boys. Mr. Baruch has finished the last volume of his autobiography, called "The Public Years." The western writers of American have published an interesting collection of western tales called "Spurs West".

MARCH OF SCIENCE

Prehistoric Record Of Human Occupation Found

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — A prehistoric record of human occupation in the Grand Canyon is opening new horizons of exploration for American archeologists.

The record dates back nearly 3,500 years, but only recently has any methodical work been done to study the American Indians who first undertook to live in the canyon's rugged environment.

Back in 1929 some pictures were made of corn granaries in caves along the canyon walls, but it wasn't until 20 years later that the real story of the canyon's human past began to unfold.

The man responsible for the work is Dr. Douglas W. Schwartz, director of the University of Kentucky Museum of Anthropology.

Schwartz started surveying the area in 1949 and in 1954 discovered in caves some animal figurines made from soft twigs.

Ritual spears were stuck through some of the figurines, indicating their Indian makers hoped to better their chances in hunting through magic.

Radiocarbon tests showed the figurines were made about 1,500 B. C. This age test is based on the fact that all living things absorb Carbon 14 during life and that the radioactive isotope deteriorates at a known rate after death.

This summer Schwartz made his sixth trip into the canyon and found more granaries, a boulder covered with stone carvings, thousands of pottery fragments and remains of about 50 pueblos.

Schwartz, 33, describes the canyon's human past from the information now available.

The first Indians came to the Grand Canyon about 3,500 years ago and lived by hunting.

The figurines tell more about their religion than is known about many other prehistoric religions, although little is known about their everyday life.

The Grand Canyon figurines apparently served as religious symbols in rituals to promote good hunting.

After 1,500 B. C., the canyon records are blank, and the next date that enters the picture is about 500 A. D., when agricultural Indians arrived.

They came in from different areas and were not related. This moving-in period lasted until about 900 A. D.

Then came a population explosion and the Indians began to move into the canyon from the rims. This migration was at its peak by 1000 A. D., and a century later the rims were abandoned.

The major Indian occupation of the Grand Canyon was from 1000 A. D. to 1200 A. D., when the entire canyon again was abandoned except for a small area inhabited by the Havasupi Indians, who still live there.

Evidence indicates the Havasupai started moving into the towering cliffs by 1100 A. D., perhaps to escape raids, then moved back down into the valley when the others left.

The first European contact with them was made by a Franciscan missionary in 1776.

Schwartz says the shift from the rims into the canyon was the result of a possible change in rainfall, possible population pressure or pressure from nomads.

Before 1200 B. C. Schwartz says there may have been more rain in the Grand Canyon area, adding there seems to have been adequate water for farming until that time.

Under present conditions, he says, the canyon could not support a population as large as that during the major occupation period.

The animal life has changed only slightly from the days of the prehistoric Indian inhabitants off the grand canyon. Animals still found there include mountain sheep, beavers, antelope and mountain lions.

Many questions remain to be answered about the canyon indians. One is the effect the canyon's rugged environment had on agriculture.

There also is the question of their relation to other Indians, the problem of adjustment to a new environment and the extremes human beings will face for survival.

The carvings include a scorpion, the outline of human footprints and a number of curled lines.

They may have been part of the magic ritual for hunting and protection—or they may have been only art work.

Apartments Sprout Like Mushrooms

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union has gone on such a building spree to get its population into acceptable living quarters that apartment houses are sprouting like mushrooms.

Not all the building is good. Some of it is well nigh inacceptable even by Soviet standards.

In Moscow new blocks of 60 apartments are being completed at the rate of one a day, said V. Lagutenko, chief engineer of the Moscow Department of Architecture and Planning.

But in the same breath he said some of the new blocks leaked water through the roof and sound through the walls. There have been some improvements.

The seven-year plan for Moscow is to have 700,000 new flats by 1965. This city is setting the pace for other cities in developing streamline production, but Leningrad isn't far behind. Everywhere else it is dragging.

The construction methods are more fascinating than the apartments. In Moscow whole rooms prefabricated from reinforced concrete are hoisted into place all in a piece. When it comes turn for the bathroom, some of the piping and plumbing often is already attached. But most of the rooms go into place one wall at a time.

Leningrad has gone one better. There the 10 main supporting pillars of a block of flats were erected. On top of each was mounted a powerful hydraulic jack. Four floors and a roof, all prefabricated, were laid out on the ground between the uprights. The jacks hoisted them into position, the roof first, then the successive floors. When it was finished, helicopters came along and lifted the big jacks off the top of the supporting pillars. Walls were installed next.

The construction is not good by western standards.

The owner of one Moscow flat moved a dressing table against a partition and a corner of it showed up through the wall in the next room.

But speed is the thing, because housing is badly needed. Many cities were smashed during the war, and cities here are growing crazily fast.

The aim of the current seven-year plan is 15 million flats by 1965. That, says V. A. Kucherenko, chairman of the Soviet State House Building Committee equals 130 cities of 250,000 each. This will take some hurrying, for already the bottlenecks are beginning to show up.

The country was supposed to build 122 plants during 1959-60 for prefabricating walls, pillars and ceilings. Instead only 20 were built during 1959 and the first half of 1960.

Civil War Story Said Magnificent

THE AMERICAN HERITAGE PICTURE HISTORY OF THE CIVIL WAR. American Heritage. $19.95.

To be blunt about it, this is a magnificent book — a pleasure to read and a joy to behold. Two years of effort and $2 million went into the production and the result justifies time and expense in ample measure.

There have been many histories of the Civil War, but never one like this. In scope of text — a panorama of war and its complementary conflicts in economics, politics and social areas—and in pictorial splendor, it is in a class by itself.

Bruce Catton, who is close to becoming identified in the popular mind as "Mr. Civil War," wrote the narrative and that fact is enough to warrant that it is eloquent and moving. There are no sensations in it — nor should there be, for sensation is not within the province of the work — but it is a thorough treatment and the writing has the fluidity of expression that is peculiarly Catton's.

Yet, good though it is, Catton's text must be regarded as secondary to the illustrations. The true magnetism of the book is in 83[6] pictures — wash drawings, water colors, etchings, photographs, lithographs and posters, one-third of them in color.

Many of the illustrations never before have been published. In the aggregate, they offer a rare panorama of the period that, as Catton has written, was our greatest emotional experience as a nation.

The maps are striking — artistic birdseye views of the battlefields on which troop movements are depicted with unusual clarity. Even more striking is a group of color photos of Civil War battlefields, taken today but at the season and hour and in the weather of the battles. There are 84 such photos and the cameramen have blurred or avoided all signs of modernity, so that they startlingly catch the mood and atmosphere of the fields of war.

The editors of American Heritage have made a superb contribution to the war's centennial literature.

As Kraft Sees It

Child's World In Art

KANSAS CITY, (AP) — Recently, during a heavy thunderstorm in the predawn hours, a long figure roamed the fairways of a Kansas City golf course exulting in the beauty of it all.

Artist Arthur Kraft considered it a natural thing to do. In fact, he woundered why more people weren't there at 3 a.m. to see the spectacular display of lightning and driving rain.

"So much beauty goes to waste because people don't bother to look," says Kraft, who peers at life with the wide-eyed wonderment of a child. "Sometimes I want to shake people and say, 'look up, look up, see how beautiful it all is!

"I think like a child. What wonderful things they see. How easily they discard the ugly."

The child-view world of 39-year-old Arthur Kraft, displayed through the craftsmanship of an adult, has put a menagerie of happy animals into the antiseptic beauty that is modern architecture.

At the entrance of the children's wing of Kansas City's new public library a whimsical parade of tile-formed creatures beckons young readers.

Detroit's mammoth new Northland shopping center is graced with Kraftian animals: a brass and rod pussy cat; a laughing elephant joyfully waving his trunk and forelegs.

Most of Kraft's sculpture is designed not only to look beautiful, but also to be climbed on, sat on and generally enjoyed by children.

"I don't like things with little fences around them that say 'stay off the art'," he says.

Kraft prefers to work with architecture because "art is something to be lived with every day, like food and water. It shouldn't be hung away to be tasted seldom, if at all."

Typically Kraft is the 35-foot library mural facing the street in the Kansas City civic center area. Done entirely in translucent glass tiles imported from Italy—each tile less than a half inch wide — the mural's 80 colors and hundreds of subtle shadings blend into a dazzling and traffic-stopping panorama of color.

It has become quite a game among passers-by to find all the animals hidden in the trees and brush in the mural.

Kraft regards it as his finest work because it is for children.

"If it can open the eyes of one youngster to beauty, it will be a success," he says.

Despite his seriousness about art and children, Kraft works hard at being a character. He is a fun loving man with an absurd sense of humor.

ARTIST ARTHUR KRAFT
"Look Up! Look Up!

He won a national painting award (the Audubon) years ago with a work titled "New York as seen by a casual observer through my great aunt Jennifer's ouija board."

In 1954 Kraft was chosen one of the country's 10 outstanding young men by the National Junior Chamber of Commerce. A casual dresser, addicted to tie-less white shirts and tight corduroy pants, he found himself without a suit proper for the award receiving occasion.

The man who sold him the suit recalls this conversation:

"I want a suit."

"What kind of suit?"

"Oh, a black suit, I guess."

"Well, (taking a black suit from a rack) here's a black suit."

"That one will be fine."

Kraft has had one man shows at the Seligmann, a major New York gallery, and at the Landau galleries, among others. For the latter he had 15 paintings on the theme "Saints and Angels." During the show the gallery burned and the only painting salvaged was a fierce portrait of the devil. He puts no mystic interpretations on this.

Kraft fancies bugs and has a large collection of preserved insects in his room. "See the beautiful colors in his eyes," he'll say to a visitor who is shrinking from a large roach.

For a studio, Kraft uses a large basement room. At times, while making the library mosaic he had up to 20 helpers, mostly volunteers, pasting the tiles on large sheets he had mapped out.

No matter how busy he is, Kraft will stop to be cordial to visitors. While pushing the deadline on an important painting for a New York fashion salon, he stopped to help a neighborhood candy store operator arrange the various colored sweets into an eye-pleasing display.

"It's as important to him to have a beautiful package as it is to General Motors to have a beautiful car," Kraft said, adding: "And it's important to me that things be beautiful."

Though we've had books about Americans in Paris between the Germans' entry and our own Pearl Harbor, and also some about individual Parisians, this tells a story less familiar to most of us about the life of the average Parisian in those bitter months when resistance seemed impossible and resignation unendurable.

Walter has consulted what he calls the "occupied" press, not always collaborationist but submissive; in order to print, editors and publishers had to be, shall we say, discreet, and at the extreme they could be viciously anti-Semitic, like Au Pilori. The Communists rebelled, at least individually, before Germany invaded Russia. Left Bank students risked and sometimes lost their lives; the support for Jews condemned to wear the yellow star was wonderfully wide spread. The people had to form interminable queues, rich and poor depended on the black market, prostitutes may have been professionally friendly to Germans. But even from the start there were Parisians to whom occupation meant the end of the world, and who never compromised.

This book evokes those troubled days stirringly — you remember — you are caught up again in the dangers — you rejoice in the great city's fortitude.

Heaven Knows Who Among One Of Best Works

HEAVEN KNOWS WHO. By Christiana Brano. Scribners. $3.95.

Jess M'Pherson, about 38, was murdered in the home of her employer in Glasgow sometime during the night of July 4, 1862. The record of the trial of Jessie M'Lachlan, about 28, the M'Pherson woman's dear friend, as the murderess, has been called by an expert "the best murder trial I ever read" Miss Brand, author of nine crime novels, writes a completely factual account of the case.

It was a brutal killing; the author even spares hardened mystery-story readers the more gruesome details. A mat cleaver, a hammer or both and inflicted multiple wounds, and blood was spattered around on floor and walls, in Jess M'Pherson's bed, and even on shirts laid away in a drawer.

Miss Brand carefully pictures the background: Jessie M'Lachlan wed to an often absent sailor, with one child, desperately poor, and sickly; Jess M'Pherson, stout enough to fight off a man's advances if she wanted to though not always wanting to: James Fleming, for whom she worked, aged, arrogant, demanding; and lettered plans of the two floors in the Fleming home and the street on which it stood.

In that long night July 4-to-5, several people passed the windows behind which the dreadful crime was committed. In the day or two afterward, Jessie M'Lachlan ran about town mystifyingly mailing packages, redeeming pawned articles, bringing home odd bundles and carrying them off to dispose of them. But James Fleming resorted to puzzling behavior, too like finding the body inexplicably late, answering the doorbell before he was supposed to be up in the morning, and changing his routine so that even the milkman's boy noticed. Both Fleming and Jessie M'Lachlan are arrested; Fleming is freed so that by Scotland's curious laws he can testify; Jessie is brought to trial before a hostile judge.

Two-thirds of this is trial, and a gripping one: The sharp probe of the lawyers, the witnesses now angry now muddled, the prejudice of the bench, the desperation of the prisoner. Pick this up and you'll read till the gavel brings it to a thrilling end.

Reflections Of An Author On 'Africa'

TOURIST IN AFRICA. By Evelyn Waugh. Little, Brown. $3.75.

"I have to winter abroad," says this English author, and at the start of 1959 he set out from chilly London for Genoa, Port Said, Tanganyika and the Rhodesias, Cape Town and then Southampton and home just in time for spring.

This is a record of people from Stanley to contemporary native leaders, and there are cutting reflections on the gifts bestowed by whites on blacks, the "pacification" by Europeans of Africa, and race prejudice. But mostly this rounds up an infinite number of intimate oddities — women cook meals, officials wear open shirts, shorts and monocle, the plumber stays to dinner, the elephant twitches its ears menacingly at the autoists, signs urge modest dress instead of Bikinis on the European ladies who a generation before covered black nakedness with Mother Hubbards.

It's the informality of this account that will charm you most. If it tells who took the 19 photos, I missed it; but the photographer could have been too ashamed to admit it.

RUNNING THE SCALES

With JOHN CALE

Wednesday and Thursday will climax intensive three-week rehearsals of the Las Vegas Follies, a local talent production of the Monroe Junior Charity League.

The two performances have been set for 8 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday at Neville High School. Featured among the colorful song and dance tableaux will be an authentic Charleston routine by a troup of veterans from the follies production of an earlier day.

Money from the ticket sales will go to the League's community project fund. Principal expenditures are earmarked for equipment for a proposed hard of hearing school in the Monroe City School system.

Along with its value as a civic service, the "follies" effort affords an outlet for a bit of the exhibitionist living dormant within the hard working young women who make up the League's committees.

It is understood a number of them have drafted their husbands and family members to provide the male components of the all "Las Vegas" cast.

ON THE BOARDS

"The Moon is Blue" production at Neville last Friday sponsored by the Northeast Louisiana Shrine Club was the first attempt in a number of years for a service club to attempt a fund raising project with a professional play.

In the local field of student dramatics, the Northeast State College department of speech will present "Ghosts" by Henrik Ibsen tomorrow and Tuesday.

The student production will be held in the Fine Arts auditorium on the Northeast campus and curtain time is 8 p.m. for both performances, according to George Brian, director.

Ibsen is considered the father of modern drama, and the play, "Ghosts," is an early example of the middle class family tragedy. The play, written in 1881, is considered a classic on par with many of the works of Shakespeare and Molliere.

Following the Northeast Concerts series presentation of "Amahl and the Night Visitors," a return engagement of the modern version of the Christmas story on November 28, the Louisiana Tech series will present Mozart's "Don Giovanni," on the 29th.

Here are two operas in two successive days in northeast Louisiana, located over 2,000 miles from New York's Metropolitan Opera House. And it might be added that the new stretch of the I-20 federal highway between Calhoun and Ruston puts the Lincoln Parish seat just beyond West Monroe.

YOUTH ORCHESTRA

Coming up December 10 is the year's first concert by the Monroe Youth Orchestra. This organization is made up of 40 players from the string music program of the city school system. According to Eloy Fominaya, director of the group and faculty member at Northeast, there are about 120 string students in the city's elementary, junior high and high schools who compete to enter the youth symphony. Instructors are Miss Johnnie Bankhead and Howard Jackson.

Violin soloist for the first youth concert, set tentatively for 1:30 p.m. at Neville auditorium, will be Phyllis Middleton. Incidentally, the Youth Orchestra is another community project of the Monroe Junior Charity League.

1. SAVE THE LAST DANCE FOR ME, Drifters.
2. I WANT TO BE WANTED, Brenda Lee.
3. GEORGIA ON MY MIND, Ray Charles.
4. YOU TALK TOO MUCH, Joe Jones.
5. LET'S THINK ABOUT LIVING, Bob Luman.
6. CHAIN GANG, Sam Cooke.
7. DON'T BE CRUEL, Bill Black's Combo.
8. MY HEART HAS A MIND OF ITS OWN, Connie Francis.

Guide To Good Reading

By FRANCES FLANDERS, OUACHITA PARISH LIBRARIAN

With the onset of the fall publishing season a number of exciting new books are arriving each week at the Ouachita Parish Public Library. Many are books by established authors, while others are by new writers. Let's take a look at some of them and decide what we want to read. Vern Sneider, author of "The King from Ashtabula" will be remembered for his success of book and stage, "The Teahouse of the August Moon." "The King from Ashtabula" is a satire on our government policy overseas as well as a hillariously funny book. It is one you will not want to miss and can be heartily recommended. Noel Coward, one of the most sophisticated of modern playwrights, has now produced a novel "Pomp and Circumstance". It is a delicious comedy filled with preposterous dialogue and ridiculous situations - a wonderfully witty story about manners and mores on a tropical island, told from the disarming viewpoint of an amusing woman. The lifelike characters and well-constructed plot will soon convince the reader that Mr. Coward is not only a brilliant playwright and composer, but a first-rate novelist as well. A new mystery story by Erle Stanley Gardner is always in demand and the latest title is called "The Case of the Shapely Shadow". It is another Perry Mason story and will be eagerly read by the library patrons.

Helen MacInnes is a master of the story of International Intrigue. Her latest book is called "Decision at Delphi". It is concerned with the adventures of a modern newspaper writer in present day Greece and of the perils which befell him and the girl he loved. If you like high adventure at it's best, be sure to read "Decision at Delphi".

Another story of espionage and adventure is "Meet Me Tonight" by Martha Albrand. It has it's setting in Brussels during the World's Fair and is concerned with a group of Hungarian refugees. It is exciting and interesting. James Harmon Coxe and Rex Stout both have new mystery stories this week. Mr. Coxe's title is "The Last Commandment", while Rex Stout's is "Too Many Clients". Both are well-written and exciting. "The Robe of Honour" by Alexander Cordell has it's setting in Wales. It is a story of mixed gaiety and hard work and poverty. It is full of haunting scenes and a hard celtic sadness and humor.

The number and variety of nonfiction titles will interest many readers. "Lady on a Donkey" by Beth Prim Howell is an interesting account of the work of a missionary and is written with humor and charm. A valuable book by Lenna Frances Cooper is "Nutrition in Health and Disease." It contains information which should help many people. Salesmen will want to read "How To Be a Power Close in Selling" contains much valuable information.

An eaglery awaited work each year, is "The Best Plays." We now have the "Best Plays of 1959-60", edited by Louis Kronenberger. This collection is always good and contains much valuable information about the theater. A book of literary criticism, which should help students is "Ellen Glasgow and the Ironic Art of Fiction" written by Frederick McDowell.

Books about the world we live in are always welcome. "A New Earth" by Elspeth Huxley is an account of life in Kenya Colony and should be widely read. A book for the thinking man is "Soviet Leaders and Mastery Over Man" by Hadley Cantril." This book was published by the Rugers University press and is a most significant work. An interesting addition to the literature of the Southwest is "Apache, Navaho and Spaniard" written by Jack D. Forbes. It adds much new information to our knowledge of this most exciting region.

As this is the anniversary year of the Civil War, there are numerous books being written about this conflict. Dr. T. Harry Williams, who teaches history at L.S.U. has written a very interesting book called "Americans at War", which is an account of the development of the American military system. David Donald has a new book called "Why the North Won the Civil War" and C. Vann Woodward has one called "The Burden of Southern History."

Biographies are always in demand. "Horse Wrangler" is the autobiography of Floyd C. Bard and tells in detail, his sixty years experience in the saddle in Wyoming and Montana. Francis Wallace is the author of "Knute Rockne", which will be eagerly read by men and boys. Mr. Baruch has finished the last volume of his autobiography, called "The Public Years." The western writers of American have published an interesting collection of western tales called "Spurs West".

Church Fund Raising Trend Shows Shifts

By JULES LOH

NEW YORK (AP) — Tambourines still jingle on street corners and humble nuns remain at their familiar posts, but across the land the chore of church fund raising has become more and more the business of commercial pros.

Some churchmen and churchgoers deplore the trend; others see it not only as a necessity but a boon.

Advocates have found that professionally conducted campaigns usually don't last as long, are more efficient and demand less time of volunteer church committees.

BUILDING FUNDS

This year America's churches will collect about $3.5 billion with about one billion of it earmarked for new construction.

Experts estimate 70 per cent of the sum will come trough formal campaigns directed for the most part by commercial firms or professionally trained churchmen.

Church Fund Raising Trend Shows Shifts

By JULES LOH

NEW YORK (AP) — Tambourines still jingle on street corners and humble nuns remain at their familiar posts, but across the land the chore of church fund raising has become more and more the business of commercial pros.

Some churchmen and churchgoers deplore the trend; others see it not only as a necessity but a boon.

Advocates have found that professionally conducted campaigns usually don't last as long, are more efficient and demand less time of volunteer church committees.

BUILDING FUNDS

This year America's churches will collect about $3.5 billion with about one billion of it earmarked for new construction.

Experts estimate 70 per cent of the sum will come trough formal campaigns directed for the most part by commercial firms or professionally trained churchmen.

The Rev. Davis Rice Holt III, in a master's thesis at Union Theological Seminary of Virginia, believes professional fund raising methods often involve spurious explanations of scripture and promote the Pharisaism of conspicuous pledging.

Commercial organizations, he said, often are p

Transplanting Advice Given

By MILDRED SWIFT

November, frosty mornings, but not much moisture - so, hold up your transplanting until at least one heavy rain, however, there's plenty to do.

LET'S START

First, let's review. These mere jobs that could have been done in October, but can still be done this month: Cut back perennials which have finished blooming and divide and reset. Plant seed of spring blooming annuals, list follows later.

Transplant and divide pineapple ginger lily bulbs, watsonia, ageratum, oxalis, lirope, monkey grass, daylilies, crocus, crinums.

Make a compost heap. Prune clematis now that it has stopped blooming. Cut out weak and diseased wood from shrubs and trees. Root, prune priet hedge or other large shrubs that need it.

Plant winter rye grass, being careful not to get the seed in flower beds. Also, don't plant seed until two weeks after putting out fertilizer on the lawn.

SEED TO PLANT

These seed may be planted now, after soil is well worked and pulverized: Sweet alyssum, arctotis, calendula, coreopsis, calliopsis, cornflower, lobelia, Chinese forget-me-not, African Golden Daisy, four o'clock, verbena, larkspur, petunia, phlox, pinks, poppy, salvia (blue) gaillardia, gypsaphila, scabiosa, early sweet peas and Queen Anne's Lace.

OTHERS

Bedding plants and bulbs you can buy and plant in permanent beds are: Calla, calendula, forget-me-not, hollyhock, pansy, phlox, drummond, phlox perennial, pinks, salvia (blue) snapdragon, stock, Dutch Iris, daffodils, jonquils, narcissus, madonna lily, regal lily, amaryllis, hyacinth, scilla, speciosum lily, montbretia, ajuga, snowflake.

Amaryllis may be planted now and on into spring. This bulb likes neutral soil. A raised bed gives good drainage and some sand worked in the soil will aid in drainage. As you know, this bulb rots easily, so every precaution must be taken to see that water does not stand in the bed. Work bone meal in the bed and plant amaryllis bulb with its nose out of the ground. If you plant deep you encourage bulb rot.

Amaryllis will thrive in some shade or full sun. The blossoms fade less if there is some shade. When planting amaryllis in pots, soak the empty pots from 12 to 24 hours in water to thoroughly saturate them. Regular feeding every two weeks, with a balanced fertilizer, dissolved in water helps the potted bulbs. If you plant now, begin this feeding in January. Amaryllis multiply, so a handful of bulbs can afford a lot of garden pleasure.

DAHLIA BULBS

After Dahlia tops are killed by frosts, cut back to six inches high and dig. In lifting be careful not to injure the roots by bruising or by breaking them from the crown. Remove as much soil as possible from the roots (carefully). Dry them in the air for a few hours, then store in a dry, cool frost proof place. Wrapping in newspaper is adviseable if the atmosphere is very dry. These bulbs can also be hung in old stockings, hanging these from the ceiling in a dark room. Varieties differ in behavior in storage, some shriveling and others remaining firm under the same conditions.

MORE JOBS

Don't forget to plant seed of Belles of Ireland. It is said that these seed can be planted any month of the year. They're very beautiful in the fresh state and dried. This bulb gets its name from the apple-green bell-shaped bracts which are set closely to the long stems. The center of each bract has a small white flower, which drops as the plant matures, leaving only the green bracts.

The plants grow easily from seeds and reach a height of two feet or over. They need sun (at least afternoon) and protection from wind, since the long stems can be injured by too much buffeting. Sow the seeds about half an inch deep in good rich loamy soil. The seeds are slow to germinate so don't get discouraged.

The bells of Ireland plants bloom in the spring over about a six week's period and are usually at their peak in mid-April. When using the plants in arrangements, pinch off the leaves carefully so as not to injure the stems. It is necessary to condition the plants first, else they will twist and curl. After conditioning, the plants will last a long time. The color of the plant is half of their beauty. It's a green that's hard to describe, but has some yellow in it.

As bulb foliage comes out of the ground, fertilize with a complete fertilizer such as 8-8-8. This can be sprinkled around the plants. None on the plants, though.

As the cold kills the chrysanthemums blooms, cut the tops and they'll make a good root growth for next year.

STOCKING NEWS

Fashion now consists almost as much in how you look from the hemline down. With the skirts shorter, the unifying stretch between skirt and shoes is more important than ever. The new stocking wardrobe is more diversified in terms of color and texture. There are sheers in exciting new colors - mauves, off-greens, taupe browns, unexpected greys. Then you'll see service sheers and textured hose for the country. For evening, off-black in one of the new lacy textures.

MORE

A wardrobe of attractive blouses is a must when you're wearing some of the new style suits. Most everybody loves the blouse that wraps to the side and ties. It's flattering to wear and gives the perfect finish to suit or skirt.

EXTRA

Keep your velvets looking pretty and new by giving them the care they deserve. For easy up keep at home, steam your velvet or velveteen dressing by hanging it over a steaming tub for 30 minutes, brushing it after the first 15. Allow it to dry thoroughly before wearing, packing or hanging it back in the closet.

Now that furs are coming out of storage they'll need extra special care to keep them in good shape. The great enemy of fur is dust. So be sure to have a tightly sealed bag in which to keep your good fur coat, jacket or stole. Dry heat is the second enemy of fur. Hang furs in a cool place. In a dry atmosphere, a wet sponge at the bottom of the bag will help keep the air moist. A third menace is rain or snow. Wet fur should be shaken out and dried slowly, never near heat. If the fur gets so wet it needs reconditioning; take it to the nearest reliable furrier. Then there are moths. Be sure to use an effective moth preventative in the bags and closets in which you store precious furs.

In case the menfolks think they're being neglected in all this talk about clothes, here's news for them. One company is making a cotton shirt that has been chemically modified and has wash and wear built in. It can be washed and dried any way you like, even sent to the laundry, and it needs no ironing. Here's the startling news — it never turns yellow. It improves in appearance and comfort after each laundering. The shirt has a collar with medium points and a short spread.

Snapshot Bonus Seen For Menu On Holiday

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

With Thanksgiving Day at hand, here's a way to get a real snapshot "bonus" on the same holiday menu. Since it's a day, traditionally, for family gatherings, why not make it the occasion to shoot family group photos for use on personal Christmas cards?

Photo greeting cards have a distinctive, individual touch that stands out from the "store-bought-en" kind and are becoming increasingly popular with camera fans. They linger longer, too, with the recipients and are often saved as personal mementos after the season's accumulation of Christmas cards are discarded.

TIMING

The timing is just right now, too, for it permits an orderly and unhurried progression from the shooting, processing, selection of greeting card format and final printing to the mailing. In a little while, it'll become a last-minute chore with its last-minute problems: like the wrong grade of paper for a specific negative, or a horizontal format for a vertical picture or a shortage of envelopes.

Now that we've approved the idea and the time, what else do we need? Appropriate seasonal props, that's what, as well as the camera, film, light and subjects. With a house full of uncles, aunts or guests to choose from a cameraman can be selected so that each complete family group can be photographed.

These few days before Thanksgiving might be used to ransack the basement or attic for Christmas props. Whether you have your own, borrow from a neighbor or buy them very early this year, it is necessary to have them ready for the Thanksgiving Day shooting session.

Christmas stockings, holiday wrapping paper, tree ornaments, a wreath, spray of pine cones, an evergreen tree branch, tinsel and ribbons are some of the props that can be arranged on a wall or fireplace mantel to make an appropriate background. It is amazing how little is needed to suggest the Christmas season and how much better it is to keep things simple rather than overdone.

ASSORTMENT

If you have an assortment of props on hand, you might possibly want to change the background with each family group for variety's sake.

We assume the regular family camera will be put to work for this occasion. However, if some non-camera-fan reader likes the idea and wants to try it out, the experiment could be most painless with one of the new 620-roll-film-size box cameras with built-in flash. This will give a big 2 by 2¼-inch negative which can be cropped to either vertical or horizontal format as needed.

As for film, the question is no longer what kind of black-and-white film but why not color negative? It's a bit more expensive but far more effective. If the mailing list is large enough to make the cost prohibitive, a color negative could serve a dual purpose. Color prints could be made for a small group of the immediate family and back-and-white prints from the same negative could be made for the balance of the mailing list.

For sharp pictures, some sort of camera support is strongly recommended. Turn a chair around, straddle the seat, rest your elbows and the camera on the upper edge of the back and you'll have a quickly improvised director's chair and camera-support combination.

The simplest lighting, though certainly not the best, is with the flash on the camera. A better lighting arrangement is obtained if the flash unit is detachable and can be held about three or four feet either to the left or right of the camera and about a foot or two higher.

PROPER LENS

Proper lens openings for flash pictures are determined by the distance of light from subjects and the guide number (divide guide number by distance). The guide number will be found on the flashbulb carton and is determined by the type of film being used and speed of shooting.

The most interesting lighting is possible with photofloods to provide sparkling backlight and sidelight. However, this is offset by the time, trouble and experience necessary to arrange properly and the hazard of wires ready to trip unwary feet.

But no matter what you do, have a snap-happy Thanksgiving for a Merry Christmas.

A SNAP-HAPPY Thanksgiving can put the family Christmas greeting card in focus nice and early. Have some Yuletide props handy and one of the uncles can shoot from the back of a chair to steady the camera.

Winter Birds Appreciated

By CAROLINE DORMAN
(Guest Writer)
(Reprinted courtesy Hodges Garden Magazine

It may seem odd to begin a story of birds with winter, but that is a sort of testing-time. Those that remain with us through these hard months seem ours, indeed. And at that time we appreciate them more. Who does not respond to the friendly overtures of chickadee and titmouse those soft gray mites that "talk" so cheerily when all is covered with snow and ice? Chickadee is just a tiny fluff of feathers, with a black cap, while titmouse is a little larger, with a saucy top knot. Titmouse, especially, is very friendly, and with patience and coaxing will eat from one's hand. Both nest in holes in trees and stumps, and those who own large grounds will do well not to clear out all of these. I have never succeeded in persuading them to nest in boxes.

WRENS

Another lovable little fellow is our Carolina wren, who sings right on through all sorts of weather. One is "down" indeed who does not feel a lift to the heart on hearing that gay song on a dark winter day. Other smaller wrens winter with us, but this one stays the year around. He is larger than others, and is dressed in beautiful shades of brown and buff. He has various ringing songs, and one has to know him a long time to recognize them all. A wren is easily recognized by his bouncing up and down on his perch - he is never still and by the saucy upward slant of his short tail. About the last week in October the darling white-throats come back to us. Unfortunately, they are about the size of English sparrows, and so fall to the rifle of the boy who says, "I'm not shootin' nothin' but them old sparrows."

It is sad that so many persons know only the chattering English sparrows, for some of our finest song birds be'ong to this family. Even in winter, the white-throat treats us to his lovely wistful little song on sunny days — perhaps dreaming of his far-off nesting grounds in New England, or even as far away as Alaska. When he lifts his head to sing, we see the white spot which gives him his name. Some of our prettiest birds are so shy we seldom see them. One of these is towhee, chewink, or joree, named for his distinctive call. A little smaller and slimmer than his cousin the cardinal, he is handsomely dressed in black, white and bright brown. When taking a quiet stroll, one may hear him scratching in dry leaves among shrubbery, and if watching closely, may see him fly to another hidden covert.

HAUNTS

Brown thrasher is another who haunts the same sort of thickets, but he is more easily seen, for he scratches like a domestic hen, making dead leaves fly over his back. He is searching for the worms which constitute the main part of his diet. The big bird, with his long beak and very long tail is unmistakable. His back is bright brown, and his buffy breast spotted with the same color. Books invariably picture the thrasher perched in a tree, singing, but at that time (spring) it is difficult to locate the singer. We are much more likely to see him walking or running about like a chicken, he never hops, as do the finches.

There is much confusion concerning the name "thrush" the usual practice being to call any bird with a spotted breast by that name. Our sweet-voiced wood thrush truly deserves the name, belonging to a rather large family, including the well known robin —which has a speckled breast when young. Wood thrush is much smaller than brown thrasher, with a plump body and a shorter tail, and its color is a much softer brown. It haunts woodland dells, but does not hide when singing its lovely lay, the silvery notes suggesting falling water. It, too, feeds largely on insects, but thankfully devours yaupon and winter huckleberry fruits when bugs and worms are frozen out.

Our beautiful bluebird stays with us all the year, and it always amuses me when I hear someone say, "Oh, it must be spring! I saw a bluebird." They are not close observers, and have read stories by our friends from the north, to whom the coming of the bluebird does mean spring. No bird suffers more when everything is covered in ice and snow, and when temperatures drop to near zero he literally freezes to death. The bluebird's preferred fare consists of insects, but once while tramping snow-covered woods, I saw a sumac bush bright with bluebirds feeding on the dry sour berries. I have never succeeded in tempting one to come to a feeding shelter.

Big, bold bluejay is always much in evidence, shoveling up the food put out for smaller, less able birds. His loud "jay, jay" calls attention which is not needed, for he is one of our handsomest birds. What a pity he is so cruel, devoring eggs and young of other birds! He is related to the crow, and has many of the same habits.

Mockingbird and catbird, two of our sweetest singers, are silent in winter. In South Louisiana, where flowers are always in bloom, mockingbird sings most all the year. Pretty quails and doves slip through woods and fields, searching for the seeds of leguminous plants and grasses. They also devour many insects.

Another bird that comes from far north to spend the winter with us is tiny kinglet, so named from the almost invisible "crown," a very small red or yellow spot on top of his head. He is not much bigger than a hummingbird, and one wonders how he can store up enough energy to travel so far. But he is bright and perky on the coldest day, twitching his little wings restlessly. When I stand near to fend off bigger birds, he will come to eat at the feeding tray. I suppose because of his diminutive size, he takes alarm when any other bird approaches.

Little pine warbler is a pretty fellow who becomes quite friendly during winter months, but when spring comes, takes to the tops of pine trees, thus earning his name. At that time we know him only by his high-pitched little trill falling down to us from some airy perch. He is very small, with olive back and yellow breast —though his lady has no yellow. When ice covered everything last winter, I stuffed cornbread in crevices in some big rocks below my window, and what a good time was had by pine warblers, wrens and even little kinglet! Their slender bills could reach the crumbs, which could not be dug out by the big-beaked finches.

Bulbs Need Plant Food

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

This is the time to feed all the different kinds of bulbs that have green leaves in winter. Red, yellow and white spiderlilies (Lycoris), sternbergias, miniature amaryllis, the small Zephyranthes candida, Scilla peruviana, the fall blooming crocuses, the mottled leaved little Arum italicum and any other bulbous plants that have foliage in winter need their food now. Even if the soil in which you planted these bulbs was rich or you mixed in plenty of fertilizer when the bulbs were planted, they will still benefit from a top dressing of bone meal and a complete fertilizer right now.

COMPETITION

Most of the bulbs in question multiply fairly rapid. They are usually growing in competition with other garden plants or with tree or shrub roots which may have taken up the fertilizer you put in the soil when you planted the bulbs. All the kinds of bulbs we mentioned above except the miniature amaryllis (Rhodophiala) grow fairly near the surface where their roots can take immediate advantage of fertilizer which the fall and winter rains will dissolve for them right away. Top feeding is, in fact the means of growing bulbs underneath trees. If you fail to feed bulbs that are crowded in the soil underneath trees, however, you will have few flowers and will soon have to take up the bulbs and divide them.

Scatter a liberal amount of bone meal over your bulbs, and then scatter a normal feeding of complete fertilizer. The pellet form of fertilizer is most convenient because you can get a more even distribution with this form than with the powdered form and because the pellets do not leave a messy deposit on the foliage. Rain will wash off the bone meal quickly, but sometimes cakes complete fertilizer on foliage.

The column has received inquiries about chrysanthemums that suddenly wilt. Chrysanthemums are subject to the same wilt which affects tomatoes. Once you have this wilt in your soil, the best thing to do is to burn all the affected chrysanthemums and start over again in a new place. If you try to move your plants to a new spot, they will surely take the disease with them in stems, roots and soil. Take cuttings of the healthy parts of your plants, and set them out in a new location when they are rooted. Even after you have done this, you must keep a watchful eye over your new plants and dig and burn any which wilt. Remove the soil in which the wilted plants grew, too.

It is best not to grow chrysanthemums where tomatoes have been grown or even anywhere near your tomatoes because wilt is such an insidious thing that it can defeat your every effort.

Elm Disease Is Curbed By Chemical Use

Chemical warfare is reaching behind the green curtain to help curb Dutch elm disease.

Dormant spraying of elms, once confined to the Spring period before leafing, now extends to Autumn after leaf fall.

The important point is that a single DDT spraying on bare trees has year-long lethal power against invading elm bark beetles. These insects are the carriers of the Dutch elm malady.

E. T. Bowen, tree specialist, says Fall often offers definite spraying advantages. Instead of the wet, cold and windy weather sometimes typical of spring, often autumn and early winter frequently bring many bright, dry, mild and relatively windless days that are ideal for effective spraying operations.

EXTENSION NOTES

Plant Trees, Shrubs Now

By AUDREY DAWSON

It's getting time to plant that tree or shrub that you, Mrs. Gardener, have been wanting to put in your landscape so here're a few reminders — just in case, plant your shrubs at least three feet away from the house or building. Plant them far enough away from walks so they can't scratch passerby and sufficient distance from the driveway so they will not block your view.

In finding just the right place for that tree, remember if planted too close to the house leaves can fill the gutters. Also, the roots of the trees may invade the foundation of the house and cause it to crack. Some of our trees are litter droppers as the Chinese elm, willow, walnuts, mimosa and others. You will want to keep this in mind when locating these on your plan.

One other thing, be sure you know the size of the tree at maturity. It's mighty expensive to remove trees after they are grown because it takes a lot of digging. Better not depend on your decision as to where that tree should be planted. Most of us women never visualize that tree at maturity, but husbands can give you some pretty good advice as to where the tree should be planted - better follow it too.

WASH, WEAR COTTONS

Our clothing specialist, Miss Fae Roark, says there will be more wash and wear cotton on the market this season. There are a few tips to remember, Mrs. Homemaker, in buying and sewing these easy to care for cottons. When buying wash and wear piece goods, check to see that the grain of the fabric is straight. This means that the fabric should be woven so that the threads cross each other at right angles. When sewing use very sharp sheers, pins and needles and mercerized cotton thread. To prevent puckering, loose stitch should be used. Before sewing the garment on your machine, experiment with a piece of the fabric. Twelve to 14 stitches to the inch with a fine needle should give a smooth firm finish. Hold the fabrics securely with both hands and stitch at a slow even speed and press as you sew with a steam iron or a warm iron and cloth.

INTERESTING FACTS

If our population in the United States reaches 230 billion by 1975 as predicted farmers and ranchers will be kept busy because our specialists tell us this group of people will need 16.3 billion pounds of red meat, 47 billion pounds of milk, 20.7 million tons more fruit and vegetables and 20 billion eggs than the farmers now produce. These amounts will be necessary because homemakers are continuing to improve the diets of their families. These figures show us that our nation of people are well fed for which each of us is thankful.

There's not too many days until Christmas and maybe you, Mrs. Homemaker, are making plans for Santa Claus to bring your family a new rug or carpet. If so, then here are a few suggestions from our home furnishings specialist, Mrs. Jessie Mae Hill. No one fiber is suitable for all purposes and each has advantages and disadvantages. Wool is crush resistant, durable and has a long wear life. It is soil resistant and colrofast and easy to clean. Wool rugs are now moth proofed for life. Man-made fibers do not hold moisture as wool, cotton and linen do. This dryness means that they are less prone to absorb water soluble stains. Nylon has great abrasive resistance. It is elastic and has excellent recovery to crushing. It is soil and spot resistant and easily cleaned. A lighted match or live ashes dropped on a nylon rug will not burn but will melt the pile fibers down to the backing.

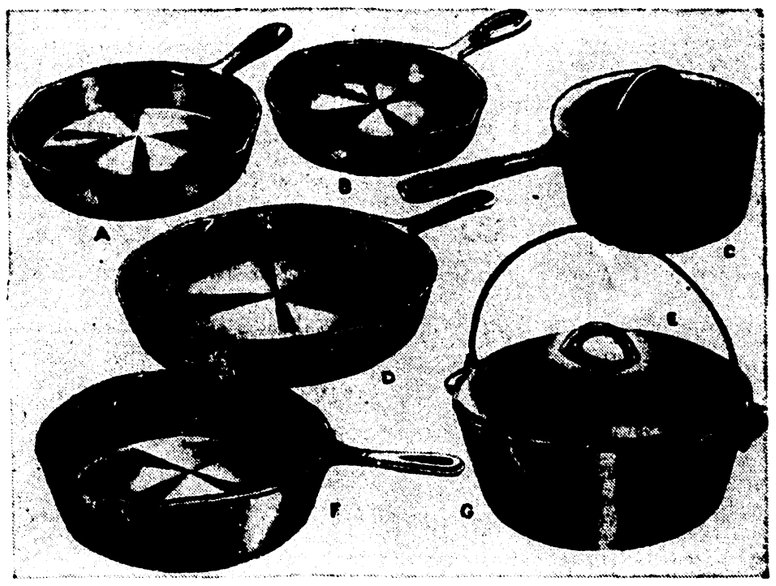

Cotton rugs crush and lack resilience but tightly twisted loop uncut piles have more crush and soil resistance and resilience.

SEED TO PLANT

These seed may be planted now, after soil is well worked and pulverized: Sweet alyssum, arctotis, calendula, coreopsis, calliopsis, cornflower, lobelia, Chinese forget-me-not, African Golden Daisy, four o'clock, verbena, larkspur, petunia, phlox, pinks, poppy, salvia (blue) gaillardia, gypsaphila, scabiosa, early sweet peas and Queen Anne's Lace.

OTHERS

Bedding plants and bulbs you can buy and plant in permanent beds are: Calla, calendula, forget-me-not, hollyhock, pansy, phlox, drummond, phlox perennial, pinks, salvia (blue) snapdragon, stock, Dutch Iris, daffodils, jonquils, narcissus, madonna lily, regal lily, amaryllis, hyacinth, scilla, speciosum lily, montbretia, ajuga, snowflake.

Amaryllis may be planted now and on into spring. This bulb likes neutral soil. A raised bed gives good drainage and some sand worked in the soil will aid in drainage. As you know, this bulb rots easily, so every precaution must be taken to see that water does not stand in the bed. Work bone meal in the bed and plant amaryllis bulb with its nose out of the ground. If you plant deep you encourage bulb rot.

Amaryllis will thrive in some shade or full sun. The blossoms fade less if there is some shade. When planting amaryllis in pots, soak the empty pots from 12 to 24 hours in water to thoroughly saturate them. Regular feeding every two weeks, with a balanced fertilizer, dissolved in water helps the potted bulbs. If you plant now, begin this feeding in January. Amaryllis multiply, so a handful of bulbs can afford a lot of garden pleasure.

DAHLIA BULBS

After Dahlia tops are killed by frosts, cut back to six inches high and dig. In lifting be careful not to injure the roots by bruising or by breaking them from the crown. Remove as much soil as possible from the roots (carefully). Dry them in the air for a few hours, then store in a dry, cool frost proof place. Wrapping in newspaper is adviseable if the atmosphere is very dry. These bulbs can also be hung in old stockings, hanging these from the ceiling in a dark room. Varieties differ in behavior in storage, some shriveling and others remaining firm under the same conditions.

MORE JOBS

Don't forget to plant seed of Belles of Ireland. It is said that these seed can be planted any month of the year. They're very beautiful in the fresh state and dried. This bulb gets its name from the apple-green bell-shaped bracts which are set closely to the long stems. The center of each bract has a small white flower, which drops as the plant matures, leaving only the green bracts.

The plants grow easily from seeds and reach a height of two feet or over. They need sun (at least afternoon) and protection from wind, since the long stems can be injured by too much buffeting. Sow the seeds about half an inch deep in good rich loamy soil. The seeds are slow to germinate so don't get discouraged.

The bells of Ireland plants bloom in the spring over about a six week's period and are usually at their peak in mid-April. When using the plants in arrangements, pinch off the leaves carefully so as not to injure the stems. It is necessary to condition the plants first, else they will twist and curl. After conditioning, the plants will last a long time. The color of the plant is half of their beauty. It's a green that's hard to describe, but has some yellow in it.

As bulb foliage comes out of the ground, fertilize with a complete fertilizer such as 8-8-8. This can be sprinkled around the plants. None on the plants, though.

As the cold kills the chrysanthemums blooms, cut the tops and they'll make a good root growth for next year.

STOCKING NEWS

Fashion now consists almost as much in how you look from the hemline down. With the skirts shorter, the unifying stretch between skirt and shoes is more important than ever. The new stocking wardrobe is more diversified in terms of color and texture. There are sheers in exciting new colors - mauves, off-greens, taupe browns, unexpected greys. Then you'll see service sheers and textured hose for the country. For evening, off-black in one of the new lacy textures.

MORE

A wardrobe of attractive blouses is a must when you're wearing some of the new style suits. Most everybody loves the blouse that wraps to the side and ties. It's flattering to wear and gives the perfect finish to suit or skirt.

EXTRA

Keep your velvets looking pretty and new by giving them the care they deserve. For easy up keep at home, steam your velvet or velveteen dressing by hanging it over a steaming tub for 30 minutes, brushing it after the first 15. Allow it to dry thoroughly before wearing, packing or hanging it back in the closet.

Now that furs are coming out of storage they'll need extra special care to keep them in good shape. The great enemy of fur is dust. So be sure to have a tightly sealed bag in which to keep your good fur coat, jacket or stole. Dry heat is the second enemy of fur. Hang furs in a cool place. In a dry atmosphere, a wet sponge at the bottom of the bag will help keep the air moist. A third menace is rain or snow. Wet fur should be shaken out and dried slowly, never near heat. If the fur gets so wet it needs reconditioning; take it to the nearest reliable furrier. Then there are moths. Be sure to use an effective moth preventative in the bags and closets in which you store precious furs.

In case the menfolks think they're being neglected in all this talk about clothes, here's news for them. One company is making a cotton shirt that has been chemically modified and has wash and wear built in. It can be washed and dried any way you like, even sent to the laundry, and it needs no ironing. Here's the startling news — it never turns yellow. It improves in appearance and comfort after each laundering. The shirt has a collar with medium points and a short spread.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Winter Birds Appreciated

By CAROLINE DORMAN
(Guest Writer)
(Reprinted courtesy Hodges Garden Magazine

It may seem odd to begin a story of birds with winter, but that is a sort of testing-time. Those that remain with us through these hard months seem ours, indeed. And at that time we appreciate them more. Who does not respond to the friendly overtures of chickadee and titmouse, those soft gray mites that "talk" so cheerily when all is covered with snow and ice? Chickadee is just a tiny fluff of feathers, with a black cap, while titmouse is a little larger, with a saucy top knot. Titmouse, especially, is very friendly, and with patience and coaxing will eat from one's hand. Both nest in holes in trees and stumps, and those who own large grounds will do well not to clear out all of these. I have never succeeded in persuading them to nest in boxes.

WRENS

Another lovable little fellow is our Carolina wren, who sings right on through all sorts of weather. One is "down" indeed who does not feel a lift to the heart on hearing that gay song on a dark winter day. Other smaller wrens winter with us, but this one stays the year around. He is larger than others, and is dressed in beautiful shades of brown and buff. He has various ringing songs, and one has to know him a long time to recognize them all. A wren is easily recognized by his bouncing up and down on his perch - he is never still and by the saucy upward slant of his short tail. About the last week in October the darling white-throats come back to us. Unfortunately, they are about the size of English sparrows, and so fall to the rifle of the boy who says, "I'm not shootin' nothin' but them old sparrows."

It is sad that so many persons know only the chattering English sparrows, for some of our finest song birds be'ong to this family. Even in winter, the white-throat treats us to his lovely wistful little song on sunny days — perhaps dreaming of his far-off nesting grounds in New England, or even as far away as Alaska. When he lifts his head to sing, we see the white spot which gives him his name. Some of our prettiest birds are so shy we seldom see them. One of these is towhee, chewink, or joree, named for his distinctive call. A little smaller and slimmer than his cousin the cardinal, he is handsomely dressed in black, white and bright brown. When taking a quiet stroll, one may hear him scratching in dry leaves among shrubbery, and if watching closely, may see him fly to another hidden covert.

HAUNTS

Brown thrasher is another who haunts the same sort of thickets, but he is more easily seen, for he scratches like a domestic hen, making dead leaves fly over his back. He is searching for the worms which constitute the main part of his diet. The big bird, with his long beak and very long tail is unmistakable. His back is bright brown, and his buffy breast spotted with the same color. Books invariably picture the thrasher perched in a tree, singing, but at that time (spring) it is difficult to locate the singer. We are much more likely to see him walking or running about like a chicken, he never hops, as do the finches.

There is much confusion concerning the name "thrush" the usual practice being to call any bird with a spotted breast by that name. Our sweet-voiced wood thrush truly deserves the name, belonging to a rather large family, including the well known robin —which has a speckled breast when young. Wood thrush is much smaller than brown thrasher, with a plump body and a shorter tail, and its color is a much softer brown. It haunts woodland dells, but does not hide when singing its lovely lay, the silvery notes suggesting falling water. It, too, feeds largely on insects, but thankfully devours yaupon and winter huckleberry fruits when bugs and worms are frozen out.

Our beautiful bluebird stays with us all the year, and it always amuses me when I hear someone say, "Oh, it must be spring! I saw a bluebird." They are not close observers, and have read stories by our friends from the north, to whom the coming of the bluebird does mean spring. No bird suffers more when everything is covered in ice and snow, and when temperatures drop to near zero he literally freezes to death. The bluebird's preferred fare consists of insects, but once while tramping snow-covered woods, I saw a sumac bush bright with bluebirds feeding on the dry sour berries. I have never succeeded in tempting one to come to a feeding shelter.

Big, bold bluejay is always much in evidence, shoveling up the food put out for smaller, less able birds. His loud "jay, jay" calls attention which is not needed, for he is one of our handsomest birds. What a pity he is so cruel, devoring eggs and young of other birds! He is related to the crow, and has many of the same habits.

Mockingbird and catbird, two of our sweetest singers, are silent in winter. In South Louisiana, where flowers are always in bloom, mockingbird sings most all the year. Pretty quails and doves slip through woods and fields, searching for the seeds of leguminous plants and grasses. They also devour many insects.

Another bird that comes from far north to spend the winter with us is tiny kinglet, so named from the almost invisible "crown," a very small red or yellow spot on top of his head. He is not much bigger than a hummingbird, and one wonders how he can store up enough energy to travel so far. But he is bright and perky on the coldest day, twitching his little wings restlessly. When I stand near to fend off bigger birds, he will come to eat at the feeding tray. I suppose because of his diminutive size, he takes alarm when any other bird approaches.

Little pine warbler is a pretty fellow who becomes quite friendly during winter months, but when spring comes, takes to the tops of pine trees, thus earning his name. At that time we know him only by his high-pitched little trill falling down to us from some airy perch. He is very small, with olive back and yellow breast —though his lady has no yellow. When ice covered everything last winter, I stuffed cornbread in crevices in some big rocks below my window, and what a good time was had by pine warblers, wrens and even little kinglet! Their slender bills could reach the crumbs, which could not be dug out by the big-beaked finches.

FOR CAMERA FANS

Snapshot Bonus Seen For Menu On Holiday

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

With Thanksgiving Day at hand, here's a way to get a real snapshot "bonus" on the same holiday menu. Since it's a day, traditionally, for family gatherings, why not make it the occasion to shoot family group photos for use on personal Christmas cards?

Photo greeting cards have a distinctive, individual touch that stands out from the "store-bought-en" kind and are becoming increasingly popular with camera fans. They linger longer, too, with the recipients and are often saved as personal mementos after the season's accumulation of Christmas cards are discarded.

TIMING

The timing is just right now, too, for it permits an orderly and unhurried progression from the shooting, processing, selection of greeting card format and final printing to the mailing. In a little while, it'll become a last-minute chore with its last-minute problems: like the wrong grade of paper for a specific negative, or a horizontal format for a vertical picture or a shortage of envelopes.

Now that we've approved the idea and the time, what else do we need? Appropriate seasonal props, that's what, as well as the camera, film, light and subjects. With a house full of uncles, aunts or guests ' choose from a cameraman can be selected so that each complete family group can be photographed.

These few days before Thanksgiving might be used to ransack the basement or attic for Christmas props. Whether you have your own, borrow from a neighbor or buy them very early this year, it is necessary to have them ready for the Thanksgiving Day shooting session.

Christmas stockings, holiday wrapping paper, tree ornaments, a wreath, spray of pine cones, an evergreen tree branch, tinsel and ribbons are some of the props that can be arranged on a wall or fireplace mantel to make an appropriate background. It is amazing how little is needed to suggest the Christmas season and how much better it is to keep things simple rather than overdone.

ASSORTMENT

If you have an assortment of props on hand, you might possibly want to change the background with each family group for variety's sake.

We assume the regular family camera will be put to work for this occasion. However, if some non-camera-fan reader likes the idea and wants to try it out, the experiment could be most painless with one of the new 620-roll-film-size box cameras with built-in flash. This will give a big 2 by 2¼-inch negative which can be cropped to either vertical or horizontal format as needed.

As for film, the question is no longer what kind of black-and-white film but why not color negative? It's a bit more expensive but far more effective. If the mailing list is large enough to make the cost prohibitive, a color negative could serve a dual purpose. Color prints could be made for a small group of the immediate family and back-and-white prints from the same negative could be made for the balance of the mailing list.

For sharp pictures, some sort of camera support is strongly recommended. Turn a chair around, straddle the seat, rest your elbows and the camera on the upper edge of the back and you'll have a quickly improvised director's chair and camera-support combination.

The simplest lighting, though certainly not the best, is with the flash on the camera. A better lighting arrangement is obtained if the flash unit is detachable and can be held about three or four feet either to the left or right of the camera and about a foot or two higher.

PROPER LENS

Proper lens openings for flash pictures are determined by the distance of light from subjects and the guide number (divide guide number by distance). The guide number will be found on the flashbulb carton and is determined by the type of film being used and speed of shooting.

The most interesting lighting is possible with photofloods to provide sparkling backlight and sidelight. However, this is offset by the time, trouble and experience necessary to arrange properly and the hazard of wires ready to trip unwary feet.

But no matter what you do, have a snap-happy Thanksgiving for a Merry Christmas.

A SNAP-HAPPY Thanksgiving can put the family Christmas greeting card in focus nice and early. Have some Yuletide props handy and one of the uncles can shoot from the back of a chair to steady the camera.

Bulbs Need Plant Food

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

This is the time to feed all the different kinds of bulbs that have green leaves in winter. Red, yellow and white spiderlilies (Lycoris), sternbergias, miniature amaryllis, the small Zephyranthes candida, Scilla peruviana, the fall blooming crocuses, the mottled leaved little Arum italicum and any other bulbous plants that have foliage in winter need their food now. Even if the soil in which you planted these bulbs was rich or you mixed in plenty of fertilizer when the bulbs were planted, they will still benefit from a top dressing of bone meal and a complete fertilizer right now.

COMPETITION

Most of the bulbs in question multiply fairly rapid. They are usually growing in competition with other garden plants or with tree or shrub roots which may have taken up the fertilizer you put in the soil when you planted the bulbs. All the kinds of bulbs we mentioned above except the miniature amaryllis (Rhodophiala) grow fairly near the surface where their roots can take immediate advantage of fertilizer which the fall and winter rains will dissolve for them right away. Top feeding is, in fact the means of growing bulbs underneath trees. If you fail to feed bulbs that are crowded in the soil underneath trees, however, you will have few flowers and will soon have to take up the bulbs and divide them.

Scatter a liberal amount of bone meal over your bulbs, and then scatter a normal feeding of complete fertilizer. The pellet form of fertilizer is most convenient because you can get a more even distribution with this form than with the powdered form and because the pellets do not leave a messy deposit on the foliage. Rain will wash off the bone meal quickly, but sometimes cakes complete fertilizer on foliage.

The column has received inquiries about chrysanthemums that suddenly wilt. Chrysanthemums are subject to the same wilt which affects tomatoes. Once you have this wilt in your soil, the best thing to do is to burn all the affected chrysanthemums and start over again in a new place. If you try to move your plants to a new spot, they will surely take the disease with them in stems, roots and soil. Take cuttings of the healthy parts of your plants, and set them out in a new location when they are rooted. Even after you have done this, you must keep a watchful eye over your new plants and dig and burn any which wilt. Remove the soil in which the wilted plants grew, too.

It is best not to grow chrysanthemums where tomatoes have been grown or even anywhere near your tomatoes because wilt is such an insidious thing that it can defeat your every effort.

Elm Disease Is Curbed By Chemical Use

Chemical warfare is reaching behind the green curtain to help curb Dutch elm disease.

Dormant spraying of elms, once confined to the Spring period before leafing, now extends to Autumn after leaf fall.

The important point is that a single DDT spraying on bare trees has year-long lethal power against invading elm bark beetles. These insects are the carriers of the Dutch elm malady.

E. T. Bowen, tree specialist, says Fall often offers definite spraying advantages. Instead of the wet, cold and windy weather sometimes typical of spring, often autumn and early winter frequently bring many bright, dry, mild and relatively windless days that are ideal for effective spraying operations.

EXTENSION NOTES

Plant Trees, Shrubs Now

By AUDREY DAWSON

It's getting time to plant that tree or shrub that you, Mrs. Gardener, have been wanting to put in your landscape so here're a few reminders — just in case, plant your shrubs at least three feet away from the house or building. Plant them far enough away from walks so they can't scratch passerby and sufficient distance from the driveway so they will not block your view.

In finding just the right place for that tree, remember if planted too close to the house leaves can fill the gutters. Also, the roots of the trees may invade the foundation of the house and cause it to crack. Some of our trees are litter droppers as the Chinese elm, willow, walnuts, mimosa and others. You will want to keep this in mind when locating these on your plan.

One other thing, be sure you know the size of the tree at maturity. It's mighty expensive to remove trees after they are grown because it takes a lot of digging. Better not depend on your decision as to where that tree should be planted. Most of us women never visualize that tree at maturity, but husbands can give you some pretty good advice as to where the tree should be planted - better follow it too.

WASH, WEAR COTTONS

Our clothing specialist, Miss Fae Roark, says there will be more wash and wear cotton on the market this season. There are a few tips to remember, Mrs. Homemaker, in buying and sewing these easy to care for cottons. When buying wash and wear piece goods, check to see that the grain of the fabric is straight. This means that the fabric should be woven so that the threads cross each other at right angles. When sewing use very sharp sheers, pins and needles and mercerized cotton thread. To prevent puckering, loose stitch should be used. Before sewing the garment on your machine, experiment with a piece of the fabric. Twelve to 14 stitches to the inch with a fine needle should give a smooth firm finish. Hold the fabrics securely with both hands and stitch at a slow even speed and press as you sew with a steam iron or a warm iron and cloth.

INTERESTING FACTS

If our population in the United States reaches 230 billion by 1975 as predicted farmers and ranchers will be kept busy because our specialists tell us this group of people will need 16.3 billion pounds of red meat, 47 billion pounds of milk, 20.7 million tons more fruit and vegetables and 20 billion eggs than the farmers now produce. These amounts will be necessary because homemakers are continuing to improve the diets of their families. These figures show us that our nation of people are well fed for which each of us is thankful.

There's not too many days until Christmas and maybe you, Mrs. Homemaker, are making plans for Santa Claus to bring your family a new rug or carpet. If so, then here are a few suggestions from our home furnishings specialist, Mrs. Jessie Mae Hill. No one fiber is suitable for all purposes and each has advantages and disadvantages. Wool is crush resistant, durable and has a long wear life. It is soil resistant and colrofast and easy to clean. Wool rugs are now moth proofed for life. Man-made fibers do not hold moisture as wool, cotton and linen do. This dryness means that they are less prone to absorb water soluble stains. Nylon has great abrasive resistance. It is elastic and has excellent recovery to crushing. It is soil and spot resistant and easily cleaned. A lighted match or live ashes dropped on a nylon rug will not burn but will melt the pile fibers down to the backing.

Cotton rugs crush and lack resilience but tightly twisted loop uncut piles have more crush and soil resistance and resilience.

Wildcat Well In Mississippi To Be Tested

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Humble Oil and Refining Co. is preparing to run production tests at an important Yazoo County wildcat.

The the tests will be run at the Thompson No. 1, section 3, 9 north, 1 west, about four miles northwest of Bentonia.

Operators set production casing to 10,528 feet to evaluate oil shows found in the Hosston formation at 10,170 and 10,304 feet. The well will be tested with a workover rig with the big diesel electric drilling rig moved off.

The wildcat was drilled to 15,020 feet and failed to reach the top of the Smackover lime. Hosston oil shows in this part of the state have proved disappointing to date.

The small Virlillia field located several miles east of the Humble venture produced for a short time from the Hosston formation.

In the recently discovered Smithdale oil field of Amite County, Southwest Gas Producing Co. is testing its board of supervisors No. 1, sec. 16-4n-6e, with the well reported flowing 152 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 11,053-66 feet.

Also in Amite County, two important wildcats were nearing the interesting stage. Justiss - Mears Oil Co. is below 11,200 feet in its Ewell No. 1, sec. 23-1n-3e, and Bateman Drilling Co. is below 9,900 feet in its Koppers Co. No. 1, sec. 32-4n-5e. E. L. Rickson has abandoned his Amite County wildcat, the Gaughan-O'Connor No. 1, sec. 8-3n-3e, after failing to log oil sands. Total depth of the well was 11,672 feet.

In Pike County, E. Cockrell is drilling below 11,600 feet in his wildcat, the Brumfield No. 1, sec. 26-2n-6e, located near the Walthall County line. Also in Pike, Chartor Oil Co. is below 9,200 feet in its Dunaway No. 1, sec. 12-3n-8e, and R. E. Williams is below 9,000 feet in his May-Love No. 1, sec. 1-4n-7e. All three ventures are to be drilled below 11,000 feet.

In Walthall County, Jett Drilling Co. is below 12,000 feet in its wildcat, the Crown - Zellerbach No. 1, sec. 27-1n-11e, with the venture to go to 13,500 feet.

In western Hinds County, Argo Oil Corp. is below 2,500 feet in its wildcat, the Harvey Anderson estate No. 1, sec. 34-7n-4w, a 13,300 foot try.

Gulf Oil Corp. is below 7,300 feet in its Copiah County wildcat, the Gatesville unit No. 1, sec. 24-2n-1w, with the contract depth 14,500 feet.

Field drilling during the past week saw three new oilers and one gas well completed.

In the McComb field of Pike County, George Harrison finaled his board of supervisors No. 1, 16-15, sec. 16-2n-7e, flowing 120 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 10,958-70 feet. Also in McComb, Wallace Harrison is in the process of completing his Algiers No. 1, sec. 14-3n-7e, with the well reported flowing an estimated 105 barrels per day from 10,921-27 feet.

In the West Bude field of Franklin County, Gulf Oil Corp. completed its unit No. 44-4, sec. 44-5n-3e, flowing 42 barrels of oil daily from 10,935-45 feet.

At Knoxo in Marion County, Texaco Seaboard Inc. completed its board of supervisors No. B-1, sec. 27-3n-11e, as a dual producer. The well flowed 2,500,000 cubic feet of gas per day from a sand at 13,243-80 feet and 3,600,000 cubic feet daily from 12,822-854 feet.

Five New Wells Are Discovered In Texas Areas

AUSTIN (UPI)—Five oil discoveries were made in as many regions of Texas last week, according to the State Railroad Commission.

The finds were made with wildcat wells drilled in the Refugio, Palestine, Kilgore, Wichita Falls and Pampa districts. A lone gas discovery was reported in the Abilene district, and there were 41 dusters.

A total of 113 oil and 16 gas wells were completed during the week, and another 245 regular drilling applications received by the commission.

So far in 1960 there have been 8,516 oil and 1,751 gas well completions. That compares with respective total of 10,045 and 1,629 for the same period last year, representing a large drop in oil wells and a slight gain in gas completions.

A net increase of 74 wells brought the number of active rigs in the state to 197,151. Average calendar day allowable increased 6,853 barrels to a total of 2,688,077.

Oil Industry Problems To Be Analyzed

CHICAGO (AP) — Sen. John Kennedy's presidential victory will figure in discussions Monday as the nation's oilmen meet to analyze industry problems.

Major operators and independent producers will be among the 6,000 oilmen at the annual meeting of the American Petroleum Institute (API).

Politics and general election results figure only indirectly in the prepared agenda for the three-day meeting, but the Kennedy victory will figure prominently in discussions.

The industry's major problems are about the same as for the last three API meetings — a world oil surplus, excess producing and refining capacity, federal controls over wellhead prices of natural gas, and attacks on the industry's 27½ per cent depletion tax allowance.

Kennedy's election could have particular bearing on natural gas and depletion. As a senator he has voted against removal of gas prices from Federal Power Commission jurisdiction and has voted for a graduated reduction of the depletion allowance.

ATTACKS

Renewed attacks on depletion had been expected for 1961 regardless of the election outcome. Prospects for the new Congress to act on natural gas also were not considered encouraging.

Major and independent oil operators frequently disagree on industry problems but they are united in efforts to retain the 34-year-old tax allowance.

Recent attacks on depletion have been confined to the Senate. The most recent attack was defeated, 56-30, on June 20 with Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson leading the defense.

The 1961 Senate lineup will be about the same, except that Kennedy moves to the White House and Johnson becomes vice president.

Of the 30 senators who voted for graduated reduction, only Kennedy will be missing from the Senate floor next year.

Only five of the 30 were up for new terms and all five were re-elected. Among them was Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., who twice has introduced graduated reduction amendments.

Four of the 56 who backed the full 27½ per cent will be missing. In addition to Johnson, they are Sens. J. Allen Frear Jr., D-Del., who was defeated, and Thomas E. Martin, R-Iowa, and Gale McGee, D-Wyo., who are not returning to the Senate.

Frank Porter, Oklahoma operator and API president, probably will comment on the status of depletion and natural gas legislation in his annual report Monday.

Another opening session speaker, James F. Murray Jr., director of finance, Jersey City, N. J., also will touch on politics. His subject will be "you elected them, now work for them!"

M. J. Rathbone, API board chairman and president of Standard Oil Co. New Jersey makes his report Wednesday at the second general session.

The remainder of the program includes group sessions for production, refining, marketing, transportation, finances and accounting, technical services, buying, and petroleum statistics.

Producers on Tuesday will hear a domestic crude oil demand review and forecast. Then they will discuss possibilities for economy in exploration, drilling, and producing.

Research projects and safety procedures are major items for the refining sessions.

Now Awaits Democrats' Next Move

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Business took the presidential election in stride without displaying any noticeable jitters about what changes the new Democratic administration might bring.

Financial leaders felt that the slimness of President-elect John F. Kennedy's victory could result in a toning down of more radical maneuvers which had been contemplated.

The stock market shook off whatever apprehension it had over a Kennedy triumph and soared on Thursday to the greatest gain it has registered in more than a year.

This spurt climaxed seven straight days of advance by the Associated Press average of 60 stocks. The market declined moderately Friday as profit taking set in.

VOLUME

This week's volume was 15,742,-653 shares compared with 13,462,-497 the week before. Bond sales on the New York Stock Exchange totaled $22,432,000 this week against $25,103,000 the previous week.

The economic community was buoyed by the expectation of more spending under the Kennedy administration for defense, housing and schools.

But there was general agreement that many problems are ahead. Among them are general business conditions, unemployment and the outflow of gold.

Developments this week helped to emphasize these factors.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York found that "a gentle sag" continues throughout much of the economy. And the bank said it may have some distance to go.

The unemployment picture turned worse in October with the number of idle increasing from 3,388,000 to 3,579,000. This increase of 191,000 came in a month when a drop of about 200,000 normally is expected.

The number of employed dropped from 67,767,000 to 67,490,-000. Usually an increase of more than 300,000 occurs in October.

GOLD SUPPLY

The U.S. gold supply was whittled by $218 million in the last week, reducing the total in reserve to $18,116,000,000. there has been a decline of $1,206,000,000 since June 30. One of the principal reasons for the drop is that short-term interest rates in Europe are considerably higher than in the United States.

Conditions in the steel industry continued to deteriorate and predictions were that it may be next March before there is any real change for the better in the market.

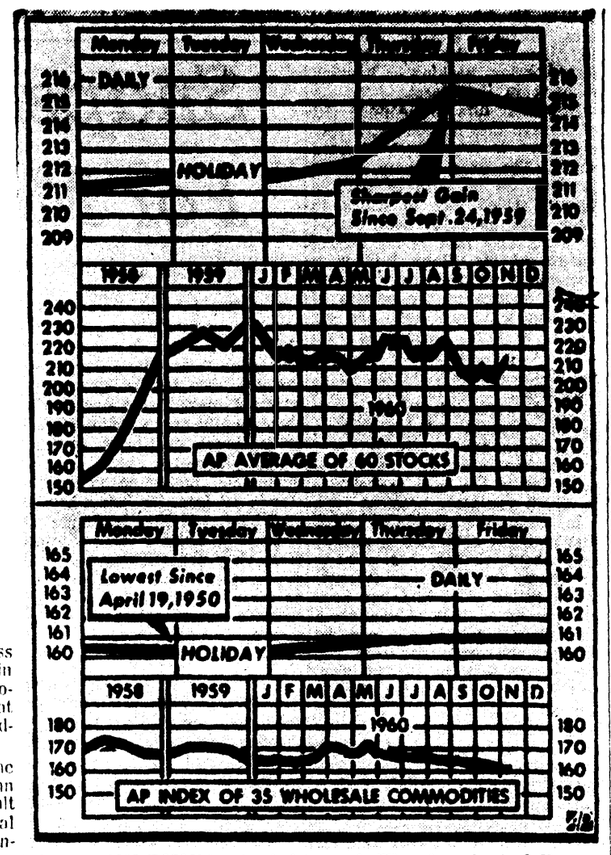

Estimated production dipped to 51.4 per cent of capacity from 51.9 last week.

Cutbacks in orders for automotive steel for November and December blasted hopes for recovery. However, this was partially offset by new orders from general users.

Output was estimated at 143,-000 passenger cars, down from 145,422 a week ago.

October new car sales were the best for the month in history, totaling 540,200, a gain of 6.5 per cent over October 1959.

Retail sales in October totaled $18.4 billion, a two per cent gain over both the previous month and October 1959. Sales by department stores and auto dealers were mainly responsible.

FOR THE THIRD straight week The Assoicated Press average of 60 stocks moved higher closing for the week at 214.6 from 211.2 a week ago. Paced by food and livestock the commodity index advanced for the first time in six weeks when it finished the week at 161.0 from 160.4 the preceding week. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

'THORNY' PROBLEM

World Discussion Of Trade Planned

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the thorny problems caught in the middle during the change in administrations is world trade. Where we're hurting and where we stand to benefit will be getting a verbal going over here this week at the National Foreign Trade Convention.

Some 2,000 American and foreign businessmen, financiers and government officials are on hand to thrash it out.

The problems range far and wide—our loss of gold and dollars to other lands, charges of loss of jobs by Americans either because imports cramp our domestic manufacturers or because U. S. corporations rush to put up plants overseas to make goods they once made here for export.

SEIZURE

What's to do about seizure of our property overseas, as in Cuba? Or about our exports still running into barriers abroad although the dollar gap is now history? Or about the tax treatment of profits Americans make on their investments abroad?

American exporters will be assessing the competitive threat from the European trade blocs—the Inner Six or Common Market and the Outer Seven or Free Trade Association.

And over all the formal talks and conferences and over the idea sapping in the corridors where the delegates mingle will be the shadow of the hammer and sickle—the threat, real and potential, to non-communist world trade by the Red bloc.

Actually, the Americans engaged in foreign trade can boast of a much better balance in their dealings this year than last. Our exports this summer were running at about $20 billion a year, compared with $15.5 billion in the early part of 1959. Our imports have swung lower. In September we imported $232 million less than in the 1959 month.

The National Foreign Trade Council, sponsor of the convention has predicted that for the year as a whole our exports should top imports by $3.4 billion. It estimates final figures for the year as exports $18.8 billion, imports $15.4 billion.

But Uncle Sam is still running behind in total payment of dollars to foreigners against receipt of dollars from them.

Wildcat Strike Closes Hotel

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—The Hotel Barranquitas was shut down Saturday after what management called a wildcat walkout by its 50 employes. All the guests in the nearly full mountain hotel 40 miles southwest of here were moved to San Juan hotels.

The Barranquitas is owned by the Condado Caribbean Hotels, Inc., of Chicago.

Teamster organized Frank Chavez said the strikers demanded the return of six discharged employes, plus recognition of his union as their bargaining agent. Hotel President Fred Dieterle said the six had quit and contended neither the Teamsters nor the Hotel and Restaurant Employes Union were legal represenatives of the employs.

Weight Poses Problem To Auto Makers

By AK VANDENBERG
UPI Automotive Editor

DETROIT (UPI) — Auto engineers and stylists are probably the only persons who watch weight more closely than a dieting woman.

To the auto industry weight is similar to disease in the medical field. Just as the doctor feels that disease breeds more disease, so the auto engineer feels that weight in one part off a car breeds more weight in other parts of the car. And the auto engineers fight weight just as strenuously as the doctor fights disease.

Jack Charipar, chief engineer for the Plymouth - DeSoto - Valiant division of Chrysler Corp., says engineers have worked out the effect added weight, or reduced weight, in one section of a car will have on other parts.

RELATIONSHIP

For example, Charipar says, a pound of weight added to the exterior skin of a car will require about a third of pound additional in the car's structural design, suspension system, brakes, wheels, tires and power plant.

That is only a theoretical relationship because the engineers obviously are not going to change all those parts just to accommodate one pound of extra weight. But the relationship applies when larger amounts of weight are added and it served as a guide to the engineers and stylists in planning a new car.

Glass Industry Faces Problem With Plastics

NEW YORK (UPI)— The glass industry, which has enough headaches from its continuous battle with metal in the packaging field, is now facing increased competition in the glazing field from plastic.

Makers of optically-clear cast plastic sheets have set their sights on the glazing field, which they say is their fastest growing market. They boast that acrylic sheets are ideal for windows in schools and industrial plants "because they can withstand much greater impact than glass."

It was back about the turn of the century that the first, and now the most used plastic, an acrylic resin, was cast between two panes of glass in a search for a proper laminate for safety glass. The result, according to the Polycast Corp., was a sheet more resistant than glass to such things as weather and heat distortion and with unusually high optical qualities.

However, it was not until 193[illegible] that acrylic sheets were cast commercially to provide canopies and ports for aircraft, among other applications.

Now, John O. Beattie, president of the Stamford, Conn. firm said the casting of plastic sheets is a $100 million a year business, and growing steadily.

Despite this expected growth there are only four companies in the plastic casting field, Beattie noted. He explained that others are discouraged by the difficulties of getting started and of maintaining controls in a type of production beset with many kinds of chemical and engineering problems.

CHANCES ARE 7 OUT OF 10

Car Thief Usually Helped By Auto Owner

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Automotive Writer

DETROIT (AP)—If your car is stolen the chances are about 7 out of 10 that you helped the thief.

"There's no such thing as a theft-proof car," says Richard Wedekind of the National Automobile Theft Bureau, "but you can do a number of things to discourage a thief."

"In fact," adds William J. Davis, who is Wedekind's boss, "the car owner is the first line of defense against car thieves. For example, at least 70 per cent of all cars stolen last year had been left either unlocked or with the keys in the ignition or both.

"This is carelessness, negligence and I'm tempted to say stupidity."

MANAGERS

Davis is secretary and manager of the western division of the National Automobile Theft Bureau in Chicago. Wedekind is special agent in charge of the Detroit office. Their organization is the only nationwide clearing house for information on stolen vehicles.

It was set up in 1912 and is now owned by more than 300 insurance companies. It aims to help law enforcement agencies prevent auto thefts, to identify and recover stolen cars and to investigate suspicious automobile fires and fraudulent theft losses.

In the master NATB files in Chicago is a record of almost every car stolen in the United States. And that's a lot of cars. Last year 288,300 cars valued at more than $240 million were reported stolen in this country, or about one every two minutes.

SPECIAL

One of Wedekind's special jobs in Detroit is working with car manufacturers. He is able to provide them with patterns of car theft — showing how cars are stolen and suggesting ways designs might be changed to stymie some thefts. They cooperate with him in tracing cars by furnishing original records of where a car was sold.

The manufacturers have shown a definite willingness to cooperate in making their cars harder to steal, Wedekind says. He notes changes made in the ignition lock by Chevrolet several years ago and by Chrysler Corp. in its trunk locking system.

Davis offers these suggestions if you are thinking of buying a used car.

"Buy from a dealer you know and can trust. Then if by chance you get a car that has been stolen you are in a position to recover your losses. If you buy from an individual, make your own investigation. Find out where he lives, his reputation, the history of the car.

DOUBTS

"If you have doubts about the car you can ask your police department to check with us. All they have to do is call us and we can make an immediate check against our stolen car files."

To protect the car you already have, Davis and Wedekind urge:

1. Always remove the key from the ignition and lock it. Close all windows and lock the doors.
2. Park in well-lighted areas.
3. Watch what you do with duplicate keys.
4. Don't leave your registration certificate in the glove compartment.
5. Don't leave packages or clothing in plain sight inside the car.

Even these measures won't stop a determined thief. But they will slow him down, possibly enough to allow him to be caught.

The control tower permit, issued Wednesday, calls for a 15 room, two bath brick structure, with 4,000 square feet of floor space.

The tower will be built at the city airfield.

Wildcat Well In Mississippi To Be Tested

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Humble Oil and Refining Co. is preparing to run production tests at an important Yazoo County wildcat.

The the tests will be run at the Thompson No. 1, section 3, 9 north, 1 west, about four miles northwest of Bentonia.

Operators set production casing to 10,528 feet to evaluate oil shows found in the Hosston formation at 10,170 and 10,304 feet. The well will be tested with a workover rig with the big diesel electric drilling rig moved off.

The wildcat was drilled to 15,020 feet and failed to reach the top of the Smackover lime. Hosston oil shows in this part of the state have proved disappointing to date.

The small Virlillia field located several miles east of the Humble venture produced for a short time from the Hosston formation.

In the recently discovered Smithdale oil field of Amite County, Southwest Gas Producing Co. is testing its board of supervisors No. 1, sec. 16-4n-6e, with the well reported flowing 152 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 11,058-66 feet.

Also in Amite County, two important wildcats were nearing the interesting stage. Justiss - Mears Oil Co. is below 11,200 feet in its Ewell No. 1, sec. 28-1n-3e, and Bateman Drilling Co. is below 9,900 feet in its Koppers Co. No. 1, sec. 32-4n-5e. E. L. Rickson has abandoned his Amite County wildcat, the Gaughan-O'Connor No. 1, sec. 6-3n-3e, after failing to log oil sands. Total depth of the well was 11,672 feet.

In Pike County, E. Cockrell is drilling below 11,600 feet in his wildcat, the Brumfield No. 1, sec. 26-2n-6e, located near the Walthall County line. Also in Pike, Chartor Oil Co. is below 9,200 feet in its Dunaway No. 1, sec. 12-3n-8e, and R. E. Williams is below 9,000 feet in his May-Love No. 1, sec. 1-4n-7e. All three ventures are to be drilled below 11,000 feet.

In Walthall County, Jett Drilling Co. is below 12,000 feet in its wildcat, the Crown - Zellerbach No. 1, sec. 27-1n-11e, with the venture to go to 13,500 feet.

In western Hinds County, Argo Oil Corp. is below 2,500 feet in its wildcat, the Harvey Anderson estate No. 1, sec. 34-7n-4w, a 13,300 foot try.

Gulf Oil Corp. is below 7,300 feet in its Copiah County wildcat, the Gatesville unit No. 1, sec. 24-2n-1w, with the contract depth 14,500 feet.

Field drilling during the past week saw three new oilers and one gas well completed.

In the McComb field of Pike County, George Harrison finaled his board of supervisors No. 1, 16-15, sec. 16-2n-7e, flowing 120 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 10,958-70 feet. Also in McComb, Wallace Harrison is in the process of completing his Algiers No. 1, sec. 14-3n-7e, with the well reported flowing an estimated 105 barrels per day from 10,921-27 feet.

In the West Bude field of Franklin County, Gulf Oil Corp. completed its unit No. 44-4, sec. 44-5n-3e, flowing 42 barrels of oil daily from 10,935-45 feet.

At Knoxo in Marion County, Texaco Seaboard Inc. completed its board of supervisors No. B-1, sec. 27-3n-11e, as a dual producer. The well flowed 2,500,000 cubic feet of gas per day from a sand at 13,248-80 feet and 3,600,000 cubic feet daily from 12,822-854 feet.

Five New Wells Are Discovered In Texas Areas

AUSTIN (UPI)—Five oil discoveries were made in as many regions of Texas last week, according to the State Railroad Commission.

The finds were made with wildcat wells drilled in the Refugio, Palestine, Kilgore, Wichita Falls and Pampa districts. A lone gas discovery was reported in the Abilene district, and there were 41 dusters.

A total of 113 oil and 16 gas wells were completed during the week, and another 245 regular drilling applications received by the commission.

So far in 1960 there have been 8,516 oil and 1,751 gas well completions. That compares with respective total of 10,045 and 1,629 for the same period last year, representing a large drop in oil wells and a slight gain in gas completions.

A net increase of 74 wells brought the number of active rigs in the state to 197,151. Average calendar day allowable increased 6,853 barrels to a total of 2,688,977.

Oil Industry Problems To Be Analyzed

CHICAGO (AP) — Sen. John Kennedy's presidential victory will figure in discussions Monday as the nation's oilmen meet to analyze industry problems.

Major operators and independent producers will be among the 6,000 oilmen at the annual meeting of the American Petroleum Institute (API).

Politics and general election results figure only indirectly in the prepared agenda for the three-day meeting, but the Kennedy victory will figure prominently in discussions.

The industry's major problems are about the same as for the last three API meetings — a world oil surplus, excess producing and refining capacity, federal controls over wellhead prices of natural gas, and attacks on the industry's 27½ per cent depletion tax allowance.

Kennedy's election could have particular bearing on natural gas and depletion. As a senator he has voted against removal of gas prices from Federal Power Commission jurisdiction and has voted for a graduated reduction of the depletion allowance.

ATTACKS

Renewed attacks on depletion had been expected for 1961 regardless of the election outcome. Prospects for the new Congress to act on natural gas also were not considered encouraging.

Major and independent oil operators frequently disagree on industry problems but they are united in efforts to retain the 34-year-old tax allowance.

Recent attacks on depletion have been confined to the Senate. The most recent attack was defeated, 56-30, on June 20 with Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson leading the defense.

The 1961 Senate lineup will be about the same, except that Kennedy moves to the White House and Johnson becomes vice president.

Of the 30 senators who voted for graduated reduction, only Kennedy will be missing from the Senate floor next year.

Only five of the 30 were up for new terms and all five were re-elected. Among them was Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., who twice has introduced graduated reduction amendments.

Four of the 56 who backed the full 27½ per cent will be missing. In addition to Johnson, they are Sens. J. Allen Frear Jr., D-Del., who was defeated, and Thomas E. Martin, R-Iowa, and Gale McGee, D-Wyo., who are not returning to the Senate.

Frank Porter, Oklahoma operator and API president, probably will comment on the status of depletion and natural gas legislation in his annual report Monday.

Another opening session speaker, James F. Murray Jr., director of finance, Jersey City, N. J., also will touch on politics. His subject will be "you elected them, now work for them!"

M. J. Rathbone, API board chairman and president of Standard Oil Co. New Jersey makes his report Wednesday at the second general session.

The remainder of the program includes group sessions for production, refining, marketing, transportation, finances and accounting, technical services, buying, and petroleum statistics.

Producers on Tuesday will hear a domestic crude oil demand review and forecast. Then they will discuss possibilities for economy in exploration, drilling, and producing.

Research projects and safety procedures are major items for the refining sessions.

Now Awaits Democrats' Next Move

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Business took the presidential election in stride without displaying any noticeable jitters about what changes the new Democratic administration might bring.

Financial leaders felt that the slimness of President-elect John F. Kennedy's victory could result in a toning down of more radical maneuvers which had been contemplated.

The stock market shook off whatever apprehension it had over a Kennedy triumph and soared on Thursday to the greatest gain it has registered in more than a year.

This spurt climaxed seven straight days of advance by the Associated Press average of 60 stocks. The market declined moderately Friday as profit taking set in.

VOLUME

This week's volume was 13,742,858 shares compared with 13,462,497 the week before. Bond sales on the New York Stock Exchange totaled $22,432,000 this week against $25,103,000 the previous week.

The economic community was buoyed by the expectation of more spending under the Kennedy administration for defense, housing and schools.

But there was general agreement that many problems are ahead. Among them are general business conditions, unemployment and the outflow of gold.

Developments this week helped to emphasize these factors.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York found that "a gentle sag" continues throughout much of the economy. And the bank said it may have some distance to go.

The unemployment picture turned worse in October with the number of idle increasing from 3,388,000 to 3,579,000. This increase of 191,000 came in a month when a drop of about 200,000 normally is expected.

The number of employed dropped from 67,767,000 to 67,490,000. Usually an increase of more than 300,000 occurs in October.

GOLD SUPPLY

The U.S. gold supply was whittled by $218 million in the last week, reducing the total in reserve to $18,116,000,000. there has been a decline of $1,206,000,000 since June 30. One of the principal reasons for the drop is that short-term interest rates in Europe are considerably higher than in the United States.

Conditions in the steel industry continued to deteriorate and predictions were that it may be next March before there is any real change for the better in the market.

Estimated production dipped to 51.4 per cent of capacty from 51.9 last week.

Cutbacks in orders for automotive steel for November and December blasted hopes for recovery. However, this was partially offset by new orders from general users.

Output was estimated at 143,000 passenger cars, down from 145,422 a week ago.

October new car sales were the best for the month in history, totaling 540,200, a gain of 6.5 per cent over October 1959.

Retail sales in October totaled $18.4 billion, a two per cent gain over both the previous month and October 1959. Sales by department stores and auto dealers were mainly responsible.

'THORNY' PROBLEM

World Discussion Of Trade Planned

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the thorny problems caught in the middle during the change in administrations is world trade. Where we're hurting and where we stand to benefit will be getting a verbal going over here this week at the National Foreign Trade Convention.

Some 2,000 American and foreign businessmen, financiers and government officials are on hand to thrash it out.

The problems range far and wide—our loss of gold and dollars to other lands, charges of loss of jobs by Americans either because imports cramp our domestic manufacturers or because U. S. corporations rush to put up plants overseas to make goods they once made here for export.

SEIZURE

What's to do about seizure of our property overseas, as in Cuba? Or about our exports still running into barriers abroad although the dollar gap is now history? Or about the tax treatment of profits Americans make on their investments abroad?

American exporters will be assessing the competitive threat from the European trade blocs—the Inner Six or Common Market and the Outer Seven or Free Trade Association.

And over all the formal talks and conferences and over the idea sapping in the corridors where the delegates mingle will be the shadow of the hammer and sickle—the threat, real and potential, to non-communist world trade by the Red bloc.

Actually, the Americans engaged in foreign trade can boast of a much better balance in their dealings this year than last. Our exports this summer were running at about $20 billion a year, compared with $15.5 billion in the early part of 1959. Our imports have swung lower. In September we imported $232 million less than in the 1959 month.

The National Foreign Trade Council, sponsor of the convention has predicted that for the year as a whole our exports should top imports by $3.4 billion. It estimates final figures for the year as exports $18.8 billion, imports $15.4 billion.

But Uncle Sam is still running behind in total payment of dollars to foreigners against receipt of dollars from them.

Weight Poses Problem To Auto Makers

By AK VANDENBERG
UPI Automotive Editor

DETROIT (UPI) — Auto engineers and stylists are probably the only persons who watch weight more closely than a dieting woman.

To the auto industry weight is similar to disease in the medical field. Just as the doctor feels that disease breeds more disease, so the auto engineer feels that weight in one part off a car breeds more weight in other parts of the car. And the auto engineers fight weight just as strenuously as the doctor fights disease.

Jack Charipar, chief engineer for the Plymouth - DeSoto - Valiant division of Chrysler Corp., says engineers have worked out the effect added weight, or reduced weight, in one section of a car will have on other parts.

RELATIONSHIP

For example, Charipar says, a pound of weight added to the exterior skin of a car will require about a third of pound additional in the car's structural design, suspension system, brakes, wheels, tires and power plant.

That is only a theoretical relationship because the engineers obviously are not going to change all those parts just to accommodate one pound of extra weight. But the relationship applies when larger amounts of weight are added and it served as a guide to the engineers and stylists in planning a new car.

Wildcat Strike Closes Hotel

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—The Hotel Barranquitas was shut down Saturday after what management called a wildcat walkout by its 50 employes. All the guests in the nearly full mountain hotel 40 miles southwest of here were moved to San Juan hotels.

The Barranquitas is owned by the Condado Caribbean Hotels, Inc., of Chicago.

Teamster organized Frank Chavez said the strikers demanded the return of six discharged employes, plus recognition of his union as their bargaining agent. Hotel President Fred Dieterle said the six had quit and contended neither the Teamsters nor the Hotel and Restaurant Employes Union were legal represenatives of the employs.

CHANCES ARE 7 OUT OF 10

Car Thief Usually Helped By Auto Owner

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Automotive Writer

DETROIT (AP)—If your car is stolen the chances are about 7 out of 10 that you helped the thief.

"There's no such thing as a theft-proof car," says Richard Wedekind of the National Automobile Theft Bureau, "but you can do a number of things to discourage a thief."

"In fact," adds William J. Davis, who is Wedekind's boss, "the car owner is the first line of defense against car thieves. For example, at least 70 per cent of all cars stolen last year had been left either unlocked or with the keys in the ignition or both.

"This is carelessness, negligence and I'm tempted to say stupidity."

MANAGERS

Davis is secretary and manager of the western division of the National Automobile Theft Bureau in Chicago. Wedekind is special agent in charge of the Detroit office. Their organization is the only nationwide clearing house for information on stolen vehicles.

It was set up in 1912 and is now owned by more than 300 insurance companies. It aims to help law enforcement agencies prevent auto thefts, to identify and recover stolen cars and to investigate suspicious automobile fires and fraudulent theft losses.

In the master NATB files in Chicago is a record of almost every car stolen in the United States. And that's a lot of cars. Last year 288,300 cars valued at more than $240 million were reported stolen in this country, or about one every two minutes.

SPECIAL

One of Wedekind's special jobs in Detroit is working with car manufacturers. He is able to provide them with patterns of car theft — showing how cars are stolen and suggesting ways designs might be changed to stymie some thefts. They cooperate with him in tracing cars by furnishing original records of where a car was sold.

The manufacturers have shown a definite willingness to cooperate in making their cars harder to steal, Wedekind says. He notes changes made in the ignition lock by Chevrolet several years ago and by Chrysler Corp. in its trunk locking system.

Davis offers these suggestions if you are thinking of buying a used car.

"Buy from a dealer you know and can trust. Then if by chance you get a car that has been stolen you are in a position to recover your losses. If you buy from an individual, make your own investigation. Find out where he lives, his reputation, the history of the car.

DOUBTS

"If you have doubts about the car you can ask your police department to check with us. All they have to do is call us and we can make an immediate check against our stolen car files."

To protect the car you already have, Davis and Wedekind urge:

1. Always remove the key from the ignition and lock it. Close all windows and lock the doors.
2. Park in well-lighted areas.
3. Watch what you do with duplicate keys.
4. Don't leave your registration certificate in the glove compartment.
5. Don't leave packages or clothing in plain sight inside the car.

Even these measures won't stop a determined thief. But they will slow him down, possibly enough to allow him to be caught.

Glass Industry Faces Problem With Plastics

NEW YORK (UPI)— The glass industry, which has enough headaches from its continuous battle with metal in the packaging field, is now facing increased competition in the glazing field from plastic.

Makers of optically-clear cast plastic sheets have set their sights on the glazing field, which they say is their fastest growing market. They boast that acrylic sheets are ideal for windows in schools and industrial plants "because they can withstand much greater impact than glass."

It was back about the turn of the century that the first, and now the most used plastic, an acrylic resin, was cast between two panes of glass in a search for a proper laminate for safety glass. The result, according to the Polycast Corp., was a sheet more resistant than glass to such things as weather and heat distortion and with unusually high optical qualities.

However, it was not until 19[illegible] that acrylic sheets were cast commercially to provide canopies and ports for aircraft, among other applications.

Now, John O. Beattie, president of the Stamford, Conn. firm said, the casting of plastic sheets is a $100 million a year business, and growing steadily.

Despite this expected growth, there are only four companies in the plastic casting field, Beattie noted. He explained that others are discouraged by the difficulties of getting started and of maintaining controls in a type of production beset with many kinds of chemical and engineering problems.

Northeast Cracks Jacksonville Defense, 35 To 0

Stovall Touchdown Hands LSU 1st SEC Win, 7-3

Indians Display Sturdy Defense

By JERRY HARKNESS
Staff Sports Writer

Northeast State returned home last night after some rough luck on the road and treated fans to a 35-0 victory over Jacksonville's Gamecocks at Brown Stadium.

The Indians came through with their finest defense performance of the year, holding the visitors to only seven yards rushing, and showed a fine offensive machine led by halfback Ferdy Cruce, Willie Ragan, Al Ott and Don Wattigny in chalking up five touchdowns. The win revenged a 27-12 Indian loss to the Gamecocks last year.

Jacksonville was a hard - luck team in last night's game. After only six plays from scrimmage the Gamecocks top quarterback Carson Southard was injured and taken off the field on a stretcher.

STATISTICS	Northeast	Jacksonville
First Downs	16	3
Yards Rushing	212	7
Passes	16-8	15-5
Yards Passing	131	43
Fumbles Lost	2	0
Punting	3-22	8-41.9
Penalties	4-20	2-20

Second string quarterback Marv Hudson was injured in the second quarter, leaving Jacksonville with a halfback, Tommy Ford, at the man-under position for the remainder of the game.

Cruce took a Gamecock punt on his own 30-yard line early in the first quarter, slipped through the defenders for a 40-yard return to the Jacksonville 30 set up the Indians first score.

Fullback Ed Thomas and halfback Levy Redden moved the ball to the 17 where quarterback Pete Vincent hit Redden with a 15-yard aerial moving the ball to the two. Thomas blasted over center with 5:40 minutes left in the quarter and Vincent added the PAT for a 7-0 lead.

The Gamecocks kept enough spirit to battle the Indians on even terms for the rest of the first quarter but Northeast passers Don Wattigny and Pete Vincent began opening up the game in the second quarter. The Indians held on the ball for almost the entire quarter and threatened midway when Wattigny found Levy Redden in the clear, hit him with a bullet pass, and moved the ball to the Gamecock 15.

Northeast used three downs, unable to push the ball across, and an attempted field goal from the 14 yard line by Pete Vincent was no good. On first down for Jacksonville quarterback Marv Hudson threw a floating pass intended for halfback Ray Gentles but Northeast end Tommy Latham timed a perfect interception and sprinted 45 yards for a touchdown with only minutes remaining in the first half. Vincent added his second straight PAT and the Indians left the field with a 14-0 lead.

Ford took over the quarterbacking job for Jacksonville in the third period and was unable to use the roll out, pass option play with the success that Hudson had showed before he was hurt. Ford gained only short yardage on the three offensive series the Gamecocks were able to get in the third period and fullback James Williams got plenty of punting practice.

Northeast, with Ott and Ragan moving the ball from the Indian 46 all the way to Jacksonville's three, lost a chance to score when Vincent fumbled and Gamecock left guard Charles Baker recovered.

On the next set of downs by the Indians, however, halfback Morris Douglas scored from the Gamecock two. The touchdown was set up by a 26-yard pass from quarterback Jack Webb to end Carlyle Williams, who almost went all the way himself. Vincent kicked the extra point for a 21-0 lead.

Jacksonville's Williams was forced to punt to open the final period and the Indians wasted no time getting touchdown number four. Don Wattigny took to the air, hitting two straight passes, one to end Charles Barnes for 15 yards and another to Larry Giambelluca for seven yards, moving the ball to the Gamecock 35. With a second down and five situation Ferdy Cruce took a pitchout, found daylight and turned on the speed for a 35-yard touchdown scamper. Cruce kicked the extra point and Northeast held a 28-0 lead with 11:55 minutes remaining in the game.

Jacksonville managed only three plays from scrimmage following the kickoff and punted to the Inidan 39. Holding on to the ball for most of the remaining nine minutes, Northeast got their final scoring drive going from that point.

Halfback Ken Thornhill, quarterback Benny Stubblefield and fullback Terry Head were the workhorses. Steady gains moved the ball all the way to the Gamecock three yard line where Head smashed into the line for the final touchdown. Vincent kicked his fourth extra point of the night.

The Indian defense led by tackle Delmas Thorne, end Charlie Barnes and tackle Delmas Thorne kept constant pressure on the opponents throughout the game. The win brought the Indians record to 36-0.

SPEEDY JACKSONVILLE quarterback Carson Southard moves for yardage on a roll out option play against Northeast early in the opening quarter of last night's game at Brown Stadium. Southard was injured shortly after and did not return to the game. Northeast held the Gamecocks to only seven yards rushing and came through with a 35-0 victory.

Terps Manage 22-19 Win In Last Minute

CHAPEL HILLS, N.C. (AP)—Maryland scored a touchdown in the final 65 seconds after an end zone pass interference penalty and defeated North Carolina 22-19 in an explosive Atlantic Coast Conference football game Saturday.

With the game apparently safely tucked away for the Tar Heels, Maryland's Gale Betty tossed to Tom Brown from the North Carolina 23. The referee ruled that halfback Milam Wall interferred in the end zone, and Maryland was awarded a first down on the 1.

Four plays later, Betty passed to end Gary Collins from the 3 for the touchdown which overcame a 19-14 Tar Heel lead.

Tempers flared, but the officials prevented a wholesale brawl during the final minute.

In the third period, Maryland halfback Dennis Pondoe scooted 90 yards for a touchdown after a North Carolina kickoff.

That touchdown came 13 seconds after North Carolina had opened up a 19-7 lead. The Tar Heels scored when Wall intercepted a pass on the 26, and Moyer Smith raced the distance on the next play.

North Carolina went down to its fifth conference defeat and its seventh over-all this season. The Tar Heels have only one victory, that over Notre Dame.

The victory was Maryland's fifth against four defeats over-all, and its fourth in six conference games.

Bellino Leads Middies Past Virginia, 41-6

By HERB THOMPSON

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Joe Bellino, scoring four touchdowns in one of his finest individual performances as a Navy player, powered the Middies to a 41-6 football victory over Virginia Saturday and set two new Naval Academy records.

One of the runs by the Winchester, Mass., rocket was for 90 yards, his longest run as a varsity player. His other touchdowns came on an eight-yard pass play, a dash of 39 yards, and a plunge of one yard which took him four cracks at a stubborn Virginia line to make.

Bellino gained 198 yards in 17 carries against the hapless Cavaliers, who lost their 25th straight game, giving him a new season rushing record for an Academy player. His 749 yards for nine games wiped out a previous mark of 691 yards set by Fred Franco in 1952.

His 24 points were the highest scored in a single game by a Navy player and were added to the 80 he already had scored this season for a modern Navy record.

Virginia's score came on a 92-yard pass play from Stanford Fischer, third team quarterback, to Joe Kehoe five minutes before the game ended with Navy reserves playing.

The Cavaliers' best previous effort was a drive to the Navy 17 earlier in the same period.

ALEXANDER KICK WINS

Louisiana Tech Surprises Mississippi Southern, 10-7

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (Special) — Louisiana Tech's kicking specialist Bud Alexander booted a 33 - yard field goal in the third period and the Bulldog defense spent the rest of the game thwarting Mississippi Southern drives here tonight to give Tech a hard-earned 10-7 victory over the Southerners.

It was a game in which Don Fuell, Southern's brilliant field general, ran and passed for huge chunks of yardage in the middle of the field, but Tech's defensers were stingy deep in their own territory.

The Southerners dominated play in the first period and kept Tech deep in its own territory. After taking the opening kickoff, Southern moved 55 yards to the Tech 5, mainly on a 45 - yard pass from Fuell to halfback Arnold Spence. Tech's defense gave up only one yard in four tries by Southern and the Canines took over at their ow four.

A short punt by Wayne Parker gave Southern another chance immediately from the Tech 24. Fuell clicked on a 21 - yard aerial for the touchdown to Tommy Morrow and Larson converted.

Southern was knocking again before the end of the quarter. The running of Morris Meador and Morrow carried to the Tech 29, but a pass on a fourth - and - one situation failed and Tech took over at that point.

The Mississippi club had the ball only briefly twice in the second period as the Bulldogs went to work.

Mickey Slaughter clicked on nine of 14 passes for 94 yards before the half, four of the aerials to Tech's star end Tom Causey for 8, 14, 17, and 11 yards.

Tech could never get anything resembling a drive going after Alexander's third period field goal, but the trench men really had to go to work with yeoman performances by Herschel Vinyard, Joe Hinton, Causey, Jerry Hudson, Billy Jack Talton, Jim Campbell, Billy Ware, Charles Bourgeois, Andy Malone, and Don Tippit. Tec's secondary also spent time defending aganst Southern aerial threats.

Tech downed Southern 16-0 at Ruston, La., last year, but this was their first victory over the Mississippi crew on Hattiesburg soil.

End Jerry Griffin hopped on a Southern bobble in the second quarter at the Mississippi 43. Slaughter passed 11 yards to Hudson, two to Paul Hynes, 11 to Causey, and 14 to Jack Howard to move to the five. Hynes got four and then smashed over from the one. Alexander's kick was good.

Tech's field goal strike came in the third period when tackle Andy Malone intercepted a Fuell pass at Southern's 31. Aided by an interference call on a pass, Tech moved to the 26. After Howard got three yards, two Slaughter passes fell incomplete, and Alexander came on to kick the tie-breaking field goal.

That was about all the offense the Bulldogs generated, and the remainder of the third and fourth periods were spent holding off the Southerners.

Paces by the running of Fuell, Southern moved to the Tech six in the third and tried for a tying field goal, but Vinyard broke through to block it.

After two kick exchanges, Southern took over on its own 14 with only 3:45 and nearly moved the distance. Fuell got 11 on an option play, passed to Morrow for 18, got nine more around end to the Tech 40, ad after two incomplete passes ad a six yard loss, he tossed on fourth down to John Sklopan on a play that went to the Tech 23. Fuell then kept for 12 to the 11, and in the final ten seconds was thrown for a 10-yard loss by Max Rudd and Tippit as the game ended.

Duke Pounds Wake Forest

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) —Duke's aroused football team stormed from behind in the second period Saturday and ran over Wake Forest 34-7 to clinch a tie for the Atlantic Coast Conference title and impress the post-season bowl game promoters.

The seventh-ranked Blue Devils scored in every quarter as they won their seventh game in eight starts and brought their conference record to 5-0.

Duke threw a seemingly endless stream of talented quarterbacks and halfbacks, working behind an aggressive line, into the game to wear down the Deacons and beat them for the ninth year in a row.

Quarterback Walt Rappold of the second Duke unit ran over two touchdowns from the two-yard line. Don Altman, No. 1 unit quarterback, hit end Tee Moorman with a 15-yard scoring pass and third stringer Gil Garner got into the act with a 19-yard scoring pass to end Ed Chestnutt in the closing minutes. The other Duke touchdown came on a one-yard run by halfback Dean Wright.

Clemson Bombs Gamecocks, 12-2

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP)—Clemson capitalized on consecutive South Carlina fumbles to insure a 12-2 victory Saturday in the long-time rivals' first football game ever played at Clemson, whose stadium is called Death Valley.

A field goal by Lon Armstrong in the second period as enough to give the Atlantic Coast Conference game to the Clemson Tigers, who closed out their league season at 4-2.

Wildcats Blast Pensacola Navy At 35-8 Count

PINEVILLE, La. (AP) — Joe Stewart paced Louisiana College to a 35-8 victory over Pensacola Naval Air Station Saturday night with two touchdowns and a safety.

Stewart opened the scoring in the first period when he recovered a block punt for a safety. He tallied twice in the second period on short runs.

John Maillet, Sammy Howard and Billy Horn added the other Louisiana College TDs. Bob Corley kicked two conversions and Sonny Huff had one.

Pensacola's touchdown came in the fourth period when John Arms passed 16 yards to Tom Peters. Arms passed to Sherry Brannan for the conversion.

Patience, Punts, Defense Helpful

By BOB ANDERSON
Morning World Sports Editor

BATON ROUGE, La. — LSU was forced to abandon, after a one-game trial, free-wheeling attack in favor of its old reliables—punting, patience and defense—and edged ever-threatening Mississippi State, 7-3, for the Tigers' first Southeastern Conference victory here Saturday night.

A 35-6 winner over South Carolina here last week, LSU didn't have to be patient long last night, ramming over a touchdown late in the first quarter, but used the punt and defense often.

Jerry Stovall burst one yard for the Bengal touchdown with 3:16 left in the initial stanza, a six - pointer set up by the fine running of sophomore dandy Charles Cranford, and then LSU gave up a 21-yard field goal by state's Sammy Datone late in the half.

The second half Stovall punting and the usual rugged defense blanked the Maroons, who also went into the game hunting for SEC victory No. 1 after one tie.

State drove to the LSU 13 early in the first quarter but was forced to go for a field goal from the 18 after the Tiger defense, led by Roy Winston, Ed McCreedy, Donnie Daye, Bo Strange and Mickey Mangham, pushed them back five yards to the 18. The Maroons drove as far as the Bengal 25 in the fourth period before Stovall intercepted a pass to end the threat.

LSU, guided by flashy Lynn Amedee, once the forgotten man of the Tiger quarterback corps, drove the state 13 in the third before Lynn's fourth - down run was two yards shy of a first. They also got to the State eight in the fourth, thanks to a fake - punt gamble by the Maroons, but Cranford fumbled the ball away.

Stovall's punting helped set up the Tiger touchdown.

Midway of the first, he booted one 52 yards to the Maroon 10. Four plays later, State's Charlie Furlow kicked only 30 yards from his 16 and four plays later the Bengals had their touchdown, Cranford setting it up with runs of 15 and 24 yards.

LSU pushed its record to 3-5-1 with the victory while Mississippi State now stands at 2-5-1. In the SEC, Paul Dietzel's Tigers are 1-3-1 and State 0-4-1.

State was sparked by Billy Hill, a quarterback who runs like good halfbacks are supposed to. He powered State's unsuccessful push in the first quarter and along with Dantone, a fullback who didn't run a play until last week, helped set up Dantone's 21 - yard field goal in the second period.

Hill gained 83 yards in 14 carries to lead all rusheres. Minden's Cranford was tops in the ground - gaining department for LSU with 60 yards, a 5.0 average. Cranford also had a fine 27 -yard trip called back on a penalty.

Stovall netted only three yards in five carries but punted eight times, four times on third down, for a 41.6 average.

Amedee completed five of 10 passes for 73 yards and Wendell Harris gained 33 yards on the ground in seven rushes.

After its touchdown in the first quarter, LSU got a break when Darryl Jenkins intercepted a pass by Maroon Furlow on the LSU 41 and returned to the State 22. A 16 - yard Amedee to Stovall pass helped move the ball to the eight but losses pushed it back of the 11, from where Harris tried a field goal that missed.

Both teams made bids in the first quarter, States's a very serious one and LSU's a mild threat.

The Maroons took the opening kickoff and Billy Hill almost single - handedly drove them to the Bengal 13. First he pulled off a brilliant fake and ran outside 33 yards from his 31 to the Bengal 36. He did the same thing on the next play and went for 17 this time.

Mackie Weaver took over to gain one and then Lee Welch got five to 13. But Mangham barreled through to spill Hill back on the 20.

With fourth and 11, Dantone came in, tried a field goal and missed.

LSU whipped off 30 quick yards, Harris going for 15. The Tigers picked up the other 15 on a personal foul penalty. Charlie Cranford gained two to the 38 but Johnny Baker caught Stovall for a three - yard loss, Amedee overthrew Mangham and Stovall punted to the 12.

Late in the first, Stovall got off a 52-yard punt to push state back to its 10. Four plays later, Charlie Furlow got off a 38-yarder from his 16, Hart Bourque made a fair catch at the Maroon 46 and the Tigers got their touchdown.

Harris reeled off a six - yard jaunt and young Cranford took over. He broke off right guard and pounded for 15 yards. Then he ran hard off left tackle, broke into the clear and went 24 yards before Robert Shaw pulled him down from behind on the one.

Amedee faked convincingly to Cranford and gave the ball to Stovall. Jerry dived in for the touchdown off the right side. Harris kicked the PAT. LSU led, 7-0, with 3:16 left in the period.

Then came Jenkins' interception and Harris' unsuccessful field goal. State took over on the 20 and went to the LSU 36. A freak run by Furlow gained 23 of the yards. LSU forced the Maroons to kick at their 36, but Furlow got a high pass and a hard rush and had to run. He went to the Bengal 41. A delay penalty against LSU moved the ball to the 36 but Robert McDonald threw Furlow for a six - yard loss, two rushes gained nothing and the Maroons punted.

Following a Stovall punt on third down, State took over on its 42 and drove to the Bengal four, going the distance on medium runs by Dantone, Hill, Lee Welch and Pat Shute. They got the six and had first and 10.

But McCreedy threw Furlow for minus two and two plays gained only to the four. Dantone, with the ball right in front of the goal posts, came in and booted the ball from the 11 between the uprights to narrow the count to 7-3 with 1:08 left in the half.

On the first series of downs in the third period, Cranford fumbled on second down at the 17 and David Kelley recovered for State on the LSU 15. Dantone gained three in two tired, Shute got two and Dantone tried another FG. This one, placed down on the 18, was off to the left.

Late in the third, LSU started to drive from its 25 after a punt. Amedee hit Cranford with a 15-yard pass, threw to Ray Wilkins for 17 and to Wilkins again for 10 to gain most of the yardage.

The last pass to Wilkins gained to the 21 and Wilkins ran for six on the next play, getting a big hole but slipping down in the secondary. But Cranford was held to one and Amedee got nothing on third down.

On fourth down at the 14, Amedee tried to pass, couldn't find anybody open and ran for one, not enough for the first, one the final play of the third.

Late in the fourth, State gambled on a fake punt at its own 24 and didn't make it, losing one yard. Wilkins ran LSU's first play for no gain but Amedee hit Cranford with a 15-yard pass, Charles, however, fumbled and Billy Tohill recovered for State at the eight.

The Maroons made their last bid then. Shute got 11 yards and Furlow passed to Kelly for 12 and to Bethune for 26 on the big plays. They got as far as the Tiger 25 before Winston, McCreedy and Dave spilled Furlow for an 11-yard loss back to the 36. Furlow then tried another pass. It went straight to Stovall, who grabbed it at the 11 and ran it back to the 34.

The game ended a couple of minutes later.

LSU nearly ran out of fullbacks in the early moments of the first quarter. Donnie Daye hurt an ankle and Earl Gros wrenched a knee on the next play. Daye came back in later to play defense but Gros did not reappear.

LSU next hosts Wake Forest Saturday night and then travels to Tulane in two weeks for the traditional season ender.

Washington Muscle Men Conquer Cal

SEATTLE (AP) — The muscle men of Washington crunched out a 27-7 football victory over California's Bears Saturday and won the Big Five Championship and clinched a second straight Rose Bowl bid before an overflow homecoming day crowd of 56,000.

The Big Five names the Western representative to the bowl.

The favored Huskies hammered 72 yards in a dozen plays from the opening kickoff to score, and ran up all their points before California made a last quarter tally.

Washington gave the big California line a working over in its opening drive, throwing its backs up the middle for short but effective gains. Ray Jackson plunged the last two yards, but George Fleming, who had missed only one previous conversion kicks this year, failed to convert when the pass from center was bobbled.

That first drive used up only five minutes and Washington had its second tally less than four minutes later, going 49 yards in just three plays. Rarely spectacular, the Huskies pulled off a tricky reverse, ending in a 34-yard pass from quarterback Bob Hivner to end Pat Claridge for the touchdown. This time Fleming's kick was good.

Northeast Cracks Jacksonville Defense, 35 To 0

Stovall Touchdown Hands LSU 1st SEC Win, 7-3

Indians Display Sturdy Defense

By JERRY HARKNESS
Staff Sports Writer

Northeast State returned home last night after some rough luck on the road and treated fans to a 35-0 victory over Jacksonville's Gamecocks at Brown Stadium.

The Indians came through with their finest defense performance of the year, holding the visitors to only seven yards rushing, and showed a fine offensive machine led by halfback Ferdy Cruce, Willie Ragan, Al Ott and Don Wattigny in chalking up five touchdowns. The win revenged a 27-12 Indian loss to the Gamecocks last year.

Jacksonville was a hard - luck team in last night's game. After only six plays from scrimmage the Gamecocks top quarterback Carson Southard was injured and taken off the field on a stretcher.

STATISTICS	Northeast	Jacksonville
First Downs	16	3
Yards Rushing	212	7
Passes	16-8	15-5
Fumbles Lost	2	0
Punting	3-22	8-44.9
Penalties	4-20	2-20

Second string quarterback Marv Hudson was injured in the second quarter, leaving Jacksonville with a halfback, Tommy Ford, at the man-under position for the remainder of the game.

Cruce took a Gamecock punt on his own 30-yard line early in the first quarter, slipped through the defenders for a 40-yard return to the Jacksonville 30 set up the Indians first score.

Fullback Ed Thomas and halfback Levy Redden moved the ball to the 17 where quarterback Pete Vincent hit Redden with a 15-yard aerial moving the ball to the two. Thomas blasted over center with 5:40 minutes left in the quarter and Vincent added the PAT for a 7-0 lead.

The Gamecocks kept enough spirit to battle the Indians on even terms for the rest of the first quarter but Northeast passers Don Wattigny and Pete Vincent began opening up the game in the second quarter. The Indians held on the ball for almost the entire quarter and threatened midway when Wattigny found Levy Redden in the clear, hit him with a bullet pass, and moved the ball to the Gamecock 15.

Northeast used three downs, unable to push the ball across, and an attempted field goal from the 14 yard line by Pete Vincent was no good. On first down for Jacksonville quarterback Marv Hudson threw a floating pass intended for halfback Ray Gentles but Northeast end Tommy Latham timed a perfect interception and sprinted 45 yards for a touchdown with only minutes remaining in the first half. Vincent added his second straight PAT and the Indians left the field with a 14-0 lead.

Ford took over the quarterbacking job for Jacksonville in the third period and was unable to use the roll out, pass option play with the success that Hudson had showed before he was hurt. Ford gained only short yardage on the three offensive series the Gamecocks were able to get in the third period and fullback James Williams got plenty of punting practice.

Northeast, with Ott and Ragan moving the ball from the Indian 46 all the way to Jacksonville's three, lost a chance to score when Vincent fumbled and Gamecock left guard Charles Baker recovered.

On the next set of downs by the Indians, however, halfback Morris Douglas scored from the Gamecock two. The touchdown was set up by a 26-yard pass from quarterback Jack Webb to end Carlyle Williams, who almost went all the way himself. Vincent kicked the extra point for a 21-0 lead.

Jacksonville's Williams was forced to punt to open the final period and the Indians wasted no time getting touchdown number four. Don Wattigny took to the air, hitting two straight passes, one to end Charles Barnes for 15 yards and another to Larry Giambelluca for seven yards, moving the ball to the Gamecock 35. With a second down and five situation Ferdy Cruce took a pitchout, found daylight and turned on the speed for a 35-yard touchdown scamper. Cruce kicked the extra point and Northeast held a 28-0 lead with 11:55 minutes remaining in the game.

Jacksonville managed only three plays from scrimmage following the kickoff and punted to the Inidan 39. Holding on to the ball for most of the remaining nine minutes, Northeast got their final scoring drive going from that point.

Halfback Ken Thornhill, quarterback Benny Stubblefield and fullback Terry Head were the workhorses. Steady gains moved the ball all the way to the Gamecock three yard line where Head smashed into the line for the final touchdown. Vincent kicked his fourth extra point of the night.

The Indian defense led by tackle Delmas Thorne, end Charlie Barnes and tackle Delmas Thorne kept constant pressure on the opponents throughout the game. The win brought the Indians record to 36-0.

SPEEDY JACKSONVILLE quarterback Carson Southard moves for yardage on a roll out option play against Northeast early in the opening quarter of last night's game at Brown Stadium. Southard was injured shortly after and did not return to the game. Northeast held the Gamecocks to only seven yards rushing and came through with a 35-0 victory.

Terps Manage 22-19 Win In Last Minute

CHAPEL HILLS, N.C. (AP)—Maryland scored a touchdown in the final 65 seconds after an end zone pass interference penalty and defeated North Carolina 22-19 in an explosive Atlantic Coast Conference football game Saturday.

With the game apparently safely tucked away for the Tar Heels, Maryland's Gale Betty tossed to Tom Brown from the North Carolina 23. The referee ruled that halfback Milam Wall interferred in the end zone, and Maryland was awarded a first down on the 1.

Four plays later, Betty passed to end Gary Collins from the 3 for the touchdown which overcame a 19-14 Tar Heel lead.

Tempers flared, but the officials prevented a wholesale brawl during the final minute.

In the third period, Maryland halfback Dennis Pondoe scooted 90 yards for a touchdown after a North Carolina kickoff.

That touchdown came 13 seconds after North Carolina had opened up a 19-7 lead. The Tar Heels scored when Wall intercepted a pass on the 26, and Moyer Smith raced the distance on the next play.

North Carolina went down to its fifth conference defeat and its seventh over-all this season. The Tar Heels have only one victory, that over Notre Dame.

The victory was Maryland's fifth against four defeats over-all, and its fourth in six conference games.

Bellino Leads Middies Past Virginia, 41-6

By HERB THOMPSON

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Joe Bellino, scoring four touchdowns in one of his finest individual performances as a Navy player, powered the Middies to a 41-6 football victory over Virginia Saturday and set two new Naval Academy records.

One of the runs by the Winchester, Mass., rocket was for 90 yards, his longest run as a varsity player. His other touchdowns came on an eight-yard pass play, a dash of 39 yards, and a plunge of one yard which took him four cracks at a stubborn Virginia line to make.

Bellino gained 198 yards in 17 carries against the hapless Cavaliers, who lost their 25th straight game, giving him a new season rushing record for an Academy player. His 749 yards for nine games wiped out a previous mark of 691 yards set by Fred Franco in 1952.

His 24 points were the highest scored in a single game by a Navy player and were added to the 80 he already had scored this season for a modern Navy record.

Virginia's score came on a 92-yard pass play from Stanford Fischer, third team quarterback, to Joe Kehoe five minutes before the game ended with Navy reserves playing.

The Cavaliers' best previous effort was a drive to the Navy 17 earlier in the same period.

ALEXANDER KICK WINS

Louisiana Tech Surprises Mississippi Southern, 10-7

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (Special) — Louisiana Tech's kicking specialist Bud Alexander booted a 38 - yard field goal in the third period and the Bulldog defense spent the rest of the game thwarting Mississippi Southern drives here tonight to give Tech a hard-earned 10-7 victory over the Southerners.

It was a game in which Don Fuell, Southern's brilliant field general, ran and passed for huge chunks of yardage in the middle of the field, but Tech's defensers were stingy deep in their own territory.

The Southerners dominated play in the first period and kept Tech deep in its own territory. After taking the opening kickoff, Southern moved 55 yards to the Tech 5, mainly on a 45 - yard pass from Fuell to halfback Arnold Spence. Tech's defense gave up only one yard in four tries by Southern and the Canines took over at their ow four.

A short punt by Wayne Parker gave Southern another chance immediately from the Tech 24. Fuell clicked on a 21 - yard aerial for the touchdown to Tommy Morrow and Larson converted.

Southern was knocking again before the end of the quarter. The running of Morris Meador and Morrow carried to the Tech 29, but a pass on a fourth - and - one situation failed and Tech took over at that point.

The Mississippi club had the ball only briefly twice in the second period as the Bulldogs went to work.

Mickey Slaughter clicked on nine of 14 passes for 94 yards before the half, four of the aerials to Tech's star end Tom Causey for 8, 14, 17, and 11 yards.

Tech could never get anything resembling a drive going after Alexander's third period field goal, but the trench men really had to go to work with yeoman performances by Herschel Vinyard, Joe Hinton, Causey, Jerry Hudson, Billy Jack Talton, Jim Campbell, Billy Ware, Charles Bourgeois, Andy Malone, and Don Tippit. Tec's secondary also spent time defending aganst Southern aerial threats.

Tech downed Southern 16-0 at Ruston, La., last year, but this was their first victory over the Mississippi crew on Hattiesburg soil.

End Jerry Griffin hopped on a Southern bobble in the second quarter at the Mississippi 43. Slaughter passed 11 yards to Hudson, two to Paul Hynes, 11 to Causey, and 14 to Jack Howard to move to the five. Hynes got four and then smashed over from the one. Alexander's kick was good.

Tech's field goal strike came in the third period when tackle Andy Malone intercepted a Fuell pass at Southern's 31. Aided by an interference call on a pass, Tech moved to the 26. After Howard got three yards, two Slaughter passes fell incomplete, and Alexander came on to kick the tie-breaking field goal.

That was about all the offense the Bulldogs generated, and the remainder of the third and fourth periods were spent holding off the Southerners.

Paces by the running of Fuell, Southern moved to the Tech six in the third and tried for a tying field goal, but Vinyard broke through to block it.

After two kick exchanges, Southern took over on its own 14 with only 3:45 and nearly moved the distance. Fuell got 11 on an option play, passed to Morrow for 18, got nine more around end to the Tech 40, ad after two incomplete passes ad a six yard loss, he tossed on fourth down to John Sklopan on a play that went to the Tech 23. Fuell then kept for 12 to the 11, and in the final ten seconds was thrown for a 10-yard loss by Max Rudd and Tippit as the game ended.

Clemson Bombs Gamecocks, 12-2

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP)—Clemson capitalized on consecutive South Carlina fumbles to insure a 12-2 victory Saturday in the long-time rivals' first football game ever played at Clemson, whose stadium is called Death Valley.

A field goal by Lon Armstrong in the second period as enough to give the Atlantic Coast Conference game to the Clemson Tigers, who closed out their league season at 4-2.

Duke Pounds Wake Forest

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) —Duke's aroused football team stormed from behind in the second period Saturday and ran over Wake Forest 34-7 to clinch a tie for the Atlantic Coast Conference title and impress the post-season bowl game promoters.

The seventh-ranked Blue Devils scored in every quarter as they won their seventh game in eight starts and brought their conference record to 5-0.

Duke threw a seemingly endless stream of talented quarterbacks and halfbacks, working behind an aggressive line, into the game to wear down the Deacons and beat them for the ninth year in a row.

Quarterback Walt Rappold of the second Duke unit ran over two touchdowns from the two-yard line. Don Altman, No. 1 unit quarterback, hit end Tee Moorman with a 15-yard scoring pass and third stringer Gil Garner got into the act with a 19-yard scoring pass to end Ed Chestnutt in the closing minutes. The other Duke touchdown came on a one-yard run by halfback Dean Wright.

Wildcats Blast Pensacola Navy At 35-8 Count

PINEVILLE, La. (AP) — Joe Stewart paced Louisiana College to a 35-8 victory over Pensacola Naval Air Station Saturday night with two touchdowns and a safety.

Stewart opened the scoring in the first period when he recovered a block punt for a safety. He tallied twice in the second period on short runs.

John Maillet, Sammy Howard and Billy Horn added the other Louisiana College TDs. Bob Corley kicked two conversions and Sonny Huff had one.

Pensacola's touchdown came in the fourth period when John Arms passed 16 yards to Tom Peters. Arms passed to Sherry Brannan for the conversion.

Patience, Punts, Defense Helpful

By BOB ANDERSON
Morning World Sports Editor

BATON ROUGE, La. — LSU was forced to abandon, after a one-game trial, free-wheeling attack in favor of its old reliables—punting, patience and defense—and edged ever-threatening Mississippi State, 7-3, for the Tigers' first Southeastern Conference victory here Saturday night.

A 35-6 winner over South Carolina here last week, LSU didn't have to be patient long last night, ramming over a touchdown late in the first quarter, but used the punt and defense often.

Jerry Stovall burst one yard for the Bengal touchdown with 3:16 left in the initial stanza, a six - pointer set up by the fine running of sophomore dandy Charles Cranford, and then LSU gave up a 21-yard field goal by state's Sammy Datone late in the half.

The second half Stovall punting and the usual rugged defense blanked the Maroons, who also went into the game hunting for SEC victory No. 1 after one tie.

State drove to the LSU 13 early in the first quarter but was forced to go for a field goal from the 18 after the Tiger defense, led by Roy Winston, Ed McCreedy, Donnie Daye, Bo Strange and Mickey Mangham, pushed them back five yards to the 13. The Maroons drove as far as the Bengal 25 in the fourth period before Stovall intercepted a pass to end the threat.

LSU, guided by flashy Lynn Amedee, once the forgotten man of the Tiger quarterback corps, drove the state 13 in the third before Lynn's fourth - down run was two yards shy of a first. They also got to the State eight in the fourth, thanks to a fake - punt gamble by the Maroons, but Cranford fumbled the ball away.

Stovall's punting helped set up the Tiger touchdown.

Midway of the first, he booted one 52 yards to the Maroon 10. Four plays later, State's Charlie Furlow kicked only 30 yards from his 16 and four plays later the Bengals had their touchdown, Cranford setting it up with runs of 15 and 24 yards.

LSU pushed its record to 3-5-1 with the victory while Mississippi State now stands at 2-5-1. In the SEC, Paul Dietzel's Tigers are 1-3-1 and State 0-4-1.

State was sparked by Billy Hill, a quarterback who runs like good halfbacks are supposed to. He powered State's unsuccessful push in the first quarter and along with Dantone, a fullback who didn't run a play until last week, helped set up Dantone's 21 - yard field goal in the second period.

Hill gained 83 yards in 14 carries to lead all rusheres. Minden's Cranford was tops in the ground - gaining department for LSU with 60 yards, a 5.0 average. Cranford also had a fine 27 -yard trip called back on a penalty.

Stovall netted only three yards in five carries but punted eight times, four times on third down, for a 41.6 average.

Amedee completed five of 10 passes for 73 yards and Wendell Harris gained 33 yards on the ground in seven rushes.

After its touchdown in the first quarter, LSU got a break when Darryl Jenkins intercepted a pass by Maroon Furlow on the LSU 41 and returned to the State 22. A 16 - yard Amedee to Stovall pass helped move the ball to the eight but losses pushed it back of the 11, from where Harris tried a field goal that missed.

Both teams made bids in the first quarter, States's a very serious one and LSU's a mild threat.

The Maroons took the opening kickoff and Billy Hill almost single - handedly drove them to the Bengal 13. First he pulled off a brilliant fake and ran outside 33 yards from his 31 to the Bengal 36. He did the same thing on the next play and went for 17 this time.

Mackie Weaver took over to gain one and then Lee Welch got five to 13. But Mangham barreled through to spill Hill back on the 20.

With fourth and 11, Dantone came in, tried a field goal and missed.

LSU whipped off 30 quick yards, Harris going for 15. The Tigers picked up the other 15 on a personal foul penalty. Charlie Cranford gained two to the 33 but Johnny Baker caught Stovall for a three - yard loss, Amedee overthrew Mangham and Stovall punted to the 12.

Late in the first, Stovall got off a 52-yard punt to push state back to its 10. Four plays later, Charlie Furlow got off a 38-yarder from his 16, Hart Bourque made a fair catch at the Maroon 46 and the Tigers got their touchdown.

Harris reeled off a six - yard jaunt and young Cranford took over. He broke off right guard and pounded for 15 yards. Then he ran hard off left tackle, broke into the clear and went 24 yards before Robert Shaw pulled him down from behind on the one.

Amedee faked convincingly to Cranford and gave the ball to Stovall. Jerry dived in for the touchdown off the right side. Harris kicked the PAT. LSU led, 7-0, with 3:16 left in the period.

Then came Jenkins' interception and Harris' unsuccessful field goal. State took over on the 20 and went to the LSU 36. A freak run by Furlow gained 23 of the yards. LSU forced the Maroons to kick at their 36, but Furlow got a high pass and a hard rush and had to run. He went to the Bengal 41. A delay penalty against LSU moved the ball to the 36 but Robert McDonald threw Furlow for a six - yard loss, two rushes gained nothing and the Maroons punted.

Following a Stovall punt on third down, State took over on its 42 and drove to the Bengal four, going the distance on medium runs by Dantone, Hill, Lee Welch and Pat Shute. They got the six and had first and 10.

But McCreedy threw Furlow for minus two and two plays gained only to the four. Dantone, with the ball right in front of the goal posts, came in and booted the ball from the 11 between the uprights to narrow the count to 7-3 with 1:08 left in the half.

On the first series of downs in the third period, Cranford fumbled on second down at the 17 and David Kelley recovered for State on the LSU 15. Dantone gained three in two tired, Shute got two and Dantone tried another FG. This one, placed down on the 18, was off to the left.

Late in the third, LSU started to drive from its 25 after a punt. Amedee hit Cranford with a 15-yard pass, threw to Ray Wilkins for 17 and to Wilkins again for 10 to gain most of the yardage. The last pass to Wilkins gained to the 21 and Wilkins ran for six on the next play, getting a big hole but slipping down in the secondary. But Cranford was held to one and Amedee got nothing on third down.

On fourth down at the 14, Amedee tried to pass, couldn't find anybody open and ran for one, not enough for the first, one the final play of the third.

Late in the fourth, State gambled on a fake punt at its own 24 and didn't make it, losing one yard. Wilkins ran LSU's first play for no gain but Amedee hit Cranford with a 15-yard pass. Charles, however, fumbled and Billy Tohill recovered for State at the eight.

The Maroons made their last bid then. Shute got 11 yards and Furlow passed to Kelly for 12 and to Bethune for 26 on the big plays. They got as far as the Tiger 25 before Winston, McCreedy and Dave spilled Furlow for an 11-yard loss back to the 36. Furlow then tried another pass. It went straight to Stovall, who grabbed it at the 11 and ran it back to the 34.

The game ended a couple of minutes later.

LSU nearly ran out of fullbacks in the early moments of the first quarter. Donnie Daye hurt an ankle and Earl Gros wrenched a knee on the next play. Daye came back in later to play defense but Gros did not reappear.

LSU next hosts Wake Forest Saturday night and then travels to Tulane in two weeks for the traditional season ender.

Washington Muscle Men Conquer Cal

SEATTLE (AP) — The muscle men of Washington crunched out a 27-7 football victory over California's Bears Saturday and won the Big Five Championship and clinched a second straight Rose Bowl bid before an overflow homecoming day crowd of 56,000.

The Big Five names the Western representative to the bowl.

The favored Huskies hammered 72 yards in a dozen plays from the opening kickoff to score, and ran up all their points before California made a last quarter tally.

Washington gave the big California line a working over in its opening drive, throwing its backs up the middle for short but effective gains. Ray Jackson plunged the last two yards, but George Fleming, who had missed only one previous conversion kicks this year, failed to convert when the pass from center was bobbled.

That first drive used up only five minutes and Washington had its second tally less than four minutes later, going 49 yards in just three plays. Rarely spectacular, the Huskies pulled off a tricky reverse, ending in a 34-yard pass from quarterback Bob Hivner to end Pat Claridge for the touchdown. This time Fleming's kick was good.

Three district football championships have been decided in leagues involving northeast Louisiana high schools, and two more are due for decision within the week. The playoff-bound teams are Neville of Monroe (2-AA), Winnfield (1-A), and Holly Ridge (2-B).

Delhi and Tallulah, well known championship producers, have come to the crossroads of the 2-A race with identical conference records of 5-0-0, and they determine the district championship when they meet next Friday at Tallulah.

Delhi is undefeated in eight games. Tallulah has lost only to Neville's defending state double-A champions by one point, 13-12, in ten games, and one of the victories was a 6-0 win over Vicksburg's Big Eight Conference club of Mississippi.

The race in 3-B was complicated Friday night when the Newellton Bears, who lost all ten of their games a year ago, won their fifth in nine starts this season by upsetting Sicily Island, 19-7, and throwing the district race into a three-way tie involving Sicily Island, Block of Jonesville, and Waterproof, all with 5-1-0 district records.

Sicily Island goes to Jonesville Friday night for a game that's supposed to eliminate one of them. Waterproof will host the Newellton spoilers at the same time in a game that could just as well mean the end of Waterproof's title prospects. So, both games are getting a lot of attention. If Waterproof stops Newellton's upset plans, a playoff looms with the Island - Block winner. In regular season games Waterproof beat Block, 20-19, but lost to Sicily Island, 13-13. It looks like anybody's race.

Neville, which closes its regular campaign against Ouachita Friday, and Winnfield, which has a non - conference home date with Farmerville Thursday, won the championships of their districts a month ago. They got the clinchers on the same night, Oct. 14, when Neville beat Ruston, 39-13, and Winnfield beat Many, 45-0.

Holly Ridge moved into the 2-B championship it held two years ago by beating Mangham's defending champions Friday night, 33-14.

Donnell Goes Home

Ralph Donnell, the Crowville High athlete who suffered a "chipped fracture" of the neck in the recent Crowville - Mangham football game, was discharged from St. Francis Hospital here early this week, but he's supposed to wear a brace on his neck for a while.

Donnell's unexpected early departure from the Monroe hospital ago playing "sandlot" football on the old Monroe City High School grounds Central Grammar, just across the street from St. Francis Hospital.

Complete recovery has been predicted for Donnell, just as Wells overcame his injury.

man of similar experience to only a few hours.

W. L. "Bill" Wells, Monroe, was preparing to call on Donnell when he learned the Franklin parish youth had been allowed to return to his home.

Wells had his neck fractured in 1929.

Grid injuries are rarely fatal, for Donnell's case had area oldtimer remembering two of those rarities — Floyd Smith, a halfback for Bastrop High who was hurt in a game with the old Monroe Tigers November 25, 1926; and Allen "Doc" Woodard, Monroe City High, fatally hurt in the Oak Grove game of November 16, 1929.

Little Boys Inspection

Inspection of West Monroe's facilities for possibly conducting the Little Boys' Baseball World Series next August will take place early next month.

In the meantime, members of the Ironworkers Union have been donating their time in erection of new seats at the North Seventh street park, and apparently the Little Boys will have everything ready in time for the inspection tour that will include Camp Ko-Ja, Highland Park Country Club, and other facilities that have offered their services should the series be awarded to West Monroe.

South Boston, Va., where the series was conducted last summer, and Lookout Mountain, Monroe's chief rivals for the Little Boys' classic.

Jefferson Ladies' Tourney

The deadline for posting entries for the third annual open invitational tennis tournament sponsored by the Jefferson Ladies' Tennis Club, Metairie, La., is Tuesday.

The tournament starts next Saturday and the finals will be played the next day. The J. T. Cup, symbolic of the championship, will be awarded the winner.

Clubs throughout Mississippi and Louisiana have been invited to enter two singles contenders and one doubles team.

Entries should go to Jefferson Parish Recreation Department, 7601 Plum Street, Metairie, La.

Florida Plasters Tulane To Gain Gator Bowl Offer

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — The surprising Florida Gators made their own breaks Saturday to rout underdog Tulane 21-6 and assure Florida of its best season in Southeastern Conference history and a bid to the Gator Bowl.

Immediately after the game, Gator Bowl Chairman John Piombo announced he was extending Florida an invitation to play in the Dec. 31 post-season classic at Jacksonville. Florida was expected to wait until after its final game, two Tulane fumbles and an intercepted pass into touchdowns in the first half for Florida's seventh victory against two losses.

Sophomore halfback Adrian Colon raced 70 yards for the Green Wave's only touchdown after intercepting a pass by Florida quarterback Bobby Dodd, Jr.

The victory gave Florida a 5-1 record in the SEC, the Gators' finest showing since the conference was formed in 1933, and made first - year Coach Ray Graves' team a virtual cinch for a bowl appearance.

Tulane suffered its fifth loss — the third in SEC competition — in a dismal season with only two non-conference triumphs and a tie with Alabama.

The hard-knocking Gators wasted little time showing who was boss, capitalizing on Tulane miscues for a pair of touchdowns in the first period, and another in the second period.

Sophomore end Sam Holland pounced on a fumble by Tulane halfback Tommy Mason at the Green Wave 35 to set up Florida's first score. Seconds later, halfback Bob Hoover, a high-stepping 193-pound sophomore, romped 40 yards from scrimmage into the end zone, and specialist Bill Cash kicked the point.

About three minutes later, Florida center-captain Bill Hood stole a pass by Tulane quarterback Phil Nugent to give the Gators the ball at the enemy 32. It took only one more play for Dodd to loft a long strike to halfback Bruce Starling who grabbed it on the run at goal line. Cash's kick as good again.

Another fumble by Mason in the second period was recovered by Florida quarterback Paul White, a defensive specialist, at Tulane's 19. Fullback Don Goodman ripped off a 15-yard run to move the ball into position, then carried over from the one. Casn made the kick.

Score By Periods

Florida	14 7 0 0—21
Tulane	0 6 00—6

Scoring:
Fla — Hoover 40 run (Cash kick)
Fla — Starling 32 pass from Dodd (Cash kick)
Fla — Goodman 1 run (Cash kick)
Tul — Colon 70 intercepted pass (Miller kick blocked)

LSU Okays Grid Schedule For '61

BATON ROUGE, La. (Special) — a schedule that could well be the best balanced and most attractive in the 60 - year history of LSU football was approved by the LSU athletic council yesterday for the 1961 Tigers, Athletic Director Jim Corbett announced.

The six - game home menu includes teams that read like a list of "Who's Who in Southern Football" — Texas A&M, Georgia Tech, Kentucky, Ole Miss, Mississippi State and Tulane. Road contests have been slated against conference opponent Florida and non - league foes South Carolina, Rice and North Carolina. Rice returns to the schedule after a years's absence while North Carolina is back after a 12 - year layoff. Baylor and Wake Forest were displaced on the schedule.

The Tigers then return home for two consecutive weeks to close out the campaign, meeting Mississippi State November 18 and Tulane November 25.

Five of the six home games are conference scuffles.

The complete schedule:

Cuban T-Kayes Moyer In Fifth

NEW YORK (AP)—Hard-hitting Florentino Fernandez of Cuba made a successful step up to the middleweight class Saturday night by stopping Phil Moyer of Portland, Ore., in 59 seconds of the fifth round of their television bout at Madison Square Garden.

Referee Harry Kessler ended the scheduled 10-rounder after Moyer went down for the third time.

A left hook to the jaw sent the 22-year-old West Coaster on the seat of his pants. That's when Kessler ended it. Moyer had been felled twice in the fourth round by jarring left hooks to the jaw.

HOWARD PAYNE WINS

Northeast, Eiland Are 2nd In Cross Country Feature

BROWNWOOD, Tex. (Special) — Howard Payne College won its own sixth invitational cross country track meet here yesterday, but a couple of runners from Louisiana's bayou country, one of them and English import, led the pack over the four - mile chalked course.

Northeast State from Monroe, La., was second in the team scoring, and it was the first time in six trips this season that the Indian harriers had failed to win the team trophy.

Fred Norris, the McNeese freshman import from the British Isles, showed his heels to the pack in grand style to win the individual championship with a clocking of 19:37 minutes.

Don "Buddy" Eiland, the Northeast distance star, was runner-up for the individual crown with a 20:32 timing.

Donnell's unexpected early departure from the Monroe hospital man of similar experience by only a few hours.

W. L. "Bill" Wells, Monroe, was preparing to call on Donnell when he learned the Franklin parish youth had been allowed to return to his home.

Wells had his neck fractured ago playing "sandlot" football on the old Monroe City High School grounds (Central Grammar) just across the street from St. Francis Hospital.

Complete recovery has been predicted for Donnell, just as Wells overcame his injury.

Grid injuries are rarely fatal, but Donnell's case had area oldtimer remembering two of those rarities — Floyd Smith, a halfback for Bastrop High who was hurt in a game with the old Monroe Tigers November 25, 1926; and Alden "Doc" Woodard, Monroe City High, fatally hurt in the Oak Grove game of November 16, 1929.

Little Boys Inspection

Inspection of West Monroe's facilities for possibly conducting the Little Boys' Baseball World Series next August will take place early next month.

In the meantime, members of the Ironworkers Union have been donating their time in erection of new seats at the North Seventh street park, and apparently the Little Boys will have everything ready in time for the inspection tour that will include Camp Ki-Ro-Li, Highland Park Country Club, and other facilities that have offered their services should the series be awarded to West Monroe.

South Boston, Va., where the series was conducted last summer, and Lookout Mountain, Monroe's chief rivals for the Little Boys' classic.

Florida Plasters Tulane To Gain Gator Bowl Offer

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — The surprising Florida Gators made their own breaks Saturday to rout underdog Tulane 21-6 and assure Florida of its best season in Southeastern Conference history and a bid to the Gator Bowl.

Immediately after the game, Gator Bowl Chairman John Piombo announced he was extending Florida an invitation to play in the Dec. 31 post-season classic at Jacksonville. Florida was expected to wait until after its final game, two Tulane fumbles and an intercepted pass into touchdowns in the first half for Florida's seventh victory against two losses.

Sophomore halfback Adrian Colon raced 70 yards for the Green Wave's only touchdown after intercepting a pass by Florida quarterback Bobby Dodd, Jr.

The victory gave Florida a 5-1 record in the SEC, the Gators' finest showing since the conference was formed in 1933, and made first - year Coach Ray Graves' team a virtual cinch for a bowl appearance.

Tulane suffered its fifth loss — the third in SEC competition — in a dismal season with only two non-conference triumphs and a tie with Alabama.

The hard-knocking Gators wasted little time showing who was boss, capitalizing on Tulane miscues for a pair of touchdowns in the first period, and another in the second period.

Sophomore end Sam Holland pounced on a fumble by Tulane halfback Tommy Mason at the Green Wave 35 to set up Florida's first score. Seconds later, halfback Bob Hoover, a high-stepping 193-pound sophomore, romped 40 yards from scrimmage into the end zone, and specialist Bill Cash kicked the point.

About three minutes later, Florida center-captain Bill Hood stole a pass by Tulane quarterback Phil Nugent to give the Gators the ball at the enemy 32. It took only one more play for Dodd to loft a long strike to halfback Bruce Starling who grabbed it on the run at goal line. Cash's kick as good again.

Another fumble by Mason in the second period was recovered by Florida quarterback Paul White, a defensive specialist, at Tulane's 19. Fullback Don Goodman ripped off a 15-yard run to move the ball into position, then carried over from the one. Casn made the kick.

Score By Periods

Florida	14 7 0 0—21
Tulane	0 6 00—6

Scoring:
Fla — Hoover 40 run (Cash kick)
Fla — Starling 32 pass from Dodd (Cash kick)
Fla — Goodman 1 run (Cash kick)
Tul — Colon 70 intercepted pass (Miller kick blocked)

NEW YORK (AP)—Hard-hitting Florentino Fernandez of Cuba made a successful step up to the middleweight class Saturday night by stopping Phil Moyer of Portland, Ore., in 59 seconds of the fifth round of their television bout at Madison Square Garden.

Referee Harry Kessler ended the scheduled 10-rounder after Moyer went down for the third time.

Syracuse Wins Over Colgate By 42-6 Score

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Heavier Syracuse pounded Colgate 46-6 Saturday on the running of Pete Brokaw and Erine Davis and closed in on a bid to the Liberty or Gotham football bowls.

Syracuse scored on drives of 63 and 65 yards the first two times it got the ball and tallied five touchdowns in the second half against a scrappy colgate eleven that tired noticeably at the end.

Brokaw scored three times on runs of 16 and 53 yards and a 16-yard pass from quarterback Dick Easterly. He gained 90 yards on five carries.

Davis gained 111 yards rushing that included a 28-yard scoring dash.

HOWARD PAYNE WINS

Northeast, Eiland Are 2nd In Cross Country Feature

BROWNWOOD, Tex. (Special) — Howard Payne College won its own sixth invitational cross country track meet here yesterday, but a couple of runners from Louisiana's bayou country, one of them and English import, led the pack over the four - mile chalked course.

Northeast State from Monroe, La., was second in the team scoring, and it was the first time in six trips this season that the Indian harriers had failed to win the team trophy.

NATCHITOCHES, La. (AP) — The University of Southwestern Louisiana spoiled Northwestern State's homecoming here Saturday 17-7 and took a tie for first place in the Gulf States Conference.

Ole Miss Ends Tennessee Jinx

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Bowl-bound Mississippi shattered the Tennessee defenses with deadly passing by quarterback Jake Gibbs and powerful running by fullback Jim Anderson Saturday for a 24 to 3 victory, the first ever achieved by the Rebels on the Tennessee home grounds.

Fourth-ranked Mississippi, now 8-0-1 for the season, handed Tennessee its second defeat in a row with cool efficiency.

The Vols, unable to move effectively on the ground or in the air, managed to pick up three points on a second period field goal.

Anderson scored one touchdown on a spectacular 43 - yard run through the middle of the Vol line in the final period. He scored the first Rebel touchdown on a two-yard plunge in the first period.

Allen Green booted a 32-yard field goal and three extra points for the Rebels.

Mississippi's last touchdown came on a pass from Gibbs to halfback Bobby Crespino.

The Rebels scored on a 76-yard drive with the opening kickoff. Gibbs threw passes to Crespino for 16 and 12 yards to spark the drive and Anderson chipped in short but crucial gains. He went over from the two for the score.

Green booted his field goal several minutes later to put Mississippi ahead 10-0.

Tennessee's second period field goal was set up when guard Larry Richards pounced on a fumble by quarterback Doug Emorle at the Mississippi 22.

The Vols moved the ball down to the Mississippi 11 where end Cotton Letner booted the three-pointer. In the last minute of the game Mississippi fourth - string fullback Reggie Rogertson brought the crowd to its feet with a 80-yard run after a pass interception, but it was called back because of pass interference.

Iowa Running Attack Beats Ohio State

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP)—Gouging chunks of yardage in a furious running attack, Iowa shot back into the Big Ten lead and contention for the national football title with a 35-22 conquest of Ohio State Saturday.

Junior halfback Larry Ferguson's flashy 91-yard scoring dash down the sidelines and sophomore fullback Joe William's 49 - yard touchdown burst highlighted the Hawkeyes' nationally televised victory.

The stunning triumph assured the Hawks at least a tie for the Big Ten crown with a 5-1 record as previously unbeaten Minnesota was upset 23-14 by Purdue Saturday. The Gophers must beat Wisconsin next week to share the championship.

The Hawkeyes—fifth ranked in the latest Associated Press poll—displayed their best attack of the season in turning back powerful Ohio State, which had lost only one game and was ranked third this week.

Iowa was performing in its last home game under Coach Forest Evashevski. And the players shot the works, building a 28-6 halftime lead and using a stubborn defense to turn back the Buckeyes' second-half bids.

Williams also scored on a two-yard plunge in the route. Quarterback Wilburn Hollins added a 12-yard touchdown and his understudy, Matt Szykowny scored on a sneak to thrill the Dad's Day crowd.

Ohio State quarterback Tom Matte—who had a brilliant day for the Buckeyes but alone couldn't turn the tide—and fullback Bob Ferguson scored Ohio State's touchdowns.

Dartmouth, 20-0

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Dartmouth blanked Cornell 20-0 before 12,000 spectators at Schoellkopf Field Saturday. The Indians are now 5-3 on the season. It was Cornell's fifth straight loss.

Illini Crush Wisconsin By 35-14 Margin

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Illinois, putting on one of its biggest offensive shows this year, crushed Wisconsin 5-14 Saturday in a Big Ten game which saw most of the scoring packed into the second half.

Leading 7-0 at the half, the Illini scored a pair of quick touchdowns early in the third quarter after receiving a fumble and intercepting a pass. They then capped the route when Ethan Blackaby took a Wisconsin punt and sprinted 88 yards for a touchdown.

Wisconsin, showing little else than the passing of Ron Miller on offense, didn't get into the scoring column until Illinois had carved out a 21-0 lead.

Miller passed for both Wisconsin touchdowns, but the Badgers couldn't muster a running attack to help out the sensational sophomore.

Wisconsin threatened early, but it was hampered by a pass interception and again by a fumble.

Illinois didn't really get rolling until the second half but the Illini did manage to score early in the second quarter. Substitute quarterback Mel Meyers threw a 21-yard scoring pass to Marshall Starks. Starks and Blackaby accounted for two touchdowns each.

Illinois scored twice in the first seven minutes of the third quarter and was never in danger after

Elliott Places Second In Big Distance Race

CAMBRIDGE, England (AP)—Herb Elliott, world record holder for the mile run, finished second in a gruelling cross country race Saturday, and helped Cambridge University defeat the Royal Air Force 31-47.

The great Australian runner was beaten by his team captain, Tim Briault, over a heavy 6½-mile course. Briault was timed in 35 minutes, 54 seconds, and Elliott in 36:34.

Elliott didn't look too comfortable at the quarter-way mark, but then he began to make an attack on the leaders. He was in fourth place at the three-quarters distance and then gradually moved up to gain second place.

"I was surprised that I did so well," Elliott said.

Elliott has taken up cross-country at the university, but so far has not done any running over the mile distance since he arrived two months ago. Next week he is due to run in the half-mile in a freshman match against Oxford.

Lions Defeat McNeese, Tie For GSC Lead

HAMMOND, La. (AP) —Southeastern Louisiana celebrated its home coming Saturday by rapping McNeese 21-6 and moved into a first-place tie in the Gulf States Conference.

SLC ran its overall mark to 8-1 and its conference record to 3-1, the only loss coming last week to Louisiana Tech, which played a non-conference game Saturday against Mississippi Southern and the University of Southwestern Louisiana, which beat Northwestern State also have 3-1 marks.

Elbert Harris capped a 29-yard drive in the first quarter by going over from the one for SLC's first toucheown. Jerry Schwab registered the first of three conversions.

USL Spoils Homecoming For Demons

NATCHITOCHES, La. (AP) — The University of Southwestern Louisiana spoiled Northwestern State's homecoming here Saturday 17-7 and took a tie for first place in the Gulf States Conference.

USL raised its GSC record to 3-1, the same as Southeastern, which beat McNeese State Saturday, and Louisiana Tech, which played a non-conference tilt with Mississippi Southern.

Although the statistics showed the game was about even, USL ran up 17 points in the first three periods before Northwestern State scored in the fourth quarter.

Quarterback J. Y. Mula rammed one yard in the initial stanza for the first touchdown. L. J. Poimboeuf converted. In the second quarter, Poimboeuf kicked a 29-yard field goal.

The final USL TD came in the third period when fullback Dan Mastrean picked off a Vic Stelley pass and scampered 25 yards to score. Poimboeuf converted.

End Johnny Norman scored the NSC touchdown on a 16-yard pass from quarterback Herbie Smith. G. W. Zachary kicked the point.

USL now has an overall 6-3 record. Northwestern is 0-4 in the GSC and 3-5 overall.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Columbia scored a safety and a touchdown in the first four minutes Saturday and went on to defeat Penn 16-6 in an Ivy League football game before 15,841 at Franklin Field.

PURDUE QUARTERBACK Bernie Allen (15) got a small gain in first quarter action against Minnesota at Minneapolis yesterday. Although the Boilermakers had things mostly their own way Gopher tacklers Bobby Bell (78), Dick Larsen (87), and Bill Munsey (28, on ground, right) moved in to stop Allen this time. Purdue went on to hand Minnesota first defeat, 23-14. (AP Wirephoto)

Ole Miss Ends Tennessee Jinx

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Bowl-bound Mississippi shattered the Tennessee defenses with deadly passing by quarterback Jake Gibbs and powerful running by fullback Jim Anderson Saturday for a 24 to 3 victory, the first ever achieved by the Rebels on the Tennessee home grounds.

Fourth-ranked Mississippi, now 8-0-1 for the season, handed Tennessee its second defeat in a row with cool efficiency.

The Vols, unable to move effectively on the ground or in the air, managed to pick up three points on a second period field goal.

Anderson scored one touchdown on a spectacular 43 - yard run through the middle of the Vol line in the final period. He scored the first Rebel touchdown on a two-yard plunge in the first period.

Allen Green booted a 32-yard field goal and three extra points for the Rebels.

Mississippi's last touchdown came on a pass from Gibbs to halfback Bobby Crespino.

The Rebels scored on a 76-yard drive with the opening kickoff. Gibbs threw passes to Crespino for 16 and 12 yards to spark the drive and Anderson chipped in short but crucial gains. He went over from the two for the score.

Green booted his field goal several minutes later to put Mississippi ahead 10-0.

Tennessee's second period field goal was set up when guard Larry Richards pounced on a fumble by quarterback Doug Emorle at the Mississippi 22.

The Vols moved the ball down to the Mississippi 11 where end Cotton Letner booted the three-pointer. In the last minute of the game Mississippi fourth - string fullback Reggie Rogertson brought the crowd to its feet with a 80-yard run after a pass interception, but it was called back because of pass interference.

Mississippi has only a tie at the hands of Louisiana State to mark its record.

Quiz Star Runs First By Nose

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—The $20,000-added Turf Cup, closing feature at Laurel Race course, ended in a three-horse blanket finish Saturday with Quiz Star, the winner by a nose.

Conestoga was second, a nose in front of Moon Cloud, a rank outsider in the field of 12 starters.

Howard Grant rode Quiz Star, who ran the mile and a furlong in 1:51 3-5 and paid $5.20.

Iowa Running Attack Beats Ohio State

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP)—Gouging chunks of yardage in a furious running attack, Iowa shot back into the Big Ten lead and contention for the national football title with a 35-22 conquest of Ohio State Saturday.

Junior halfback Larry Ferguson's flashy 91-yard scoring dash down the sidelines and sophomore fullback Joe William's 49 - yard touchdown burst highlighted the Hawkeyes' nationally televised victory.

The stunning triumph assured the Hawks at least a tie for the Big Ten crown with a 5-1 record as previously unbeaten Minnesota was upset 23-14 by Purdue Saturday. The Gophers must beat Wisconsin next week to share the championship.

The Hawkeyes—fifth ranked in the latest Associated Press poll—displayed their best attack of the season in turning back powerful Ohio State, which had lost only one game and was ranked third this week.

Iowa was performing in its last home game under Coach Forest Evashevski. And the players shot the works, building a 28-6 halftime lead and using a stubborn defense to turn back the Buckeyes' second-half bids.

Williams also scored on a two-yard plunge in the route. Quarterback Wilburn Hollins added a 12-yard touchdown and his understudy, Matt Szykowny scored on a sneak to thrill the Dad's Day crowd.

Ohio State quarterback Tom Matte—who had a brilliant day for the Buckeyes but alone couldn't turn the tide—and fullback Bob Ferguson scored Ohio State's touchdowns.

Dartmouth, 20-0

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Dartmouth blanked Cornell 20-0 before 12,000 spectators at Schoellkopf Field Saturday. The Indians are now 5-3 on the season. It was Cornell's fifth straight loss.

Illini Crush Wisconsin By 35-14 Margin

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Illinois, putting on one of its biggest offensive shows this year, crushed Wisconsin 5-14 Saturday in a Big Ten game which saw most of the scoring packed into the second half.

Leading 7-0 at the half, the Illini scored a pair of quick touchdowns early in the third quarter after receiving a fumble and intercepting a pass. They then capped the route when Ethan Blackaby took a Wisconsin punt and sprinted 88 yards for a touchdown.

Wisconsin, showing little else than the passing of Ron Miller on offense, didn't get into the scoring column until Illinois had carved out a 21-0 lead.

Miller passed for both Wisconsin touchdowns, but the Badgers couldn't muster a running attack to help out the sensational sophomore.

Wisconsin threatened early, but it was hampered by a pass interception and again by a fumble.

Illinois didn't really get rolling until the second half but the Illini did manage to score early in the second quarter. Substitute quarterback Mel Meyers threw a 21-yard scoring pass to Marshall Starks. Starks and Blackaby accounted for two touchdowns each.

Illinois scored twice in the first seven minutes of the third quarter and was never in danger after

PENNS GROVE, N. J. (AP)—Don Bragg, Olympic champion and world record holder in the pole vault, married Terry Fiore here Saturday.

Elliott Places Second In Big Distance Race

CAMBRIDGE, England (AP)—Herb Elliott, world record holder for the mile run, finished second in a gruelling cross country race Saturday, and helped Cambridge University defeat the Royal Air Force 31-47.

The great Australian runner was beaten by his team captain, Tim Briault, over a heavy 6½-mile course. Briault was timed in 35 minutes, 54 seconds, and Elliott in 36:34.

Elliott didn't look too comfortable at the quarter-way mark, but then he began to make an attack on the leaders. He was in fourth place at the three-quarters distance and then gradually moved up to gain second place.

"I was surprised that I did so well," Elliott said.

Elliott has taken up cross-country at the university, but so far has not done any running over the mile distance since he arrived two months ago. Next week he is due to run in the half-mile in a freshman match against Oxford.

NATIONAL FOOTBALL LEAGUE

Money-Hungry Eagles Eye Redskins As Sixth Victim

By JIM KENSIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

The green-shirted Philadelphia Eagles, a pro team already sniffing the green stuff, are 13-point favorites to bank victory No. 6 Sunday in a run for their first National Football League title since 1949. The Eagles, leading the Eastern Conference with a 5-1 record, are home to the Washington Redskins (1-3-2) in one of six games on the NFL card.

"The whole club just oozes the smell of dough," says end Tommy McDonald, the swift Sooner who helps make quarterback Norm Van Brocklin's long passing a weekly sensation.

The Eagles, beaten in a 1-1 split with the Cleveland Browns, still have two games remaining with the New York Giants, defending Eastern champions. But the players feel they can break the New York-Cleveland stranglehold that has frozen out all other Eastern title hopefuls since Philadelphia ruled from '47 through '49 and won two straight league crowns in '48 and '49.

The second-place Giants (4-1-1) snapped a slump last week with a 17-13 upset of the Browns and play at home Sunday against the Pittsburgh Steelers (2-4-1). The Giants are favored by 8 points, although they haven't won this season in Yankee Stadium.

The Browns (4-2) are 10-point home favorites over the St. Louis Cardinals (4-3) and must win, or let the Card take over third place.

In the Western Conference, the Baltimore Colts (5-2) are at Chicago against the Bears (3-2-1). Last major opposition between the defending NFL champs and a shot at a third consecutive league title. The Colts are favored to win by 7 and remain a half game up on the second-place Green Bay Packers (4-2).

The Packers entertain (?) the Dallas Cowboys (0-7) and are considered 21 points superior. Fourth-place San Francisco (3-4) is idle, while the Detroit Lions (2-4) are favored by 3 against the visiting Los Angeles Rams (2-4-1).

In the American League, Buffalo is at Oakland, Denver at Dallas and Houston at Los Angeles.

Although frequently used as a decoy, McDonald has caught seven TD passes, including three last week from Van Brocklin in the Eagles' 34-7 rout of the Steelers. Van Brocklin, currently rated third among NFL passers, has thrown for 14 scores and 1,369 yards. His completion percentage is 56.9. Pete Retzlaff and Bobby Walston (each 3 TDs) are Van Brocklin's other prime receivers. Clarence Peaks (429 yards) leads the Eagles' ground gainers.

Against this offensive array, the Skins shape up poorly. The defense has given up better than 26 points a game, and only winless Dallas has been beaten. The Cards trounced the Skins 44-7 last Sunday.

One of the Giants' four road victories was over the Steelers, 19-17 a month ago. A late Giant rally pulled out that one, and one of the key figures in that push, end Kyle Rote, will miss Sunday's game because of a fractured hand. The Steelers have several players injured, but Pitt quarterback Bobby Layne is expected to play, although he still has a banged-up thumb on his throwing hand.

The Browns-Cards battle matches two of the league's top ground gainers in John Crow of St. Louis (524 yards) and Jimmy Brown of Cleveland (521). Crow and leader Jim Taylor of Green Bay (540) both passed Brown last week when the Giants held the Cleveland fullback to 29 yards on a wet field.

The Colts laced the Bears 42-7 on Oct. 2 at Baltimore, and the Colts haven't lost in Chicago since 1956. But the Bears face virtual title elimination if they lost Sunday. After the Bears, the Colts' schedule lists only four clubs, all with losing records.

Paul Hornung, who scored 13 points for Green Bay in the 38-24 loss to Baltimore last Sunday, figures to pad his league scoring lead of 83 points against the Cowboys. Dallas has given up 231 points, 38 more than any other club.

The Rams and Lions played a crazy, 48-35 game won by the Rams at Los Angeles two weeks ago. The Rams scored 38 last week to Dallas' 13, and the Lions beat San Francisco 24-0. A Detroit victory will move the Lions into a fourth place Western tie with the 49ers, while a Ram win will send Los Angeles into fifth and drop the Lions to sixth.

Uclans Clip Wings Of Air Force, 22-0

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Halfback Bill Kilmer of UCLA uncorked a brilliant 88-yard touchdown run from scrimmage as the Bruins grounded the Air Force Cadets 22-0 Saturday.

An outstanding All-America candidate, the tailback in the UCLA single wing attack scored another touchdown from one yard out and started his team to victory in the first quarter with a 29-yard touchdown pass to Chuck Hicks.

Kilmer also had a hand in the other score. He held the ball for a 27-yard field goal by Ivory Jones.

A soaked crowd of 21,914 watched the game as UCLA registered its fifth victory against one defeat by Washington and a tie with Purdue. The loss was the Cadets' fifth against three wins.

Quarterback Rich Mayo kept UCLA agitated but the Falcons could never score. The Air Force got to the Bruin 9 but fumbled the ball away in the first quarter. Mayo passed the Cadets 70 of 79 yards in a drive that ended one yard shy of a touchdown as the halftime clock ran out.

Kilmer was used sparingly in the second half. Altogether he carried the ball 12 times for 124 yards and two touchdowns. In the air he completed four of 12 for 63 yards and one touchdown, with one interception.

Mayo completed 20 of 40 throws for 194 yards, with four interceptions in his duel with Kilmer.

Kasso's Late TDs Save Day For Beavers

STANFORD, Calif. (AP)—Tailback Don Kasso raced 12 and 16 yards through the mud and rain for two final touchdowns Saturday, giving Oregon State a 25-21 victory over Stanford as a clipping penalty cost the Indians a chance to win their first game.

Stanford's Slip Face crossed the goal line with 1:58 remaining, but the penalty nullified the score and the Indians lost their ninth straight.

Players from both teams engaged in a fist swinging melee at the final gun after Oregon State found rough going this blustery afternoon. The Beavers trailed 21-13 before second string Kasso's two runs brought State its sixth triumph.

Stanford's Dick Norman threw a pair of touchdown passes to Face, one on a 57-yard play and the other for 10. But two Norman fumbles in the second half hurt, the second one leading to the touchdown that put Oregon State ahead for the first time since the opening quarter.

Affter Frank Greminger recovered the fumble, the Beavers marched 57 yards in eight plays led by Kasso, a junior who scored on the 16-yard burst off right tackle.

Kasso overshadowed Oregon State's star sophomore tailback, Terry Baker, who leads the nation in total offense. Baker scored the first touchdown on a nine-yard run.

Iowa State Tops K-State; Watson Spearheads Win

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Powered by fullback Tom Watkins' two touchdowns, Iowa State pinned a 20-7 defeat on Kansas State Saturday.

Kansas State went winless through seven conference games under new Coach Doug Weaver while Iowa State finished its Big Eight season with a 4-3 record.

Iowa State tailback Dave Clayberg went off tackle for four yards and a touchdown with 1 minute and 26 seconds left to play.

Giants Wallop Japan All-Stars By 14-2 Count

NAGOYA, Japan (AP) — Willie McCovey and Felipe Alou each hammered two home runs Saturday as the San Francisco Giants collected 18 hits and walloped the Japan All-Stars 14-2 in the next-to-last game of their baseball tour.

Andre Rodgers, recently traded to Milwaukee for new San Francisco Manager Al Dark, also hit a home run as the Giants put away their 11th and most lopsided victory on the 16-game tour. The Japanese All-Stars have won three games. One was a tie.

Starting pitcher Jack Sanford, lifted for a pinch hitter in a seven-run seventh inning, was the winner. The big right-hander struck out four and shut out the All-Stars on two hits for five innings. He was tagged for both runs in the sixth, on two singles, a double and an error.

GAME AWAY FROM COTTON

Arkansas Ready For Bowl Ticket, Slugs SMU, 26-3

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (UPI)—Billy Moore, a cocky sophomore quarterback with the poise of a veteran, engineered Southwest Conference leading Arkansas to 26-3 victory over Southern Methodist Saturday before 31,500 fans, the largest crowd ever to see a game here.

The triumph was Arkansas's fifth in six conference games and put them into position to go to the Cotton Bowl if the Razorbacks can beat Texas Tech next Saturday.

Moore scored once himself and handed off for two other touchdowns after carrying the ball to within five yards of the goal both times. He continually kept the SMU defense off balance with his bootleg option.

He had offensive help from halfback Lance Alworth and George McKinney the regular quarterback, who started all three of the drives Moore finished. Alworth scored the second touchdown on a two-yard end sweep in the third quarter.

Fullback Curtis Cox scored the Razorbacks' first touchdown with a one-yard dive 50 seconds before the half ended and Jim Worthington, a third string halfback, scored the final Arkansas touchdown with a 42-yard punt return after Arkansas built up a 19-3 lead in the final period.

Southern Methodist capitalized on a minus yard Alworth punt which gave the Mustangs the ball on the Arkansas 8 in the first quarter. After three plays cost them nine yards, to the 17, end Buddy Nichols came in to kick a 34-yard field goal and give SMU a 3-0 lead in the final minute of the first quarter.

The Mustangs made only four first downs in the first half. They didn't make another until the final two minutes of the game as the Razorbacks easily outclassed them.

Mauler Cops Trenton Run, Returns $19

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — Emil Dolce's Manassa Mauler scored a front-running victory in Saturday's mile and a quarter Trenton Handicap at Garden State Park.

Joe Culmone backed into this winner as jockey John Sellers was scheduled to ride but was called to his Miami home due to the illness of his young son.

Culmone did a masterful job, however, and held the son of Count Turf together in the stretch run. The field was well bunched back of the leader and a photo gave second money to F. Frederic Gagel's Reinzi.

Promised Land, owned by Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs, was third while the favorite, C. V. Whitney's Dotted Swiss, faded to fourth.

The winner paid $19.00, $9.60, and $7.40. Reinzi returned $12.60 and $8.00 while Promised Land returned $10.60.

Manassa Mauler required 2:02 1-5 for the distance.

Others in the Trenton were Talent Show, Disperse, Nobel Sel and Nickel Boy.

NFL COMMISSIONER

Rozelle Hits AFL Football Protests

By ED WILKS

NEW YORK (AP) — Pete Rozelle, commissioner of the National Football League, Saturday said the new American League might be better off if it spent less time challenging and worrying over NFL policies.

After another protest by the AFL over the telecasting of NFL games, Rozelle said:

"The new league appears to have a fixation that every action and policy of the National Football League is designed to impair their operation.

"If they would expend more time and energy in the development of their own league, and less time worrying about the NFL, they would be much more successful than they apparently have been so far."

The latest AFL protest came after Chet Soda, president of the Oakland Raiders, learned that two NFL games will be telecast into the San Francisco Bay area Sunday. The TV games will compete with the Raiders-Buffalo game in San Francisco.

"That's an illegal sneak punch," said Soda, "....outright war via television.

"It is added evidence that the NFL is thumbing its nose at the antitrust law. It is doing everything it can to kill the chances of a rival enterprise. This is in direct violation of the antitrust laws under which professional football was explicity placed by Supreme Court decisions. What excuse can the NFL offer in a court of law for a thing like this?"

Rozelle, hose offices are here, answered by explaining the NFL clubs sell their television rights to networks and sponsors. "Therefore, they have no control over utilization of these rights other than blacking out NFL cities from other NFL telecasts when our clubs play at home.

"This is in accordance with a 1953 decision of a U.S. District Court in Philadelphia," Rozelle said, adding:

"Telecasts of games involving teams in the new league are beamed into all NFL cities on days when our teams play at home."

The NFL Commissioner stated that two games, rather than one, will be telecast into San Francisco Sunday because two different networks (NBC and CBS) hold TV rights to different NFL clubs. The games to be screened in San Francisco are Los Angeles-Detroit and Baltimore-Chicago.

The NFL sought to limit its telecasts to a single network, as does the AFL (ABC), Rozelle said, "but we were unable to obtain approval of such a plan from the Department of Justice."

Rozelle, who previously answered a similar protest by the New York Titans of the AFL, said "Mr. Soda and other members of the AFL should be aware that our television policy has no relationship to the new league."

The Oakland club has averaged fewer than 10,000 pail attendance for its home games. The Raiders play in San Francisco's 60,000-seat Kezar Stadium, also the home of the NFL's San Francisco 49ers. The 49ers, who are averaging 50,000 at home, are idle Sunday.

West Virginia Falls Oregon Prey, 20 To 6

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Surprisingly stubborn West Virginia stopped Oregon through most of an intersectional football game, but in the end fell before Oregon's speed 20-6 Saturday.

Favored by two touchdowns, Oregon was leading only 7-0 as the last quarter opened. Then the Webfoots struck twice, getting one touchdown after a pass interception deep in West Virginia territory and another on a 50-yard run by little Cleveland Jones.

West Virginia got its lone score on a 72-yard play in the final period. Quarterback Dale Evans threw the ball to halfback Jim Moss, who had seeped through the Oregon defense and was 10 yards in front of everyone when he caught the ball on the Oregon 30. He sailed into the end zone untouched.

That cut Oregon's lead to 13-6 and West Virginia had visions of scoring its first victory of the year with 7½ minutes remaining in the game.

But a few minutes later Jones cut around left end, getting a key block from fullback Duane Cargill, and sprinted 50 yards for a touchdown.

9-6 OVER GEORGIA

Ed Dyas Kicks Auburn To Win

AUBURN, Ala. (UPI) — Fullback Ed Dyas' fabulous foot and bread-and butter bursts through the center of a scrappy Georgia line gave Auburn a tough 9-6 win over the Bulldogs Saturday in Dixie's oldest rivalry.

It was a battle of field goals all the way and neither team scored a touchdown.

A crowd of 45,000 saw Dyas smash three national records with field goals from 28, 24 and 22 yards out. Dyas now has kicked 12 field goals this season, putting him far ahead of all others. He has kicked 16 three-pointers in two seasons for a new national career record.

Dyas' winning field goal came in the last 45 seconds of play. It was Auburn's 29th straight victory at home and revenged a last-second defeat by Georgia last year which gave the Bulldogs the SEC title.

Dyas plunged for more than 110 yards through the center of the Bulldog line which played its heart out against the heavier Tiger forward wall. He outgained the entire Georgia team by 33 yards. It was Dyas' rushing which set up most of the field goals along with quarterback Bryant Harvard's bullet passes which saved the Tigers from an upset.

Georgia scored first when specialist Tom Pennington booted a 32-yard field goal with 11 minutes to go in the second period. Georgia marched from its 29 to inside the Auburn 20 in 11 plays but the nation's sixth best defense stiffened and Pennington was called in to kick.

Minutes later, Tiger quarterback Bobby Hunt passed 36 yards to right halfback on Machen for 36 yards to the Georgia 15. Dyas bulled down to the bulldog eight and then kicked his first field goal of the afternoon when the attack was stymied by Georgia guard Pat Dye.

With the third quarter almost gone, sophomore tackle Winky Giddens covered a Francis Tarkenton fumble on the Georgia 14. Again the Bulldog line held and Dyas kicked his second field goal from 23 yards out.

Georgia roared back with Tarkenton pacing the way with passes to halfbacks Bobby Walden and Fred Brown. But the Tiger line started breaking through and Pennington kicked a 25-yarder with two minutes gone in the fourth quarter.

Then came the dramatic finish. With Dyas rushing and Harvard completing five straight passes Auburn crunched down to the Georgia eight. But Harvard fumbled just before he bounced into the end zone and the referee ruled Georgia touched the ball last before it went out on the end zone. Georgia took over on its 20 and a frustrated Auburn line forced the Bulldogs to punt.

With five minutes left, Auburn marched to the Bulldog 12 in eight plays. Afraid time would run out on another running play, Dyas, split the uprights for his ninth point of the day.

Pistons Snap Losing Ways, Check Royals

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Pistons snapped a four-game losing streak by defeating the Cincinnati Royals 116-112 in a nationally televised National Basketball Association game Saturday.

It marked the 16th straight time that the Pistons have downed the Royals in Detroit during the last four seasons.

After kicing away a 10-point lead in the early minutes, the Pistons spurted to go ahead for keeps on a pair of free throws by Bailey Howell in the final 30 seconds of the third period.

Detroit forged ahead at one stage by 12 points only to seemingly run out of gas when the Royals twice rallied to slice the Piston advantage to four points, the last time with 90 seconds remaining.

Then Don Ohl struck for a basket and a pair of free throws to put the game out of reach and send the Royals to their fifth defeat in their last six games.

Gene Shue was the big gun for the Pistons, scoring 31 points. He hit for three of his baskets early in the fourth quarter in helping the Pistons pull away.

NATIONAL FOOTBALL LEAGUE

Money-Hungry Eagles Eye Redskins As Sixth Victim

By JIM KENSIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

The green-shirted Philadelphia Eagles, a pro team already sniffing the green stuff, are 13-point favorites to bank victory No. 6 Sunday in a run for their first National Football League title since 1949. The Eagles, leading the Eastern Conference with a 5-1 record, are home to the Washington Redskins (1-3-2) in one of six games on the NFL card.

"The whole club just oozes the smell of dough," says end Tommy McDonald, the swift Sooner who helps make quarterback Norm Van Brocklin's long passing a weekly sensation.

The Eagles, beaten in a 1-1 split with the Cleveland Browns, still have two games remaining with the New York Giants, defending Eastern champions. But the players feel they can break the New York-Cleveland stranglehold that has frozen out all other Eastern title hopefuls since Philadelphia ruled from '47 through '49 and won two straight league crowns in '48 and '49.

The second-place Giants (4-1-1) snapped a slump last week with a 17-13 upset of the Browns and play at home Sunday against the Pittsburgh Steelers (2-4-1). The Giants are favored by 8 points, although they haven't won this season in Yankee Stadium.

The Browns (4-2) are 10-point home favorites over the St. Louis Cardinals (4-3) and must win, or let the Card take over third place.

In the Western Conference, the Baltimore Colts (5-2) are at Chicago against the Bears (3-2-1), last major opposition between the defending NFL champs and a shot at a third consecutive league title. The Colts are favored to win by 7 and remain a half game up on the second-place Green Bay Packers (4-2).

The Packers entertain (?) the Dallas Cowboys (0-7) and are considered 21 points superior. Fourth-place San Francisco (3-4) is idle, while the Detroit Lions (2-4) are favored by 3 against the visiting Los Angeles Rams (2-4-1).

In the American League, Buffalo is at Oakland, Denver at Dallas and Houston at Los Angeles.

Although frequently used as a decoy, McDonald has caught seven TD passes, including three last week from Van Brocklin in the Eagles' 34-7 rout of the Steelers. Van Brocklin, currently rated third among NFL passers, has thrown for 14 scores and 1,369 yards. His completion percentage is 58.9. Pete Retzlaff and Bobby Walston (each 3 TDs) are Van Brocklin's other prime receivers. Clarence Peaks (429 yards) leads the Eagles' ground gainers.

Against this offensive array, the Skins shape up poorly. The defense has given up better than 26 points a game, and only winless Dallas has been beaten. The Cards trounced the Skins 44-7 last Sunday.

One of the Giants' four road victories was over the Steelers, 19-17 a month ago. A late Giant rally pulled out that one, and one of the key figures in that push, end Kyle Rote, will miss Sunday's game because of a fractured hand. The Steelers have several players injured, but Pitt quarterback Bobby Layne is expected to play, although he still has a banged-up thumb on his throwing hand.

The Browns-Cards battle matches two of the league's top ground gainers in John Crow of St. Louis (524 yards) and Jimmy Brown of Cleveland (521). Crow and leader Jim Taylor of Green Bay (540) both passed Brown last week when the Giants held the Cleveland fullback to 29 yards on a wet field.

The Colts laced the Bears 42-7 on Oct. 2 at Baltimore, and the Colts haven't lost in Chicago since 1956. But the Bears face virtual title elimination if they lost Sunday. After the Bears, the Colts' schedule lists only four clubs, all with losing records.

Paul Hornung, who scored 18 points for Green Bay in the 38-24 loss to Baltimore last Sunday, figures to pad his league scoring lead of 83 points against the Cowboys. Dallas has given up 231 points, 38 more than any other club.

The Rams and Lions played a crazy, 48-35 game won by the Rams at Los Angeles two weeks ago. The Rams scored 38 last week to Dallas' 13, and the Lions beat San Francisco 24-0. A Detroit victory will move the Lions into a fourth place Western tie with the 49ers, while a Ram win will send Los Angeles into fifth and drop the Lions to sixth.

Uclans Clip Wings Of Air Force, 22-0

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Halfback Bill Kilmer of UCLA uncorked a brilliant 88-yard touchdown run from scrimmage as the Bruins grounded the Air Force Cadets 22-0 Saturday.

An outstanding All-America candidate, the tailback in the UCLA single wing attack scored another touchdown from one yard out and started his team to victory in the first quarter with a 29-yard touchdown pass to Chuck Hicks.

Kilmer also had a hand in the other score. He held the ball for a 27-yard field goal by Ivory Jones.

A soaked crowd of 21,914 watched the game as UCLA registered its fifth victory against one defeat by Washington and a tie with Purdue. The loss was the Cadets' fifth against three wins.

Quarterback Rich Mayo kept UCLA agitated but the Falcons could never score. The Air Force got to the Bruin 9 but fumbled the ball away in the first quarter. Mayo passed the Cadets 70 of 79 yards in a drive that ended one yard shy of a touchdown as the halftime clock ran out.

Kilmer was used sparingly in the second half. Altogether he carried the ball 12 times for 124 yards and two touchdowns. In the air he completed four of 12 for 68 yards and one touchdown, with one interception.

Mayo completed 20 of 40 throws for 194 yards, with four interceptions in his duel with Kilmer.

Iowa State Tops K-State; Watson Spearheads Win

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Powered by fullback Tom Watkins' two touchdowns, Iowa State pinned a 20-7 defeat on Kansas State Saturday.

Kansas State went winless through seven conference games under new Coach Doug Weaver while Iowa State finished its Big Eight season with a 4-3 record.

Iowa State tailback Dave Clayberg went off tackle for four yards and a touchdown with 1 minute and 26 seconds left to play.

Kasso's Late TDs Save Day For Beavers

STANFORD, Calif. (AP)—Tailback Don Kasso raced 12 and 16 yards through the mud and rain for two final touchdowns Saturday, giving Oregon State a 25-21 victory over Stanford as a clipping penalty cost the Indians a chance to win their first game.

Stanford's Slip Face crossed the goal line with 1:58 remaining, but the penalty nullified the score and the Indians lost their ninth straight.

Players from both teams engaged in a fist swinging melee at the final gun after Oregon State found rough going this blustery afternoon. The Beavers trailed 21-13 before second string Kasso's two runs brought State its sixth triumph.

Stanford's Dick Norman threw a pair of touchdown passes to Face, one on a 57-yard play and the other for 10. But two Norman fumbles in the second half hurt, the second one leading to the touchdown that put Oregon State ahead for the first time since the opening quarter.

Affter Frank Greminger recovered the fumble, the Beavers marched 57 yards in eight plays led by Kasso, a junior who scored on the 16-yard burst off right tackle.

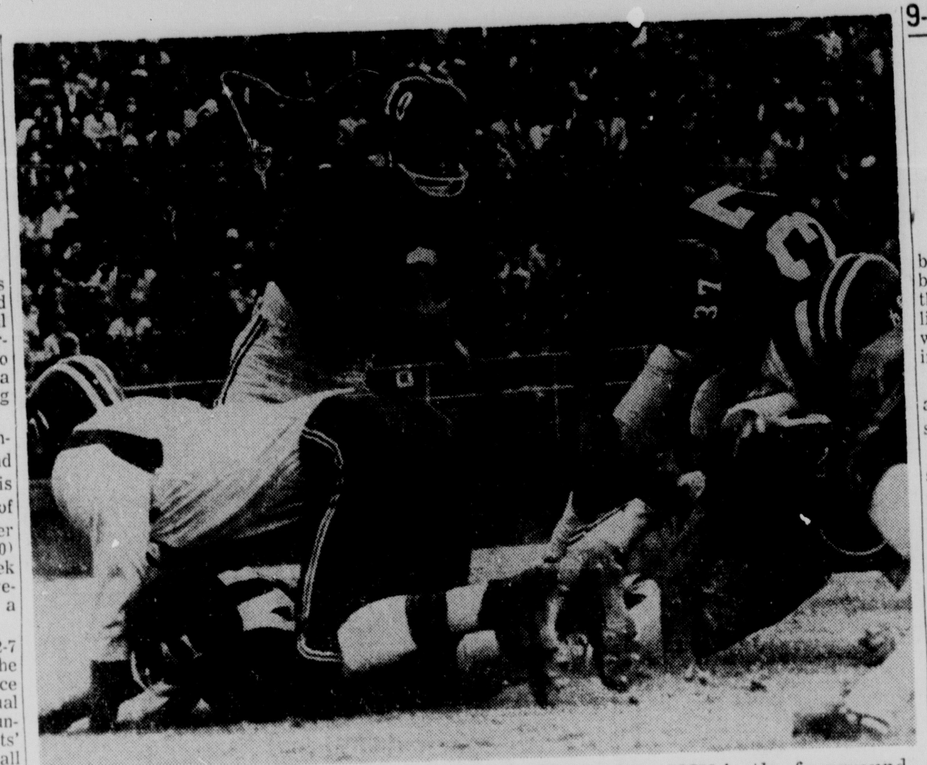

Kasso overshadowed Oregon State's star sophomore tailback, Terry Baker, who leads the nation in total offense. Baker scored the first touchdown on a nine-yard run.

Giants Wallop Japan All-Stars By 14-2 Count

NAGOYA, Japan (AP) — Willie McCovey and Felipe Alou each hammered two home runs Saturday as the San Francisco Giants collected 18 hits and walloped the Japan All-Stars 14-2 in the next-to-last game of their baseball tour.

Andre Rodgers, recently traded to Milwaukee for new San Francisco Manager Al Dark, also hit a home run as the Giants put away their 11th and most lopsided victory on the 16-game tour. The Japanese All-Stars have won three games. One was a tie.

Starting pitcher Jack Sanford, lifted for a pinch hitter in a seven-run seventh inning, was the winner. The big right-hander struck out four and shut out the All-Stars on two hits for five innings. He was tagged for both runs in the sixth, on two singles, a double and an error.

GAME AWAY FROM COTTON

Arkansas Ready For Bowl Ticket, Slugs SMU, 26-3

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (UPI)—Billy Moore, a cocky sophomore quarterback with the poise of a veteran, engineered Southwest Conference leading Arkansas to 26-3 victory over Southern Methodist Saturday before 31,500 fans, the largest crowd ever to see a game here.

The triumph was Arkansas's fifth in six conference games and put them into position to go to the Cotton Bowl if the Razorbacks can beat Texas Tech next Saturday.

Moore scored once himself and handed off for two other touchdowns after carrying the ball to within five yards of the goal both times. He continually kept the SMU defense off balance with his bootleg option.

He had offensive help from halfback Lance Alworth and George McKinney the regular quarterback, who started all three of the drives Moore finished. Alworth scored the second touchdown on a two-yard end sweep in the third quarter.

Fullback Curtis Cox scored the Razorbacks' first touchdown with a one-yard dive 50 seconds before the half ended and Jim Worthington, a third string halfback, scored the final Arkansas touchdown with a 42-yard punt return after Arkansas built up a 19-3 lead in the final period.

Southern Methodist capitalized on a minus yard Alworth punt which gave the Mustangs the ball on the Arkansas 8 in the first quarter. After three plays cost them nine yards, to the 17, end Buddy Nichols came in to kick a 34-yard field goal and give SMU a 3-0 lead in the final minute of the first quarter.

The Mustangs made only four first downs in the first half. They didn't make another until the final two minutes of the game as the Razorbacks easily outclassed them.

Mauler Cops Trenton Run, Returns $19

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — Emil Dolce's Manassa Mauler scored a front-running victory in Saturday's mile and a quarter Trenton Handicap at Garden State Park.

Joe Culmone backed into this winner as jockey John Sellers was scheduled to ride but was called to his Miami home due to the illness of his young son.

Culmone did a masterful job, however, and held the son of Count Turf together in the stretch run. The field was well bunched back of the leader and a photo gave second money to F. Frederic Gagel's Reinzi.

Promised Land, owned by Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs, was third while the favorite, C. V. Whitney's Dotted Swiss, faded to fourth.

The winner paid $19.00, $9.60, and $7.40. Reinzi returned $12.60 and $8.00 while Promised Land returned $10.60.

Manassa Mauler required 2:02 1-5 for the distance.

Others in the Trenton were Talent Show, Disperse, Nobel Sel and Nickel Boy.

NFL COMMISSIONER

Rozelle Hits AFL Football Protests

By ED WILKS

NEW YORK (AP) — Pete Rozelle, commissioner of the National Football League, Saturday said the new American League might be better off if it spent less time challenging and worrying over NFL policies.

After another protest by the AFL over the telecasting of NFL games, Rozelle said:

"The new league appears to have a fixation that every action and policy of the National Football League is designed to impair their operation.

"If they would expend more time and energy in the development of their own league, and less time worrying about the NFL, they would be much more successful than they apparently have been so far."

The latest AFL protest came after Chet Soda, president of the Oakland Raiders, learned that two NFL games will be telecast into the San Francisco Bay area Sunday. The TV games will compete with the Raiders-Buffalo game in San Francisco.

"That's an illegal sneak punch," said Soda, "....outright war via television.

"It is added evidence that the NFL is thumbing its nose at the antitrust law. It is doing everything it can to kill the chances of a rival enterprise. This is in direct violation of the antitrust laws under which professional football was explicity placed by Supreme Court decisions. What excuse can the NFL offer in a court of law for a thing like this?"

Rozelle, hose offices are here, answered by explaining the NFL clubs sell their television rights to networks and sponsors. "Therefore, they have no control over utilization of these rights other than blacking out NFL cities from other NFL telecasts when our clubs play at home.

"This is in accordance with a 1953 decision of a U.S. District Court in Philadelphia," Rozelle said, adding:

"Telecasts of games involving teams in the new league are beamed into all NFL cities on days when our teams play at home."

The NFL Commissioner stated that two games, rather than one, will be telecast into San Francisco Sunday because two different networks (NBC and CBS) hold TV rights to different NFL clubs. The games to be screened in San Francisco are Los Angeles-Detroit and Baltimore-Chicago.

The NFL sought to limit its telecasts to a single network, as does the AFL (ABC), Rozelle said, "but we were unable to obtain approval of such a plan from the Department of Justice."

Rozelle, who previously answered a similar protest by the New York Titans of the AFL, said "Mr. Soda and other members of the AFL should be aware that our television policy has no relationship to the new league."

Dan Petty Kick Enables Steers To Win, 3 To 2

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Dan Petty's 25-yard field goal in the first period kept Texas in the Southwest Conference football race and eliminated Texas Christian as the Longhorns won 3-2 in a thriller for 40,000 fans.

Texas dominated the first half, limiting TCU to a single first down, but the Horned Frogs came back to virtually camp on the Texas goal line most of the last half. They finally got a safety when Jim Saxton, the fine Texas runner, was downed in the end zone by TCU end Milton Ham.

The safety came after Bobby Gurwit intercepted a pass by Sonny Gibbs and ran out to the Texas 7. On the first play Texas tried a reverse and Saxton was knocked into the end zone by Ham.

STARTS THURSDAY

Structure Of Major League Baseball Awaits Overhaul

NEW YORK (AP)—The American League meets here next Thursday to start overhauling the whole structure of baseball.

First it must select two new franchise owners in the 10-club league for 1961. Then it must decide how to stock those clubs with major league caliber players. And finally it probably will open the door for further expansion.

This could end up with both the National and American leagues going to 12 teams and then possibly splitting off four clubs from each to form a third major league.

At any event, baseball won't be the same from 1961 on. The National League goes to 10 teams in 1962 and that means all records based on a 154-game season become outdated, starting with Babe Ruth's 60 homers. The expanded leagues will play 162 games—each team meeting the others nine times at home and nine times away—setting up a new basis for records.

The immediate problems of the American League are these:

Who will get the new franchises in Washington and Los Angeles? (Washington is open because Cal Griffith is moving the Senators to Minneapolis-St. Paul).

How many players will be declared "untouchable" under whatever player procurement plan is adopted? (Some clubs want to make only 10 men available from each roster, others are willing to go as high as 20).

A half dozen or more groups are applying for the Los Angeles and Washington franchises. The most widely known name is Hank Greenberg, who wants Los Angeles.

Although the character and experience of the prospective franchise owners is of prime interest to President Joe Cronin and the American League clubs, public interest will focus on the player procurement plan.

Don't expect the names of Mickey Mantle, Roger Maris, Nellie Fox or Luis Aparicio to pop up on the new clubs. Established stars are baseball's biggest asset and clubs don't like to part with them.

Probably some such plan as this will be adopted by the American League:

Out of the 40 players on each major league roster (25 are carried with the club during the regular season, and 15 are sent out to the minor leagues), a specified number between 20 and 30 will be declared untouchable.

Then a price tag will be put on the remaining group. It probably will be about $75,000 each. The new clubs will be free to buy from this open group.

The new clubs also can draft players from the minors at the minor league meeting in Louisville later this month.

And finally, the new clubs will be free to buy from the National League during the three week inter-league trading period that opens Nov. 21.

From these three sources will come the players to man the two new clubs.

The American League has some more prosaic business to do at the meeting. It must approve the 162-game schedule. Although eight games longer, the season probably will run from mid-April to the end of September as usual. There were plenty of open dates in the 1960, 154-game schedule.

There also is the matter of the American League constitution, which now reads that the league must be composed of not less than eight nor more than 10 teams. This was, surprisingly enough, adopted in 1953. More surprisingly, the National League made such a provision as early as 1947. The constitution very probably will be revised to 12.

The National League won't come to grips with its growing pains until later. Houston and New York are being added in 1962. As a matter of fact, the American League surprised everyone, and even irked Commissioner Ford Frick, by expanding so rapidly.

The pattern adopted by the American League very probably will be followed by its rival circuit when the time comes.

Houston Tames Seminoles, 7-6 With Air Attack

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Houston's big Cougars overcame a bad case of fumbleitis in the final period Saturday and edged Florida State 7-6 on the passing of quarterback Don Sessions.

On the second play of the fourth quarter, Sessions fired a 12-yard touchdown pass to halfback Ken Bolin to cap a 52-yard drive. Eddie Mitchamore kicked the extra point.

Florida State came right back with a furious passing attack that carried 87 yards to a score in the final three minutes. Ed Trancygier, quarterbacking the Florida State offensive unit, brushed off two would-be tacklers and fired a lofty, 20-yard scoring pass to end George Tillman.

FSU went for the two points instead of the tie, but Trancygier's pass to halfback Carl Meyer was too high and that was the ball game.

Winter Cage League Meets On Schedule

Further organization of winter basketball leagues to be operated by the Monroe Recreation Department, and a basketball officials clinic for persons expecting to officiate in these leagues will take place within the next three days.

League meetings are scheduled for tomorrow and Tuesday night. The meeting of interested game officials and clinic will be held Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock at the Louisiana Training Institute gymnasium with David McKenzie and C. J. Fontana, members of the Northeast Louisiana Basketball Officials Association, conducting the clinic.

The schedule of league meetings is:

Tomorrow — Pee Wee and Midget, 6:30 p.m.; Junior, 7 p.m.; City, 7:30; and Community, 8 p.m.

Tuesday — Church League, 7 p.m.; Ladies League, 7:30.

All league meetings will be held at the Monroe Community Center, 113 Catalpa street.

The various leagues have different requirements.

The City League, is open to adult independent teams.

The Church League, possibly to be composed of "A, B, and C" leagues if the usual heavy entry comes up, is open to all churches of the Twin Cities area.

The Ladies League is for independent teams.

The Junior League is for boys 18 years old and under; the Midget League is for boys 14 and under; and the Pee Wee League is for boys and girls 12 years old and under.

The proposed Community League for men 25 and over will be operated for civic clubs, organizations, and business firms using their own members or personnel.

Grambling's Tigers Grab 8th Triumph

GRAMBLING, La. (Special) — Bowl-minded Grambling College surged up mightily in the first and fourth quarters here Saturday to rout Arkansas AM&N, 33-12.

With All - American Preston Powell, Jerry Robinson and Howard McCowan slamming through tackle or going outside to elude the strength that massed in inside positions, the Tigers systematically tore Arkansas to shreds by running and passing for 283 yards.

Powell knifed over from the three to plant the initial score after Earnest Ladd jarred the ball away from Paul McPherson on the five.

Ladd left the game two plays later with a twisted knee.

McCowan punched the second TD home from six yards out.

Olympic star Stone Johnson and William Brown collaborated on a 29-yard pass for the other second period score.

Arkansas hiked 15 and 60 yards for its markers and exploded enough fireworks to win an ordinary game.

Paul McPherson was the driveshaft on the initial surge ramming over from the three, and Charlie Fobbs outran all pursuit for the second counter. The play covered 20 yards.

Grambling rested on the business end of a 19-12 intermission score.

The Tigers turned what had been an offensive thriller into a defensive burst for the Lions in the second half by pouring salt on each Arkansas mistake.

With the defense hatch closed in their face, Arlen Cullors, provided them with their rudest jolt of the season by recovering a fumble in the end zone for the first touchdown of his career.

Cullors is a 238 - pound guard.

Robinson set a 41-yard course up the middle and barely swerved in scoring the next TD. It was his 13th touchdown of the season. He leads the Southwestern Conference scoring derby with 80 points.

McCowan squeezed the other Tiger marker from the five yard line to climax a struggle that covered on the 15-yards.

The victory was the eighth in nine starts for Grambling.

Weigh In

NEW YORK (AP) — Floreinto Fernandez of Cuba scaled 154 pounds and Phil Moyer of Portland, Ore., 153¼ at the weight-in for Saturday night's scheduled 10-round nationally televised boxing bout at Madison Square Garden.

Dan Petty Kick Enables Steers To Win, 3 To 2

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Dan Petty's 25-yard field goal in the first period kept Texas in the Southwest Conference football race and eliminated Texas Christian as the Longhorns won 3-2 in a thriller for 40,000 fans.

Texas dominated the first half, limiting TCU to a single first down, but the Horned Frogs came back to virtually camp on the Texas goal line most of the last half. They finally got a safety when Jim Saxton, the fine Texas runner, was downed in the end zone by TCU end Milton Ham.

The safety came after Bobby Gurwit intercepted a pass by Sonny Gibbs and ran out to the Texas 7. On the first play Texas tried a reverse and Saxton was knocked into the end zone by Ham.

STARTS THURSDAY

Structure Of Major League Baseball Awaits Overhaul

NEW YORK (AP)—The American League meets here next Thursday to start overhauling the whole structure of baseball.

First it must select two new franchise owners in the 10-club league for 1961. Then it must decide how to stock those clubs with major league caliber players. And finally it probably will open the door for further expansion.

This could end up with both the National and American leagues going to 12 teams and then possibly splitting off four clubs from each to form a third major league.

At any event, baseball won't be the same from 1961 on. The National League goes to 10 teams in 1962 and that means all records based on a 154-game season become outdated, starting with Babe Ruth's 60 homers. The expanded leagues will play 162 games—each team meeting the others nine times at home and nine times away—setting up a new basis for records.

The immediate problems of the American League are these:

Who will get the new franchises in Washington and Los Angeles? (Washington is open because Cal Griffith is moving the Senators to Minneapolis-St. Paul).

How many players will be declared "untouchable" under whatever player procurement plan is adopted? (Some clubs want to make only 10 men available from each roster, others are willing to go as high as 20).

A half dozen or more groups are applying for the Los Angeles and Washington franchises. The most widely known name is Hank Greenberg, who wants Los Angeles.

Although the character and experience of the prospective franchise owners is of prime interest to President Joe Cronin and the American League clubs, public interest will focus on the player procurement plan.

Don't expect the names of Mickey Mantle, Roger Maris, Nellie Fox or Luis Aparicio to pop up on the new clubs. Established stars are baseball's biggest asset and clubs don't like to part with them.

Probably some such plan as this will be adopted by the American League:

Out of the 40 players on each major league roster (25 are carried with the club during the regular season, and 15 are sent out to the minor leagues), a specified number between 20 and 30 will be declared untouchable.

Then a price tag will be put on the remaining group. It probably will be about $75,000 each. The new clubs will be free to buy from this open group.

The new clubs also can draft players from the minors at the minor league meeting in Louisville later this month.

And finally, the new clubs will be free to buy from the National League during the three week inter-league trading period that opens Nov. 21.

From these three sources will come the players to man the two new clubs.

The American League has some more prosaic business to do at the meeting. It must approve the 162-game schedule. Although eight games longer, the season probably will run from mid-April to the end of September as usual. There were plenty of open dates in the 1960, 154-game schedule.

There also is the matter of the American League constitution, which now reads that the league must be composed of not less than eight nor more than 10 teams. This was, surprisingly enough, adopted in 1953. More surprisingly, the National League made such a provision as early as 1947. The constitution very probably will be revised to 12.

The National League won't come to grips with its growing pains until later. Houston and New York are being added in 1962. As a matter of fact, the American League surprised everyone, and even irked Commissioner Ford Frick, by expanding so rapidly.

The pattern adopted by the American League very probably will be followed by its rival circuit when the time comes.

Houston Tames Seminoles, 7-6 With Air Attack

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Houston's big Cougars overcame a bad case of fumbleitis in the final period Saturday and edged Florida State 7-6 on the passing of quarterback Don Sessions.

On the second play of the fourth quarter, Sessions fired a 12-yard touchdown pass to halfback Ken Bolin to cap a 52-yard drive. Eddie Mitchamore kicked the extra point.

Florida State came right back with a furious passing attack that carried 87 yards to a score in the final three minutes. Ed Trancygier, quarterbacking the Florida State offensive unit, brushed off two would-be tacklers and fired a lofty, 20-yard scoring pass to end George Tillman.

FSU went for the two points instead of the tie, but Trancygier's pass to halfback Carl Meyer was too high and that was the ball game.

Winter Cage League Meets On Schedule

Further organization of winter basketball leagues to be operated by the Monroe Recreation Department, and a basketball officials clinic for persons expecting to officiate in these leagues will take place within the next three days.

League meetings are scheduled for tomorrow and Tuesday night. The meeting of interested game officials and clinic will be held Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock at the Louisiana Training Institute gymnasium with David McKenzie and C. J. Fontana, members of the Northeast Louisiana Basketball Officials Association, conducting the clinic.

The schedule of league meetings is:

Tomorrow — Pee Wee and Midget, 6:30 p.m.; Junior, 7 p.m.; City, 7:30; and Community, 8 p.m.

Tuesday — Church League, 7 p.m.; Ladies League, 7:30.

All league meetings will be held at the Monroe Community Center, 113 Catalpa street.

The various leagues have different requirements.

The City League, is open to adult independent teams.

The Church League, possibly to be composed of "A, B, and C" leagues if the usual heavy entry comes up, is open to all churches of the Twin Cities area.

The Ladies League is for independent teams.

The Junior League is for boys 13 years old and under; the Midget League is for boys 14 and under; and the Pee Wee League is for boys and girls 12 years old and under.

The proposed Community League for men 25 and over will be operated for civic clubs, organizations, and business firms using their own members or personnel.

Grambling's Tigers Grab 8th Triumph

GRAMBLING, La. (Special) — Bowl-minded Grambling College surged up mightily in the first and fourth quarters here Saturday to rout Arkansas AM&N, 33-12.

With All - American Preston Powell, Jerry Robinson and Howard McCowan slamming through tackle or going outside to elude the strength that massed in inside positions, the Tigers systematically tore Arkansas to shreds by running and passing for 283 yards.

Powell knifed over from the three to plant the initial score after Earnest Ladd jarred the ball away from Paul McPherson on the five.

Ladd left the game two plays later with a twisted knee.

McCowan punched the second TD home from six yards out.

Olympic star Stone Johnson and William Brown collaborated on a 29-yard pass for the other second period score.

Arkansas hiked 15 and 60 yards for its markers and exploded enough fireworks to win an ordinary game.

Paul McPherson was the driveshaft on the initial surge ramming over from the three, and Charlie Fobbs outran all pursuit for the second counter. The play covered 20 yards.

Grambling rested on the business end of a 19-12 intermission score.

The Tigers turned what had been an offensive thriller into a defensive burst for the Lions in the second half by pouring salt on each Arkansas mistake.

With the defense hatch closed in their face, Arlen Cullors, provided them with their rudest jolt of the season by recovering a fumble in the end zone for the first touchdown of his career.

Cullors is a 238 - pound guard.

Robinson set a 41-yard course up the middle and barely swerved in scoring the next TD. It was his 13th touchdown of the season. He leads the Southwestern Conference scoring derby with 80 points.

McCowan squeezed the other Tiger marker from the five yard line to climax a struggle that covered on the 15-yards.

The victory was the eighth in nine starts for Grambling.

Weigh In

NEW YORK (AP) — Floreinto Fernandez of Cuba scaled 154 pounds and Phil Moyer of Portland, Ore., 153¼ at the weight-in for Saturday night's scheduled 10-round nationally televised boxing bout at Madison Square Garden.

Businessman Acquitted In Wife Slaying

MACON, Ga. (UPI)—Businessman Chester A. Burge was acquitted Saturday of charges he slipped out of a hospital bed and strangled his wife in the climax to a long feud over his unusual friendships.

The 12-man jury, which received the case late Friday, deliberated little more than four hours before returning a verdict of innocent.

Burge, who received the acquittal with little show of emotion, appeared about to cry when his son, John, came to guarantee his $5,000 bond on another accusation. He still faces possible trial on a morals (sodomy) charge.

Burge left by bus almost at once for an undisclosed spot in South Carolina. His next trial may come in December.

Burge was arrested shortly after his wife's limp body was found at their fashionable suburban home May 11.

The state accused the 56-year-old real estate dealer of killing his mate to be free for outside interests. But in an unsworn statement to the jury Burge insisted he did not lack freedom and had even made a trip to Europe without his wife.

The jury was given a fantastic murder plot by the prosecution, including the accusation that Burge slipped out of a hospital bed where he was recuperating from a hernia opration, made his way home to slay his wife and then slipped unseen back to his hospital bed.

The defense countered that story, however, with witnesses who claimed to have seen Burge in bed during the period when his wife was slain.

The prosecution brought out that enclosed stairs at the hospital emerged near Burge's fourth floor room and argued that it would have been simple for him to leave.

One of Burge's fingerprints, taken from a door at his home, also was introduced with a prosecution contention that the door had been washed while Burge was hospitalized and that the presence of a fresh print proved he had returned home.

Even Burge's mother, Mrs. Sarah Frances Durden, 77, testified for the state that her son "sure was mean." She said he told his wife several times that he would 'kill her."

Burge's battle with his wife allegedly was over his friendship for a New Jersey man.

He could be sentenced to prison for up to 10 years upon conviction in the morals case.

Businessmen Will Conduct NLSC Classes

More than 125 businessmen and women from north Louisiana will become teachers for two days when they take over business classes at Northeast Louisiana State College and share their practical experiences with students.

The business people will conduct all classes in the Division of Business Administration Monday and Tuesday at the college. These courses comprise accounting, business administration, marketing and secretarial science.

The two-day program is being called "Business Administration Men's and Women's Days."

Wilbur L. Perkins, head of the Division of Business Administration, said a large group of alumni is expected to visit during the two days. He added that any interested persons are invited to sit in on the classes.

A panel of two businessmen will take over each class. Each member of the panel will have about 10 minuzes to make comments, to talk to the students or to discuss some subject he considers significant to the class.

The last 20 minutes of the class will be spent in a round-table discussion with students, regular classroom instructor and the two visitors participating.

Perkins said coffee and cookies will be served in room 103 of Brown Hall, which is the business-administration building. Perkins urged former students to return to meet ex-classmates and other prominent business persons from the area.

Perkins said the program is the renewal of an idea discontinued two years ago. Students and faculty both had requested its reinstatement, he added.

Visiting businessmen who will take over courses in accounting, business administration, and marketing have already been announced. These are the persons who will conduct the secretarial-science classes:

D. L. O. Puckett, Columbian Carbon Co., and J. H. Scogin, Brown-Rivers-Scogin, Inc., noon Monday, Brown Hall 303; Mack Owens, Central Savings Trust & Co., and Elvin Kilpatrick, Columbian Carbon Co., 1 p.m. Monday, BH 304.

Businessman Acquitted In Wife Slaying

MACON, Ga. (UPI)—Businessman Chester A. Burge was acquitted Saturday of charges he slipped out of a hospital bed and strangled his wife in the climax to a long feud over his unusual friendships.

The 12-man jury, which received the case late Friday, deliberated little more than four hours before returning a verdict of innocent.

Burge, who received the acquittal with little show of emotion, appeared about to cry when his son, John, came to guarantee his $5,000 bond on another accusation. He still faces possible trial on a morals (sodomy) charge.

Burge left by bus almost at once for an undisclosed spot in South Carolina. His next trial may come in December.

Burge was arrested shortly after his wife's limp body was found at their fashionable suburban home May 11.

The state accused the 56-year-old real estate dealer of killing his mate to be free for outside interests. But in an unsworn statement to the jury Burge insisted he did not lack freedom and had even made a trip to Europe without his wife.

The jury was given a fantastic murder plot by the prosecution, including the accusation that Burge slipped out of a hospital bed where he was recuperating from a hernia opration, made his way home to slay his wife and then slipped unseen back to his hospital bed.

The defense countered that story, however, with witnesses who claimed to have seen Burge in bed during the period when his wife was slain.

The prosecution brought out that enclosed stairs at the hospital emerged near Burge's fourth floor room and argued that it would have been simple for him to leave.

One of Burge's fingerprints, taken from a door at his home, also was introduced with a prosecution contention that the door had been washed while Burge was hospitalized and that the presence of a fresh print proved he had returned home.

Even Burge's mother, Mrs. Sarah Frances Durden, 77, testified for the state that her son "sure was mean." She said he told his wife several times that he would 'kill her."

Burge's battle with his wife allegedly was over his friendship for a New Jersey man.

He could be sentenced to prison for up to 10 years upon conviction in the morals case.

Businessmen Will Conduct NLSC Classes

More than 125 businessmen and women from north Louisiana will become teachers for two days when they take over business classes at Northeast Louisiana State College and share their practical experiences with students.

The business people will conduct all classes in the Division of Business Administration Monday and Tuesday at the college. These courses comprise accounting, business administration, marketing and secretarial science.

The two-day program is being called "Business Administration Men's and Women's Days."

Wilbur L. Perkins, head of the Division of Business Administration, said a large group of alumni is expected to visit during the two days. He added that any interested persons are invited to sit in on the classes.

A panel of two businessmen will take over each class. Each member of the panel will have about 10 minuzes to make comments, to talk to the students or to discuss some subject he considers significant to the class.

The last 20 minutes of the class will be spent in a round-table discussion with students, regular classroom instructor and the two visitors participating.

Perkins said coffee and cookies will be served in room 103 of Brown Hall, which is the business-administration building. Perkins urged former students to return to meet ex-classmates and other prominent business persons from the area.

Perkins said the program is the renewal of an idea discontined two years ago. Students and faculty both had requested its reinstatement, he added.

Visiting businessmen who will take over courses in accounting, business administration, and marketing have already been announced. These are the persons who will conduct the secretarial-science classes:

D. L. O. Puckett, Columbian Carbon Co., and J. H. Scogin, Brown-Rivers-Scogin, Inc., noon Monday, Brown Hall 303; Mack Owens, Central Savings Trust & Co., and Elvin Kilpatrick, Columbian Carbon Co., 1 p.m. Monday, BH 304.

Cross Burning Charge Denied

LEXINGTON, Miss (UPI) — Holmes County attorney Pat Barrett denied Saturday his son was the "instigator" of a cross burning on the lawn of Editor Hazel Brannon Smith on Halloween.

Mrs. Smith, a longtime foe of the Holmes Citizens' Council, said she noted a station wagon driven by Don Barrett when a group of teenagers burned the eight-foot cross on her grounds.

This week the Big Story was the election, of course. The results themselves were handled on the front page, but this department concerns itself with the watching parties held in town. With Nixon carrying our parish as he did, and losing generally, most of these affairs turned into silent and gloomy gatherings. But the food was good — and if one must get bad news, better to have congenial souls standing by.

At the LEE VANDERPOOLS', arriving friends found a real conversation-piece arrangement in the entrance hall. Stickers of both parties, flags, and foil leaves decorated a tall branched piece of driftwood. Focal point was of yellow and brown cramic figures of a Republican elephant and a Democratic donkey. .. In the dining room, bronze Spider mums centered the table. Buffet supper consisting of barbecued pork and turkey, sweet potato casserole, and asparagus vinaigrette was served to thirty-six friends.

Nine couples gathered at the ED SEYMOURS', JR., to await the voting results. Anna Claire used roses on the dining table, where guests helped themselves to chicken tetrazzini, green salad and garlic bread.

Over at the GENE WORTHEN'S a group of confirmed Nixonites, when discouraged at the returns, could repair their strength at a make-your-own shish kabob table. Platters offered a choice of small steaks, marinated or plain, squares of tomato or green pepper; tiny onions, potatoes, or mushrooms. Guests assembled their personal preferences on sewers which were then placed on the Kabob-a-grill to attain the desired degree of done-ness. Ten guests attended this party.

The KENT BREARDS and the LOUIS HALLS invited a small group of friends to watch the election results at the Hall home. Supper was served mid-way the evening, with chicken a la king and tomatoe aspic highlighting the menu.

Bright spot on next week's calendar is the scheduled presentation of the Junior Charity League's Las Vegas Follies, Wednesday and Thursday nights in Neville auditorium. Through the years a number of these successful reviews have been put on by the League in support of the organization's numerous charitable and civic projects. This marks the first presentation in three years, and has been eagerly awaited.

Adding to the anticipation have been rumors which have leaked out of rehearsals. Gales of laughter rock the hall as the skits and the clowns go through their paces. And they do say that the Charleston number alone is worth the price of admission. Chorus lines will be Latins, Orientals, square dancers, and even kitty-cats.

Tickets are available from League members, and will be on sale Monday and Tuesday at booths in the Palace and in Sears shopping center.

Several social affairs were on the agenda at the annual meeting of the Louisiana Orthopedic association held here last weekend. Monroe's own SCOTT HAMILTON has been serving as state president of the organization, with ROY LEDBETTER as secretary. They planned for visiting gentlemen to try our duck hunting in the early hours of Saturday and Sunday mornings, and a golf tournament was held Sunday afternoon.

Lady guests and members of the local medical auxiliary were invited to tea in Charlotte Hamilton's home Saturday afternoon. The entire house was beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums . . . At the tea table, which was centered with grapes and dark green foliage, MRS. JOHN BREARD and MRS. C. P. GRAY, SR., served spiced tea and coffee. Visitors exclaimed with delight over the dainty sandwiches of cream cheese on apricot bread, and others of ripe olives, nuts, and parsley. Sweets included Danish cream biscuits, cinnamon sticks, and apricot balls.

Saturday night the Hamiltons and Ledbetters were hosts at buffet supper at Bayou DeSiard country club. MARCUS STEWART of Memphis was guest of honor and featured speaker. Centering the table was a basket of colorful fall fruits. Included on the menu were roast beef, the club's famous shrimp salad, and coffee pi, all specialties sure to please home-towners and visitors alike.

Visitors being given the red-carpet treatment this weekend are relatives of MADELINE MAUREY, whose marriage to GEORGE WALKER, JR., is planned for Thanksgiving week in Chicago. Here from the Windy City are her parents, MR. and MRS. JOSEPH E. MAUREY, and grandmother, MRS. J. E. MAUREY, SR. Sister JOAN MAUREY, freshman at Hollins College, is also here. Nine affairs were planned for the group between arrival time Friday afternoon and noon today.

Before she moved to Beaumont, Texas, last week, SHERRY FREE was honored at a going-away party. Thirty-five members of the sophmore class at Neville attended the affair, given by LOUISE WEIR and SHARON MONROE at the Monroe home. The guest of honor was presented with a gold charm engraved with her name and class year.

Off tomorrow for a fabulous trip will be the BILLY EDMONDSONS, the HAM CHAPMANS, the W. D. BALLARDS and their daughter SANDY, and the MAC BALLARDS. They are scheduled to leave New Orleans Tuesday for ten days in San Juan, Puerto Rico. . . MRS. V. W. CHAPMAN arrived from New York Friday to stay with her grandchildren CHERRY and HAMILTON while their parents are vacationing. . . Visiting with ANN and BILL EDMONDSON will be their grandmother, MRS. JOHN MADDEN, who is due in today from Baton Rouge.

Visiting from Tampa, Texas, this week was MRS. IDA PERKINS. She left this weekend after a stay with her children, the HANK WELLS.

Among those in Baton Rouge this weekend for the LSU-Mississippi State game were the DOYLE HAMILTONS and the HENRY HAMMONDS and children HANK and ANN. They are expected home today.

Celebrating her third birthday this week was BECKY BENNETT, who invited ten little girls to share the occasion. Birthday cake and ice cream were served at a low round table covered with a gay party cloth. Balloons and candles shaped like tiny Pilgrim girls were given as favors.

Also three years old was DAVID PURVIS, who marked the occasion with a party at home Sunday afternoon. Pony rides were the featured entertainment. Hats and blow-outs were the favors given to fifteen little guests.

In lieu of a poem today, here are some quotes from Oscar Wilde, who died sixty years ago this fall in Paris. He is renowned, of course, as one of the wittiest men who ever lived.

"I can resist everything except temptation."

"A cynic is a man who knows the price of everything and the value of nothing."

"Duty is what one expects from others — it is not what one does oneself."

"Give me the luxuries, and any one can have the necessaries."

"A Russian who lives happily under the present system of government in Russia must either believe that man has no soul, or that, if he has, it is not worth developing."

"There are things that are right to say, but they may be said at the wrong time and to the wrong people."

"I always pass on good advice. It is the only thing to do with it. It is never any use to oneself."

"Alcohol, taken in sufficient quantities, produces all the effects of intoxication."

"If you wish for reputation and fame in the world and success during your lifetime, you are right to take every opportunity of advertising yourself."

"We have really everything in common with America nowadays, except, of course, language."

Consistency is the last refuge of the unimaginative."

"A man who does not think for himself does not think at all." "Work is the curse of the drinking classes."

"In modern life nothing produces such an effect as a good platitude. It makes the whole world kin."

"I dislike arguments of any kind. They are always vulgar, and often convincing."

"Would you like to know the great drama of my life? It is that I have put my genius into my life — I have put only my talent into my works."

SOLEMNIZED Thanksgiving Day will be the wedding of Miss Vivian Carol Roberts, above, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Roberts of West Monroe, to Johnny F. Baxter, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Baxter, also of West Monroe. The nuptials will be solemnized in the home of the bride's parents with the Reverend Harold E. Cook officiating.

Mrs. Landry Fetes Guests At Lotus Club

Appointments were carried out in a seasonal theme when Mrs. L. P. Landry entertained a group of friends at a dinner party Friday night, November 11 at the Lotus Club.

Centerpiece for the table at which the guests were seated was an arrangement of multicolored chrysanthemums, keynoting the autumn decor.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Bancroft, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Hudson, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Hunt of Ruston and Mrs. Layton Lamkin.

Room Plans Now Center On Entertainment

It used to be the "family room, now it's the entertainment center.

Stereo, hi fi, TV all have helped to spur interest. Then there are the "live music" fans, as a growing number of children and adults learn to play a musical instrument.

Whatever the reason, it's true that modern families seem to be not so much interested in the decorating of a sort of catch-all room that covers many activities as they are in the creation of a "looking and listening" headquarters, where the accent often is on the latest developments in stereo.

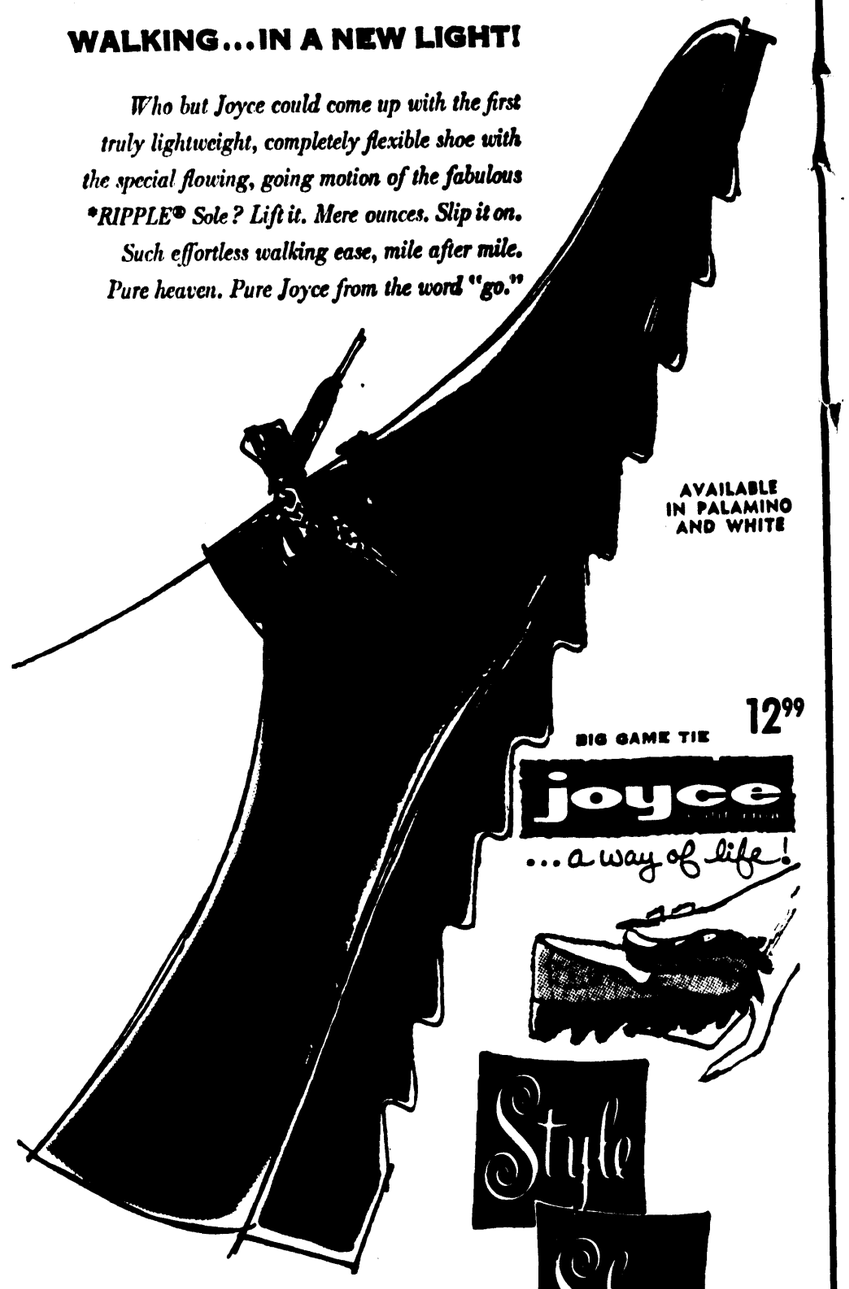

Usually, there are two decorating objectives for the entertainment center — one, a setting that's an effective background for the equipment, be it hi fi set, stero console or piano. Two, surroundings should be not only comfortable but attractive to the eye.

This week the Big Story was the election, of course. The results themselves were handled on the front page, but this department concerns itself with the watching parties held in town. With Nixon carrying our parish as he did, and losing generallly, most of these affairs turned into silent and gloomy gatherings. But the food was good — and if one must get bad news, better to have congenial souls standing by.

At the LEE VANDERPOOLS', arriving friends found a real conversation-piece arrangement in the entrance hall. Stickers of both parties, flags, and foil leaves decorated a tall branched piece of driftwood. Focal point was of yellow and brown cramic figures of a Republican elephant and a Democratic donkey. .. In the dining room, bronze Spider mums centered the table. Buffet supper consisting of barbecued pork and turkey, sweet potato casserole, and asparagus vinaigrette was served to thirty-six friends.

Nine couples gathered at the ED SEYMOURS', JR., to await the voting results. Anna Claire used roses on the dining table, where guests helped themselves to chicken tetrazzini, green salad and garlic bread.

Over at the GENE WORTHEN'S a group of confirmed Nixonites, when discouraged at the returns, could repair their strength at a make-your-own shish kabob table. Platters offered a choice of small steaks, marinated or plain, squares of tomato or green pepper; tiny onions, potatoes, or mushrooms. Guests assembled their personal preferences on sewers which were then placed on the Kabob-a-grill to attain the desired degree of done-ness. Ten guests attended this party.

The KENT BREARDS and the LOUIS HALLS invited a small group of friends to watch the election results at the Hall home. Supper was served mid-way the evening, with chicken a la king and tomatoe aspic highlighting the menu.

Bright spot on next week's calendar is the scheduled presentation of the Junior Charity League's Las Vegas Follies, Wednesday and Thursday nights in Neville auditorium. Through the years a number of these successful reviews have been put on by the League in support of the organization's numerous charitable and civic projects. This marks the first presentation in three years, and has been eagerly awaited.

Adding to the anticipation have been rumors which have leaked out of rehearsals. Gales of laughter rock the hall as the skits and the clowns go through their paces. And they do say that the Charleston number alone is worth the price of admission. Chorus lines will be Latins, Orientals, square dancers, and even kitty-cats.

Tickets are available from League members, and will be on sale Monday and Tuesday at booths in the Palace and in Sears shopping center.

Several social affairs were on the agenda at the annual meeting of the Louisiana Orthopedic association held here last weekend. Monroe's own SCOTT HAMILTON has been serving as state president of the organization, with ROY LEDBETTER as secretary. They planned for visiting gentlemen to try our duck hunting in the early hours of Saturday and Sunday mornings, and a golf tournament was held Sunday afternoon.

Lady guests and members of the local medical auxiliary were invited to tea in Charlotte Hamilton's home Saturday afternoon. The entire house was beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums . . . At the tea table, which was centered with grapes and dark green foliage, MRS. JOHN BREARD and MRS. C. P. GRAY, SR., served spiced tea and coffee. Visitors exclaimed with delight over the dainty sandwiches of cream cheese on apricot bread, and others of ripe olives, nuts, and parsley. Sweets included Danish cream biscuits, cinnamon sticks, and apricot balls.

Saturday night the Hamiltons and Ledbetters were hosts at buffet supper at Bayou DeSiard country club. MARCUS STEWART of Memphis was guest of honor and featured speaker. Centering the table was a basket of colorful fall fruits. Included on the menu were roast beef, the club's famous shrimp salad, and coffee pi, all specialties sure to please home-towners and visitors alike.

Visitors being given the red-carpet treatment this weekend are relatives of MADEILINE MAUREY, whose marriage to GEORGE WALKER, JR., is planned for Thanksgiving week in Chicago. Here from the Windy City are her parents, MR. and MRS. JOSEPH E. MAUREY, and grandmother, MRS. J. E. MAUREY, SR. Sister JOAN MAUREY, freshman at Hollins College, is also here. Nine affairs were planned for the group between arrival time Friday afternoon and noon today.

Before she moved to Beaumont, Texas, last week, SHERRY FREE was honored at a going-away party. Thirty-five members of the sophmore class at Neville attended the affair, given by LOUISE WEIR and SHARON MONROE at the Monroe home. The guest of honor was presented with a gold charm engraved with her name and class year.

Off tomorrow for a fabulous trip will be the BILLY EDMONDSONS, the HAM CHAPMANS, the W. D. BALLARDS and their daughter SANDY, and the MAC BALLARDS. They are scheduled to leave New Orleans Tuesday for ten days in San Juan, Puerto Rico. . . MRS. V. W. CHAPMAN arrived from New York Friday to stay with her grandchildren CHERRY and HAMILTON while their parents are vacationing. . . Visiting with ANN and BILL EDMONDSON will be their grandmother, MRS. JOHN MADDEN, who is due in today from Baton Rouge.

Visiting from Tampa, Texas, this week was MRS. IDA PERKINS. She left this weekend after a stay with her children, the HANK WELLS.

Among those in Baton Rouge this weekend for the LSU-Mississippi State game were the DOYLE HAMILTONS and the HENRY HAMMONDS and children HANK and ANN. They are expected home today.

Celebrating her third birthday this week was BECKY BENNETT, who invited ten little girls to share the occasion. Birthday cake and ice cream were served at a low round table covered with a gay party cloth. Balloons and candles shaped like tiny Pilgrim girls were given as favors.

Also three years old was DAVID PURVIS, who marked the occasion with a party at home Sunday afternoon. Pony rides were the featured entertainment. Hats and blow-outs were the favors given to fifteen little guests.

In lieu of a poem today, here are some quotes from Oscar Wilde, who died sixty years ago this fall in Paris. He is renowned, of course, as one of the wittiest men who ever lived.

"I can resist everything except temptation."

"A cynic is a man who knows the price of everything and the value of nothing."

"Duty is what one expects from others — it is not what one does oneself."

"Give me the luxuries, and any one can have the necessaries."

"A Russian who lives happily under the present system of government in Russia must either believe that man has no soul, or that, if he has, it is not worth developing."

"There are things that are right to say, but they may be said at the wrong time and to the wrong people."

"I always pass on good advice. It is the only thing to do with it. It is never any use to oneself."

"Alcohol, taken in sufficient quantities, produces all the effects of intoxication."

"If you wish for reputation and fame in the world and success during your lifetime, you are right to take every opportunity of advertising yourself."

"We have really everything in common with America nowadays, except, of course, language."

Consistency is the last refuge of the unimaginative."

"A man who does not think for himself does not think at all." "Work is the curse of the drinking classes."

"In modern life nothing produces such an effect as a good platitude. It makes the whole world kin."

"I dislike arguments of any kind. They are always vulgar, and often convincing."

"Would you like to know the great drama of my life? It is that I have put my genius into my life — I have put only my talent into my works."

SOLEMNIZED Thanksgiving Day will be the wedding of Miss Vivian Carol Roberts, above, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Roberts of West Monroe, to Johnny F. Baxter, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Baxter, also of West Monroe. The nuptials will be solemnized in the home of the bride's parents with the Reverend Harold E. Cook officiating.

Mrs. Landry Fetes Guests At Lotus Club

Appointments were carried out in a seasonal theme when Mrs. L. P. Landry entertained a group of friends at a dinner party Friday night, November 11 at the Lotus Club.

Centerpiece for the table at which the guests were seated was an arrangement of multicolored chrysanthemums, keynoting the autumn decor.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Bancroft, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Hudson, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Hunt of Ruston and Mrs. Layton Lamkin.

Room Plans Now Center On Entertainment

It used to be the "family room," now it's the entertainment center.

Stereo, hi fi, TV all have helped to spur interest. Then there are the "live music" fans, as a growing number of children and adults learn to play a musical instrument.

Whatever the reason, it's true that modern families seem to be not so much interested in the decorating of a sort of catch-all room that covers many activities as they are in the creation of a "looking and listening" headquarters, where the accent often is on the latest developments in stereo.

Usually, there are two decorating objectives for the entertainment center — one, a setting that's an effective background for the equipment, be it hi fi set, stero console or piano. Two, surroundings should be not only comfortable but attractive to the eye.

MRS. JAMES ALEXANDER ROBERTSON

St. Henry's Church Scene Of Robertson-Fraser Vows

Arrangements of white roses and stock, and tall white tapers banked the alter of St. Henry's Catholic Church in Hodge, for the wedding of Miss Rose Marie Fraser and Dr. James Alexander Robertson. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Fraser of Hodge and Dr. Robertson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Robertson of Anamosa, Iowa.

The Reverend B. F. Maguire was celebrant for the late October nuptials solemnized at 6 p.m. and was assisted at the altar by Andre Michaud.

Mrs. John Holly, organist, played a program of nuptial music as guests were seated by the ushers, Jerome Fraser, brother of the bride; Dr. Clotaire Delery and Dr. Rodney Landreneau.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory peau de soie and re-embroidered jeweled Alencon lace, fashioned empire style, with scalloped neckline and three-quarter sleeves. The jeweled lace accented the moulded bodice and extended down the cathedral train. A crown of pearls and sequins held her veil of French illusion and she carried a bouquet of white butterfly roses, which she placed on the altar of the Virgin Mary. Her only jewelry was a diamond-set heart necklace, a gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Rodney Landreneau, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs. Clotaire Delery, also a sister of the bride; Mrs. Herbert Klontz, sister of the bridegroom and Mrs. Philip Risher.

The attendants wore mountain-berry red velveteen dresses with fitted bodices and bell-shaped skirts. Their headdresses were miniature crowns of seed pearls and sequins and they carried heart-shaped bouquets of pink pinochio and garnet roses.

Mrs. Fraser chose for her daughter's wedding a street-length dress of mauve peau de soie with bodice and sleves of chantilly lace. The bride-groom's mother wore a beige brocade dress with matching accessories.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Advance Country Club. Mrs. John E. Hall greeted guests at the door and members of the bridal party formed the receiving line. White roses and greenery decorated the candlelight setting.

Miss Eleanor Enright and Mrs. Tommy Bond alternated at the guest book and Mrs. Frank Johnson and Mrs. Chester Steadman served punch from crystal bowls at opposite ends of a table, centered with a five-branch silver candelabra, adorned with white tuberoses and butterfly roses.

The bride's table was covered with a white cutwork cloth and adorned with a cupid candelabra, interspersed with white roses, stock and chrysanthemums. Opposite was the tiered wedding cake, topped with double satin bells. Presiding at the cake service were Mrs. Larry Ayotte and Mrs. Eglin McKeithen. Others assisting with the courtesies were Mrs. John Dennis, Mrs. J. O. Sparks, Mrs. Sam Anderson, Mrs. Dino Alberti, Mrs. Wilbur McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Michaud, John Hall and Larry Ayotte.

The bridesmaids' bouquets were placed at the base of a triple branched silver candelabra on the groom's table, which was covered with an antique lace cloth. As guests departed they were handed grooms' cake tied in white packages by Mrs. Mabel Lintott.

Mrs. James Gleason provided background organ music throughout the evening. Miss Carolyn Michoud and Mrs. Donald Briehn distributed rice bags prior to the departure of the bride and groom.

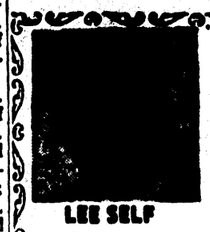

For travel Mrs. Robertson wore a brown wool suit with mink collar and matching mink hat. The couple will establish a home at Austin, Texas, where Dr. Robertson has been assigned as a captain in the U. S. Air Force at Bergstrom air base.

The bride is a graduate of New Orleans Charity Hospital school of nursing and has been employed there the past two years. Dr. Robertson is a graduate of Iowa State and interned at Charity of New Orleans.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Robertson of Anamosa, Iowa; Mr. and Mrs. Urban Wilkerson and Henry G'Sell of New Orleans, Loyd Brandenburg, Santa Fe, New Mexico; Mr. and Mrs. Archie Dickerson, Mr. and Mrs. Cy Epler, Mr. and Mrs. George Weaks of Monroe, Louis Falk and Philip Risher, Shreveport; Mrs. L. J. Lucky, Savannah, Ga., and Mrs. L. P. McLane, Ruston.

MRS. JAMES ALEXANDER ROBERTSON

St. Henry's Church Scene Of Robertson-Fraser Vows

Arrangements of white roses and stock, and tall white tapers banked the alter of St. Henry's Catholic Church in Hodge, for the wedding of Miss Rose Marie Fraser and Dr. James Alexander Robertson. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Fraser of Hodge and Dr. Robertson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Robertson of Anamosa, Iowa.

The Reverend B. F. Maguire was celebrant for the late October nuptials solemnized at 6 p.m. and was assisted at the altar by Andre Michaud.

Mrs. John Holly, organist, played a program of nuptial music as guests were seated by the ushers, Jerome Fraser, brother of the bride; Dr. Clotaire Delery and Dr. Rodney Landreneau.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory peau de soie and re-embroidered jeweled Alencon lace, fashioned empire style, with scalloped neckline and three-quarter sleeves. The jeweled lace accented the moulded bodice and extended down the cathedral train. A crown of pearls and sequins held her veil of French illusion and she carried a bouquet of white butterfly roses, which she placed on the altar of the Virgin Mary. Her only jewelry was a diamond-set heart necklace, a gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Rodney Landreneau, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs. Clotaire Delery, also a sister of the bride; Mrs. Herbert Klontz, sister of the bridegroom and Mrs. Philip Risher.

The attendants wore mountain-berry red velveteen dresses with fitted bodices and bell-shaped skirts. Their headdresses were miniature crowns of seed pearls and sequins and they carried heart-shaped bouquets of pink pinochio and garnet roses.

Mrs. Fraser chose for her daughter's wedding a street-length dress of mauve peau de soie with bodice and sleves of chantilly lace. The bride-groom's mother wore a beige brocade dress with matching accessories.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Advance Country Club. Mrs. John E. Hall greeted guests at the door and members of the bridal party formed the receiving line. White roses and greenery decorated the candlelight setting.

Miss Eleanor Enright and Mrs. Tommy Bond alternated at the guest book and Mrs. Frank Johnson and Mrs. Chester Steadman served punch from crystal bowls at opposite ends of a table, centered with a five-branch silver candelabra, adorned with white tuberoses and butterfly roses.

The bride's table was covered with a white cutwork cloth and adorned with a cupid candelabra, interspersed with white roses, stock and chrysanthemums. Opposite was the tiered wedding cake, topped with double satin bells. Presiding at the cake service were Mrs. Larry Ayotte and Mrs. Eglin McKeithen. Others assisting with the courtesies were Mrs. John Dennis, Mrs. J. O. Sparks, Mrs. Sam Anderson, Mrs. Dino Alberti, Mrs. Wilbur McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Michaud, John Hall and Larry Ayotte.

The bridesmaids' bouquets were placed at the base of a triple branched silver candelabra on the groom's table, which was covered with an antique lace cloth. As guests departed they were handed grooms' cake tied in white packages by Mrs. Mabel Lintott.

Mrs. James Gleason provided background organ music throughout the evening. Miss Carolyn Michoud and Mrs. Donald Briehn distributed rice bags prior to the departure of the bride and groom.

For travel Mrs. Robertson wore a brown wool suit with mink collar and matching mink hat. The couple will establish a home at Austin, Texas, where Dr. Robertson has been assigned as a captain in the U. S. Air Force at Bergstrom air base.

The bride is a graduate of New Orleans Charity Hospital school of nursing and has been employed there the past two years. Dr. Robertson is a graduate of Iowa State and interned at Charity of New Orleans.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Robertson of Anamosa, Iowa; Mr. and Mrs. Urban Wilkerson and Henry G'Sell of New Orleans, Loyd Brandenburg, Santa Fe, New Mexico; Mr. and Mrs. Archie Dickerson, Mr. and Mrs. Cy Epler, Mr. and Mrs. George Weaks of Monroe, Louis Falk and Philip Risher, Shreveport; Mrs. L. J. Lucky, Savannah, Ga., and Mrs. L. P. McLane, Ruston.

Women Never Satisfied With Hair

Fortunately for beauty salons, one out of every four women is dissatisfied with her present hair style. Since eighty-two out of every hundred visited a beauty salon at least once last year, this dissatisfaction seems to be perpetual.

That it has nothing to do with the salon, is revealed by the fact that most women have a "favorite" salon. No, it's just the human desire for change, concludes the survey which dug up these and other interesting facts about women and their salons.

For the thirteenth year, the Breck Survey asked the questions it compiled when the survey was first started, and over the years the answers have added up to a picture of changing beauty patterns among American women.

Ten years ago only ten per cent of the women answering said they had any form of hair color. This year thirty per cent had some form of hair color treatment. More than half of these did so in the salon.

Yet many still admitted that family disapproval or fear kept them from having hair coloring. This lingering prejudice has quite vanished for permanents, which practically everyone (except the few with curly hair) had had during the past year, and for which over half had gone to salons.

The young, however, are still willing to try self - help. Older women, having been through all that, are at the point of admitting that a professional can do it better.

But the salon-customer relationship is a delicate one, as the word "favorite" implies when it is attached to a salon. Women have a strong personal feeling of confidence in a chosen salon, and hate to change. When they do, it is apt to be on recommendation of a friend already going to another shop.

What do women think of beauty salons? Younger women tended to regard them as a "luxury," while older women said they were a "necessity." After all, youth doesn't need all the help maturity often does!

Yet most women questioned were conscious of the importance of hair to their looks, and most named hair as their greatest beauty problem, with styling, manageability and dandruff as the chief vexations.

Fortunately for beauty salons, one out of every four women is dissatisfied with her present hair style. Since eighty-two out of every hundred visited a beauty salon at least once last year, this dissatisfaction seems to be perpetual.

That it has nothing to do with the salon, is revealed by the fact that most women have a "favorite" salon. No, it's just the human desire for change, concludes the survey which dug up these and other interesting facts about women and their salons.

For the thirteenth year, the Breck Survey asked the questions it compiled when the survey was first started, and over the years the answers have added up to a picture of changing beauty patterns among American women.

Ten years ago only ten per cent of the women answering said they had any form of hair color. This year thirty per cent had some form of hair color treatment. More than half of these did so in the salon.

Yet many still admitted that family disapproval or fear kept them from having hair coloring. This lingering prejudice has quite vanished for permanents, which practically everyone (except the few with curly hair) had had during the past year, and for which over half had gone to salons.

The young, however, are still willing to try self - help. Older women, having been through all that, are at the point of admitting that a professional can do it better.

But the salon-customer relationship is a delicate one, as the word "favorite" implies when it is attached to a salon. Women have a strong personal feeling of confidence in a chosen salon, and hate to change. When they do, it is apt to be on recommendation of a friend already going to another shop.

What do women think of beauty salons? Younger women tended to regard them as a "luxury," while older women said they were a "necessity." After all, youth doesn't need all the help maturity often does!

Yet most women questioned were conscious of the importance of hair to their looks, and most named hair as their greatest beauty problem, with styling, manageability and dandruff as the chief vexations.

Avoid Extremes In Office Wear Counselor Says

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Beauty Editor

Working girls, wide awake about their jobs but fast asleep about their charm potentials, are being awakened gently by Doreen Teeling.

As the request of businessmen Miss Teeling conducts glamour sessions in factories and offices. She has been in the business of teaching good grooming in industry since 1951.

The bosses are happy to pay for her course consisting of seven two-hour sessions. They are eager to help their feminine employees find a middle road between being overly dressed and poorly groomed, she says.

The tall, willowy blonde from the Middle West has learned from the tycoons of industry the many taboos of office dress. Thus Miss Teeling developed this list.

1. Open-toed shoes are not for business. Always wear closed heel and toe, preferably the opera pump.

2. Large-patterned dresses, sheer blouses, low-cut necklines are out of place.

3. Skirts and sweaters should not be worn on the job.

4. A suit is fine if it is not so heavy that the wearer must spend the day in her skirt and blouse.

5. Make-up taboos include overdoing the whole idea. Green eye shadow, for example, is too exotic.

Stacked Heels Appear In New Dressy Styles

Heels on new fall shoes stack up beautifully as fashion focal points.

The stacked heel, achieved by placing layer after layer of sturdy wood or leather on top of each other, has been a classic for tailored shoes.

Now these interesting heels appear in dressy daytime styles and all slicked up for evening. Most unusual are the leathers that simulate the stacked look, and the use of a mid-high heel of this type on a very elegant "dancing" slipper.

Leather is laminated to wood and often enhanced by facets to catch light, just as a cut jewel does. Leathers are sometimes used to simulate true wood grains too.

The stacked heel appears in all heights from spiked to squash; in needle point, scooped, or most any favorite shape.

Avoid Extremes In Office Wear Counselor Says

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Beauty Editor

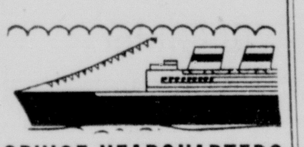

Working girls, wide awake about their jobs but fast asleep about their charm potentials, are being awakened gently by Doreen Teeling.

As the request of businessmen Miss Teeling conducts glamour sessions in factories and offices. She has been in the business of teaching good grooming in industry since 1951.

The bosses are happy to pay for her course consisting of seven two-hour sessions. They are eager to help their feminine employees find a middle road between being overly dressed and poorly groomed, she says.

The tall, willowy blonde from the Middle West has learned from the tycoons of industry the many taboos of office dress. Thus Miss Teeling developed this list.

1. Open-toed shoes are not for business. Always wear closed heel and toe, preferably the opera pump.
2. Large-patterned dresses, sheer blouses, low-cut necklines are out of place.
3. Skirts and sweaters should not be worn on the job.
4. A suit is fine if it is not so heavy that the wearer must spend the day in her skirt and blouse.
5. Make-up taboos include overdoing the whole idea. Green eye shadow, for example, is too exotic.

MISS GLENDA FAYE STANFIELD

Milliner Adapts 'Space Age' To Milady's Hats

Perhaps somebody else might have thought of making hats out of things looking like sprung bedsprings, barrel stays, halos, antlers, antennas, coiling snakes and mathematical formulas.

But an arty, whimsical New York matron did. Now Franny Whitney finds herself with "the logical millinery progression of the space age" on her hands, and on a lot of women's heads.

Her hats are made out of "trapped air," she says. Yet from the looks of her creations it would seem that air can enter and exit at will. The framework is all there is.

Guaranteed not to keep a girl's ears warm, these zany shapes nevertheless do wrap themselves flatteringly around a coiffure, allowing fashionably bleached or jetted tresses to shine through in all their crowning glory.

PRETTY NOTHINGS

The geometrical mobiles are prettily just so much nothing wrapped with bright velvet, sprinkled with rhinestones, and-or tagged at improbable places with perky bows, ostrich feathers, or cocky little birds.

"My hats were not meant to be worn to the supermarket," the tall, brown-haired divorcee says defensively, putting on a number that looked like the brim of a picture hat without the rest of it. "But they're simply marvelous for cocktail parties!"

The 40ish mother of a 16-year-old daughter who loves her hats ("What else can she say?") claims she has one foot in the hat world, the other in the art world. Recently her skeletical creations were exhibited at the Metropolitan Museum here, and last spring she confounded the Frenchmen with her American coiffure display.

"A French mathematician kept coming back to examine them. Then he told me, 'Do you realize those are perfectly designed in terms of the science of mathematics?'"

NO DOLLAR DAZE

The whole idea threw Mrs. Whitney into a trauma. "If I'd known that, I'd never have been able to make them. I'm so stupid, they kicked me out of school." And the millinery designer rang a hefty sale on her cash register.

But though Fanny Whitney didn't know the score academically, she has always done all right in the hat-making industry. Her mother told her she never did say "Ma-ma" or "Da-da" like ordinary infants. While still in a baby bonnet she was crying, "Hat-hat!"

This has been all she has ever really needed to know.

Huey P. Duncan, Bride Establish Tennessee Home

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Darnell of Rome, Georgia, announce the late October marriage of their daughter, Miss Frances Darnell of Atlanta, Georgia to Huey Pierce Duncan, Atlanta, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Duncan of Mangham, Louisiana.

Miss Erin Coleman, prominent vocalist and music teacher with whom Miss Darnell made her home in Atlanta, sang "O Perfect Love," preceding the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of candlelight lace. Her veil of imported illusion fell from a coronet of seed pearls, lace and sequins and she carried a white orchid atop a white prayer book, a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Imogene Keck of Smyrna, Ga., was maid of honor and wore a gown of blush pink silk chiffon with satin trim. She carried a nosegay of pink rosebuds.

Orlando Autry of Atlanta was best man and ushers were Robert Snelson and John Milner of Atlanta.

The bride's mother wore a lavender lace gown, accented in silk chiffon with complimentary accessories and corsage of bronze orchids.

A reception in the church parlors immediately followed the ceremony. Pink pompons centered the two long serving tables which were presided over by Dr. Frances Walker, Miss Joyce Conn and Miss Jerry Alligood. Miss Edna Jones had charge of the guest book.

After a wedding trip to Gatlinburg, Tenn., the couple has established a home at Oak Ridge, Tennessee. For travel Mrs. Duncan wore a gray suit with persian lamb collar and corsage of white orchids.

Mrs. Duncan attended Shorter College and formerly taught in the Rome, Georgia area. Prior to her marriage she was a federal government employee. Mr. Duncan is a graduate of Louisiana State University with a B.S. Degree in electrical engineering. He is employed as a Nuclear Engineer by Lockheed Nuclear Products and is on loan to Oak Ridge National Laboratories.

Proper Setting Is Secret In Jewelry Design

By FLORENCE de SANTIS

Although few women can afford real jewelry, they all are interested in it. Many buy expensive costume jewelry that look so much like the real thing that only an expert's eye can detect that it is not.

In both real and costume jewelry the beauty lies in the taste of the designer. It may be comforting to women who can't afford the real thing to know that some of it is quite ugly, notwithstanding the gems and gold of which it is made.

"Not long ago, I received a telephone call telling me the Maharanee of Baroda would be coming to see me," said Roger Jean-Pierre, famous Paris designer of fine jewelry. "Since her jewels are fabulous, I wondered what the Maharanee could possibly want from me. But she bought several things."

The reason the Maharanee gave was that design for her gems were lacking in India. A mass of gems does not necessarily mean the same thing as jewelry.

When a designer like Roger Jean-Pierre starts to think over ideas for jewelry, he is not dazzled by the precious stones and metals he is using. They are just so much raw material, to be handled and worked like the fabric from which couturiers create dresses.

Like a couturier, Mr. Jean-Pierre must know the characteristics of his material. What cuts make a diamond, an emerald, a ruby look most brilliant? What metals set off each kind of stone best?

Metal is malleable, but stones are not. Every jewelry design is a kind of tension between a hard, immovable object and a softer, pliable one. When the setting and the stones exactly suit each other, a true piece of fine jewelry has been created. The size of the stones is secondary.

"There is nothing more vulgar than a large stone stuck into a badly designed setting," said Roger Jean-Pierre. "Both real and costume jewelry should be designed upon the same principles — with taste and beauty."

The designer does his conceptions in finely detailed sketches. He redoes them many times, changing and improving. When he is satisfied, he does the final drawing to scale.

Now comes the important matter of selecting stones and metals. For both there are established suppliers. Designers like Mr. Jean-Pierre don't go shopping for stones, but deal with their long-time sources.

Cutting the stones is a delicate, highly skilled business. Much of a gem's expense lies in its cutting, when some of the stone is unavoidably lost. Gem cutters are a small, specialized group who are highly paid for their work.

Equally skilled are those who translate the designer's sketch into the final piece. Unlike costume jewelry, which is machine-made and stamped out, fine pieces are created largely by hand, one by one. Only through hand work does the designer have complete freedom to create. This, too, adds to the expense of real jewelry.

Last comes the retail jeweler. His business is an expensive one, as much of his stock remains for some time in his shop. Thousand-dollar bracelets don't just walk off the shelves. They must be properly displayed, too, as well as insured and guarded.

Women are frequently surprised when they learn of a diamond's original cost that the finished piece should be so expensive. The expense comes largely from the many steps of making and selling real jewelry.

Cocktail Dip

Add this dip to your list of party treats. Combine an 8-ounce package of creamed cheese, 1 tablespoon of garlic - cheese dressing mix, ¼ cup of light cream, and ¼ teaspoon of seasoned salt. Use as a dip for raw vegetables.

Frozen Ices

Did you know that even in Nero's day frozen ices (make with Alpine snow) were served as a pleasant ending for a meal?

Progressive HD Club Christmas Party Planned

The next meeting will be a Christmas party in the home of Mrs. Grace Guillory, 320 Stewart St., on December 6 at 10 a.m. Members are asked to bring a covered dish and a $1 gift for a Christmas exchange.

Those attending the Thursday meeting were Mrs. Charles Guraedy, Mrs. H. A. Lane, Mrs. C. D. Shirley, Mrs. Rowe Harrell, Mrs. E. Hargrove, Mrs. L. O. Guillory, Mrs. Grace Guillory, Mrs. James Fletcher, Mrs. J. B. White, Mrs. Tim Ford, Mrs. Fowler, Mrs. Chapman, Mrs. Dawson, and guests.

Holiday Frocks Will Glitter

There's a heady trend toward opulence in the holiday mood this year. The casual silhouette is made momentous by the most sumptuous fabrics in years.

The predominant silhouette is simple and slim - uncluttered "pullover" tops cutting a long swathe over very slender skirts both day length and to the floor. This whole look reaches a peak of brilliance in all variations of the solidly beaded dress.

There's room, too, for the fitted bodice, wide skirt and a definite place for a softly flowing full skirt and strapless top beaded and bedecked with pailettes, crystals and or sequins.

NO DOLLAR DAZE

The whole idea threw Mrs. Whitney into a trauma. "If I'd known that, I'd never have been able to make them. I'm so stupid, they kicked me out of school." And the millinery designer rang a hefty sale on her cash register.

But though Fanny Whitney didn't know the score academically, she has always done all right in the hat-making industry. Her mother told her she never did say "Ma-ma" or "Da-da" like ordinary infants. While still in a baby bonnet she was crying, "Hat-hat!"

This has been all she has ever really needed to know.

Huey P. Duncan, Bride Establish Tennessee Home

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Darnell of Rome, Georgia, announce the late October marriage of their daughter, Miss Frances Darnell of Atlanta, Georgia to Huey Pierce Duncan, Atlanta, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Duncan of Mangham, Louisiana.

Miss Erin Coleman, prominent vocalist and music teacher with whom Miss Darnell made her home in Atlanta, sang "O Perfect Love," preceding the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of candlelight lace. Her veil of imported illusion fell from a coronet of seed pearls, lace and sequins and she carried a white orchid atop a white prayer book, a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Imogene Keck of Smyrna, Ga., was maid of honor and wore a gown of blush pink silk chiffon with satin trim. She carried a nosegay of pink rosebuds.

Orlando Autry of Atlanta was best man and ushers were Robert Snelson and John Milner of Atlanta.

The bride's mother wore a lavender lace gown, accented in silk chiffon with complimentary accessories and corsage of bronze orchids.

A reception in the church parlors immediately followed the ceremony. Pink pompons centered the two long serving tables which were presided over by Dr. Frances Walker, Miss Joyce Conn and Miss Jerry Alligood. Miss Edna Jones had charge of the guest book.

After a wedding trip to Gatlinburg, Tenn., the couple has established a home at Oak Ridge, Tennessee. For travel Mrs. Duncan wore a gray suit with persian lamb collar and corsage of white orchids.

Mrs. Duncan attended Shorter College and formerly taught in the Rome, Georgia area. Prior to her marriage she was a federal government employee. Mr. Duncan is a graduate of Louisiana State University with a B.S. Degree in electrical engineering. He is employed as a Nuclear Engineer by Lockheed Nuclear Products and is on loan to Oak Ridge National Laboratories.

Proper Setting Is Secret In Jewelry Design

By FLORENCE de SANTIS

Although few women can afford real jewelry, they all are interested in it. Many buy expensive costume jewelry that look so much like the real thing that only an expert's eye can detect that it is not.

In both real and costume jewelry the beauty lies in the taste of the designer. It may be comforting to women who can't afford the real thing to know that some of it is quite ugly, notwithstanding the gems and gold of which it is made.

"Not long ago, I received a telephone call telling me the Maharanee of Baroda would be coming to see me," said Roger Jean-Pierre, famous Paris designer of fine jewelry. "Since her jewels are fabulous, I wondered what the Maharanee could possibly want from me. But she bought several things."

The reason the Maharanee gave was that design for her gems were lacking in India. A mass of gems does not necessarily mean the same thing as jewelry.

When a designer like Roger Jean-Pierre starts to think over ideas for jewelry, he is not dazzled by the precious stones and metals he is using. They are just so much raw material, to be handled and worked like the fabric from which couturiers create dresses.

Like a couturier, Mr. Jean-Pierre must know the characteristics of his material. What cuts make a diamond, an emerald, a ruby look most brilliant? What metals set off each kind of stone best?

Metal is malleable, but stones are not. Every jewelry design is a kind of tension between a hard, immovable object and a softer, pliable one. When the setting and the stones exactly suit each other, a true piece of fine jewelry has been created. The size of the stones is secondary.

"There is nothing more vulgar than a large stone stuck into a badly designed setting," said Roger Jean-Pierre. "Both real and costume jewelry should be designed upon the same principles — with taste and beauty."

The designer does his conceptions in finely detailed sketches. He redoes them many times, changing and improving. When he is satisfied, he does the final drawing to scale.

Now comes the important matter of selecting stones and metals. For both there are established suppliers. Designers like Mr. Jean-Pierre don't go shopping for stones, but deal with their long-time sources.

Cutting the stones is a delicate, highly skilled business. Much of a gem's expense lies in its cutting, when some of the stone is unavoidably lost. Gem cutters are a small, specialized group who are highly paid for their work.

Equally skilled are those who translate the designer's sketch into the final piece. Unlike costume jewelry, which is machine-made and stamped out, fine pieces are created largely by hand, one by one. Only through hand work does the designer have complete freedom to create. This, too, adds to the expense of real jewelry.

Last comes the retail jeweler. His business is an expensive one, as much of his stock remains for some time in his shop. Thousand-dollar bracelets don't just walk off the shelves. They must be properly displayed, too, as well as insured and guarded.

Women are frequently surprised when they learn of a diamond's original cost that the finished piece should be so expensive. The expense comes largely from the many steps of making and selling real jewelry.

Holiday Frocks Will Glitter

There's a heady trend toward opulence in the holiday mood this year. The casual silhouette is made momentous by the most sumptuous fabrics in ycars.

The predominant silhouette is simple and slim - uncluttered "pullover" tops cutting a long swathe over very slender skirts both day length and to the floor. This whole look reaches a peak of brilliance in all variations of the solidly beaded dress.

There's room, too, for the fitted bodice, wide skirt and a definite place for a softly flowing full skirt and strapless top beaded and bedecked with pailettes, crystals and or sequins.

"Dear Mrs. Farmer:

"I have been advised by various people to use a steam iron for my pressing when I am making a garment. I have just finished a suit and am very dissatisfied with the way it looks. None of the edges look flat, even though I have pressed and pressed with the steam iron. I think this is one of the reasons my suit looks like I made it."

Dear Mrs. C. C. E.:

A steam iron is fine for some pressing, such as opening seams, darts, etc. Actually, it is not satisfactory when it comes to pressing faced edges of a suit, coat, or dress made of wool.

You must use a chemically treated press cloth. Moisten it lightly and press firmly with a hot iron. Sometimes it will look better if it is moistened a second time and repressed. Don't get the press cloth too wet the first time.

If you are willing to spend a little extra time, you can make your garments look very professional. Some garments will still need to be professionally pressed when completed. This is usually not too expensive and often can make a tremendous difference in the appearance.

"Dear Eunice:

"If I want to use a velvet collar on a coat, should I make a collar out of the coat material, too? How can I keep it from looking too thick?"

Mrs. W. M.

Dar Mrs. W. M.:

In most cases, a velvet collar is applied over your regular collar to within ¼" to ½" of the outer finished edge of the collar. Turn under a small edge of the velvet and slip stitch with tiny, invisible stitches. Don't pull stitches too tight. The velvet will lay smoother if it is cut on the BIAS.

When pressing the velvet collar, use a Velvet Presser, or steam well, do not use a regular iron or an ordinary press cloth because the nap will become flat and shiny.

Fitting Problem:

"Dear Mrs. Farmer:

"What makes wrinkles appear just below my collar in back of every suit I make? I am so self-conscious of this that I would sure appreciate any help you could give me."

Mrs. W. W. M.

Dear Mrs. W. W. M.:

Surprisingly enough, this is a rather common problem. It is usually caused by the fact that your shoulders are more "square" than the pattern. Try to alter your pattern according to this sketch. Don't forget to add the same amount to the underarm that you have added to the shoulder in order to make the sleeve fit properly.

If this doesn't completely eliminate the wrinkles, it may be necessary to take a slightly larger seam allowance on the suit only at the center back. Do not change the seam allowance of the collar itself.

If you would like to have Eunice Farmer's free leaflet which tells you how to make bound buttonholes, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for "Bound Buttonholes" to Eunice Farmer in care of Monroe Morning World.

New Authority On High Society Doesn't Belong

NEW YORK (UPI)—The nation's newest authority on high society doesn't belong.

She's Lucy Kavaler, a middle-class housewife who reached status as a society expert via her first book—"The Private World of High Society."

Mrs. Kavalar said in an interview that as an authority on what makes contemporary high society tick she stands alone.

"No one has ever done a book such as mine," she said.

The 34-year-old author lives in a five-room apartment with husband and two children on Manhattan's West Side.

She tuned in on the goings-on of high society via interviews with social secretaries and friends, including many who were born into high society.

Mrs. Kavaler makes no apologies about not belonging to high society.

"There are many ways of spending your life and high society is not my ambition," she said.

"But I do not blame those who devote their life to it. My ambitions are more along intellectual lines. I have the same ambitions for my children."

Mrs. Kavaler spent a year gathering material for her book.

"Most contacted for information were cooperative," she said. "But I did run into a few difficult individuals."

For example—she asked the social secretary to one society matron for an interview with the matron.

The matron said: "Oh, no. I talked to a writer in 1940 and I never got over regretting it."

"Society used to be for an exclusive few," Mrs. Kavaler said, "But today more Americans than ever before, in communities across the country, are becoming involved in the expanding ritual of the debutante ball, the charity gala, the service league, and private schooling with its attendant obligations."

Her book tells how all these threads in the fabric of high society work into a pattern.

Included is a full account of the "social register" and the way it works in cities where people are listed in blue books and the way "social lists" work in other cities.

Mrs. Kavaler's son, 9, suggested that the book be titled "Society is Fun if You do it Correctly."

"That's one way of looking at it," she said.

The author's second book is kid stuff—a book for boys and girls. It's about algae—seaweed, sea lettuce, pond scums, stoneworts.

MRS. HERMAN J. DOWNEY

Events Planned To Fete Alpha Chi Omega Advisor

Two courtesies are planned Tuesday to honor Mrs. Herman J. Downey of Birmingham, Ala., during a visit in the city with the local Alpha Chi Omega Alumnae club.

Mrs. Downey is one of 18 district alumnae chairman of the Alpha Chi Omega national collegiate women's fraternity, and as such acts as advisor to the alumnae groups in Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana.

Mrs. Downey will attend an officers luncheon meeting Tuesday noon in the home of Mrs. John T. Goorley, president of the Monroe Alumnae club, at 2313 Jasmine St.

A banquet will be held in her honor Tuesday night at the Paragon club for all local members. Mrs. Downey is slated to leave Wednesday morning for other visits in the circuit.

Founded at DePauw University, Greencastle, Indiana, in 1885, Alpha Chi Omega now has chapters on 92 campuses in addition to over 230 organized alumnae groups.

An initiate of the fraternity's chapter at Birmingham-Southern College, Mrs. Downey attended both it and the University of Alabama, where she graduated with a major in education. Her civic interests are the Civitan Club, the Woman's Society of Christian Service and she also served three years in the motor corps of the Red Cross.

As district alumnae chairman one of her chief concerns is with the altrustic work of Alpha Chi Omega which since 1947 has been aid to cerebral palsied children. To aid in this work the fraternity has set up a fund with the National Society for Crippled Children and adults to make scholarships available to doctors, nurses and therapists desiring to take additional training in the field of cerebral palsey.

To date 156 such scholarships have been given from Alpha Chi funds. Alumnae groups and collegiate chapters contribute to local schools and clinics by cash donations, gifts of new equipment and hours of volunteer service.

Girl Scout News

News of Founder's Day celebrations has been coming in from troops. Troops 10 and 41 had a double reason to celebrate, Juliette Low's birthday and their own troop's birthday. They planned events to cover two weekly meetings. First, on Founder's Day they planted day lilies around the Scout hut at Highland Presbyterian Church. The girls enjoyed digging and raking on a sunshiny afternoon, their leaders say. They'll be sure to have golden blossoms for the golden anniversary of Girl Scouting in 1962.

On their troop birthday the girls opened the meeting with a prepared flag ceremony, after which the leaders presented membership cards for their second year of Scouting and invested Sharon Bell as a new Brownie. A huge birthday cake served as decoration, and later, refreshments. Mrs. Walter Bell, Jr., Mrs. W. R. Anderson, Mrs. J. L. Anders are registered adults with troop 10. Members are: Beverly Anders, Debbie Anderson, Charlotte Bell, Sharon Bell, Mary Lou Compton, Sally Cormier, Belinda Freeland, Rhonda Hibbard, Sue Johnson, Shirley Johnson, Jerri Johnston, Felicia Newman, Robin Streeter and Mary Beth Wiggins.

Troop 41 has Mrs. Alvin Arledge as leader, Mrs. Billy Johnson, assistant, and Mrs. Henry Sanford on the troop committee. Those who comprise membership in the troop, which will fly-up in the spring are: Judith Arledge, Jennifer Emmons, Kathy Foster, Rita Freeman, Diane Griffin, Margie Henry, Patricia Johnson, Jan Johnson, Marsha Jones, Lynn McClendon, Beth Nix, Kala Redding, Teresa Roberts, Becy Sanford.

Troop 15 observed Founders Day, by investing two new Scouts, Susan Martin and Linda Eaton, by inviting their mothers to tea and by dramatizing highlights of the life of Juliette Low. Mary Ann Atkinson played the part of Juliette Low making the historic telephone call that started Girl Scouting almost 49 years ago. Three birthday cakes, each bearing one candle, symbolizing 100 years, had been baked by a group of girls on the previous Saturday. The same girls had the honor of being hostesses and serving the guests.

Recently reregistered, most of the girls of Troop 15 are starting their fourth year of Scouting, their second as Intermediates. Leaders are Mrs. J. S. Salisbury and Mrs. Charles Schneider. Troop Committee members are: Mrs. M. J. Cooper, Mrs. Ed Hamilton, Mrs. Elizabeth Atkinson, Mrs. Jack Keeling.

Troop members are Mary Ann Atkinson, Carole Cooper, Linda Correro, Mary Beth Crossland, Jan Hamilton, Nancy Hammons, Dottie Kiper, Barbara Kurtz, Kathy Mouk, Betty Fay Rogers, Marianne Salisbury, Delores Schneider, Claire Schonlau, Betty Jo Spargo, Harriet Wadley, Susan Kilpatrick, Susan Stone, Susan Martin, Ann Murphy, Linda Eaton, Mary Bass, Barbara Parrino, Martha Keeling, Carol Waschka.

This week the National Convention is being held in St. Louis. Attending from our council are Mrs. B. O. Yeldell, Mrs. Leon Noland, Jr., and Miss Annis Klic.

Delinquency Clue

Defective eyesight may contribute to juvenile delinquency. It is estimated that 75 per cent of our delinquents have some reading difficulties, according to researchers. Poor vision is a major cause of poor reading and the frustration of below - standard reading ability as compared with schoolmates may cause a great sense of inferiority. When this sense of inferiority causes a child to withdraw from competition with others with a longing for attention, you have the basis for trouble.

The woman who drives from the back seat of a car is no worse than the man who cooks from the dining room table.

Fashion Has Spanish Idiom

From every leading fashion center. . .east and west. . .comes the fashion cry — 'viva espana".

With a grand bow and a mood that's reminiscent of moody guitars, come details that spell a Spanish theme to fall's fashion scene.

Fiery yet gracious are black braid accents everyhere — on velveteen; in serape type stoles, and in brief boleros! Sportswear says "ole" to slim "matador" pants and stringtied overblouses. Flamenco-type polka dots and Spanish fisherman plaids and stripes in brilliant colors come to the fore.

The cabellero look is beautifully played up, and so is the Spanish tunic look.

Culottes Range From Street To Formal Lengths

The split personality of culottes has become even more unusual, exciting and complex!

Culottes, with their skirt-like look appear in dresses, lingerie and sleepwear . . .as well as being a new sportswear fshion.

This season, culottes go to all lengths - from full length dinner gowns (all the rage), dress length town costumes to Bermuda-length fun outfits.

The shorter culottes look great over tights and topped with an overblouse. Knee sox too, will be right in style. Versatility is the big point of culottes. . .combining the practicality of pants with the feminine look of a skirt. Best of all, culottes are wonderfully flattering for any figure.

Fashion Silhouette For '61 Moves From Sack To Slack

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — We've moved from the sack to the slack in fashion silhouettes.

The one outstanding trend in the spring 1961 collections in New York's garment industry is to clothes with a definite easy shape —clothes with a slackened silhouette. No hour glass hugging of the figure. Instead, a relaxed, not tight fit.

Not that we all can climb comfortably into the voluminous muumuus. Skirts for spring make strong demands on the figure, because so many of them remain slim. And certainly the continuance of the short hemline, just skimming the knee caps, calls for good gams.

BODICES BULKY

The ease comes through the sleeves, bodice and waistline. Bodices are so bulky that it will take a few tryings-on in dressing rooms during shopping to get used to this roomy cut. Sleeves are airy, and waistlines range all over the place—high, normal and low.

One of the strongest exponents of the bulky, big armhole look at the top is Jacques Tiffeau, the young designer for Monte Sano & Pruzan, a trend - setting house which last week showed its spring collection to reporters and buyers.

Tiffeau gave an oval, often smock-like shape to the backs of coats and suits. Or, he made them with cape fullness. All topped slim skirts, eased across the tummy with a few gathers. Over blouses for the skirts proved kind to the waistline not quite as slim as Scarlott O'Hara's.

His favorite collar treatment was the "ring"—the neckline cut with the rest of the bodice, but designed to stand up and away out from the throat. Any sleeve which came below the elbow looked like an immigrant.

COLOR ABOUNDS

Tiffeau used bright yellows, emerald and paler greens, lush rose-pink, a navy almost bright enough to class as royal blue, and a bronze-toned wool given the unlikely name of snuff brown.

Most woolens for spring have a spongy, souffle texture. Cottons in turn look like wool. And at the house of Pauline Trigere, there was a group of sheer wools which looked like cotton denim, batiste or gingham.

For spring also, look for culottes or slim, trouser skirts in daytime suits, in sportswear, lounge and party wear; look for the revival of the swinging, pyramid coat—narrow at the top, wide at the hemline; for lots of white at night; and for pullover tops giving a middy look to many suits.

AMBER APPLE SALAD STARS APPLE FLAVOR 3 WAYS: Dissolve one package apple - flavored gelatin in 2 cups hot apple juice. When partially set, add two Washington Golden Delicious apples, (pared, cored and cubed) and fill crown mold. Chill until firm; unmold and ring with clusters of frosted grapes. Serve with dollops of whipped cream, tinted light green.

Homemakers Now Dial For Diet Answers

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—What kind of foods can a person with ulcers eat?

Does vitamin A have to be taken with vitamin D or can it be taken alone?

Through a unique Dial-A-Dietician program, homemakers in Detroit get speedy answers to such questions.

The D-A-D program, which believes it is unique in the nation, does more than supply inquiring homemakers with correct information. It also helps fight nutrition nonsense and food quackery.

Many persons calling the dietetic number ask about the caloric value of foods. Another frequently repeated question concerns information about cholesterol and fat.

A report, published in the current Journal of the American Dietetic Association, showed that other popular questions center about the following:

—Sodium and salt, diet questions on diabetes, on ulcers, and heart disease.

—Minerals in foods, losses in food preparation, vitamins in foods, carbohydrate content of foods.

The report was written by Muriel G. Wagner, of the Merrill-Palmer Institute; E. Patricia Navin, of the Grace Hospital and Marqueta C. Huyck, of the Department of Home Economics at Wayne State University.

The way the program's set up, the inquiring homemaker gets a telephone answering service operator when she calls.

The operator records the question and takes the homemaker's phone number and name. This information then is relayed to the dieticians.

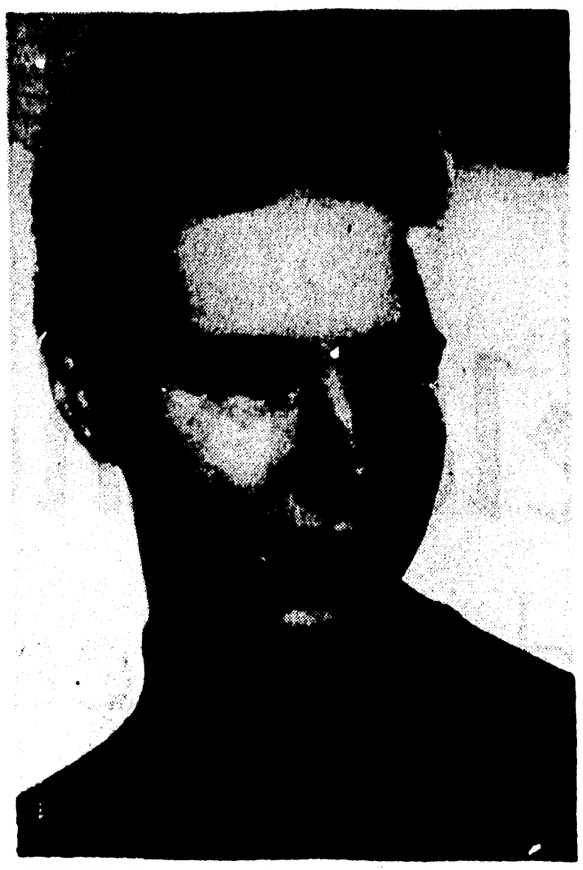

As soon as possible, a dietician calls the homemaker and answers the question.

Some of the callers are referred to their doctors because their questions about diet indicated they had medical problems.

In a check of callers who had received information through the dietician service, the Detroit Dietetic Association received all the encouragement it needed to continue the experimental program.

Winner Salad

A tasty winter fruit salad is made with slices of orange arranged on iceberg lettuce leaves. Sprinkle with minced fresh rosemary or green onion and serve with french dressing.

ANNOUNCEMENT of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Yvonne Parker, above, to Benny Brice, son of Mr. and Mrs. James S. Brice of West Monroe, is made today by the parents of the bride-elect, Mr. and Mrs. James Parker of Crossett, Arkansas. The couple will exchange vows November 26, at 7 p.m. in the Chapel of the First Baptist Church of West Monroe.

Instant Push-Button Foods Make Opener Obsolete

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—If modern designers give many more things the air, the can opener's bound to go the way of the buggy-whip.

The aerosol bug bomb started it all. Then came the spray on hair nets and such.

Now, chances are that in the near future the typical homemaker will be jet-streaming an orange juice concentrate into a glass of water or push-buttoning instant coffee or tea into cups.

Aerosol Age, a trade publication in the pressure packaging field, reports that the best is yet to come — breakthroughs in the push-button food field.

The aerosol industry came into being a dozen years ago when a beer can was converted into a bug bomb. Last year, more than 575 million aerosol cans were used in packaging.

NO STIR CHOCOLATE

The trade publication said that one product expected to be introduced next year will be the first aerated chocolate syrup concentrate which employs the propellant—jet stream of air—to agitate the concentrate into the milk. This eliminates stirring!

Among other food products in the aerosol offing are push-button concentrates for fruit drinks and pure juices as well as homogenized, bacteria-free concentrated milk products.

All these new products represent more than attractive packaging tricks. Packaging innovations like aerosols usually mean new comfort or convenience for consumers.

Instant foaming shaving cream or a new spray men's deodorant, for example, have made many a hubby's morning task of getting ready to go to work much quicker and easier.

PUSH-BUTTON COSMETICS

Ditto for push-button cosmetic items on milady's dressing table. It's estimated that nearly 10 million women use spray on hair net.

The hundreds of different aerosol products on the market can stop runs in hosiery, smoke bees out of hives, put out fires, bandage wounds and deodorize homes, people and pets.

Even the family auto gets in on the act.

Recently one firm put out an aerosol can of compressed air which inflates a flat tire to 22 pounds of pressure in six seconds.

Perhaps one of the most dramatic expectations for this push-button can will come from aerosol drugs.

Pharmaceutical companies have produced heart medicine in aerosol cans. In case of an angina attack, the patient puts the aerosol tube in his mouth, presses a button and gets the proper dosage.

Among others in development are Cortisone skin medicines, burn ointments and antiseptics.

Household Hints

United Press International

Don't use nail polish remover to take spilled polish from rugs or carpets. Buy some amyl acetate from the drug store and apply a few drops at a time. Then blot this with clean white tissues or terry cloth toweling.

If one glass tumbler sticks to another, don't try to force the two apart. Fill the top glass with cold water, then dip the bottom one in hot water. They'll come apart without strain or breakage.

Never soak an earthenware dish or pot if food has scorched in it. Add a teaspoonful of baking soda to the water and let stand only until the particles have loosened.

To make hard-to-bulge drawers slide more easily, put thumbtacks on the runners.

Place a cut apple in your cookie jar or fruitcake box. It helps keep cookies soft and fruitcake moist.

Before storing tennis racquets for the winter, cover them first with a coating of petroleum jelly. This helps keep strings from snapping.

Inexpensive glass ash trays can be turned into decorative accessories by painting the undersides in colorful enamels. Select colors that either accent or pick up colors used elsewhere in the room.

SCHEDULES VOWS — Mr. and Mrs. Kit C. Willis of Lecompte, announce the betrothal of her daughter, Miss Marye Lou Mayeaux, above, to Donald Reese Eubanks, son of Mr .and Mrs. Ray A. Eubanks of Winnsboro. November 25 is the date selected for the wedding which will be solemnized at 7 p.m. in the Trinity Baptist church at Lecompte.

Furs Designed For Every Type Figure, Occasion

By FLORENCE de SANTIS

After seeing all the new fur collections, I'm still going round and round. Every designer this year is working every fur he can lay hands on into horizontal patterns rather than vertical.

This is true not only of mink, there the horizontal treatment virtually dominates, but of jaguar, beaver, Persian lamb, stone marten and river otter.

For the woman about to choose a new fur, the question arises whether fur in the round looks well on the shorter figure. I would say the kind of fur would decide.

Long-haired furs worked on the horizontal definitely have a bulky look which is only for the tall and slender. But flat furs such as jaguar, broadtail, Persian lamb or otter can be worn if the coat is more or less fitted.

Collars, too, need to be watched in purchasing furs this year. The newest-looking are frankly large, again tending to dwarf the shorter figure. There are plenty of collarless styles, however, and a significant minority of cuff or shaw, collars.

Most remarkable to any one who remembers furs for enough years back, is the apparently limitless pliability of today's furs. The fitted long torso, the slim column, the belted trench coat, the cape are all tossed off with what appears to be perfect nonchalance.

The great variety in furs and in fur styling makes it possible—if you can afford it—to have an entire wardrobe of coats in fur, from the coat for football games to the grand-entrance-at-the-opera type. About the only thing that's hard to find is the fur coat that is supposed to go with everything. There's hardly such an animal to be seen in the fur salons.

It has disappeared in favor of varied styling largely because few furs are any longer bought for warmth alone. Witness the rising popularity of jackets and shorter coats, of which at least as many were shown in the collections as longer coats.

Another change is the decline of mink as a status symbol. When every woman has mink, it is no longer possible to use it as a symbol of prosperity. The fashionable coat, in unusual furs, takes over.

Designers were quick to jump on the trend to spotted furs and are now happily extending themselves to lynx, blue and golden fox, nutria and Alaskan seal.

The return of all these furs to fashion is a boon for women who have long been made to feel that if they couldn't have mink, nothing else was worthwhile.

In fact, many women who bought mink because it was the "only" fur should never have done so. Mink is a long-haired fur which was too often made up into a full, long coat that did less than nothing for the figure of the average woman. Many other furs are more flattering to the figure which is less than five feet five.

I liked particularly the new styling brought to flat furs by such a designer as Jacques Kaplan, whose Parisian training has always led him to handle a fur like fabric.

There was a rich brown Persian lamb coat, slim and supple, with a low back belt. There was zebra, with the stripes worked on the bias and a sash belt that turned a tent silhouette into a trench coat.

Kaplan made an artist's smock into a coat of river otter, and lined white Canadian beaver with red brocade. He fitted Russian broadtail like a dress, belting it in gray suede. He combined fur with fur, as in a red fox coat with deep brown sable collar, or a reversible coat in seal for day, fur for evening.

Wanda Cotton To Be Bride Of Dr. Mitchell

JONESVILLE, La. (Special)—Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Cotton of Jonesville announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Wanda Sue Cotton, to Dr. James A. Mitchell, son of Mrs. J. A. Mitchell and the late Mr. Mitchell of Ontaria, Calif.

The wedding will be solemnized on Saturday, Nov. 26, at 5 p.m. in the home of the bride's parents with the Rev. Alvin P. Smith, pastor of the First Methodist church of Jonesville, officiating.

Miss Cotton has chosen her sister, Mrs. Robert Wall of Baton Rouge, as her only attendant.

William Mitchell of Kansas City, Missouri, will serve his brother as best man.

New Air Filter

A new air filter for furnaces and air conditioners is engineered to remain resilient and effective even after repeated washings.

Made of foam, this filter has a mesh-like construction which captures foreign particles that would otherwise circulate through the household. It may be laundered in soap or detergent suds, rinsed, replaced in its frame without shrinkage or other change.

Night Lights

Good night vision is important to avoid driving accidents. The driver should be able to adapt rapidly to darkness after exposure to light. Glare resistance decreases with age. Other nighttime hindrances, according to researchers are flashing signs, reflections, dirty windshields, lights inside the car and dark glasses. Physiological ability to see at is reduced.

CONCERT SERIES

Christmas Opera Set For Monroe

The beloved Christmas opera, "Amahl and the Night Visitors," will appear in Monroe as a feature attraction of the Northeast State Concerts Association.

Since its world premiere in 1951, Gian - Carlo Menotti's "Amahl and the Night Visitors," has been acclaimed by the critics and has become a public favorite. The opera will be performed at Neville High auditorium on on Nov. 28, beginning at 8:15 p.m. Several of the members of the original cast will portray the characters that made them world famous.

The part of the mother will be played for the first time by Arlene Saunders, and the part of Amahl will be taken over by Lee Bratton. This season will mark his first appearance with the cast on tour.

In 1951 Menotti was commissioned to write an opera with a Christmas theme. With the Christmas deadline approaching and no definite operatic theme yet formed, Menotti said that he found himself in serious difficulty.

"One November afternoon as I was walking rather gloomily through the rooms of the Metropolitan Museum in New York, I chanced to stop in front of the 'Adoration of the Kings' by Hieromymus Bosch. As I was looking at it, suddenly I heard again, coming from the distant blue hills, the wierd song of the Three Kings. I realized they had come back to me and had brought me a gift." The result — inspiration which brought about the birth of the opera.

This year's tour takes the Amahl cast as far west as Denver, as far south as Monroe and as far north as Michigan. On the agenda for the future seasons is a tour of California and a trip to France.

"Fiorello!" the smash Broadway musical hit will appear in Monroe at Neville High auditorium on Dec. 2. Season tickets may be purchased for these and future attractions at the dean's office, division of fine arts, Northeast State College.

CONCERT SERIES

Christmas Opera Set For Monroe

The beloved Christmas opera, "Amahl and the Night Visitors," will appear in Monroe as a feature attraction of the Northeast State Concerts Association.

Since its world premiere in 1951, Gian - Carlo Menotti's "Amahl and the Night Visitors," has been acclaimed by the critics and has become a public favorite. The opera will be performed at Neville High auditorium on on Nov. 28, beginning at 8:15 p.m. Several of the members of the original cast will portray the characters that made them world famous.

The part of the mother will be played for the first time by Arlene Saunders, and the part of Amahl will be taken over by Lee Bratton. This season will mark his first appearance with the cast on tour.

In 1951 Menotti was commissioned to write an opera with a Christmas theme. With the Christmas deadline approaching and no definite operatic theme yet formed, Menotti said that he found himself in serious difficulty.

"One November afternoon as I was walking rather gloomily through the rooms of the Metropolitan Museum in New York, I chanced to stop in front of the 'Adoration of the Kings' by Hicromymus Bosch. As I was looking at it, suddenly I heard again, coming from the distant blue hills, the wierd song of the Three Kings. I realized they had come back to me and had brought me a gift." The result — inspiration which brought about the birth of the opera.

This year's tour takes the Amahl cast as far west as Denver, as far south as Monroe and as far north as Michigan. On the agenda for the future seasons is a tour of California and a trip to France.

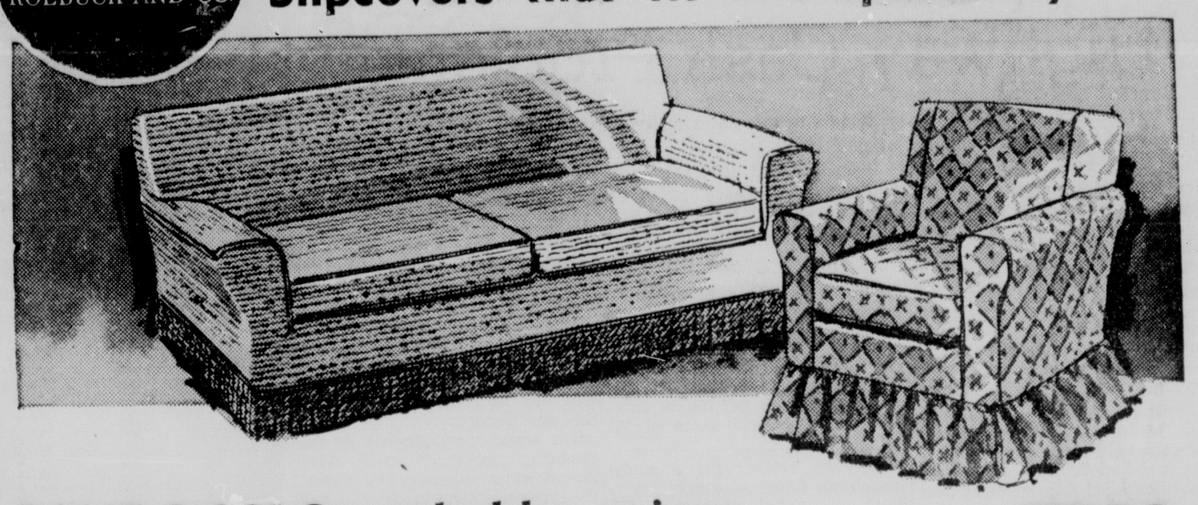

"Fiorello!" the smash Broadway musical hit will appear in Monroe at Neville High auditorium on Dec. 2. Season tickets may be purchased for these and future attractio ; at the dean's office, division of fine arts, Northeast State College.

IN NEXT CONGRESS

Kennedy Regime To Face Highway Cash Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats at the Capitol already are doing spadework on one of the first domestic problems the Kennedy administration will face—financing of the national superhighway system.

The problem comes to a head with submission to Congress early in January, before the new president takes office, of two major Commerce Department reports on the 41,000-mile interstate roads system.

Another key factor is the scheduled expiration next June 30 of a one-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax increase voted last year to keep construction of the superhighway network from falling too far behind schedule.

Staff members of the congressional committees which handle road construction and financing legislation will be prepared to help the committee members go into the problem early in the 1961 session.

Democrats who put through the 1956 act setting up 90 per cent federal financing for the interstate system are hopeful that the 1961 review will come up with permanent solutions for the troubles plaguing the big road program.

They would like to revive prospects for completion of the entire 41,000 miles by 1972, or as soon thereafter as possible. This was the goal of the 1956 law, but it is not now in sight.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., chief sponsor of the 1956 act, and Sen. Pat McNamara, D-Mich., chairman of the Senate public roads subcommittee, both sought to find some way to bolster the highway program in the 1960 Congress.

But they said they had to put over any such action to 1961 in the face of Eisenhower administration opposition to any financing moves other than another gas tax increase. Congress was under heavy pressure from state governors not to raise this levy further.

The 1956 law set up a 13-year financing program for the superhighways, and a 16-year construction deadline.

But, because of a pay-as-you-go financing provision insisted on by President Eisenhower, the federal government has not met its commitments to the states under the original law.

Even if it had done so, the allotments would have fallen far short of meeting the full cost of the system.

The reason is that the superhighways originally were figured to cost $27½ billion, with Washington paying 90 per cent or about $25 billion.

But a new cost study in 1958 came up with a $40 billion total, including a federal share of $36 billion.

However, neither the administration nor Congress ever did anything substantial to change the financing, so that the apportionments of federal money to the states still are based on the $25-billion U.S. share figure.

So far Washington has made apportionments—which amount to authority to let contracts—for 6 of the 13 years established in the 1956 law as the financing period.

The federal government met its commitments in five of the years but last year was able to apportion only $1.6 billion of a promised $2½ billion.

So far a total of $11,575,000,000 has been apportioned. This is less than one-third of the total $36-billion federal cost in almost half of the financing period.

It would take yearly apportionments of almost $3.5 billion for the remaining seven years to get back on the original schedule.

One of the reports due in January is a new cost estimate. Congressional sources understand that the $40-billion figure of 1958 will not be changed greatly in this new report.

The other bears directly on the financing problem. It is to cover the effect on highways of different types and sizes of vehicles and the proportionate share of construction and maintenance costs attributable to each class of persons using such highways.

Some congressional aides think the second report may provide data to support increased taxes on heavy trucks.

It also is considered likely that the one-cent federal gas tax reduction scheduled for June 30, which would cut the levy to 3 cents, will not be allowed to take effect.

ROXIE GREENE, (middle row, third from left), 1958 graduate of Oak Ridge High School, is among 21 students chosen to represent Louisiana College in the 1960-61 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges". It is considered one of the highest honors an L.C.'er can attain. Roxie, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Glen Lee Greene, Oak Ridge, is a senior medical technology major. She is also a member of the Booster Club, women's service organization.

Nixon Intends To Retain Republican Leader Role

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon has emerged from his losing presidential battle with the evident belief that he now is the unchallenged leader of a stronger Republican party.

As such he obviously intends to retain a firm hand on the party's reins, keeping his name in the forefront of those who will be available for the Republican presidential nomination in 1964.

In a nutshell, that was the story Robert Finch, Nixon's campaign manager, and Herbert G. Klein, his press secretary, had to tell at a news conference reviewing the losing campaign.

Finch and Klein avoided putting it in blunt words. They said Nixon hadn't made any basic decisions on what occupation he will follow after he leaves office, where he will live, and just how much active participation he will give to Republican affairs.

But the two aides said Nixon had received a tremendous number of messages urging him to run again. Pushed for his view on whether this would happen, Klein seemed to sum it up when he replied: "I never knew him to run away from a fight."

As might be expected, Finch and Klein pictured a defeated Nixon as even greater public figure than the vice president was while he was campaigning for the nation's highest office.

Klein saw it that way: "With the exception of President Eisenhower, the vice president is the most popular man in America today."

"How about Kennedy?" a reporter called, referring to President-elect John F. Kennedy. He got no response.

When Finch took over to explain why Nixon lost, he said there had been "a total lack of criticism" of the manner in which the vice president conducted his campaign. He said if he had it to do over, he "wouldn't change any basic strategy."

He said Nixon had been beaten by:

1. The big city machines, particularly in Chicago and Philadelphia.

2. By the labor unions in registering and delivering voters to the polls.

3. By the success of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, in getting Democratic organizations at the courthouse level to work for Kennedy in the South.

Finch disagreed with the assertion of Robert Kennedy, the winning candidate's campaign manager, that the Democratic nominee owed his success primarily to the four nationally televised debates.

"The TV debates didn't have nearly the effect Bobby said they did," Finch observed.

Finch said he thought many Negroes "voted the pocketbook issue rather than civil rights."

Finch discounted the effect of Kennedy's Roman Catholic religion. Asked whether that factor helped Nixon carry the agricultural Midwest, he replied that the election of additional Republican house members and other officials in that area indicated religion was not influential.

Finch and Klein were high in their praise of Eisenhower's campaign efforts for Nixon. Klein said the President was "terribly effective."

There was no such good word, however, for the efforts of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller in Nixon's behalf. Rockefeller a potential candidate for the party's top nomination in 1964, stumped his state, but the vice president lost it.

Finch said he was willing to "let the vote speak for itself in New York."

The campaign manger said that even in defeat Nixon had built up Republican strength. He cited a gain of two GOP seats in the Senate and 23 in the House. He said Republican victories in the Midwest showed a complete reversal from the 1958 Democratic trend in that area.

Finch and Klein said they will stay around awhile to help Nixon clean up odds and ends but there will be no continuing Nixon organization as such.

The vice president's signal to Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky to remain as GOP national chairman indicated Nixon will keep his contacts with the Republican organization through the committee.

Kennedy Regime To Face Highway Cash Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats at the Capitol already are doing spadework on one of the first domestic problems the Kennedy administration will face—financing of the national superhighway system.

The problem comes to a head with submission to Congress early in January, before the new president takes office, of two major Commerce Department reports on the 41,000-mile interstate roads system.

Another key factor is the scheduled expiration next June 30 of a one-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax increase voted last year to keep construction of the superhighway network from falling too far behind schedule.

Staff members of the congressional committees which handle road construction and financing legislation will be prepared to help the committee members go into the problem early in the 1961 session.

Democrats who put through the 1956 act setting up 90 per cent federal financing for the interstate system are hopeful that the 1961 review will come up with permanent solutions for the troubles plaguing the big road program.

They would like to revive prospects for completion of the entire 41,000 miles by 1972, or as soon thereafter as possible. This was the goal of the 1956 law, but it is not now in sight.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., chief sponsor of the 1956 act, and Sen. Pat McNamara, D-Mich., chairman of the Senate public roads subcommittee, both sought to find some way to bolster the lagging program in the 1960 Congress.

But they said they had to put over any such action to 1961 in the face of Eisenhower administration opposition to any financing moves other than another gas tax increase. Congress was under heavy pressure from state governors not to raise this levy further.

The 1956 law set up a 13-year financing program for the superhighways, and a 16-year construction deadline.

But, because of a pay-as-you-go financing provision insisted on by President Eisenhower, the federal government has not met its commitments to the states under the original law.

Even if it had done so, the allotments would have fallen far short of meeting the full cost of the system.

The reason is that the superhighways originally were figured to cost $27½ billion, with Washington paying 90 per cent or about $25 billion.

But a new cost study in 1958 came up with a $40 billion total, including a federal share of $36 billion.

However, neither the administration nor Congress ever did anything substantial to change the financing, so that the apportionments of federal money to the states still are based on the $25-billion U.S. share figure.

So far Washington has made apportionments—which amount to authority to let contracts—for 6 of the 13 years established in the 1956 law as the financing period.

The federal government met its commitments in five of the years but last year was able to apportion only $1.8 billion of a promised $2½ billion.

So far a total of $11,575,000,000 has been apportioned. This is less than one-third of the total $36-billion federal cost in almost half of the financing period.

It would take yearly apportionments of almost $3.5 billion for the remaining seven years to get back on the original schedule.

One of the reports due in January is a new cost estimate. Congressional sources understand that the $40-billion figure of 1958 will not be changed greatly in this new report.

The other bears directly on the financing problem. It is to cover the effect on highways of different types and sizes of vehicles and the proportionate share of construction and maintenance costs attributable to each class of persons using such highways.

Some congressional aides think the second report may provide data to support increased taxes on heavy trucks.

It also is considered likely that the one-cent federal gas tax reduction scheduled for June 30, which would cut the levy to 3 cents, will not be allowed to take effect.

ROXIE GREENE, (middle row, third from left), 1958 graduate of Oak Ridge High School, is among 21 students chosen to represent Louisiana College in the 1960-61 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges". It is considered one of the highest honors an L.C.'er can attain. Roxie, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Glen Lee Greene, Oak Ridge, is a senior medical technology major. She is also a member of the Booster Club, women's service organization.

Nixon Intends To Retain Republican Leader Role

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon has emerged from his losing presidential battle with the evident belief that he now is the unchallenged leader of a stronger Republican party.

As such he obviously intends to retain a firm hand on the party's reins, keeping his name in the forefront of those who will be available for the Republican presidential nomination in 1964.

In a nutshell, that was the story Robert Finch, Nixon's campaign manager, and Herbert G. Klein, his press secretary, had to tell at a news conference reviewing the losing campaign.

Finch and Klein avoided putting it in blunt words. They said Nixon hadn't made any basic decisions on what occupation he will follow after he leaves office, where he will live, and just how much active participation he will give to Republican affairs.

But the two aides said Nixon had received a tremendous number of messages urging him to run again. Pushed for his view on whether this would happen, Klein seemed to sum it up when he replied: "I never knew him to run away from a tight."

As might be expected, Finch and Klein pictured a defeated Nixon as even greater public figure than the vice president was while he was campaigning for the nation's highest office.

Klein saw it this way: "With the exception of President Eisenhower, the vice president is the most popular man in America today."

"How about Kennedy?" a reporter called, referring to President-elect John F. Kennedy. He got no response.

When Finch took over to explain why Nixon lost, he said there had been "a total lack of criticism" of the manner in which the vice president conducted his campaign. He said if he had it to do over, he "wouldn't change any basic strategy."

He said Nixon had been beaten by:

1. The big city machines, particularly in Chicago and Philadelphia.

2. By the labor unions in registering and delivering voters to the polls.

3. By the success of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, in getting Democratic organizations at the courthouse level to work for Kennedy in the South.

Finch disagreed with the assertion of Robert Kennedy, the winning candidate's campaign manager, that the Democratic nominee owed his success primarily to the four nationally televised debates.

"The TV debates didn't have nearly the effect Bobby said they did," Finch observed.

Finch said he thought many Negroes "voted the pocketbook issue rather than civil rights."

Finch discounted the effect of Kennedy's Roman Catholic religion. Asked whether that factor helped Nixon carry the agricultural Midwest, he replied that the election of additional Republican house members and other officials in that area indicated religion was not influential.

Finch and Klein were high in their praise of Eisenhower's campaign efforts for Nixon. Klein said the President was "terribly effective."

There was no such good word, however, for the efforts of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller in Nixon's behalf. Rockefeller a potential candidate for the party's top nomination in 1964, stumped his state, but the vice president lost it.

Finch said he was willing to "let the vote speak for itself in New York."

The campaign manger said that even in defeat Nixon had built up Republican strength. He cited a gain of two GOP seats in the Senate and 23 in the House. He said Republican victories in the Midwest showed a complete reversal from the 1958 Democratic trend in that area.

Finch and Klein said they will stay around awhile to help Nixon clean up odds and ends but there will be no continuing Nixon organization as such.

The vice president's signal to Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky to remain as GOP national chairman indicated Nixon will keep his contacts with the Republican organization through the committee.

Set National County Agents Meet In N.O.

HARRISONBURG (Special) — Louisiana delegation to the 45th annual convention of county agents, including E. E. Johnson of Catahoula parish, at Miami Beach Florida, were successful in getting the national convention in New Orleans in 1964. North Carolina also made a bid for the convention. This was released by Johnson on his return to Catahoula parish this week.

On hand at the meeting besides Mr. Johnson and his wife, from Louisiana, was a delegation of 35 agents and wives, to gather first hand information on the new era in agriculture.

A professional improvement committee reported that agents were continually striving to improve their professional training to better serve a more enlightened farm society in an age of "keener competition."

University of Florida President Dr. J. Wayne Reitz struck the keynote of the convention when he told agents, "You cannot do today's job with yesterday's methods and be in business tomorrow. The challenge you face is one of providing leadership and recognizing your inadequacies in non-agricultural sectors, while at the same time you are sensitive to the needs of your constituents."

Two agriculture leaders on the national scene disagreed on the United States Foreign Policy abroad.

Other speakers at the convention were Ezra Taft Benson, secretary of agriculture, Senator John C. Stennis, (Dem. Miss.), C. M. Fergson, assistant secretary of agriculutre; George E. Lord, director of the Maine Agriculture Extension Service; Carl Rose, NACAA president, Marshall O. Watkins, University of Florida director of the Agriculture Extension Service; D. R. Mathews, Florida congressman; and Wheeler McMillin, executive vice president of the Farm Journal magazine.

Navigator Henry's Memory Honored

By PETER KNOX

LONDON (UPI) — The year 1960 has seen all the European powers, save one, accelerate their great puliout from Africa. The exception is Portugal. It has not only proclaimed its intention of staying put, but has dedicated the year to honoring the man who led Europeans into Africa — Prince Henry the navigator.

Prince Henry died 500 years ago Sunday — on Nov. 13, 1460— after a lifetime given to fostering exploration of the unknown oceans of the world.

The main target of his navigators as the route to the east via the unknown coast of western Africa. The Cape of Good Hope was not rounded in his lifetime, but by 1460 the Portuguese already were familiar with vast stretches of the African Atlantic coastline, and had established forts and landmarks there.

PAID HOMAGE

The celebrations in honor of Henry were centered mainly in Portugal, but other countries also paid homage to him.

Brazil sent its president, Juscelino Kubitschek, to Portugal to attend some of the main ceremonies in his honor.

One of these ceremonies was a sail past the point at Sagres in southern Portugal where Henry worked by vessels from the navies of the Western world.

Britain took a special interest in the Henry year. It had a two-fold reason for doing so. Henry's mother was English, for one thing. For a second, Britain as a maritime power always had the greatest respect for Prince Henry's achievements.

An Anglo-Portuguese committee was set up in London to arrange special ceremonies here. Outstanding was an exhibition in the British museum tracing the history of the Portuguese discoveries.

The praise of an preoccupation with the past has sometimes led to the criticism that in view of the changes taking place in Africa the Portuguese are looking backwards too much rather than forwards.

But the Portuguese who still own vast territories in Africa, notably Mozambique and Angola in the south, have their answer to that.

They say that the past holds the key to the future. It permits continuity.

The Portuguese firmly believe Africa must have continuity to emerge strong from the present upheavals.

They claim that they can give that continuity to their African world, precisely because there have been Portuguese in and around Africa ever since Henry inspired the first discoveries.

CURTAIN CALL

By BB STRON

The cast for our next production, "The Gazebo," has been selected and is now in rehearsal nightly, under the direction of Richard Clark. The cast is as follows: Elliott Nash - W. J. Haddad, Harlow Edison - Beryl Franklin, Matilda - Gerry Lester, Nell Nash - Violet Cotton, Mrs. Chandler - Patricia Peyton, Mr. Thorpe - Bill Blythe, "Dook" - Jim Nuckels, Louie - Arthur Griffith, and Jenkins - Claude Fuller. This is an excellent cast, many of them old timers, and you will want to drop by rehearsals to see how the play is coming along and to lend an encouraging word.

RETURNS

Betty Biedenharn, Little Theatre Board member, has just returned from a trip to New York and Boston. In Boston she saw "Tenderloin," and "Face of a Hero." In New York she saw "The Hostage," "Becket," and "The Best Man," the latter being her favorite. During her visit she visited a very unique and interesting theatre in Dorset, Vermont. It was constructed from one of the oldest barns in the State of Vermont, and presented the unusual in theatres.

Mrs. Carl McHenry, Glo Wright, Francesca Biedenharn, Hortense Touchstone and Dick Major have just returned from New York. While there they saw "Sound of Music," "Bye Bye Birdie," "The Best Man," and "The Miracle Worker." Frances McHenry had lunch with Ivan Uttal and he is employed at a theatrical talent agency, and is responsible for securing talent for both broadway shows and television commercials.

Our membership chairman reports that our paid memberships have climbed to 1,615. Isn't that wonderful. We want to compliment the public on the splendid cooperation we received during the run of "The Seven Year Itch," in observing the no smoking policy. We will also have to be very careful during the next show in order to be able to use the building until the new Playhouse is completed.Thanks everyone!

There will always be a need for behind the scenes helpers during the run of a play, so if you would like to work backstage, or have some kind of job, come by the theatre and we will be glad to find something for you to do. Drop by and see your play in rehearsal. It will make you appreciate the wonderful performances, when you stop to see how much goes into the preparation for the finished production.

George Brian is directing his major production of the year, which will be presented Monday and Tuesday nights, November 14th and 15th. It is "Ghosts," by Ibsen, and several of our "old faithfuls" are in the cast, among them, W. J. Haddad. We should have a good group there to see this, as Mr. Brian always presents a good show.

See you next week.

Navigator Henry's Memory Honored

By PETER KNOX

LONDON (UPI) — The year 1960 has seen all the European powers, save one, accelerate their great puliout from Africa.

The exception is Portugal. It has not only proclaimed its intention of staying put, but has dedicated the year to honoring the man who led Europeans into Africa — Prince Henry the navigator.

Prince Henry died 500 years ago Sunday — on Nov. 13, 1460— after a lifetime given to fostering exploration of the unknown oceans of the world.

The main target of his navigators as the route to the east via the unknown coast of western Africa. The Cape of Good Hope was not rounded in his lifetime, but by 1460 the Portuguese already were familiar with vast stretches of the African Atlantic coastline, and had established forts and landmarks there.

PAID HOMAGE

The celebrations in honor of Henry were centered mainly in Portugual, but other countries also paid homage to him.

Brazil sent its president, Juscelino Kubitschek, to Portugal to attend some of the main ceremonies in his honor.

One of these ceremonies was a sail past the point at Sagres in southern Portugal where Henry worked by vessels from the navies of the Western world.

Britain took a special interest in the Henry year. It had a twofold reason for doing so. Henry's mother was English, for one thing. For a second, Britain as a maritime power always had the greatest respect for Prince Henry's achievements.

An Anglo-Portuguese committee was set up in London to arrange special ceremonies here. Outstanding was an exhibition in the British museum tracing the history of the Portuguese discoveries.

The praise of an preoccupation with the past has sometimes led to the criticism that in view of the changes taking place in Africa the Portuguese are looking backwards too much rather than forwards.

But the Portuguese who still own vast territories in Africa, notably Mozambique and Angola in the south, have their answer to that.

They say that the past holds the key to the future. It permits continuity.

The Portuguese firmly believe Africa must have continuity to emerge strong from the present upheavals.

They claim that they can give that continuity to their African world, precisely because there have been Portuguese in and around Africa ever since Henry inspired the first discoveries.

CURTAIN CALL

By BB STRON

The cast for our next production, "The Gazebo," has been selected and is now in rehearsal nightly, under the direction of Richard Clark. The cast is as follows: Elliott Nash - W. J. Haddad, Harlow Edison - Beryl Franklin, Matilda - Gerry Lester, Nell Nash - Violet Cotton, Mrs. Chandler - Patricia Peyton, Mr. Thorpe - Bill Blythe, "Dook" - Jim Nuckels, Louie - Arthur Griffith, and Jenkins - Claude Fuller. This is an excellent cast, many of them old timers, and you will want to drop by rehearsals to see how the play is coming along and to lend an encouraging word.

RETURNS

Betty Biedenharn, Little Theatre Board member, has just returned from a trip to New York and Boston. In Boston she saw "Tenderloin," and "Face of a Hero." In New York she saw "The Hostage," "Becket," and "The Best Man," the latter being her favorite. During her visit she visited a very unique and interesting theatre in Dorset, Vermont. It was constructed from one of the oldest barns in the State of Vermont, and presented the unusual in theatres.

Mrs. Carl McHenry, Glo Wright, Francesca Biedenharn, Hortense Touchstone and Dick Major have just returned from New York. While there they saw "Sound of Music," "Bye Bye Birdie," "The Best Man," and "The Miracle Worker." Frances McHenry had lunch with Ivan Uttal and he is employed at a theatrical talent agency, and is responsible for securing talent for both broadway shows and television commercials.

Our membership chairman reports that our paid memberships have climbed to 1,615. Isn't that wonderful. We want to compliment the public on the splendid cooperation we received during the run of "The Seven Year Itch," in observing the no smoking policy. We will also have to be very careful during the next show in order to be able to use the building until the new Playhouse is completed.Thanks everyone!

There will always be a need for behind the scenes helpers during the run of a play, so if you would like to work backstage, or have some kind of job, come by the theatre and we will be glad to find something for you to do. Drop by and see your play in rehearsal. It will make you appreciate the wonderful performances, when you stop to see how much goes into the preparation for the finished production.

George Brian is directing his major production of the year, which will be presented Monday and Tuesday nights, November 14th and 15th. It is "Ghosts," by Ibsen, and several of our "old faithfuls" are in the cast, among them, W. J. Haddad. We should have a good group there to see this, as Mr. Brian always presents a good show.

See you next week.
